vs.

JOHN H. FAHEY, individually, JOHN H. FAHEY as CHAIRMAN of the FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD, A. V. AMMANN, individually, A. V. AMMANN, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, THE LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of the United States of America, JOHN DOE ONE, 34 JOHN DOE TWO, JOHN DOE THREE, JANE DOE ONE, JANE DOE TWO, JANE DOE THREE, DOE & ROE, a co-partnership, FIRST AND LAST, a co-partnership, JOHN DOE COMPANY, a corporation, BLACK AND WHITE, an unincorporated association, DEFENDANTS

Filed May 27, 1946

Comes now, the Plaintiffs and complain of the defendants and for causes of action, allege:

I

a. This action arises under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

b. This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following Acts of Congress of the United States of America:

1. "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933," as amended—Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 132 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 128)

2. "Federal Home Loan Bank Act," as amended—Public No. 304—72nd Congress (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes 725 and amendments thereto)

3. "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479 73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 847, 48 Statutes 1246 and amendment thereto), and

4. Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.

c. This action involves amounts in controversy in excess, exclusive of interest and costs, of the sum of Three thousand ($3,000.00) Dollars, to wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars.

d. This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the enforcement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and Amendment V thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, the Plaintiffs respectfully request the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

II

The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of the United States of America, having its principal place of business in, and being situated in, and transacting its business in and from, the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That the principal place of business in the said City of Long Beach, of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and all of the private property, real property, personal property, securities, negotiable bonds, cash, and all assets of said association, aggregating in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, have heretofore been unlawfully seized, diverted and are now unlawfully held by and detained by, and in the possession of the Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually; A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach 36 Federal Savings and Loan Association, John Doe, John Doe Two, John Doe Three, Jane Doe One, Jane Doe Two, Jane Doe Three, Doe & Roe, a co-partnership, First and Last, a co-partnership, John Doe Company, a corporation, Black and White, an unincorporated association.

That all of said assets of said Association when so seized by said defendants, on the 20th day of May, 1946, as aforesaid, were located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

III

That the Plaintiffs are ignorant of the true names of the defendants, John Doe One, John Doe Two, John Doe Three, Jane Doe One, Jane Doe Two, Jane Doe Three, Doe and Roe, a co-partnership, First and Last, a co-partnership, John Doe Company, a corporation, Black and White, an unincorporated association, and for that reason they are sued herein under said names as fictitious names, and Plaintiffs pray that when the true names of these defendants are ascertained, they may be inserted herein and in all subsequent proceedings in said action and that the said action may then proceed against them under their true names.

IV

That Plaintiff, Paul Mallonee, is a member of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and is the owner of membership certificates issued by said association having an aggregate face value in excess of Twelve Thousand ($12,000.00) Dollars.

That Plaintiff, C. H. Newhouse, is a member of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and is the owner of membership certificates issued by said association having an aggregate face value in excess of Eleven Thousand ($11,000.00) Dollars.

That Plaintiff, Winnie Bucklin, is a member of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and is the owner of membership certificates issued by said association having an aggregate face value in excess of Twenty-nine Thousand ($29,000.00) Dollars.

That the Plaintiffs are suing individually for the protection of their own ownership and interests in the assets unlawfully, wrongfully, and illegally, seized as hereinafter alleged.

That the Plaintiffs are also suing as representatives of a class, which said class consists of each and every member shareholder of the said defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Plaintiffs are informed and believe, and therefore allege, that the aggregate number of such individual member shareholders was approximately Twenty thousand ($20,000) at the time of said unlawful seizure of said association's Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) in assets.

That it is impracticable and impossible to join each and all of said Twenty thousand (20,000) individual shareholders as parties Plaintiff or Defendant in this action and that therefore Plaintiffs, in bringing this action, do so, as representatives of said class, each and every individual shareholder member of which is directly concerned and his fractional undivided interest will be increased or decreased by the outcome of this action.

V

That said association was first organized in 1934 by the present management and Board of Directors. That said present management and Board of Directors have been uniformly re-elected at each annual meeting of shareholders from the inception of said company to the present time.

That under the control, guidance and direction of said Board of Directors and management, said association has grown and its assets have increased from approximately Five thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars in 1934 to approximately Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars. That said association has uniformly and consistently paid a dividend to its shareholders each and every year since its organization without omission or default of any sort from 38 the date of its inception to the time it was unlawfully seized by certain of the defendants. That said dividend varied from a maximum of Four (4%) percent per annum to a minimum of Two and one-half (2½%) percent per annum.

VI

That said corporation is completely and fully solvent and able to pay all of its obligations in full at any and all times and in addition thereto has surplus, reserves and undivided profits, above all such obligations of approximately One Million three hundred thousand ($1,300,000.00) Dollars.

VII

Plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that on or about the 20th day of May, 1946, the defendant, A. V. Ammann and numerous other persons accompanying him, and claiming to be his deputies, employees and subordinates, and whose names are unknown to plaintiffs, all of whom purporting to act under authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and purporting to act under the authority of the defendant John H. Fahey, appeared at the offices of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in Long Beach, and said A. V. Ammann verbally announced that he, the said A. V. Ammann, had been appointed Conservator for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and he and his deputies and employees did then and there unlawfully take immediate possession and control of said association and did then and there deprive it of all of its private property, real property, personal property, securities, negotiable bonds, cash, and all its assets, aggregating in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, and he did fail, neglect and refuse to give receipts or other acknowledgement of delivery thereof, despite and notwithstanding repeated demands therefor by the management and officers of said association, from whose possession he was forcibly wresting and seizing said property, assets, securities, etc., all in violation of, and contrary to, the provisions of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America.

That the said A. V. Ammann and his deputies, employees, and subordinates, then and there, did forcibly, unlawfully and unreasonably, take and seize all of the books, records, documents, accounts, correspondence, evidences, files, memorandums, receipts for deposited securities, evidences of indebtedness, certificates of the said association, all in violation of and contrary to the provisions of the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America.

That ever since said time, said defendant, John H. Fahey and the defendant, A. V. Ammann and various other defendants purporting to act for and under them have remained in illegal possession, control and dominion over the said association and have deprived it of its assets, bank accounts, securities, cash, premises, books, records, files and documents. The said defendants and each and all of them have failed, neglected and refused to set forth any ground or reasons for their seizure of control and possession of the said association and its assets and records.

That they have made various public statements to the Press and otherwise and that they and each of them in each and all of said statements have asserted that the said association is financially solvent, in good condition and is able to pay and meet each and all of its obligations. Notwithstanding which said defendants and each and all of them except Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association continue in illegal possession, control and dominion over the cash, securities, assets, premises, books and records of said association.

VIII

That plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that no defects exist in the capital structure assets, books or records of said association, in any nature whatsoever, nor has the said defendants, John H. Fahey, nor any of the other defendants ever made, or given any complaints to the said association, its officers, directors, or members, any notices to correct, orders to desist, or other directives to make changes; nor have any other conditional or alternative or probationary matters been suggested or communicated or directed to said association or its officers, nor have any chances or opportunities whatsoever of any kind or nature been given to said association, its members, directors, management or officers to make any changes, corrections or improvements whatsoever, to meet any demands, requirements or impositions of the said defendants.

That the summary and forcible seizure of all of the assets of this Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, organization, with its record of successful management and growth and which enjoyed the complete confidence of the general public, as well as the confidence of its Twenty thousand (20,000) members, without any notice or reasons being given for said unlawful seizure or any opportunity afforded to correct any alleged defects, if any, was a wilful, wanton, malicious and vindicative act, calculated and intended to destroy the confidence and faith built-up over more than a decade and was wholly unnecessary, unwarranted, illegal and arbitrary.

IX

The Plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that on or about the 29th day of March, 1946, the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Anmann arbitrarily, unlawfully and without notice, seized possession and control of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which at the time of said seizure, had assets totalling Forty-three million ($43,000,000.00) Dollars; and at the time of said seizure, said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was fully and completely financially solvent and had a surplus of nearly Two Million ($2,000,000.00) Dollars. That at the time of said seizure, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association owned Three hundred and sixty thousand ($360,000.00) Dollars paid in cash value of the stock of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and 41 owned a proportionate share of its said surplus in excess of Forty thousand (40,000.00) Dollars. That subsequent to said seizure, the President of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, one T. A. Gregory, made continued and insistent efforts to recover the said Four hundred thousand ($400,000.00) Dollars of assets of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association thus seized by the said defendants, John Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

That as a result of said efforts, acrimonious controversies arose between said defendant, John H. Fahey and the said President, T. A. Gregory; that said efforts to recover said Four hundred thousand ($400,000.00) Dollars of assets were completely and wholly unsuccessful.

That in addition, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan association then had in excess of Eight Million ($8,000,000.00) Dollars, in United States bearer Bonds also on deposit in said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That in the process of the controversy resulting from said association's efforts to recover its thus unlawfully seized property from said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, a Congressional investigation of said seizure was instituted by a committee of the Congress of the United States. That while said Congressional investigation was pending and while said efforts of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to recover its assets were being made, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann arbitrarily, without legal justification, purportedly merged the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and its assets of Forty-three Million ($43,000,000.00) Dollars into the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland which then had assets of less than Nine Million ($9,000,000.00) Dollars and moved the thus purportedly merged two Federal Home Loan Banks to the City of San Francisco.

That in furtherance of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's efforts to recover back its Four hundred thousand ($400,000.00) Dollars worth of assets and to secure an accounting for its other assets, the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan 42 Association appropriated funds to be used in the recovery of said assets and the obtaining of said accounting.

That these plaintiffs are informed and believe and on such information and belief, allege that in pursuing the proper and lawful rights of the said T. A. Gregory, as President of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in and about the recovery of the assets of said association for and on its behalf, which said assets were then and there wrongfully and unlawfully detained by the defendants herein, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, authority was given to him, the said T. A. Gregory, as such President and to other officers of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to make investigations and to institute appropriate legal proceedings for said purposes and to expend sums of money therefor; that in order to stop such investigation and to prevent the bringing of such legal actions, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann arbitrarily, unlawfully, without cause and without due, or any process, seized possession and control of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and deprived it of all of its assets, books, records and evidence.

That in order to prevent such litigation said defendants continue to unlawfully hold possession and control of said association and have purportedly appointed the defendant, said A. V. Ammann to act as Conservator in the place and stead of its regular officers and for the further purpose of depriving the said President, T. A. Gregory, and said officers of authority to bring appropriate legal proceedings for the recovery from the said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann of the said wrongfully withheld assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

X

Defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, through their seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of

Los Angeles obtained illegal and unlawful possession and control over assets belonging to the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan association to 43 wit: Three hundred and sixty thousand ($360,000.00) Dollars paid in cash value of stock in the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, together with the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's interest, amounting in excess of Forty thousand ($40,000.00) Dollars, in undivided surplus of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, making an aggregate total in excess of Four hundred thousand ($400,000.00) Dollars of assets of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association so unlawfully held by them.

That the said A. V. Ammann was and is the purported Conservator for said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

That the said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, must therefore as purported Conservators for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association sue themselves for said assets, which they unlawfully took from possession of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

That they must decide whether to leave said assets of said Federal Home Loan Bank in their own possession or to transfer said assets to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, also in their own possession.

That said dual capacity is inconsistent and conflicting and that said defendants cannot properly discharge their duties both to the said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and to the said unlawfully seized Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XI

That plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that various personal disputes and differences have arisen between Thomas A. Gregory, President of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and defendant John H. Fahey and that a personal animosity and hostility exists on the part of John H. Fahey against the President of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the said Thomas A. Gregory.

Plaintiffs are informed and believe and upon such 44 information and belief allege that the seizure of said association and its assets and the appointment of a Conservator thereof by the said defendants and each of them was an unreasonable seizure and was done without due, or any legal process of law, right or justification whatsoever and was motivated purely and solely by malice and ill will on the part of said defendants against the said President of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XII

That none of the said Acts of Congress under which these said defendants are purportedly acting provide for any judicial review of the exercise of the authority delegated to, and conferred upon them; that the regulations adopted by these same defendants purport to give themselves the authority under which they arbitrarily seized without prior notice or hearing of any sort whatsoever said association and all its assets.

That the said delegation of legislative authority to said administrative officials to make and create their own rules and regulations for hearings and seizures do not set forth, nor prescribe any rules, guides, nor controls for the proper exercise by the said administrative official of the legislative authority so delegated.

That the said regulations adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration make no provisions of any nature whatsoever for any representative of the membership shareholders of said association to appear before said commissioner or to have any opportunity to be heard or to have any voice in the determination of their rights, privileges or benefits there being considered and determined.

That the official conducting said hearing is the same commissioner who without notice ordered the taking over and unlawful seizure of the assets of said association and the appointment of the purported Conservator therefor as hereinbefore alleged.

That the said regulations purport to suspend the authority of said association to transact any further business, do any further acts or to otherwise act for, or protect the said membership shareholders and their interests and property. That no provision is made in said regulations or in the acts under which they were adopted or in any of the same, for any judicial determination of the truth or falsity or any of the allegations made by said commissioner in making said seizure and in appointing said Conservator, or for determination of the validity of the acts done by him.

That the said defendant John H. Fahey and his agents, employees and representatives will be acting as prosecutor and as judges and will determine for themselves the validity, authority and propriety of their own actions. The only other persons permitted to participate in said hearing, are the said association, the powers of which have been suspended, whose officers have been discharged and possession of whose assets, premises, securities, books and records have been seized by the defendants conducting said hearing. That all of the foregoing is in direct violation of and contrary to the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America.

That said plaintiffs and each of them, and the class for which said plaintiffs are suing as representatives are thereby deprived of their property without due process of law and without any opportunity to be heard in an impartial tribunal.

XIII

That a bona fide controversy and dispute exists between plaintiffs and defendants as follows:

Defendants and each of them except only Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association claim to be authorized, empowered and entitled without giving grounds, causes or reasons therefor to seize the control, operation and management of said association, its assets, premises, cash, and securities and to continue indefinitely in said control, operation and management of the said association. Plaintiffs on the other hand claim that the duly-authorized, constituted, elected and empowered officers and directors of said association are the proper persons to manage, control, possess and operate the said association. That each of said contentions of plaintiffs and of defendants are conflicting and irreconcilable and can not both be correct.

XIV

Plaintiffs are informed and believe and therefore allege that said defendants, and each and all of them, excepting only defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, intend to and will, unless prevented and restrained by this Honorable Court from so doing, transfer, dissipate, assign and convey and com-ingle various and sundry assets, cash, stocks, bonds, securities, notes, deeds of trust, real estate and other properties, and assets of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to and with various other financial organizations in an effort to break up and dissipate said association, its membership shares and organization by forcing its members to become members of other associations or financial organizations and to accept in lieu of their present memberships in the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association memberships, share or certificates of other financial organization, associations, etc., the names of which are now unknown, etc., the names of which are now unknown to these plaintiffs; that the plaintiffs have no plain speedy or adequate remedy at law.

That during the last calendar month, to wit: April, 1946, before the said unauthorized and unlawful seizure, the deposits of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association were increased by approximately five to six hundred thousand dollars ($500,000.00) to ($600,000.00). That in the four days immediately following the said unauthorized and illegal seizure of said institution, withdrawals therefrom have run as high as two million dollars ($2,000,000.00) per day, and plaintiffs are informed and believe and therefore allege that the total aggregate of such withdrawals for the first five days after said seizure was between six and seven million dollars ($6,000, 47 000. and $7,000,000.00) or more than twenty-five percent (25%) of the total deposits.

XV

That plaintiffs are informed and believe, and on such information and belief allege that the defendants, John

H. Fahey and/or A. V. Ammann have been continuously in possession of all assets of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, at all times since May 20, 1946, and on the same grounds, allege that during all said period of time they, either of them, and/or their agents or representatives, have converted, reconverted, discounted, sold and/or changed the form of, certain of said assets, and on the same ground, allege that during said period of time, dividends have been declared on certain of said assets, coupons and/or interest payments have accrued and been paid and/or clipped on account of bonds owned by said association and that various and sundry payments of principal and interest have been made on account of mortgages, trust deeds, and various other notes owned by said defendant association.

XVI

That plaintiffs are informed and believe, and on such information and belief, allege that since May 20, 1946, said defendant A. V. Ammann and/or the defendant John H. Fahey have disbursed the funds of said association, some of which said disbursements are for lawful purposes such as payments of salaries, expenses or overhead and other proper payments but that on the same ground, these plaintiffs allege that as to certain other payments, these plaintiffs have no information or belief at this time as to whether or not said disbursements are, or are not, of a lawful nature; on the same grounds, these plaintiffs allege that since May 20, 1946, various and large amounts have been paid by the said defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey in the redemption of and/or in payment of the membership certificates of various members of this association and on the same ground, allege that loans and/or advances have been made by the same defendants to various of the member depositors of the said association on collateral security of said membership share accounts and on the same ground, allege that the said sums of money so received by said defendants, as aforesaid, were in excess of the sums so expended by them, since May 20, 1946; that said defendants, and each of them, should be ordered, directed and required by this Court to make a complete and detailed accounting to the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or to its officials and/or to whomsoever the Court may determine, showing all the income, disbursements and other transactions had during the time of their operation thereof.

XVII

That the plan of organization of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is that of a mutual thrift association, wherein each of the members own a fractional undivided proportion of the assets in proportion to the amounts of money they have contributed for the purchase of said shares and also a fractional undivided equitable interest in the amount of surplus, reserves, earnings, accumulations, and increase of such assets.

That the ownership and interest of each individual shareholder member is decreased, diminished and reduced by every action which harms the association, shakes public confidence in it, causes runs to be made upon it by members and creditors, and conversely, the ownership percentage and proportion of each individual member shareholder is increased, appreciated and enhanced in value by efficient and economical management.

49 Wherefore, Plaintiffs pray judgment against the defendants and each of them, as follows, to wit:

1. That Order be made removing the said defendant, A. V. Ammann, as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association;

2. That Order be made that the duly elected and qualified officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association be allowed to resume the title to, and be restored to, full possession of all of the property and assets of the said association and be restored to, and placed in full control of, the business of said association and the said Conservator and said defendants be directed, ordered and instructed to return and relinquish control and possession of any and all property, assets, securities, cash and possession of said association to the said officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

3. That Order be made that the defendants, John H.

Fahey and A. V. Ammann be ordered to account to the aforesaid Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for all moneys, and/or income of all kinds received by them, while acting as the alleged Conservator or Conservators of said association, together with interest on all such sums of money received, together with a detailed and complete report of any and all transactions had by them, as such Conservator or Conservators of said association, since May 20, 1946, and that they be ordered to deliver to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association all such property, stock, bonds, notes and other personal property and such sum of money as they may have received during such period of time, less property disbursements so made by them.

4. That Order be made adjudicating, declaring and determining the rights, obligations and duties of defendants, and each and all of them, to plaintiffs individually and to the class for which plaintiffs are suing as a representative, to wit: to each, all and every membership shareholder, and that said Court adjudicate said defendants' rights and duties, if any, over the property, assets, etc., of said association.

5. That Order be made directing and requiring the defendants and all of them to set forth the basis, grounds and matters, if any, upon which they claim authority and right to seize control of the assets, property and affairs of said association and that if on being so set forth any valid objections, omissions, or defects be found, that plaintiffs and said association be given an opportunity by interlocutory order of this honorable court to correct the same under the supervision of this Honorable Court.

6. That Order be made enjoining and restraining the said defendants, and each and all of them from making any transfers, assignments, conveyances, mergers or other diversions of the assets, securities, cash and resources and properties of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association excepting only such sales as may be necessary to meet the repurchase obligations as to the shares of such members as may present said shares to said association for repurchase by it, and that this Honorable Court issue an Order to show cause to each and all of said defendants requiring them to show cause upon a specified date why a preliminary injunction should not be made enjoining and restraining them, and each of them, during the pendency of this action from making any such transfers, and further that said defendants, and each and all of them be also enjoined and restrained from merging consolidating, reorganizing, or in any other matter uniting or commingling the assets, membership shares, members, or any other persons or property of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation, association or institution, whatsoever, and that such injunctions be continued in force during the pendency of this action and that in said final judgment, said injunction be made permanent.

51 7. That Order be made that plaintiffs recover their costs and expenses from the said defendants and each of them.

And, for such other further different and general relief as this Honorable Court may deem meet and just in the premises.

Notice of motion for preliminary injunction
Filed May 27, 1946

To the Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and their attorneys:

You, and each of you, will please take notice that the plaintiffs in the above entitled matter will appear in the District Court of the United States, Southern District of California, Central Division, before the Honorable Judge Peirson M. Hall, at Courtroom No. —, in the United States Federal and Post Office Building, at Temple and

Spring Streets, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 7th day of June, 1946, at the hour of 10 A. M. o'clock of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, and will 71 then and there present to the Honorable Court the following Motion, to wit:

"Now come the Plaintiffs in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a preliminary injunction restraining and enjoining the defendants, each, all and every of them, and their servants, agents, employees, conservators and attorneys from directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until further order of this Honorable Court from merging, consolidating, reorganizing, or in any other matter uniting, or commingling the assets, membership shares, members, or other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation or association or institution, whatsoever without the order of this Honorable Court so to do, being first had and obtained.

This above motion is made upon the grounds that unless restrained or enjoined by this Honorable Court from so doing, the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and/or the servants, agents, employees, conservators and attorneys, may merge, transfer, commingle, consolidate, reorganize or in any matter unite the assets, membership shares, members, or any other persons or property of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor any part thereof, with any other organizations, banks, corporations, associations or institutions, and thereby dissipate and break-up said association, its membership shares, members and organization by forcing its members to become members of other associations or other financial associations, without first affording to the plaintiffs, and all other shareholders of said Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association
72 a full, fair and impartial hearing to judicially determine the controversial issues involved in the litigation pending before this Honorable Court, and would thereby cause immediate irreparable injury, loss and damage to your Affiant and all other shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

This motion is made and based upon the Notice of Motion heretofore served and filed and upon the verified Complaint, Affidavits, Papers, Pleadings, records and files in this Action."

Motion for temporary restraining order
Filed May 27, 1946

Now come, the Plaintiffs in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a temporary restraining order enjoining the defendants, each, all and every of them and their servants, agents, employees, conservators and attorneys from directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until further order of this Honorable Court from merging, consolidating, reorganizing, or in any other matter uniting, or commingling the assets, membership shares, members, or other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, of any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation or association or institution, whatsoever without the order of this Honorable Court so to do, being first had and obtained.

This above motion is made upon the grounds that unless restrained or enjoined by this Honorable Court from so doing, the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and/or servants, agents, employees, conservators

74 and attorneys, may merge, transfer, commingle consolidate; reorganize or in any matter unite the assets, membership shares, members, or any other persons or property of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor any part thereof, with any other organizations, banks, corporations, associations or institutions, and thereby dissipate and break-up said association, its membership shares, members and organization by forcing its members to become members of other associations or other financial associations, without first affording to the plaintiffs, and all other shareholders of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association a full, fair and impartial hearing to judicially determine the controversial issues involved in the litigation pending before this Honorable Court, and would thereby cause immediate irreparable injury, loss and damage to your Affiant and all other shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Affidavit

STATE OF CALIFORNIA;
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Paul Malloneé, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That she is a member of The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That he has been a member of said Association for more than five years next last past, and has had on deposit in said Association various sums of money in various amounts, and that the Association has uniformly and consistently paid dividends to its shareholders, each and every year that your Affiant has been a member.

That since the 20th day of May, 1946 one A. V. Ammann, and various other persons claiming to be his employees and subordinates, and all purporting to act under authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and the authority of one John H. Fahey, 76 have been in possession of and control of the said Long Beach Building and Loan Association and its assets; that since the said 20th day of May, 1946, your Affiant has observed large crowds of members and depositors at the office of the said Association and has observed lines of members and depositors, waiting in lines approximately a quarter of a block long, and has observed great numbers of members and depositors withdrawing their monies from said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief, affirms that on or about May 20th, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann, together with persons claiming to be his employees, deputies and subordinates, did appear at the offices of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in Long Beach, and the said A. V. Ammann verbally announced that he had been appointed Conservator for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and he and said other persons did then immediately take full possession and control of said Association and all of its assets which your Affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief, states did then aggregate in excess of twenty six millions of dollars.

That your Affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief, states that since May 20th, 1946, when it was seized by the said A. V. Ammann and his subordinates, purportedly acting under the purported authority of John H. Fahey, withdrawals from the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the four days immediately following said seizure, ran as high as approximately $2,000,000.00 per day, and that the total aggregate of such withdrawals for the first five days after said seizure, was between six and seven millions of dollars.

Your Affiant is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, states that on or about the 29th day of March, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann, purportedly acting for and on behalf of John H. Fahey, did seize the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, closed the same and purportedly merged the same and its assets of approximately forty three millions of dollars ($43,000,000.00) into and with the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, and moved the thus purportedly merged two Federal Home Loan Banks, to the City of San Francisco.

That your Affiant is informed and believes, and upon such information and belief, states that unless prevented, restrained and enjoined from so doing by this Honorable Court, the said John H. Fahey and the said A. V. Ammann, intend to merge, transfer and commingle the assets of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to and with various other financial organizations, and thereby dissipate, break up, said Association, its membership shares and organization, by forcing its members to become members of other associations or other financial organizations.

That unless restrained and enjoined by this Honorable Court from so doing the contemplated acts of said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and their employees and/or subordinates, in consolidating, merging, reorganizing or uniting, or commingling the assets, membership shares, members or other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation or association or institution, without first affording opportunity for a full; fair and impartial hearing upon the merits of all the controversial issues involved, would cause immediate irreparable injury, loss and damage to your Affiant and all other shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That your Affiant therefore respectfully requests that the said John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, and all other persons acting as their employees, agents and subordinates, or under their authority, being temporarily enjoined and preliminarily restrained, during the pendency of the above entitled action and until further order of this Honorable Court, from merging, consolidating, 78 reorganizing or in any other manner uniting or commingling the assets, membership shares, members or any other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation, association or institution whatsoever.

Further, your Affiant sayeth not.

Restraining order
Filed May 27, 1946

Upon the reading of the verified Complaint and the Affidavits, Documents and Records on file herein, and it appearing that there is reason to believe that the defendants, or some of them, may dissipate and break up the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its membership shares and organization, by merging, consolidating, reorganizing or uniting said Association, or commingling said Association's assets, membership shares, or members with other organizations, banks, corporations, associations or institutions, and would thereby cause immediate and irreparable injury, loss and damage to the plaintiffs and other shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and for good cause shown,

It is hereby ordered that the defendants and each of them be, and they are hereby enjoined and restrained from and of making, attempting to make, or instituting any merger, consolidation, re-organization of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and from and of making any transfers, assignments, conveyances of any and all of the assets thereof, which might effect or bring about such merger, consolidation and/or reorganization, and from and of uniting, commingling, joining or consolidating the securities, assets, cash, resources, properties, memberships shares of said Association, with those of any other association, bank, corporation, organization or institution whatsoever, without the order of this Court so to do first being had and obtained.

It is further hereby ordered for reasons above set forth that this temporary restraining order is granted without notice and shall expire at 10:00 o'clock A.M., on the 7th day of June, 1946, unless prior thereto for good cause shown this order is extended in accordance with Rule 65, subdivision B, of the Federal Court Rules.

Dated at Los Angeles, this 27 day of May, 1946. 4:55 P.M.

PEIRSON M. HALL,
Judge of the District Court of the United States.

Bond in accordance with Rule 65(c) is hereby fixed in the sum of $2,500.00.

Stipulation for continuance of motion for temporary injunction

Filed June 4, 1946

It is hereby stipulated, by and between the plaintiffs, by and through their attorneys, Westover & Smith, by and with the defendant, A. V. Ammann, individually, and by and with the defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through his attorneys, Charles H. Carr, United States Attorney, and Ronald Walker, Asst. U. S. Attorney at Los Angeles, as follows:

That hearing on the Motion for Preliminary Injunction, now noticed for hearing June 7, 1946, be continued for setting to Monday, June 24, 1946, at 10 o'clock A.M., in the Federal Building at Los Angeles, California, or to such other time thereafter as Counsel can be heard and as may be set by the Court.

That no objection is interposed on behalf of defendant, A. V. Amann to the continuance by the Court of the Temporary Restraining Order heretofore issued in this matter by the Honorable Peirson M. Hall, Judge of the District Court of the United States on the 27th day 85 of May 1946, until the said hearing and determination of the said Motion for Preliminary Injunction, or until further Order of the Court.

That the plaintiffs may have to and including June 14, 1946, to serve and file their written statement of reasons in support of their Motion for Preliminary Injunction, together with their Memorandum of Points and Authorities.

That the defendant, A. V. Ammann may have to and including the 21st day of June, 1946, to serve and file a brief, written statement of reasons and answering Memorandum of Points and Authorities in opposition thereto.

That the defendant, A. V. Ammann, individually, as well as the defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, may have to and including July 29, 1946, to answer the Complaint on file herein.

That the filing of this stipulation shall be deemed to be a special appearance on behalf of the defendant, Ammann, individually and as conservator only for the purpose of obtaining a continuance of the hearing on the Motion for a Temporary Injunction, and shall not be deemed or construed as a general appearance by said defendant or be deemed to waive any rights which said defendant may have had prior to the filing of this stipulation.

Answer and cross-claim in interpleader of Title Service Company, a corporation, sued as John Doe I

Filed June 4, 1946

87 Comes now, Title Service Company, a corporation, served herein as John Doe One, and for Answer, admits, denies and alleges:

I

Defendant, Title Service Company, admits service upon it of a copy of the summons and complaint in the above entitled and numbered action.

Defendant, Title Service Company, is a corporation, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of California, and its principal place of business is in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is engaged in a general escrow, acting as trustee under deeds of trust and real estate business.

II

That Defendant, Title Service Company, has been named as trustee upon, among others, approximately 8000 separate deeds of trust conveying to it, as trustee, the legal title to the properties described in said deeds of trust in which the co-defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association is the named beneficiary; that the aggregate balance upon said deeds of trust is approximately $12,000,000.00.

III

That the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association, is a mutual thrift association having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is therefore a resident of Central Division of the Southern District of California of the District Court of the United States.

IV

That said approximately 8000 deeds of trust are upon separate parcels of real property and affect and involve the validity of the title to approximately 8000 separate parcels of real property situated in the County of Los Angeles and State of California.

For a separate and distinct cause of cross-claim and interpleader against the defendant, John H. Fahey and all other remaining named defendants, Title Service Company, a corporation, severing itself from all other defendants, alleges:

(a) This action arises under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America, in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six million Dollars ($26,000,000.00), without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

(b) This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following acts of Congress of the United States of America:

1. "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933", as amended—Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 1932 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 128).

2. "Federal Home Loan Bank Act", as amended—Public No. 304—72nd Congress (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes 725 and amendments thereto).

3. "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479 73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 847, 48 Statutes 1246 and amendment thereto), and Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.

(c) This action involves amounts in controversy in excess exclusive of interest and costs, of the sum of Three Thousand ($3,000.00) Dollars, to-wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars.

(d) This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the endorsement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and Amendment V thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, this defendant respectfully request the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant, Title Service Company, a corporation, is a citizen of the State of California, Defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, are, Defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California. The amount in controversy in the principal action, exceeds $500.00, and Defendant is informed and believes said sum amounts to approximately $26,000,000.00. The amount involved in Defendant's cross claims exceeds $500.00, to-wit: is approximately the sum of $12,000,000.00.

(c) That the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a mutual thrift association, a citizen of the State of California, with its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is, therefore, a resident of the district wherein this Honorable Court is situated.

II

That Defendant, Title Service Company, has been named as Trustee upon, among others, approximately 8,000 separate deeds of trust conveying to it, as trustee, the legal title to the properties described in said deeds of trust in which the co-defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the named beneficiary; that the aggregate balance upon said deeds of trust is approximately $12,000,000.00.

III

The Defendant, Title Service Company, is acting as escrow holder under numerous escrows, in which Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a party to said escrows, in various capacities, on some as seller of real property, on some as making loans upon real property, on others as buyer of real property and in various other capacities. The real property involved and effecting each and all of said escrows is situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

IV

That this Defendant is informed and believes, and on that ground alleges, that the defendant, John H. Fahey, is the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and, in such capacity has purportedly appointed the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the Conservator of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and has, with the Defendant, A. V. Ammann purportedly siezed control of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

V

That on or about the 31st day of May, 1946, 91 the Defendant, A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, delivered to Defendant, Title Service Company, 174 notes and deeds of trust, securing the same, together with 174 requests for reconveyance and instructions to said defendant, Title Service Company, to reconvey said property described in said deeds of trust, and to release it from the further operation and encumbrance of said deeds of trust. That each and all of said deeds of trust named Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as beneficiary. That said requests for reconveyance were executed by the said A. V. Ammann, claiming he was Conservator under the authority of Defendant, John H. Fahey, for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, but that no assignment, transfer or other documents, conveying title from the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to said A. V. Ammann, and/or John H. Fahey, were presented to said Defendant, Title Service Company.

VI

That the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, has notified Defendant Title Service Company, in writing, that said A. V. Ammann's and/or John H. Fahey's purported authority to act for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is invalid and unconstitutional and that said authority is being attacked in the above entitled action in this Honorable District Court. That Defendant, Title Service Company was, on or about the 4th day of June, 1946, duly served with a copy of said Complaint and the summons issued thereon.

VII

That said Defendant, Title Service Company, is thereby faced with conflicting, inconsistent and contrary demands in that the said A. V. Ammann demands that it issue reconveyances for said 174 trust deeds, with approximate face value of $800,000.00 and the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association named beneficiary in each and all of said deeds of trust, demands and orders the said Title Service Company not to issue such reconveyances and warns said Title Service Company that if such reconveyances are issued said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will hold it in damages for the total amount of said deeds of trust. Said Title Service Company, is not interested nor concerned with the said conflicting demands, said A. V. Ammann's claims to be Conservator for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor with the demands of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, but said Defendant, Title Service Company will be imperiled whichever way it attempts to decide such controversy.

VIII

That Defendant herewith deposits with the registry of this Court, the 174 notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with requests for reconveyances on each and all of them presented to it by the said A. V. Ammann, purporting to act as Conservator for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

IX

That cross-claimant and defendant, Title Service Company, cannot deposit with said Honorable Court the other deeds of trust approximating 8,000 in number, in which it is named as trustee, and under which it has received a conveyance of legal title to real property described therein, because said deeds of trust, together with notes securing the same, are, Title Service Company is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, in the possession of, or under the control of said A. V. Ammann, and/or John H. Fahey. Cross-claimant and Defendant, Title Service Company therefore requests this Honorable Court to direct said Defendants and each of them to so deposit each and all of said notes and deeds of trust with the registry of this Court forthwith, or as the same are presented by them in the future for reconveyance or reconveyances.

X

That it was necessary for cross claimant and Defendant, Title Service Company, to file this cross-claim 93 in interpleader, in order to avoid a multiplicity of actions and to avoid unnecessary costs, attorneys' fees and expenses of suit, and to prevent irreparable damage to cross claimant and defendant, Title Service Company, by reason of being subjected to vexation and multiple liability upon obligations which could exist only in favor of one of said other defendants. That it was and is necessary for cross-claimant, and defendant, Title Service Company, to employ and it has employed Thomas and Wallace, duly licensed and practicing attorneys to prepare and file and prosecute this cross-claim in interpleader, and cross-claimant has agreed to pay said attorneys a reasonable fee for their services herein.

XI

That said approximate 8,000 deeds of trust, with approximate face value of $12,000,000.00, include several different forms of deeds of trust, some of which provide for a substitution of trustee by both parties hereto, to-wit: beneficiary and trustor, some of them provide for substitution by beneficiary, only upon the terms and conditions for substitution therein described, and other for substitution of trustee by beneficiaries upon a different set of terms and conditions. That such trust deeds provide that each and all of every request for reconveyance under said deeds of trust be executed by the beneficiary. That the purported and attempted substitution of trustee under said deeds of trust, involve and require jurisdictional determination of the validity, authority and constitutionality of the appointment and authority of said A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, appointed by the Defendant, John H. Fahey, and also involve and require the determination of the validity of the title, either thus conveyed or reconveyed by said substituted trustee or trustees, if any. That each and all of the approximately 8,000 parcels of real property involved in said controversies are situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, within the district of this Honorable District Court, of the United States.

XII

That said deeds of trust, and each and all of the same, provide that said trustee may appear in any action affecting the interests of any beneficiary, or the title to any real property conveyed to it by said deeds of trust and that its attorney fees in such action therein become a charge upon and an obligation secured by said deeds of trust and the owner of real property conveyed by said deeds of trust liable for attorneys fees, costs, etc. That the trustors and borrowers had no part in the inception of this litigation, and said cross claimant and defendant Title Service Company asks this Honorable Court to Order that its attorneys fees be paid either by Defendant, A. V. Ammann or by the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, from the assets of said Association.

Wherefore, Defendant and Cross-claimant Title Service Company prays judgment as follows:

1. That the said Defendants and each and all of them be ordered by this Honorable Court to interplead and litigate with each other and with this answering Defendant and Cross-Claimant, their various conflicting claims to the said 174 trust deeds, with approximate face value of $80,000.00 deposited with the registry of this Honorable Court herewith.

2. That said Defendants be ordered to deposit in court, except as to 174 trust deeds, the balance of the 8,000 trust deeds, having an approximate face value of $12,000,000.00, which cross claimant is unable to now deposit with the registry of this Honorable Court, for the reasons hereinbefore alleged and that said Defendants, John H. Faley and A. V. Ammann be required by this Honorable Court to deposit each and all of said additional deeds of trust together with notes securing same, with this Honorable Court, forthwith, or upon applying for reconveyances or substitution of trustees under any and all of the same.

3. That this Honorable Court adjudge and determine between the parties hereto their respective rights, title and interest in and to the said notes, deeds of trust and each and all of the same, including all those deposited herewith and those to be deposited in the future. That the Court adjudicate the validity of the conflicting claims of the said Defendants, Fahey and Amann and the said Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, thus set forth and presented to it.

4. That the cross claimant and defendant, Title Service Company, be instructed and ordered by this Honorable Court, as to its rights and duties as named trustee in each and all of said approximate 8,000 deeds of trust, aggregating in face value approximately $12,000,000.00, including not only those deposited herewith, but all others outstanding.

5. That the said Title Service Company be also instructed as to its duties, rights and obligations, both to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and to said Defendants, Fahey and Ammann, as to all escrows, collections, loans, contracts and all other matters, dealings, or transactions it may in the future have, concerning the said Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association, affairs and the claims of the said A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

6. That cross claimant and defendant, Title Service Company, be released and discharged of and from any and all responsibility and liability as trustee, escrow holder, or in any other manner or form whatsoever, arising out of any and all of its dealings with the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or said deeds of trust, or any and all of the same, except as directly adjudicated by Decree of this Court.

7. That cross claimant and Title Service Company
96 herein recover its costs and expenses and a further reasonable sum for attorneys' fees incurred, and their costs and expenses, and that said sum so allowed, together with beneficiary's costs and expenses be ordered paid by Defendants Fahey and Ammann and/or Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association from assets of said Association in possession of said defendants, or any and all of the same.

8. And for such other and further and different and general relief as to this Court may seem just and proper in the premises.

Order continuing for the purpose of setting hearing date on motion for preliminary injunction and continuing temporary restraining order

Filed June 5, 1946

Upon reading of the Stipulation for Continuance and for continuing Temporary Restraining Order, by and between the Plaintiffs, by and through their attorneys, Westover & Smith, and by and with the defendants, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Amman, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through his attorneys, Charles H. Carr, United States Attorney, and Ronald Walker, Asst. United States Attorney at Los Angeles, and from the verified Complaint, Affidavits, and records on file herein.

It appearing that there is reason to believe that the defendants or some of them may dissipate and break up the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its membership shares, and organization by merging, consolidating, reorganizing or uniting said association or commingling said association assets, membership
105 shares or members with other organizations, banks, corporations, associations, or institutions, and that there would thereby be caused immediate and irreparable injury, loss and damage to the plaintiffs and other shareholder members of the said association, and for said cause shown, it is hereby ordered that the Motion for Preliminary Injunction now noticed for hearing for June 7,

It is further ordered that on or before the said setting date of June 24, 1946, the parties shall have filed written statements of their reasons in support of, and in opposition to said Motion for Preliminary Injunction, together with Points and Authorities, upon which the parties intend to rely.

It is further ordered that the Plaintiffs shall serve and file their Memorandum of Points and Authorities on or before June 14, 1946, and that the defendant, A. V. Ammann, shall serve and file his Points and Authorities on or before June 21, 1946, and the Plaintiffs shall have filed their Reply Points and Authorities on or before the setting hearing on June 24, 1946.

It is further ordered that all documents shall be filed in quadruplet for consideration by Court composed of Three Judges.

It is further hereby ordered that upon the findings above made and for the reasons above set forth that the Temporary Restraining Order heretofore made on the 27th day of May, 1946, be and it is hereby continued in full force and effect, until the hearing of, and the final determination of the said Motion for Preliminary Injunction or until further order of the Court.

Motion for order upon absent defendants.

107 Plaintiffs by their verified Complaint and Affidavit on file herein show to this Court that the above entitled action is one to enforce a claim to, and to remove encumberances, liens and a cloud from the title to real and personal property within this, the Southern District of California of the District Court of the United States; that the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, are not inhabitants of, nor have they been found within the State of California, and they, nor neither of them, have voluntarily appeared in this action.

Wherefore, Plaintiffs move this Court for an order requiring the said absent defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, to appear, move or answer to the Plaintiffs' Complaint by a day certain to be designated by this Court and for the service of such order upon said absent defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, wherever found.

Wyckoff Westover, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs in the above entitled action; that your affiant has been informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges that J. H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, defendants in this action are not inhabitants of, nor residents of, nor to be found within this, the State of California, in which the above entitled District Court is held; although your affiant has made inquiry for, and has endeavored unsuccessfully to locate said defendants within the State of California; that neither of said defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, 109 as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank, has voluntarily appeared in this action, nor appeared in this action at all; that your affiant has been informed by the United States District Attorneys, Ronald L. Walker and Frank Wickhem that the said John H. Fahey is an inhabitant of the City of Washington, District of Columbia, and that as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the said defendant, John H. Fahey has his principal office in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, and the said United States Attorneys have stated to your affiant that they are not authorized to accept service of the above entitled complaint for, or on behalf of the said John H. Fahey, either individually, nor for, or on behalf of the said John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; that said defendants have no offices, agent or representative within this State authorized to accept service of complaint for, and on behalf of the said defendants in this action.

Order for service on absent defendants, certificate thereto, and return of service by deputy marshal

Filed June 5, 1946

111 Upon motion of plaintiffs' attorney, it appearing to the Court that this is an action to enforce a claim to and to remove encumbrances and clouds from the title to real and personal property within this district, and that the defendants John H. Fahey, individually and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, are not inhabitants of, or found within this state, and that they have not voluntarily appeared to this action, it is ordered that said defendants appear, move, or answer to plaintiffs' complaint by the 19th day of August, 1946, and in default thereof that the Court proceed to the hearing and adjudication of said action, and that a copy of this order be served on said defendants wherever found.

Dated: June 5th, 1946.

Motion for order upon absent defendants
Filed June 10, 1946

116 Defendant and Cross-Cl*imana*nt in Interpleader, Title Service Company, a corporation, sued herein as John Doe One, by its verified Answer and Cross-Claim on file herein shows to this Court that its appearance in said action is to obtain an adjudication of the respective rights of the Defendants, John H. Fahey, both as an individual, if any, and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and of A. V. Ammann, both as an individual, if any, and as the alleged and purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on the one hand and of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on the other hand, in and to the 174 promissory notes for the approximate total sum of $800,250.00, and the 174 deeds of trust upon certain parcels of real property located in the County of Los Angeles and State of California, securing the payment of said promissory notes heretofore deposited with the registry of this Court by this Defendant; together with the respective rights of said parties in and to approximately 8000 other promissory notes for the approximate total sum of $12,000,000.00 and the approximately 8000 deeds of trust securing the payment of the same, all of which said deeds of trust being upon parcels of real property located in the County of Los Angeles and State of California, but which said approximately 8000 promissory notes and deeds of trust are not in the possession or control of this Defendant—but upon all of which said deeds of trust, both 174 and approximately 8000 legal title has been conveyed to this Defendant in trust. That the Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, are not inhabitants of, nor have they been found within the State of California, and they, nor either of them, have voluntarily appeared in this action.

Wherefore, Defendant and Cross-Claimant, Title Service Company, a corporation moves this Court for an order requiring the said absent Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, to appear, move or answer to this Defendant's Cross-Claim by a day certain to be designated by this Court and for the service of such order upon said absent Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, wherever found.

Affidavit for order directing absent defendants to appear
Filed June 10, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

H. O. Wallace, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is one of the Attorneys for the Defendant, and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader, Title Service Company, a corporation, sued herein as John Doe One; that your affiant has been informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges, that J. H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, defendants in this action are not inhabitants of, nor residents of, nor to be found within this, the State of California, in which the above entitled District Court is held; although your affiant has 119 made inquiry for, and has endeavored unsuccessfully to locate said defendants within the State of California; that neither of said Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank, has voluntarily appeared in this action, nor appeared in this action at all; that your affiant has been informed by the United States District Attorney, Ronald L. Walker, that said John H. Fahey, is an inhabitant of the City of Washington, District of Columbia, and that as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the said defendant, John H. Fahey, has his principal office in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, and the said United States Attorneys have stated to your affiant that they are not authorized to accept service of the above entitled complaint for, or on behalf of the said John H. Fahey, either individually, nor for, or on behalf of the said John H. Fahey as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; that said defendants have no offices agent or representative within this State authorized to accept service of complaint for, and on behalf of the said Defendants in this action.

That in said Defendant's Cross-Claim in Interpleader there has been deposited with the registry of this Court 174 promissory notes and 174 deeds of trust securing the same, which said deeds of trust involve and affect the title to real property all of which is located in the County of Los Angeles and State of California; and that in addition thereto said Cross-Claim raises the question of and prays for the adjudication of the validity of the conflicting claims of the above named Defendants, and of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, involved in said 174 parcels of real property and that involved in approximately 8000 other deeds of trust upon real property located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California which said approximately 8000 deeds of trust secure the payment of an equal number of promis-120 sory notes having a total value of approximately $12,000,000.

Answer and cross claim in interpleader of Robert H. Wallis, sued as John Doe Two

Filed June 12, 1946

126 Comes now Robert H. Wallis, sued herein as John Doe Two and for answer, denies, admits and alleges as follows:

I

Defendant Robert H. Wallis admits receipt of a copy of the Summons and Complaint in the above entitled and numbered action.

For a separate and distinct cause of cross claim and interpleader against the defendants John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, and all other remaining named Defendants, Robert H. Wallis, severing himself from all other defendants, alleges:

I

(a) This action arises under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000) Dollars without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

(b) This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following Acts of Congress of the United States of America:

(1) "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933", as amended—Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 132 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 128)

127 (2) "Federal Home Loan Bank Act", as amended—Public No. 304—72nd Congress (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes, 725 and Amendments thereto).

(3) "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479—73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 837, 48 Statutes, 1246 and amendment thereto), and

(4) Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.

(c) This action involves amounts in controversy in excess, exclusive of interest and costs, of the sum of Three Thousand ($3,000.00) Dollars, to wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars.

(d) This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the enforcement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and Amendment V thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, the Plaintiffs respectfuliy request the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections 2, b, c, d, and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant, Robert H. Wallis, is a citizen of the State of California, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V Afamann are, defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California.

128 (e) That the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a mutual thrift association, a citizen of the State of California, with its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is, therefore, a resident of the district wherein this Honorable Court is situated.

That the amount in controversy in the principal action exceeds $500.00 and defendant is informed and believes said sum amounts to approximately $26,000,000.00. The amount involved in defendant Robert H. Wallis' cross-claims exceeds $500.00, to-wit: is approximately in the sum of $50,000.00.

II

That defendant Robert H. Wallis is a duly licensed and qualified attorney at law licensed to practice in all the Courts in the State of California, the District Courts of the United States, and various other jurisdictions.

III

That this defendant is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, that the defendant, John H. Fahey, is the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and, in such capacity has purportedly appointed the defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the Conservator of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and has, with the said defendant, A. V. Ammann unlawfully seized control of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

IV

That defendant and cross-complainant Robert H. Wallis was, and is, acting as attorney for defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in connection with said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's disputes and litigation with the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and with defendants John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann and their various deputies and assistants, both in connection with the unauthorized and unlawful 129 seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles by said defendant John H. Fahey and also in connection with the unauthorized and unlawful seizure of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by the said John H. Fahey, et al.

V

That T. A. Gregory, President of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was a member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and was active in the resistance of said bank and of said board of directors to the usurpation of their authority by the said John H. Fahey.

That defendant and cross-complainant is informed and believes and therefore alleges that in such resistance to said usurpation, the said President of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and the said association itself incurred the enmity, malice and vengeance of the said John H. Fahey, as a result of which during the months of April and May, 1946, said association and its officers and directors anticipated and expected the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would be seized and confiscated by the said John H. Fahey out of malice, spite and vengeance and because of him, the said John H. Fahey's personal animosity towards the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its officers.

VI

That the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was at all times solvent, had assets in excess of $26,000,000.00; had membership shares outstanding of about $22,000,000.00 and had a surplus reserves and undivided profits reserves of approximately $1,300,000.00.

That in the seizure of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles by the said John H. Fahey, he immediately purported to merge and dissolve the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles into another institution, to-wit: the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, thereby preventing or seeking to prevent any legal recourse, or appeal to the protection of the Courts, being made by said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, its officers, directors, or members.

That the said officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association anticipated and expected the said John H. Fahey would, without justification or right whatsoever, and as a reprisal and to prevent said association bringing litigation against him for seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, of which said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was a member, also unlawfully and without authority, seize said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and immediately merge it and dissolve it into some other financial institution or institutions, thereby preventing said association from having recourse or appeal to the Courts for justice and protection. That in such expectation, said Association adopted various resolutions and took various steps and made various arrangements to provide for attorneys' fees, Court costs, and other litigation expenses, which said association anticipated would be necessary in its appeal to the Courts for justice and protection from the vindictive and unwarranted destruction of said association by said John H. Fahey, et al.

That during the month of May, 1946, a cashier's check was issued by the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Long Beach, in favor of this defendant and cross-complainant Robert H. Wallis, in the amount of $50,000.00, which said check said defendant Robert H. Wallis herewith deposits with the Registry of this Court. That said check was received by said defendant and cross-complainant Robert H. Wallis for attorneys' fees, costs and expenses, of himself as attorney for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for services rendered, ex-
131 penses incurred and made and also for additional services to be rendered by himself and other attorneys in the various jurisdictions including the Courts of the District of Columbia, and various Federal District Courts, the Supreme Court of the United States and such other Courts, tribunals and committees to which the said matters may be presented for and on behalf of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That the Congress of the United States has caused various of its committees to investigate the actions of the said John H. Fahey in connection with the said unauthorized and illegal seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and the unlawful and unauthorized seizure of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, among said committees being the Special Committee to Investigate Executive Agencies.

VIII

That the said expectations and fears of the said association and its officers proved to be correct and on the 20th day of May, 1946, said defendant John H. Fahey, without reason or justification whatsoever, and without giving any excuse or pretext therefor, purported to appoint said defendant A. V. Ammann as conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that on said date, the said defendant A. V. Ammann did forcibly and unlawfully seize and wrest control and possession of the said association, its assets, securities, books, records and property from its officers, directors and manager, who had been selected and appointed by the members of said association and who had served continuously as such from the time of the organization of said association in 1934 to the date of said unauthorized and unlawful seizure.

That three of the members of said association filed action as plaintiffs in this above entitled case and secured a restraining order from this Honorable Court preventing the said defendants, John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, et al. from merging, dissolving or transferring the assets of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan 132 Association, which restraining order is now pending and in force.

IX

That the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, et al, have attempted to use the appropriation of said $50,000.00 (made by said association to resist their malicious, vindictive and destructive acts and intentions) as a pretext to justify their said unlawful and arbitrary seizure and wresting of possession of said association from its said management.

That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann et al. attempt and purport to claim that said association had no right to defend itself, nor to appropriate any money for so doing and that they, said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, personally, or as conservator, or in some other capacity, are entitled to, and owners of, the said check and the funds it represents.

X

That said defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, insists and demands said check and the funds it represents must be used by defendant and cross-complainant Robert H. Wallis for the purpose for which it was appropriated; that is, for the resistance and defense of said association against the illegal, unconstitutional and malicious attack made upon it by the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and that said defendant Robert H. Wallis is required by said association to use said check in the payment of attorneys, Court costs, expenses of litigation, preparation and presentation of evidence to Congressional committees, hearings before various tribunals and generally for the protection and defense of said association from the attack of said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

That in fulfillment of the purpose for which said appropriation was made and said check issued, said defendant Robert H. Wallis has incurred liabilities in various amounts to various firms of attorneys in Washington, D. C., in California, and will, in the future, incur additional expenses and indebtedness along similar lines.

That said defendant Robert H. Wallis is now engaged in preparation for the Congressional hearing which is scheduled for the immediate future, which said Congressional hearing will inquire into said seizures both of the Fedefal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XI

That the said defendant Robert H. Wallis is thereby faced with conflicting, inconsistent and contrary demands, in that the said defendants John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, et al. demand the said fund, represented by said cashier's check, belongs to them and cannot be used by the said Robert H. Wallis for the purposes for which it was appropriated and delivered to him by the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and also make the pretext that said appropriation and delivery is justification for their seizure of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association on its part instructs and demands that the said Robert H. Wallis use said funds for the protection of said association from the malicious and destructive attacks of the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann upon it and for the restraining and prevention of the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann's merging and dissolving said association into some other or different associations or organizations.

That the said defendant Robert H. Wallis will be imperiled and will be faced with multiple litigation whichever way he attempts to decide such controversy.

That it was necessary for cross-complainant and defendant Robert H. Wallis to file this cross-claim in interpleader in order to avoid a multiplicity of actions and to avoid unnecessary costs, attorney fees and expenses 134 of suit and to prevent irreparable damage to said cross-complainant and defendant Robert H. Wallis by reason of being subjected to vexacious and multiple liabilities upon obligations which could exist only in favor of one or the other of said defendants.

XII.

Said defendant Robert H. Wallis will during the progress of the litigation between said defendants make applications to this Honorable Court for directions as to the disposition to be made of said funds, represented by said $50,000.00 Cashier's check and will ask said Court to make various allowances and distributions from the funds represented by said check to the various firms of attorneys, including himself, and others engaged in the defense and resistance of said Association to the said unlawful seizure and confiscation of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by the said defendants John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, et al.

Wherefore, defendant and cross-complainant Robert H. Wallis prays judgment as follows:

1. That defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and all other defendants, except Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, be ordered by this Honorable Court to set forth and present their claims to the said check for $50,000.00 and the funds it represents and also their claims as to why the appropriation and issuance of said check are justification or grounds for said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann's purported seizure of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

2. That said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association be ordered to set forth and present its claims and demands that the said defendant Robert H. Wallis continue to use said fund and incur obligations upon it for the purpose for which it was appropriated; that in the defense of said association from the arbitrary and illegal attacks of the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann upon said association.

135 3. That the said defendants, and each and all of them be ordered by this Honorable Court to interplead and litigate with each other and with this answering defendant and cross-complainant, their various conflicting claims to the said cashier's check for $50,000.00 and the funds it presents thereby and each and every part of the same, which said check is deposited with the Registry of this Honorable Court herewith.

4. That this Honorable Court adjudge and determine betwegn the parties hereto their respective rights, duties, titles and interest in and to the said check for $50,000.00 and each and every part of the same and that the Court adjudicate the validity of the conflicting claims thus set forth and presented to it.

5. That cross-claimant and defendant Robert H. Wallis be instructed and ordered by this Honorable Court as to his rights and duties in respect to said check for $50,000.00 and the funds represented thereby.

6. That cross-complainant and defendant Robert H. Wallis be released and discharged from any and all responsibilities and liabilities arising out of said check, said appropriation and the funds represented by said check except as directly adjudicated by decree of this Honorable Court.

7. That cross-complainant and defendant Robert H. Wallis recover his costs and expenses incurred herein.

8. That this Honorable Court upon application to it by the said Robert H. Wallis or by any of the parties interested therein make its order directing the said Robert H. Wallis to make such disposition of said check and its proceeds and to pay such parts or portions or all of the same to said persons and attorneys as said Court may determine (upon application or applications) to be entitled to part or all of said check under the terms of the appropriation and issuance of said check as hereinabove set forth.

9. For such other and further and different and 136 general relief as to the Court may seem just and proper to the Court in the premises.

Motion for preliminary injunction, and to take testimony and evidence at the hearing thereof

Filed June 14, 1946

Come now, the Plaintiffs and complaining of the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for grounds of Motion to be made for Preliminary Injunction state that:

Heretofore, on or about the 20th day of May, 1946, the defendant, A. V. Ammann, acting as purported Conservator allegedly under the appointment of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration of which John H. Fahey is Chairman of the Board of the Federal Home Loan Bank, and as such is the sole administrator, did seize all the assets, records and documents of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, having aggregate assets of approximately Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, and did take exclusive possession, control and management thereof, and did oust the duly elected and 156 qualified officers of said association, and ever since has and now does retain possession and control of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its assets, books, records and documents; and

The said defendants, A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, having heretofore on or about March 29, 1946, seized the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and having forthwith immediately merged and consolidated it with the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, Oregon, and having commingled the assets of said two banks.

The Plaintiffs are informed and have reason to believe and do believe and upon such information and belief affirm that unless prevented, restrained and enjoined from so doing by this Honorable Court, the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann intend to merge, transfer, commingle and consolidate the assets of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to, and with various other financial organizations and/or associations, and to thereby dissipate and break up said association, its membership shares and organization by forcing its members to become members of other associations or other financial organizations, and that the consolidating, merging, reorganizing, uniting or commingling of the assets, membership shares, members, or other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any part thereof, with any other organization, bank, corporation, association or institution without first affording an opportunity for a full, fair and impartial hearing before an impartial court upon the merits of all the controversial issues involved, would cause an immediate irreparable injury, loss and damage to the Plaintiffs and to all other shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on behalf of whom the said Plaintiffs are here suing.

Wherefore, now come the Plaintiffs in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a Preliminary Injunction restraining and enjoining the defendants, each, all and every of them, and their servants, agents, 157 employees, Conservators and attorneys from directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until further order of this Honorable Court, merging, consolidating, reorganizing, or in any other manner uniting or commingling the assets, membership shares, members or other persons or property of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any part thereof, with any other organizations, banks, corporations, associations, or institutions whatsoever without the order of this Honorable Court so to do being first had and obtained.

Further the Plaintiffs move this Honorable Court that it set a time and place for the hearing of the above Motion for Preliminary Injunction, at which time and place the many witnesses, residents in Southern California, may appear and testify in person.

The above motion is made and based upon the Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction heretofore served and filed and upon the verified Complaint, Affidavits, Records, Pleadings and Papers on file in this action, and upon the oral testimony of witnesses and Documents, Records and Files to be presented and introduced at said hearing on Motion for Preliminary Injunction.

In support hereof, there is attached hereto, Plaintiffs' summary statement of pertinent facts re Preliminary Injunction and Plaintiffs' Points and Authorities.

Dated at Los Angeles this 14 day of June 1946.

Affidavit

159 STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Keith Linden, first being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is by occupation Secretary to Congressman Ceel King, Representative of the Seventeenth Congressional District, State of California, and is not a member shareholder, or otherwise interested in or connected with the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That on the 20th day of May, 1946, affiant was present in the offices and premises of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association at 328 American Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California. That at said time and place, there were present numerous people not known to affiant. That known to affiant were the President T. A. Gregory of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, one of the defendants in the above entitled action and A. V. Ammann who claimed to be an official of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration. That there were also present numerous other strangers who A. V. Ammann claimed were his deputies.

Said A. V. Ammann notified said T. A. Gregory that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was then and there seized and taken over. That the said T. A. Gregory demanded to know by what authority said seizure was made and asked for evidence of Court Orders or any other authorization or process for or ordering said seizure. That said A. V. Ammann verbally stated that an order had been issued in Washington, D. C. appointing him, the said A. V. Ammann, as conservator of said association and its assets. That he, the said A. V. Ammann did not need any Court Order or authorization whatsoever or any other process or authority. That his sole word was the law, and sufficient. That the said T. A. Gregory then requested a written evidence or copy of said order, and was refused the same. That finally, a type-160 written sheet of paper was produced by the said A. V. Ammann, which he said had been typed from matter furnished over the telephone and he was not sure of its accuracy. At that time, said typewritten piece of paper bore no signature, seal or authentication of any sort whatsoever.

The said T. A. Gregory stated that there was millions of dollars in securities, bonds, cash and other assets, and that he refused to deliver them without some evidence or authority on the part of the person (Ammann) taking them. That the said A. V. Ammann said they were seized, regardless of delivery and if the said T. A. Gregory, or anyone else, touched anything in the institution, they would be liable to criminal prosecution.

That the said T. A. Gregory demanded some written proof of Ammann's statements. Whereupon, the said A. V. Ammann said, "I am an Assistant Secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration," and signed his own order authorizing his own seizure and assumption of possession over the entire association and all of its assets and delivered said typewritten document thus signed with no other authentication or verification whatsoever to the said President T. A. Gregory, and thereupon repeatedly threatened said President T. A. Gregory with criminal prosecution, unless he and every employee of said association immediately delivered and surrendered possession of all cash, securities, bonds and other assets to him, the said A. V. Ammann.

That the said T. A. Gregory demanded receipts, acknowledgements of what was seized and other evidences of what securities, cash, bonds, and other valuables were thus being wrested from his possession and was refused any such receipts or other acknowledgements of delivery of possession by the said A. V. Ammann. That said demands upon said A. V. Ammann were repeated on numerous occasions throughout the said 20th day of May, 1946, and on subsequent occasions.

That the auditor for said association, L. D. White, 161 one of the firm of F. W. LaFrantz, certified public accountants of Los Angeles and regular auditors for said association was also present and the said T. A. Gregory demanded that the said auditor be permitted to make itemized list of the bonds, cash, securities and property thus being seized from said association and the said A. V. Ammann refused and declined to permit anyone to make any such lists, receipts or detailed statements, notwithstanding the fact that the said President T. A. Gregory offered to personally pay the expenses of the independent auditor, or anyone else, preparing itemized lists of money, securities, bonds and valuables, thus being seized and wrested from his possession.

That the said A. V. Ammann took no inventory at any time, nor made any detailed list or statement of what was in said association, but within a very few minutes, after his seizure, said association was open to the public, and the money thus seized was used in disbursements, withdrawals and the conduct of the association's business. That withdrawals were honored and many thousands of dollars were paid out from said institution within the hours of that day. That on the succeeding day, said association was thronged with withdrawing members and hundreds of thousands of dollars of the seized funds were paid out, amid great confusion, excitement and hysteria, all before any inventory, itemized statement or lists of the assets thus seized had been made.

That in the interview with the Press shortly thereafter, the said A. V. Ammann was asked, "Why are you here?" in the presence of affiant, to which said A. V. Ammann stated that said institution had $26,000,000.00 in assets, $22,000,000.00 of which were savings accounts, and was solvent and sound institution and there had been no impairment of assets of said association. That thereupon inquiry was made of the said A. V. Ammann as to why he was seizing said institution. Thereupon said A. V. Ammann replied, "If it gets in the papers we are here, it will tear down the institution because we

Further affiant sayeth not.

Affidavit

164 STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Ben O. Reddick, first being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is a reporter for the Los Angeles Daily Examiner, a newspaper printed and published in the City of Los Angeles, State of California; that on the 20th day of May, 1946, he was personally present in the offices of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association at 328 American Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California: that also present at said time were A. V. Ammann, T. A. Gregory, President of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and numerous other persons.

That affiant and other representatives of the Press inquired of the said A. V. Ammann who he was and what he was doing at said association. Said A. V. Ammann replied he was the Conservator for said institution, appointed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and that numerous deputies were there at said institution with him. That said President T. A. Gregory then stated, "This association and its assets have been forcibly taken over by force of number; that I have not consented to the seizure." The said A. V. Ammann then replied, "I claim that I need no order of any Court. There is no signed order, and that you are penally liable if you refuse to give possession or hinder in any way. There are no specific charges. The order sets out the grounds. The association has gross assets of $26,000,000.00, $22,000,000.00 of which are savings. It is a sound and solvent going institution." Affiant then asked said A. V. Ammann, "Then why are you here?" and he, said A. V. Ammann, replied, "If it gets in the paper we are here, it will create a run and tear down the institution; that's why we are here." Affiant then asked, "Do you realize what you have said?" Said A. V. Ammann then repeated his former statement and stated further, "There are a number of grounds upon which we could seize this 165 institution. I don't know which ground."

That then and there, in the presence of affiant, the said T. A. Gregory, President of said association, made demand upon the said A. V. Ammann for permission for L. D. White and his assistants who were auditors with the firm of F. W. LaFrantz and Company, regular auditors for said association, to make detailed lists and statements of the assets, cash, bonds and securities thus being seized by the said A. V. Ammann and that said permission was then and there refused, said A. V. Ammann saying, "Federal Home Loan Bank Administration is responsible for these assets," but the said A. V. Ammann continued to refuse to give any written receipt or acknowledgement of what assets or how much he was thus seizing and taking control of and also refused to permit any such list or inventory to be made by anyone.

That on said day of said seizure, to wit: the 20th day of May, 1946, affiant visited said association on numerous occasions. The said A. V. Ammann and his various deputies opened said association for business within a few minutes after said seizure and used the cash thus seized in the business of said association. That on the succeeding day and on other days, said association was thronged with members withdrawing their funds and a tremendous run developed; that affiant saw money in unknown amounts and denominations passed from hand to hand without receipt, without counting, and without any itemization, check lists, or other precautions taken. That one of the assistants of said A. V. Ammann mistaking affiant for an employee and another assistant shoved into his hands a huge wad of money, the amounts and denominations of which are unknown to affiant, as he rejected it immediately stating he was not employed there.

That the greatest confusion and hysteria prevailed among the employees of said association, among the deputies and representatives of said A. V. Ammann, all inter-mixed, throughout the throng of withdrawing depositors.

166 That during the days of said run, affiant, on several distinct occasions heard said association's officers and its auditors refused permission to make any lists and heard them make repeated and insistent demands upon said A. V. Ammann, for receipts, itemized statements and inventories, each of which demands was refused so far as known to the affiant.

Further affiant sayeth not.

Notice of motion for hearing of motion for preliminary injunction on oral testimony

Filed June 14, 1946

170 To plaintiffs, Paul Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, and their attorneys of record Westover and Smith; and

To defendants A. V. Ammann, and his attorneys, Charles H. Carr, United States Attorney and Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney:

You, and each of you will please take notice that the plaintiffs in the above entitled matter will appear in the District Court of the United States, Southern District of California, Central Division, before the Honorable Judge Peirson M. Hall, at Courtroom No. —, in the United States Federal and Post Office Building at Temple and Spring Streets, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 24th day of June, 1946, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. of said day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, and will then and there present to the Honorable Court the following Motion, to wit:

"Now comes the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the above entitled action and moves this Honorable Court for an Order that plaintiffs' Motion for a Preliminary Injunction Restraining and enjoining the defendants from various acts be heard by the Honorable Court upon oral testimony in Court of 171 witnesses to be produced and subpoenaed to attend said hearing.

This above motion is made upon the grounds that the case involves constitutional questions of first impression and also involves the existence and welfare of an institution whose assets exceed $26,000,000.00 and the determination of which issues will directly affect the welfare of over 16,000 membership shareholders of said institution, residents of Los Angeles County and over 8,000 borrowers from said institution and will directly involve the title to, and the ownership of, eight to ten thousand separate parcels of real property, all situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, upon which said institution has various Trust Deeds, contracts and other encumbrances.

It is also made upon the further ground that circumstances surrounding the seizure of said institution are so oppressive, overreaching and so far exceed the bounds of all constitutional authority, that the good faith and motives of the defendants making said seizure are directly involved and can only be ascertained by cross-examination of all witnesses.

This motion is made and based upon the notice of motion heretofore served and filed, upon the verified

Complaint, pleadings, affidavits, papers, points and authorities and records and files in this action."

This Notice of Motion made and dated this 14th day of June, 1946, at Los Angeles, California.

Affidavit supporting motion for hearing of preliminary injunction application on oral testimony

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

S. I. Bacon, first being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is Vice-President, of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, one of the defendants in the above entitled proceedings. That he was personally present in the offices of said association on the 20th day of May, 1946, during the time said association was invaded and seized by the defendant A. V. Ammann and his various deputies.

That some other witnesses to said seizure, whose testimony should be presented at the hearing on said preliminary injunction matter, are:

T. A. Gregory, President of said association.

174 A. V. Ammann, Purported Conservator who seized said association.

Ben O. Reddick, of the Los Angeles Daily Examiner.

Keith Linden, Secretary to Honorable Congressman Cecil King.

That each and all of said witnesses are in the City of Washington, District of Columbia, in attendance upon a hearing before the Congress of the United States, inquiring into the validity of the said unwarranted and unlawful seizure of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and also inquiring into the prior unlawful and arbitrary seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which said seizure was made by the same defendants who seized the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That the testimony under subpoena upon cross-examination of A. V. Ammann and his various deputies who participated in and under his directions, made the seizure both of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is necessary and required by this Honorable Court to determine and adjudge the motives, good faith, manner, methods and conduct and the grossly oppressive and arbitrary actions of said defendants, and each and all of them. That it is impossible to secure affidavits from the said defendants, A. V. Ammann, and his various deputies, but that they can be subpoenaed by this Honorable Court to give testimony at an oral hearing before it. That it is impossible to obtain the affidavits of the above listed witnesses because they are now absent from their usual place of residence in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and information from which affidavits could be prepared cannot be obtained from them in time for the filing and presentation to this Honorable Court, ten days before said 24th day of June, 1946, as required by the rules of procedure of said Honorable Court.

175 The direct oral testimony of each and all of said witnesses personally present in Court and subject to cross-examination by various counsel is a vitally necessary prerequisite to adequately present to this Honorable Court the oppressive, arbitrary, malicious and vindictive acts by which said defendants made their unauthorized and illegal seizure of the assets of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That it is also necessary to show by the testimony of said adverse witnesses that said seizure of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was but a link in a chain of seizures, one of which was the seizure by said defendants, of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, another of which was the said seizure by said defendants of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Wherefore, affiant respectfully prays that this Honorable Court order the hearing on said Motion for preliminary injunction to be upon oral testimony, before said Court as well as upon other evidence.

Further affiant sayeth not.

Affidavit of Harold Lee in support of motion to dismiss by defendant A. V. Ammann individually and defendant A. V. Ammann as the purported conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
District of Columbia, ss:

Harold Lee, of the City of Washington, District of Columbia, being first duly sworn on his oath, deposes and says:

That he now is, and since the 25th day of March, 1946, has been, the duly appointed, qualified and acting Deputy Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner; that, as such, he has full and complete information of the facts herein stated;

That, on the 20th day of May 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration duly adopted and issued its Order No. 5254, on the grounds therein stated, appointing A. V. Ammann Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; that copies of said order, duly certified by the Secretary to the 183 Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, were, on the 20th day of May 1946, mailed to said association and to each of the members of the board of directors thereof, each to the last known address as shown on the records of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration; that on the 20th day of May, 1946, a certified copy of said order was, upon his demand therefor, handed personally to T. A. Gregory, president of said association;

That, on the 27th day of May 1946, the Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration received at his office in Washington, D. C., a written demand, dated May 24, 1946, and signed by T. A. Gregory and J. E. Gregory, acting purportedly at the request of and in behalf of said association and its board of directors, for a more definite statement of the grounds stated in the order appointing said conservator;

That, on the 29th day of May 1946, this Affiant, as Deputy Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, caused to be prepared the definite statement demanded, which was, on the 29th day of May, 1946, served by mailing to T. A. Gregory at Long Beach, California, by registered mail, a signed copy thereof, and by delivering to T. A. Gregory, personally, at Long Beach, California, the original thereof;

That, on the 3rd day of June 1946, the Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration received at his office in Washington, D. C., a written Answer and Demand for Hearing, which Answer and Demand for Hearing was dated the 30th day of May, 1946, and signed by T. A. Gregory and J. E. Gregory, acting purportedly at the request of and in behalf of said association;

That, on the 5th day of June 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration duly adopted and issued its Order No. 5309, directing a hearing in accordance with the demand, and on June 5, 1946, notice of such hearing was duly served upon said association by mailing a copy of said order to it at the address which in the Answer and Demand for Hearing it was stated such notice should be sent;

That all arrangements on the part of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration for holding said hear-184 ing have been completed, and said hearing will be called and held in the City of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 3rd day of July 1946, in accordance with said Order No. 5309;

That the attached exhibits, marked Exhibit A, Exhibit B, Exhibit C, Exhibit D, and Exhibit E are full, true and complete copies of, respectively:

A. Federal Home Loan Bank Administration Order No. 5254.

B. Demand for More Definite Statement.

DEMAND FOR MORE DEFINITE STATEMENT OF CAUSE FOR APPOINTMENT OF CONSERVATOR OF LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Whereas, the undersigned, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach, California, has not, by its Board of Directors, or otherwise, consented to or requested the appointment of either a conservator or receiver, nor either of them, nor any similar action, and

Whereas, one A. V. Ammann did, on the 20th day of May, 1946, physically seize and wrest possession of the said association, premises, assets, securities, bank accounts and books from the officers, directors and members of said association, claiming to be empowered and authorized to do so by an Order purportedly made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration as Order No. 5254, purportedly dated May 20, 1946, and purportedly signed by Ray V. Dougherty, assistant secretary, and

Whereas, the making of this Demand has been duly authorized and directed by a Resolution of the Board of Directors of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association at a meeting duly held for said purpose, and

Whereas, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its officers, directors and members, are unable to ascertain or determine from the said purported order, from the said A. V. Ammann, or from any other source whatsoever, the grounds, reasons, or basis for which, or upon which, its said premises, assets, securities and books have been thus seized and wrested from its possession and control,

Now therefore, pursuant to Section 206.2 of the Rules and Regulations of the Federal Savings and Loan System heretofore adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and by other governmental authorities, and also as a general demand independent of and in no way connected with said regulations or any of the same, demand is hereby made upon the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and upon the Honorable J. Francis Moore, Secretary thereof, and upon John H. Fahey, upon A. V. Ammann, upon Ray V. Dougherty, both individually and in whatever official capacities they, or any of them, may occupy, for a definite statement, and itemization of the grounds, causes and purposes of the said seizure of possession and control of the premises, properties, assets and securities of said corporation and of the purported appointment of a conservator therefor.

This Demand is made without prejudice to the rights of said association and all its members, officers, directors, or other interested parties to assert the invalidity of said purported seizure of possession of the premises, assets, securities, etc. of said association and/or to assert the invalidity of the said purported appointment of the said A. V. Ammann as conservator of said association.

Address for the service of said statement and for the service of any and all other matters in connection with said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is hereby designated as follows: Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association c/o Its President, T. A. Gregory, 350 E. Fourth Street, Long Beach 2, California.

In witness whereof, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a corporation, has caused this Demand to be signed by its President and its Secretary-Treasurer this 24th day of May, 1946.

LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION,

By T. A. GREGORY,
President.

By J. E. GREGORY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

MORE DEFINITE STATEMENT OF THE CAUSES FOR THE APPOINTMENT ON MAY 20, 1946, OF THE CONSERVATOR FOR LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

T. A. GREGORY,
350 East Fourth Street,
Long Beach 2, California.

The following is a more definite statement of the causes for the appointment on May 20, 1946, of a Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association:

1. Said Association, in the opinion of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, was conducting its business in an unlawful, unauthorized, and unsafe manner, and was pursuing a course that was jeopardizing and injurious to the interests of its members, creditors, and the public in that:

(a) During the period from September 11, 1945, to March 7, 1946, disbursements of funds of said Association totaling $14,500 were made to its President, T. A. Gregory, without proper voucher therefor, or explanation thereof in the records of the Association, itemized as follows:

September 11, 1945, T. A. Gregory	$ 1,000.00
October 22, 1945, Wired to T. A. Gregory, Wash., D. C.	1,000.00
November 5, 1945, Wired to T. A. Gregory, Wash., D. C.	1,000.00
November 24, 1945, T. A. Gregory	1,000.00
December 1, 1945, Wired to T. A. Gregory, Wash., D. C.	2,000.00
January 19, 1946, T. A. Gregory	2,000.00
January 31, 1946, Cash (Wired to T. A. Gregory)	1,500.00
February 20, 1946, Cash (Wired to T. A. Gregory at Wash., D. C.)	2,000.00
February 28, 1946, Cash (Wired to T. A. Gregory at Wash., D. C.)	2,000.00
March 7, 1946, Cash (Wired to T. A. Gregory at Wash., D. C.)	1,000.00
Total	$14,500.00

(b) Disbursements totaling $14,500, itemized under (a), were used for purposes beyond the scope of the Association's business.

(c) Funds of the said Association totaling $2455.60 were disbursed to Howard S. Leroy, an attorney at 189 law at Washington, District of Columbia, on or about January 30, 1946, January 31, 1946, and March 6, 1946, although said attorney had not been retained by the said Association, nor were such funds paid to said attorney for the handling of any business of the said Association, or otherwise for the benefit of said Association.

(d) The Board of Directors of said Association attempted in the following manner to relieve T. A. Gregory from accountability to the said Association for its funds used by him for purposes beyond the scope of the said Association's business:

(1) The said Board of Directors, according to the minutes of a special meeting, dated January 16, 1946, voted to compensate T. A. Gregory, retroactively in the sum of $11,750 for services rendered by him in 1945, for which the said T. A. Gregory had already been paid in accordance with the terms of his employment.

(2) The said Board of Directors, according to the minutes of the special meeting, dated January 16, 1946, voted to increase T. A. Gregory's salary from $8250 to $20,000 per year.

(3) On April 6, 1946, reimbursement of said Association's funds paid to T. A. Gregory and used by him for purposes beyond the scope of the Association's business, was recorded on the books of said Association by means of an offset against the purported liability of the Association to T. A. Gregory for the said sum of $11,750 and for the voted increase for the first three months of 1946.

(e) The Association, by vote of its Board of Directors, purportedly on January 16, 1946, undertook to compensate T. A. Gregory retroactively in the sum of $11,750 for services rendered by him in 1945, for which the said T. A. Gregory had already been paid in accordance with the terms of his employment, said purported retroactive salary increase being unlawful and unauthorized.

(f) The Association paid salaries and fees which were excessive and not commensurate with the services rendered.

(g) The Board of Directors of said Association on 190 May 8, 1946, appropriated the sum of $100,000 of the funds of said Association for the purpose of restraining the proper use of safeguards and controls provided by the Congress of the United States with respect to Federal Savings and Loan Associations, and threatened the removal of said sum from the proper control of said Association.

(h) During the course of a regular examination commencing on May 18, 1946, by Examiners of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, a director and officer of the said Association unlawfully and improperly removed a cashier's check in the amount of $50,000, payable to the said Association and representing funds belonging to it, without accounting therefor.

(i) On or about May 8, 1946, the said Association, through its officers, executed a purported lease on a hotel property located at 332 American Avenue, Long Beach, California, owned by it to one George Turner for a 20-year period on terms which, in effect, would give to the said Turner the use of said property without adequate consideration therefor to the said Association.

(j) Said Association was being used for the personal gain of one or more officers and directors thereof, to the detriment of its members and creditors.

(k) Said Association, through its officers, engaged in activities which were inimical to the interests of veterans of the Armed Forces, including veterans of the Armed Forces who were members of the said Association.

(l) Certain directors of the said Association, namely: T. A. Gregory, J. E. Gregory, M. T. Killingsworth and S. I. Bacon, on or about May 18, 1946, undertook to convert, or attempted to convert, their shareholdings and other funds totaling approximately $21,000 into approximately 21,000 separate purported share accounts of $1.00 each, in violation of the rights of over 16,000 share account holders of said Association, and in violation, or attempted violation of their duties as directors.

(m) Said Association failed to file copies of audit of said Association made by F. W. Lafrentz & Co., Certified Public Accountants, Los Angeles, California, as of the close of business May 19, 1945, or thereabouts, as required by Section 203.2 of the Rules and Regulations for the Federal Savings and Loan System.

(n) The said Association failed to maintain its books of accounts and records correctly.

(o) The records or statements of the Association were falsified in that either

(1) The minutes of the Board of Directors' meeting of January 16, 1946, were falsified by the entry therein of actions by said Board purporting to have been taken increasing T. A. Gregory's salary from $8250 to $20,000 per year, and purporting to authorize the payment of $11,750 to T. A. Gregory as extra compensation for the year 1945, or

(2) The said Association's liabilities were misrepresented by the Board of Directors to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration in monthly reports for the months ending January 31, 1946, February 28, 1946 and March 30, 1946.

2. Said Association, in the opinion of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, had a management which was unfit and unsafe to manage a Federal Savings and Loan Association in that, among other things,

(a) The matters set forth in sub-items (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), (m), (n) and (o) of Item 1, above are herein incorporated by reference.

(b) T. A. Gregory in 1934 (but only recently known to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration) acquired control of the Reliable Building-Loan Association, Long Beach, California, and so manipulated its affairs that he was enabled to acquire, through the medium of Somerset Finance Co., a substantial number of certificates of the Reliable Building-Loan Association at a small fraction of their true value, and subsequently redeemed said certificates at the Reliable Building-Loan Association at their true value, while like treatment was denied to others, all to the detriment of the members of the said Reliable Building-Loan Association, and to his own personal gain.

(c) The officers of said Association failed to keep or cause to be kept the books of account and records of the Association correctly.

J. Albrich Hall,
Attorney for Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

To: Federal Home Loan Bank Administration; Honorable J. Francis Moore, Secretary thereof; John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann and Roy V. Dougherty, both individually and in whatever official capacities they, or any of them, may occupy.

DEMAND FOR HEARING PURSUANT TO SECTION 203.2 OF RULES AND REGULATIONS OF FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN SYSTEM HERETOFORE ADOPTED BY FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK ADMINISTRATION AND BY OTHER GOVERNMENTAL AUTHORITIES

194 ANSWER AND DEMAND FOR HEARING OF LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

Whereas, the undersigned, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has not, by its Board of Directors, or otherwise consented to, or requested the appointment of, either a conservator or receiver, nor either of them, nor any other action, and

Whereas, one A. V. Ammann did, on the 20th day of May, 1946 physically seize and wrest possession of the said association, premises, assets, securities, bank accounts and books from the officers and members of said association, claiming to be empowered and authorized to do so by an Order purportedly made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, as Order No. 5254, purportedly dated May 20, 1946, and purportedly signed by Ray V. Dougherty, assistant secretary, and

Whereas, a copy of Order No. 5254 purportedly issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration purportedly dated May 20, 1946, was received by an officer of said association on or about the 23rd day of May, 1946, and said association has made demand upon the said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, John H. Fahey A. V. Ammann and Ray V. Dougherty for a definite statement of grounds, reasons and causes of the purported seizure of the premises, assets, securities of said association, and

Whereas, the said association, its officers, members, directors and other interested parties are unable to ascertain from a copy of said purported order No. 5254, from the said John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, Ray V. Dougherty,

Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or from any or all of them, any ground, reason, or justification whatever for the seizure of its said premises, and assets, of the purported appointment of the said A. V. Ammann as conservator of it, and 195 Whereas, the said purported order No. 5254 contains no facts whatsoever justifying said appointment, but merely states "unlawful", "unauthorized", "unsafe", "unfit", etc. as grounds for such order.

Now therefore, as answer to said Order, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association denies each and every statement in said Order contained individually, separately and severally, and further alleges that said association is solvent and has at all times been, and now is, solvent and able to pay in full all of its memberships, shares, creditors, and all other obligations and in addition thereto had at the time of the said purported seizure by the said A. V. Ammann a surplus above all other obligations of approximately One Million Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,300,000.00).

Said association further alleges that its business has at all times, prior to its seizure by the said A. V. Ammann, been, and was then, conducted in a proper, authorized, safe and fit manner, in no way injurious to the interests of any person whomsoever and in no way jeopardizing the interests of any person whomsoever.

In addition, demand is hereby made for a hearing upon the matter of the purported appointment of said conservator and his purported seizure of possession and control of the assets, premises and securities of said association.

It is respectfully requested that said hearing be held in the District of the Federal Home Loan Bank, of which said Federal Association is a member, to-wit: Los Angeles, California, to which place of hearing (Los Angeles, California), consent is hereby given in writing.

Said association further reserves the right to file a supplementary, amended or different answer, when (if 196 ever) it has received definite charges, assertions, or allegations to which it can plead or answer.

The undersigned Board hereby vehemently states that it has not at any time, nor will it ever consent to, or request, the appointment of any conservator, nor of any receiver, and that there are not now, and never have been, any grounds whatsoever for the appointment of such conservator, nor for the seizure of the assets of said association.

This Answer and Demand for Hearing is made without prejudice to the rights of said association and all its members, officers, directors, or other interested parties to assert the invalidity of said purported seizure of possession of the premises, assets, securities, etc. of said association and/or to assert the invalidity of the said purported appointment of the said A. V. Ammann as conservator of said association.

Address for the service of said Notice of said hearing and for the service of any and all other matters in connection with said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is hereby designated as follows: Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, c/o its President, T. A. Gregory, 350 E. Fourth Street, Long Beach 2, California.

In witness whereof, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a corporation, has caused this Answer and Demand for Hearing to be signed by its President and its Secretary-Treasurer this 30th day of May, 1946.

AND LOAN ASSOCIATION,

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK ADMINISTRATION
Order No. 5309. Date June 5, 1946

Whereas, a conservator has been appointed for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California; and

Whereas, an answer has been filed and written demand made for a hearing, pursuant to Section 206.2 of the Rules and Regulations for the Federal Savings and Loan System:

It is hereby ordered, that a hearing shall be held at Room 510 Chester Williams Building, 215 West Fifth Street, Los Angeles, California, on Wednesday, the third day of July, 1946, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, before a Hearing Officer, at which hearing the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California, may appear and show cause why the conservator should not have been appointed and why an order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration discharging the conservator;

And it is further ordered, that any person, partnership, association, or corporation claiming to have an interest in the subject matter involved may, at any time before the closing of the hearing, file a petition for leave to intervene at said hearing;

And it is further ordered, that the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, any member or creditor thereof, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and any party whose petition for intervention has been allowed, shall have the right, by counsel or otherwise, to appear and be heard at the hearing, to produce, examine, and cross-examine witnesses, to introduce documentary or other evidence, and to file briefs and reply briefs;

And it is further ordered, that the said Hearing Officer shall have complete charge of said hearing; may receive, admit, allow, exclude and deny petitions and evidence, including the hearing of testimony according to the rules of evidence governing civil proceedings in matters not involving trial by jury in the courts of the United States, provided, however, that such rules may be relaxed by the said Hearing Officer in order to promote the just determination of the ultimate issue; may limit the time within which briefs and reply briefs may be filed and may require the furnishing of copies thereof to other parties; shall order the preparation of a record, including a transcript of the testimony and evidence presented; may make rulings and note exceptions, but 198 shall not have power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceedings or other motion that involves final determination of the ultimate issue; may hear arguments; may adjourn the said hearing from time to time, if, in his judgment, it is desirable to the orderly conduct, of the said hearing or to promote the just determination of the ultimate issue; and may do all such things and have all such powers as are necessary or proper to the orderly conduct of said hearing or to promote the just determination of the ultimate issue, but shall not have power to finally determine the ultimate issue;

And it is further ordered, that after the close of the hearing the said Hearing Officer shall transmit as promptly as possible to the Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration the complete transcript of testimony taken, together with any exhibits, briefs, or other material incorporated in the record of said hearing;

And it is further ordered, that the Secretary or an Assistant Secretary shall advise all parties appearing at said hearing in person or by attorney, by registered mail, return receipt requested, promptly upon receipt of said transcript, of the filing thereof, and shall make such transcript available for inspection by any such party and supply a copy thereof, upon request, to any such party at a price which will cover the reasonable cost of its preparation, as determined by the Secretary.

And it is further ordered, that notice of the hearing herein provided for shall be served by the Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration by mailing a copy of this order by registered mail to Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, c/o its President, T. A. Gregory, 350 E. Fourth Street, Long Beach 2, California.

Order continuing to July 1, 1946, for the purpose of setting hearing date on motion for preliminary injunction and continuing temporary restraining order

Filed June 18, 1946

Upon the oral Stipulation of Counsel for Plaintiffs and Counsel for Defendants, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and from the verified Complaint, Affidavits and Records on file herein.

It appearing that there is reason to believe that the defendants or some of them may dissipate and break up the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its membership shares, and organization by merging, consolidating, reorganizing or uniting said association or commingling said association's assets, membership shares, or members with other organizations, banks, corporations, associations or institutions, and that there would thereby be caused immediate and irreparable injury, loss and damage to the Plaintiffs and other shareholder members of the said association, and for said cause shown, it is hereby ordered that the Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Injunction and defendant's Motion to Dismiss, and other motions now noticed for Monday, June 201 24, 1946, be continued for setting only to Monday, July 1, 1946, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., in the Federal Building at Los Angeles, California.

All parties, who have appeared, shall have to and including Friday, June 28, 1946, to file Statements and Points and Authorities in opposition to the respective Motions of the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, to Dismiss and of the Plaintiffs for Preliminary Injunction and of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for hearing of Motion for Preliminary Injunction on oral testimony.

It is further ordered that all documents shall be filed in quadruplicate for consideration by a Court composed of Three (3) Judges.

It is further hereby ordered that upon the findings above made and for the reasons above set forth that the Temporary Restraining Order heretofore made on the 27th day of May, 1946, be and it is hereby continued in full force and effect, until the hearing of, and the final determination of the said Motion for Preliminary Injunction or until further order of the Court.

Notice of motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing
Filed June 20, 1946

To: A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, defendants herein; and James Carter, United States Attorney, Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney; and Mildred Kluckhohn, Assistant United States Attorney, their attorneys; and John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Commissioner and Administrator to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, defendants herein; and Title Service Company, defendant

207 and Cross Claimant in Interpleader; and Harry O. Wallace, their Attorney; and Robert O. Wallis, defendant and Cross Claimant in Interpleader; and Raymond Tremaine, his attorney; and Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, defendants herein; and to Charles K. Chapman, its attorney:

You and each of you will please take notice that on Monday, July 1, 1946, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A. M., in the Court Room of the Honorable Peirson M. Hall, Judge of the United States District Court in the Federal Building, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, the plaintiffs herein, individually, and as Representatives of a class suing for and on behalf of all of the Shareholders of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, will present to this Honorable Court a Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing.

This Motion will be based upon the Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing, Plaintiffs' Summary Statement of Pertinent Facts In re: Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing. Affidavits, photostatic copy of the record of Testimony given by the Defendants and others, before the Congressional Committee Investigating the Acts of Executive Agencies, which Exceed their Authority, and Plaintiffs' Points and Authorities, all of which Documents are attached hereto, and served and filed herewith; and Further said Motion will be based upon the Verified Complaint, Affidavits, Pleadings, Papers and Documents on file in this action, and upon Oral Testimony of Witnesses and Documents, Records and Files to be presented and introduced at said hearing on this Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of said Administrative Hearing.

208 On July 1, 1946, at said time and place, the Plaintiffs will make a further Motion that this Honorable Court set a time and place for the Hearing of the said Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of said Administrative Hearing, at which time and place, the many witnesses, residents of Southern California, may appear and testify in person and that said Hearing of this Motion for said Preliminary Injunction be by a Court of Three Judges, pursuant to the Provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code, as said Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of said Administrative Hearing is based upon the grounds that certain Acts of Congress, Rules and Regulations thereunder, or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States.

Motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of administrative hearing

Come now, the Plaintiffs, and complaining of the Defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of the agents, employees, servants, subordinates, and hearing officers purporting or attempting to hold any purported hearing or hearings under authority of, or as representative of said John H. Fahey, or the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, and for grounds of Motion to be made for this Preliminary Injunction, state that:

That unless restrained from so doing, the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and the defendant, A. V. Ammann, his purported Conservator for the Long 210 Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through their representatives, agents, subordinates and un-named hearing officers propose to hold a purported administrative hearing, commencing on July 3, 1946, pursuant to their Order No. 5309, of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration to take testimony for submission to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and to John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration for determination by himself, as to whether or not he, himself, acted properly and within his authority and jurisdiction in having appointed his co-defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and in having authorized the seizure, without prior notice and/or hearing, of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its $26,000,000.00 of assets.

That the provisions of the Federal Acts, under which the above named defendant and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration purport to act, and the rules, regulations and directions purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all such Federal Acts, are unconstitutional and repugnant to the Constitution of the United States and Amendments IV and V thereof, and the attempt to delegate legislative and judicial authority to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and its Administrator and Commissioner, the defendant, John H. Fahey, was ineffectual, incomplete and/or an improper and unconstitutional attempt to delegate such judicial and legislative authority.

That the said proposed administrative hearing would not be conducted in a fair and impartial forum for the hearing of the matters in controversy, because the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Administrator, in passing upon, adjudicating and determining the propriety and validity of his own act and the acts of his subordinates in the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, performed and done pursuant to his own direction and authority, would not be a fair and impartial adjudicator, but they have demonstrated by their actions and their statements, that they will be influenced in such adjudication by bias and prejudice, and they have already decided and determined the issues upon which they propose to hold said administrative hearing.

That the questions proposed to be heard and determined by such Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at the said purported hearing, to wit: the question "as to why the Conservator should not have been appointed, and why an order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration discharging the Conservator" are questions involving the constitutionality of the rules, regulations and acts or parts thereof, under which said Conservator was allegedly appointed and which same questions are here raised in this litigation now pending before this Honorable Court composed of three judges, under these proceedings, had pursuant to the provisions of 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code.

That these parties, plaintiffs, are not parties to said purported administrative hearing, and that there are various other parties to this present pending litigation, to-wit: interpleading parties, who are not parties to said purported administrative hearing, yet whose rights and interests might be seriously affected by any attempted or purported decision or determination which might be so allegedly made by the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, Administrator, or Chairman of the Board, or which might be made or attempted to be made by any part of said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, its agents, employees, servants, subordinates and/or hearing officers.

That the holding of said purported administrative hearing, the constitutionality of which is placed in question by this pending action, would constitute a multiplicity of actions, be an encroachment and infringement upon the jurisdiction and authority of this Honorable Court to hear and determine the questions, including constitutional 212 questions raised by this pending action and would cause immediate and irreparable damage and injury to these plaintiffs and to the interest of the other approximately 16,000 shareholder members in the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and would injure and damage the good-will and going concern value of said Association and its shareholder members, and the result of publicity might restart a "run" of withdrawals from said Association, which might even exceed the "run" or withdrawals caused by the seizure of said Association by said defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator, which said "run," within a comparative short time, caused withdrawals in excess of $6,000,000.00.

Whereupon now come the plaintiffs, in the above entitled action and make their Motion as follows, to wit:

Motion for preliminary injunction

That this Honorable Court issue a Preliminary Injunction, restraining and enjoining the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and as Chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, and/or A. V. Ammann, individually and as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and/or any and all of their agents, employees, servants, representatives, hearing officers, and/or subordinates, and each and all of them from, directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until the final determination of the said action, or until further order of this Honorable Court, proceeding with, holding, or attempting to hold any hearing or hearings, pursuant to Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration or at all, or from hearing or determining any other questions, issues or matters, which are now or may hereafter be pending before this Honorable Court in the above entitled action, without the further written order of this Court being first had and obtained.

213 The above Motion is made and based upon the Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing heretofore served and filed and upon the verified complaint herein, affidavits, records, pleadings and papers on file in this action and upon the Oral Testimony of witnesses, documents, records and files, which may be presented and introduced at said hearing on this Motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

In support thereof, there is attached hereto, Plaintiffs' Summary Statement of Pertinent Facts re: Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of administrative hearing, together with supporting affidavits and documents, and Plaintiffs' Points and Authorities.

214 JOHN J. FAHEY:

Mr. FISCHBACH. Just for the moment using the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association as an example, the Federal Savings & Loan Association of Long Beach could have withdrawn from membership in the Federal Bank of Los Angeles, and at the same time it too could have gone out of business?

Mr. FAHEY. Oh, it wouldn't have to go out of business.

Mr. FISCHBACH. It would have to go out of business as a Federal?

Mr. FAHEY. It would have to go out of business as a Federal, certainly. It could change to a guaranteed stock State chartered institution if it wanted to, provided the State of California would give them a charter.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Provided they could get a State charter?

Mr. FAHEY. Yes. I doubt if Mr. Gregory would get one.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Mr. Chairman, would that remark be stricken from the record? It was neither called for by any question——

The CHAIRMAN. Read back the last few words, please.

(The record was read by the reporter.)

Mr. HARTLEY. I move that that be stricken from the record.

Mr. FAHEY. All right, it is perfectly agreeable to me.

Mr. JENNINGS. Well, it wouldn't depend, Mr. Fahey, on whether it was agreeable to you or not if the 215 committee decided * * * members.

Gregory was a director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and is a member of the board of the California Savings and Loan League.

As stated, he has been one of the largest borrowers from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, having secured over eight million dollars in advances from the institution—a large part of it after the late President Hurford became incapacitated by illness, and Berry was in Charge.

He and his father secured from the United States Treasury and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, share purchases totaling $875,000, which was invested in these two associations on the recommendation of the Los Angeles Bank board.

This substantial contribution of public funds was made available in the expectation that it would be used to develop institutions which would render a public service to home owners, and safeguard the interest of those who placed savings in their custody.

This money would never have been advanced to these associations; they would have never secured Federal charters, and we would not be here today if the Federal Home Loan Bank board had been informed of the unscrupulous practices of the Gregory's in connection with the affairs of the Reliable Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach, which had to be taken over by the State of California just before they obtained the 216 Federal charters to which I have referred.

It was the business of the officers and directors of the Los Angeles Bank to have advised us of the facts in this case They failed to do so.

On May 21st we were obliged to appoint a conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to protect the savings of over 16,000 people, as a result of conditions discovered by our examiners when they began their regular annual examination of the association's books a week before.

I shall refer later to some of the significant facts, and Colonel Lee, governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System will report to you more details, if desired.

Suit has been entered in the Federal Court in an effort to regain control of this institution. Gregory has set up the false and hypocritical cry that I acted in this matter in reprisal against him because of his effort to force the election of Berry as president of the Federal Home Loan Bank, the Los Angeles Bank. It is assumed that the courts will presently determine the justification for our action.

Later in this statement, I will review further the Gregory record supported by interesting documents, but before doing so I would like to mention his chief associates in the attempt to make Mr. Berry president.

I have spoken of two former employees of the Federal . . . .

217 Fitzpatrick was one of the most conspicuous offenders. It was repeatedly alleged that he was securing clients among bank members because of the whisper that he was most intimate with Berry, and had the "inside" on the affairs of the bank.

The facts proving that he had worked himself into a position where he could exercise unusual influence with most substantial profit, we shall later present to you in detail.

With all of them, directly or indirectly, Berry worked to secure the presidency of the bank for himself, incurring obligations in addition to many already accumulated which make it impossible for him to serve effectively as president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

In the meantime, he positively denied that he was active in this campaign while at the same time he was spending the bank's money to advance his personal interests and secure increased salary.

These are introducfory sketches referring to the men who by their willful self-seeking acts have caused greater dissension and disturbance among the members of one of these banks than has occurred at any time since the organization of the bank system.

May I later be permitted to add details supporting my statements concerning these men which are essential to an understanding of the claims they have presented to this committee.

* * * * *

218 good these charges, telephone charges, on his own account, until the matter was specifically brought to his attention, and so far as our records go and any knowledge we have, they have not yet been made good, although the total runs nearly to a hundred dollars.

It is, of course, impossible to tell at all times whether or not calls were made on the business of the bank or in furtherance of Mr. Berry's candidacy.

The average tolls per month, however, during the ten months' period prior to Mr. Hurford's death were 25 from day to day, and during the five months subsequent to his death they went up to 55.2. Undoubtedly some of these in both cases were for perfectly legitimate business of the bank, but we are aware of no activity which would account for so large a rise during that period.

On April 14th, 1945, Mr. Gregory informed Colonel Lee that consideration was being given to organizing a state insurance fund in California and that unless I would agree to the election of Mr. Berry as the president of the bank there would likely be many conversions from Federal to state associations.

In addition to that, on April 10, 1945, Mr. Gregory told Colonel Lee and Mr. Twohy that I did not have the right to disapprove the officers elected by the board and suggested a compromise whereby the duties of the 219 bank president and of supervision would be separated and placed in different persons and the bank be given a free hand in selecting its president and stating that unless such a compromise as he had suggested could be worked out, the Federal Home Loan Bank Act requiring the approval of the Commissioner would be changed or they would have a new Commissioner.

Now, on April 13, 1945, Mr. Gregory called on me in the Washington office. He told me that if an agreement could not be reached whereby the directors could name the president of the bank without interference by the Commissioner and the Commissioner name the official who would be responsible for supervision without interference by the directors, that certain members of the Los Angeles Bank would attempt to secure amendments to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act which would eliminate the provisions that the Commissioner must approve the election of the president and officers of the Federal Home Loan Banks.

I then advised Mr. Gregory that I would not enter into any trade with reference to the presidency of the Los Angeles Bank in order to secure immunity from personal attack, or for any other reasons.

At different times such threats have been made by Gregory and members of the Committee. I have always met these threats by the assertion that I would welcome the.

220 Testimony of KENNETH G. HEISLER:

Mr. FISCHBACH. Mr. Heisler, have you ever requested an opinion from the Attorney General of the United States as to what the authority of the administration under that language of the Act is or whether your own interpretation of it is sound?

Mr. HEISLER. There has not been one requested while I have been there.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Didn't you think the matter of sufficient gravity to seek such an opinion?

Mr. HEISLER. I do not.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Do you think it is quite proper for the administration to proceed with the appointment of a conservator for a solvent institution under this Act?

Mr. HEISLER. If we do not have the power to appoint a conservator in instances of this nature, we are helpless.

Mr. JENNINGS. Right there, that strikes me as peculiar. You say you haven't the power to appoint a conservator in instances of this nature. You mean by that, if you mean anything, in the light of this record, that if in an instance where the head of this institution here in Washington conceives a dislike to the officers of a solvent going concern, that is serving the public, and it hasn't violated the law in any particular, that in order to get him, start to have a run on his bank, you would have to do it as you did in this instance; you wouldn't dare 221 to go into any court of the land with charges like you have enumerated here in this blanket, vague, Mother Hubbard charge, you have lodged here against this institution. Why you couldn't get a receivership for a peanut stand in any court of the land on charges like that.

Mr. HEISLER. In the first——

Mr. JENNINGS. I am surprised that you, as a lawyer, would undertake to justify what has been done in this instance on vague, general statements here, that don't put this bank or its officers on notice with respect to anything.

Mr. HEISLER. Let me answer you fully, if I may.

In the first place, I do not know that the head of our institution had anything to do with this. I don't believe there can be any charge possible of malice. He didn't know the facts; he wasn't here at the time.

Secondly, the facts have not been reviewed or placed before you.

Thirdly, I have reviewed them, gone over them, and am fully convinced, as a lawyer, that they are not only sufficient to constitute action by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, but demanded action under the circumstances and the facts which will be here developed.

Mr. JENNINGS. Now, here is this paper. I want to read it to you for the benefit of the record.

Mr. HEISLER. That is a technical order, you understand.

Mr. JENNINGS. Yes, I know it is a technical order; it is

222 Testimony of HAROLD LEE:

The CHAIRMAN. You refer—let's see it—to exhibit 6 which was the report of April 23rd that you sent up?

Mr. LEE. Exhibit 6, yes, sir.

We were further under notice that on Monday morning there would be an additional thousand—one hundred thousand dollars taken out, which might get beyond the reach of the institution, and these men. The evidence with respect to the financial responsibility of these men is such, their investments in the corporation is such, and so forth, that we might have difficulty recovering it.

It was our opinion, for the association, that this item of $16,000 which has been paid out, and the item of one hundred thousand dollars, if paid out in the manner in which it was appropriated or having been appropriated, an attempt having been made by the directors to have it appropriated and have it disbursed in some attempt, would not come under the bond.

Bonds do not cover the acts of the directors unless these directors are not acting as directors but only officials and employees of the corporation. We, therefore, had no recovery against the bond.

There was also a movement in California, which was reported to me by Mr. Keller, assistant governor who testified here yesterday or the day before in the case here, that at a meeting shortly after the bank was consolidated, the question of assessment of associations who were members of the Federal Home Loan 223 Bank was discussed, and it was suggested that the associations contribute—I say assessment, I mean a request that they make contribution or payment on the basis of $100 per million dollars of assets.

Mr. JENNINGS. Payment for what purpose?

Mr. LEE. For the purpose of bringing legal action.

Mr. JENNINGS. Protecting themselves against you gentlemen here in Washington who would——

Mr. LEE. That would be a matter of opinion.

Mr. JENNINGS. Who were han-ing on their flanks?

Mr. LEE. You haven't heard the other side of the case yet, Congressman, and when this is finally determined in court, I am sure, quite confident, that it will be determined favorably to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and I think if you don't withhold opinion, you will be embarrassed, because we have the facts.

Mr. JENNINGS. I am not going to be embarrassed.

Mr. LEE. I don't think Mr. Gregory can ever get it back from that institution.

Mr. JENNINGS. You have destroyed it.

Mr. LEE. That isn't his institution. The money that was taken out of their belonged to the people who withdrew it, and they had a right to take it out, and furthermore, he was only getting two and a half per cent on his bonds, and he was getting two per cent on his dividends, and the 224 institution is not hurt nor impaired, and it is just as good, in as good position today as it was when they went in, and they are making investments; they are not afraid of us; they are afraid that this group may get back into possession of that institution, and I am afraid that they will get back and hurt it.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Mr. Lee, you refer to action of the board of directors in establishing a fund, and you described the purpose of that fund as one which had some other objective, to bring action to restrain the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration from exercising its supervisory control.

Mr. LEE. That is correct.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Now, to begin with, you have seen, have you not, an exact copy of the resolution of the board of directors pursuant to which that fund was established?

Mr. LEE. I have.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Now, I will read you the resolving paragraphs.

"Whereas, there have been indications that retaliation against this association by those purporting to be representing the Federal supervising authorities, because the representative of this association duly elected as a director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles"—that is Mr. Gregory—"did not disregard the legal rights and best interests of said bank and submit to the dictation 225 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and

"Whereas, such retaliations are unwarranted and violate the principles of our democratic government and are detrimental to the best interests of this association,

"Now, therefore, be it resolved—be it hereby resolved, that the officers of this association be and they are hereby authorized to employ legal counsel to conduct appropriate legal proceedings"—and I call your particular attention to this, Mr. Lee—" to restrain said Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner or his deputies from interfering with the normal and proper conduct of this association's affairs.

"The sum of $100,000 is hereby appropriated and authorized to be expended for that purpose."

Now, having refreshed your recollection in connection with the exact verbiage of that resolution, I ask you, Mr. Lee, whether there is anything immoral or improper in a board of directors of any association which is charged with the management of the affairs of that association, from taking action, or authorizing action to be taken to restrain the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner or his deputies from interfering with the normal and proper conduct of that association's affairs?

Mr. LEE. Answering that question specifically, as asked, no; nothing improper. But I want to explain, and I am entitled to explain, that there is something improper in 226 appropriating an unreasonable and exorbitant amount, and particularly when the man who makes the appropriation, was not a heavy investor in the association.

The last date that I have as to the amount of his investment prior to that report on 12,31/45, his stake in that was $1821, and it was insured against loss by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

Now, they did not——

Mr. FISCHBACH. Let's take your explanation.

The CHAIRMAN. Let him finish.

Mr. LEE. They did not give out copies of their by-laws and charter to the people. The people in that institution, I am informed, and Mr. Ammann here can testify as to that, I think, didn't know generally that they had any voice in this thing, and that they were entitled to come to these meetings, and it was certainly, in my opinion, then and now, highly improper for these directors to appropriate such an exorbitant amount.

No question would have been raised had it been a reasonable amount.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Just a moment, Mr. Lee.

Mr. LEE. And there is, on top of that the $16,000 that he spent in there, for what?

Mr. FISCHBACH. By what authority——

Mr. LEE. Let me get through here. This association had no business down there at all, and this president came down here and stayed three months, and he got on 227 September 13, $1,000; there was no proper account entered in the books on these things.

On October 22nd, they wired him another thousand, this is 1945. On November 5th, they wired him another thousand dollars. This is in Washington.

November 24th, the man T. A. Gregory got another thousand dollars. He was living well. December 1st, they wired him $2,000; January, 1946 they gave him $2,000; January 31, they wired him $1500; February 20, they wired him $2,000; February 28th, they wired him $2,000; March 27th, they wired him $1,000; $14,500 expended for something in Washington that his association had no business in Washington for. It wasn't justified in the books and it can't be justified.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Just a moment, Mr. Lee, is that for you to determine or for the directors of the association to determine?

Mr. LEE. That was for me to determine as supervising officer, whether that was an improper thing or not, and whether it required supervision under Section 5 (a) of the HOLC Act. Under that, we are charged with examination, supervision and regulation.

Mr. FISCHBACH. You don't know even in this instant what Mr. Gregory was doing here in Washington at that time, do you?

Mr. LEE. Oh, yes, I have a pretty good idea, but 228 not in the form of legal proof, yes.

Mr. FISCHBACH. All right, so you have no——

Mr. LEE. He was spending a lot of money of that association improperly.

Mr. FISCHBACH. So you have no idea as to what Mr. Gregory's mission was in Washington, what he was doing?

Mr. LEE. Yes, I have some idea. He told me what his mission was on several occasions, he and Weinblatt were around to see me, and, incidentally, he told you that he was with TransAmeric Corporation. He is not with them at all; he is not associated with them. He was up here as a fixer and a briber.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Did he try to bribe you?

Mr. LEE. I don't think Mr. Gregory can account for the expenditure of that money, and I think he ought to be required to account for it before this committee, and if he doesn't account for it here he will have to account for it in court.

Mr. JENNINGS. You made a statement that these men were up here, up here as bribers and fixers. Who were they bribing?

Mr. LEE. Well, how did he spend $14,000 in two or three months?

Mr. JENNINGS. I don't know. I am asking you. You made the statement. Who was committing bribery here?

Mr. LEE. Well, Congressman, you don't spend that amount of money in two months.

Mr. JENNINGS. I didn't ask you that question.
229 You are under oath, and you just made a statement as a witness who has been sworn to tell the truth.

Now, tell this committee which of these two men were bribing somebody in Washington and who did they bribe?

Mr. LEE. Well, Weinblatt—they didn't bribe anybody I know of.

Mr. JENNINGS. How is that?

Mr. LEE. If I knew it definitely I would get a warrant out.

Mr. JENNINGS. Well, you made that statement. Are you that reckless as a witness under oath that you would come before this committee and make the statement that one of these two men or both of them to whom you have referred were over hear bribing somebody and now you admit that you have no evidence of the truth of what you have said.

Mr. LEE. I didn't say I had no evidence.

Mr. JENNINGS. What is it? Just tell this committee now which of these men bribed somebody and who did they bribe?

Mr. LEE. Well, there was a letter offered in evidence by Mr. Fahey yesterday as one of the exhibits wherein this letter, written by Mr. Berry——

Mr. JENNINGS. That is not an answer to my question. You have made a statement that they were here committing bribery. Which one of them committed bribery and whom did they bribe?

Mr. LEE. They didn't bribe me.

230 Mr. JENNINGS. Whom did they bribe? You have made that statement.

Mr. LEE. They didn't bribe Mr. Fahey.

Mr. JENNINGS. Do you want to take it back and admit that you stated a falsehood or are you going to tell us who that was?

Mr. LEE. I said I thought that the money was improperly used, and probably for that purpose, and I won't take it back. I won't be intimidated by that statement.

Mr. JENNINGS. I want to get the facts from you if you know facts. We want the facts, and if you don't know the facts, we don't want you to come here and perjure yourself.

Mr. LEE. Well, you are making it very difficult for me to get the facts.

Mr. JENNINGS. So, you do now charge these men with bribery, either of them?

Mr. LEE. Mr. Congressman, I think before we are through we will be able to show that those funds were improperly used and unless somebody perjures themselves, they will be embarrassed.

Mr. JENNINGS. Just tell me which of those men committed perjury, tell this committee?

Mr. LEE. Well, of course, Weinblatt is one whose character is not——

Mr. JENNINGS. I am not asking about his character; I don't know but what it is as good as yours. I am 231 not caring anything about that.

Which one did you say that it was committed bribery in Washington, Weinblatt, or Gregory?

Mr. LEE. I said I thought he was here in Washington and did it.

The CHAIRMAN. You said something else.

Mr. LEE. I still think we will be able probably to prove that before we are through, not in this hearing.

Mr. JENNINGS. That is something else. You can prove anything you want to.

The CHAIRMAN. Let me inquire here, you mean that you expect to prove it before this committee?

Mr. LEE. No, sir, we do not have that.

The CHAIRMAN. You said before you were through. This is a very serious charge.

Mr. LEE. There are legal cases pending, and I think before this case is over, Mr. Gregory will have to account as to what became of that money, and we will have an opportunity to check that and see whether that is true or not, and I think before we are through we will have pretty good information, and I don't care to make any—it would be very unfair and quite improper to criticize me for putting in my thoughts and impressions. I certainly wouldn't do anything of that kind. I have my own opinions and suspicions, and I can't prove them, but I am still working on it, and I expect to be able to 232 work it out yet.

Mr. HARTLEY. Of course, Mr. Lee, that is an entirely different statement from what you made previously.

Mr. LEE. That is my statement

The CHAIRMAN. Let's get along.

Mr. LEE. It is the public officials who are being pushed around here and are being put on the defensive, and not the people who are running their institutions improperly; officials who are trying to perform and doing their duty. We shouldn't be on the defensive.

Mr. HARTLEY. Who is pushing you around?

Mr. LEE. Well, I think we are being pushed around.

Mr. HARTLEY. By whom?

Mr. LEE. By Mr. Jennings there, for one thing. He has already pre-judged the case, already decided the case, he says. I see very little use, if he has already pre-judged and predetermined it.

Mr. JENNINGS. I am somewhat of a judge of people.

and I make up my mind whether a statement of fact is presented to me, and that is why I am here. I need no apologies from you or anybody else.

Mr. LEE. If you have decided that Mr. Ammann, who is a public official and has a good record with the Government, and Mr. Heisler and myself are disreputable and dishonest, why there isn't any use of our offering any evidence.

233 Mr. JENNINGS. I do think that there has been some arbitrary action here.

Mr. LEE. You haven't heard our evidence yet. You don't know why. Why should you think that at all. Why should you not withhold your decision?

The CHAIRMAN. Let's get along.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Now, as a matter of fact, Mr. Lee, wasn't the money which you referred to as having been expended in Washington by Mr. Gregory, paid back over the protest of the board of directors of that institution?

Mr. LEE. No, sir, it wasn't paid back. There was an effort to straighten out the record of what I call a fictitious and unlawful interest.

Mr. FISCHBACH. I didn't ask you to characterize it, Mr. Lee. Now, you are a lawyer and a businessman.

Mr. LEE. That is my answer to your question, and I will let it remain as such.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Yes.

Mr. LEE. What they did, and they way that they paid it back or attempted to pay it back, and it was not a repayment, was to increase, attempt to increase—because I don't think they accomplished it—Mr. Gregory's salary retroactively, commencing January 1, 1945, I believe, and this was purported to have been done in April, but he continued to draw his—I mean, January, '46—but 234 he continued, I believe, to draw his pay at the rate of $8250 until April.

I do not believe that the board of directors can legally increase his pay retroactively for 1945. I think, therefore, that is a void transaction. It is a gratuity, and there is no consideration for it, and I consider there has been no repayment.

Furthermore, they increased then his salary from $8250 to $20,000, and, of course, they had a right to increase his salary if he was therein conducting the business of his association. He was down here in Washington for two or three months. I don't think that was on the business of his association.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Please, Mr. Lee, I would like to call your attention to the fact that this committee is functioning pursuant to a resolution of the House, that its purpose is to get facts, not your thoughts nor your opinions. We would like to get the facts.

Mr. LEE. You never called upon us for any facts before you entered into this hearing or asked for our evidence or asked to examine it.

Mr. HARTLEY. We are not supposed to get the facts before the hearing starts; that is the purpose of the hearing.

Mr. LEE. I mean your counsel. He hasn't asked us for it. He hasn't asked us for the order of witnesses or how the evidence was presented. We have had 235 no opportunity to present committee.

Mr. LEE. One account in his own name and another account in his name and that of his daughter, and another account in his name and that of his wife, and—well, those are mere subterfuges. What they were trying to do here was take this institution and do with it as they saw fit. It was a very alarming thing when I saw it. Now, maybe I was wrong. I did not act on that because I felt that they had not accomplished it. I am not relying on it as one of the grounds for the appointment of a conservator.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Is it stated in the bill of particulars?

Mr. LEE. I am willing to concede that I appointed a conservator upon the attempt to withdraw $100,000, as I stated.

The CHAIRMAN. As I understand you, Mr. Lee, is this $100,000 an incident upon which you base your action?

Mr. LEE. Yes, and all these other things coupled with it, the general atmosphere and why we were alarmed; particularly the $16,000 withdrawal which had come before.

May I add one more thing, Mr. Congressman, about that?

The CHAIRMAN. Yes.

Mr. LEE. That with this attempt to have all these associations—I got Congressman Jennings cleared up on that before. I don't want to start it again. But to contribute these large amounts of money, if we had permitted this institution to do that, all these institutions 236 would have made exorbitant contributions for this sort of thing, and it would have made our supervision ridiculous and supervision would have fallen down in California.

Now, I do want to make clear that we never have questioned and never would question the withdrawal of a fair and reasonable amount, to challenge the authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration. It has been done time and again and can always be done, but to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars out of these mutual institutions out there in this thing, we thought, is going too far.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Mr. Lee, by what authority of law do you undertake to substitute your own judgment for that of the board of directors of the institution?

Mr. LEE. Section 5 (a) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, which gives us the power and charges us with the duty to examine, supervise, and regulate Federal savings and loan associations. It is the duty.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Isn't it a fact that it was a contemplation of Congress that there be autonomy in the management of all these Federal savings and loan associations?

Mr. LEE. If there was to be complete autonomy, they would never have adopted that act. No, sir, it is not.

Mr. FISCHBACH. Did the Federal Home Loan Administration not seek to have the act amended, or seek at the time of the passage of the original act to have authority to control these

Affidavit of T. A. Gregory

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

T. A. Gregory, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the President of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which position he has held over since its inception in 1934; that he was personally present in the offices of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, at 328 American Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on May 20, 1946, and at that time the defendant A. V. Ammann stated to your affiant that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was then and there seized and taken over.

That your affiant requested to know by what authority said seizure was made, and asked for evidence of any 238 Court order or other authorization or process for, or Order authorizing said seizure.

That A. V. Ammann orally stated to your affiant that an Order had been issued in Washington, D. C., appointing him Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its assets, and that he did not need any Court Order or authorization whatsoever, or any other process or authority, that his sole word was the law and was sufficient.

That your affiant then requested written evidence or a copy of said Order, which Mr. A. V. Ammann refused to give to your affiant.

That after considerable argument a typewritten sheet of paper was produced by A. V. Ammann, which piece of paper bore no signature, seal, nor authentication of any sort.

That your affiant then requested some written proof of Mr. Ammann's statements and Mr. Ammann then stated, "I am an Assistant Secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration," and proceeded to then sign the said purported Order authorizing his seizure and assumption of possession of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and all of its assets, and delivered the so-signed typewritten document. That copy of said typewritten document, as delivered to your affiant by said A. V. Ammann, is attached hereto, marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.

That thereupon said A. V. Ammann repeatedly threatened your affiant with criminal prosecution unless your affiant and every employee of said Association immediately delivered up and surrendered possession of all cash, securities, bonds, furniture, equipment, real estate and assets of said Association to said A. V. Ammann.

That your affiant requested receipts, acknowledgements or inventory or some evidence of what cash, bonds, securities and other negotiable assets and valuables which were thus being seized by said A. V. Ammann from the possession of your affiant and the officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That said A. V. Ammann at that time and 239 repeatedly on subsequent occasions, refused to give any receipt or acknowledgment, or to make any inventory of the cash, bonds, securities and other assets so being seized.

That your affiant requested that the auditors for said Association, Mr. Mather and Mr. L. D. White, of the firm of F. W. LaFrance, Certified Public Accountants, who were then both personally present, be permitted to make an itemized list of the bonds, cash, securities and property thus being seized from said Association, and the said A. V. Ammann refused and declined to permit anyone to make any such lists, receipts or detailed statements of the monies, securities, bonds and valuables thus being seized.

That the said A. V. Ammann took no inventory at said time, nor at all, so far as known to your affiant, and did not make any detailed list or statement of what assets, negotiable bonds and securities were at that time seized from said Association, but within a few minutes after the seizure the said A. V. Ammann and his subordinates opened the offices of said Association to the public and started disbursing the monies so seized.

That at the time of said seizure there was on hand in the offices of the Association, for which said A. V. Ammann refused to give any receipt or permit any account or inventory to be made, the following assets, negotiable by delivery:

Cash—approximately in excess of $30,000.00.

United States Government Bonds—in excess of $176,000.00, most of which were bearer bonds.

Negotiable instruments consisting of notes, trust deeds, contracts and other documents in excess of $4,000,000.00, some of which were transferable upon delivery, having been endorsed in blank in the due course of business.

240 That said Association at the time it was seized, was entirely solvent and had assets in excess of $26,000,000.00, approximately $22,500,000.00 of which were shareholder accounts, and said Association had profits, undivided surplus and reserves in excess of $1,300,000.00.

That at the time of said seizure your affiant heard one Ben O. Reddick ask the said A. V. Ammann, "Why are you here?" and heard the said A. V. Ammann reply, "If it gets in the paper we are here, it will create a run and tear down the institution, that's why we are here." The said A. V. Ammann, upon being further questioned by the said Ben O. Reddick, repeated his statement.

That neither your affiant, T. A. Gregory, nor his father, J. E. Gregory, have ever at any time personally borrowed any money whatsoever from either the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, nor from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, nor from the (purportedly consolidated) Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

That your affiant desires to and does deny the statements and imputations made in your affiant's presence when he, John H. Fahey, was testifying in his, John H. Fahey's, own defense, before the Select Committee of the House of Representatives of the United States, to investigate acts of Executive Agencies which exceed their authority, and there stated as his conclusion that your affiant had indulged in "unscupulous practices," which statement your affiant denies as being untrue and entirely unfounded.

Your affiant further calls to this Honorable Court's attention that at the said hearing before said Congressional Investigating Committee, the said John H. Fahey stated under oath, while testifying in his, Fahey's, own defense that, "Gregory has set up the false and hypocritical cry that I acted in this matter in reprisal against him because of his effort to force the election of Berry as president of the Federal Home Loan Bank, the Los Angeles Bank. It is assumed that the courts will presently determine the justification for our 241 action." (Page 242) Whereas, in truth and fact your affiant has not set up any such statement and in truth and fact has not to this date filed any answer in the proceedings brought by shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, No. 5421-P.H., before this Honorable Court, although the said seizure of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by the said A. V. Ammann, pursuant to the direction of John H. Fahey, was in truth and fact a reprisal against your affiant, because of his efforts to prevent the said John H. Fahey dictating to the directors of said Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank who should be its president, and to prevent your affiant and the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association bringing a legal action to recover from the said John H. Fahey, assets of the Association seized by him when he seized the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank, and further to prevent your affiant from testifying before said Select Committee of the House of Representatives to investigate acts of Executive Agencies which exceed their authority.

Your affiant directs this Honorable Court's attention to the fact that, though served with due process, the said John H. Fahey, has consistently refused to and still does refuse to appear in action, or submit to the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court, and through his Agent, A. V. Ammann, has made a motion for the dismissal of this pending action and is endeavoring to prevent this Honorable Court from hearing this matter on its merits.

Your affiant wishes to deny the statements made by John H. Fahey, while testifying in his, Fahey's, own defense before the Select Committee of the House of Representatives, to investigate acts of Executive Committees which exceed their authority, in which said John H. Fahey, stated under oath that your affiant had made threats against him. Your affiant denies specifically that he ever at any time made any threats against John H. Fahey.

Your affiant wishes to and does deny the state-242 ments and allegations made by Harold Lee, Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System when he was testifying in defense of John H. Fahey, before the Select Committee of the House of Representatives, to investigate acts of Executive Agencies which exceed their authority, accusing your affiant of being "a fixer and a briber," which said statement the said Harold Lee was unable to support in any way whatsoever and finally retracted, to wit:

LEE: "* * * they didn't bribe anybody I know of." (see page 423 of the record of Congressional hearing.) Your affiant affirmatively states that he has not at any time or in any place attempted to nor bribed anyone whatsoever.

That your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief, alleges that the said John H. Fahey, Commissioner of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, Harold Lee, Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, A. V. Ammann, purported Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and others in responsible charge and management of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, have prejudged, determined, concluded and decided before hearing that they will not, under any circumstances irrespective of evidence submitted, ever return to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its duly elected officers and directors, whoever they may be, the assets of said Association, and that conclusions of said Administration is evidenced by the statement of Mr. Harold Lee, Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, by the statements made by him while testifying in defense of John H. Fahey before the Select Committee of the House of Representatives, to investigate acts of Executive Agencies which exceed their authority, which statements were as follows, to wit:

Mr. LEE. "You haven't heard the other side of the case yet, Congressman, and when this is finally determined in court, I am sure, quite confident, that it will be determined favorably to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and I think if you don't withhold opinion, you will be embarrassed, because we have the facts.

Mr. JENNINGS (Congressman). I am not going to be embarrassed.

Mr. LEE. I don't think Mr. Gregory can ever get it back from that institution.

Mr. JENNINGS. You have destroyed it."

Statement of defendant and cross-claimant Title Service Company on motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing

Filed June 28, 1946

Comes now the Defendant and Cross-Claimant, Title Service Company, a California corporation, and makes its statement in reply to the Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing, Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of Administrative Hearing, Statement and Points and Authorities in Support of said motion heretofore filed by the Plaintiffs herein and noticed for hearing on the 1st day of July, 1946, as follows:

I

That this Answering Defendant and Cross-Claimant has heretofore filed its Cross-Claim in Interpleader herein and has deposited with the Registry of this Honorable 248 Court 174 promissory notes aggregating $800,250.00 in value, and deeds of trust securing the same wherein this Defendant and Cross-Claimant holds the legal title to 174 parcels of real property in Los Angeles County, California; together with its Bill in the Nature of Interpleader affecting approximately 8000 promissory notes aggregating the approximate total amount of $12,000,000.00 and deeds of trust securing the same, wherein this Defendant and Cross-Claimant holds the legal title to approximately 8000 separate parcels of real property located in Los Angeles County, California. That in said Answer and Cross-Claim in Interpleader this Defendant and Cross-Claimant has disclaimed any interest in any of said real property, other than as Trustee upon said deeds of trust, and has prayed that this Honorable Court, by its order, establish and determine the rights of the other litigating parties to this action to said evidences of title.

II

That prior to the filing of its Answer and Cross-Claim in Interpleader this Defendant had been served as John Doe One, by the Plaintiffs herein, and that it had received conflicting demands from the other parties to this litigation with reference to the delivery of the evidences of title hereinabove referred to. On the one hand purported Demands for Reconveyances under said deeds of trust had been delivered to this Defendant executed by the Defendant Ammann, as the purported Conservator of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and as the agent of the Defendant, John H. Fahey, in his claimed capacity as the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and on the other hand a written demand has been served upon this Defendant by the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, forbidding it to recognize the purported authority of said parties and demanding that it not reconvey upon such requests and further advising it that said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would hold it financially responsible for any losses incurred if such reconveyances were made, by reason of the fact that 249 the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association did not recognize the purported authority of said Defendants, and that said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, was the payee under all of said promissory notes and beneficiary under all of said deeds of trust.

III

That the gravamen of the pending action is the authority claimed by said Defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann. That, therefore, the authority of the said Defendant Fahey and Ammann to either call or proceed with an Administrative Hearing is in issue before this Honorable Court and as a result thereof this Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader cannot and should not be bound by any finding made in, or as the result of, such Administrative Hearing.

IV

That with the deposit with the Registry of this Honorable Court, in interpleader, of the 174 promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, and with the filing in this Honorable Court of its Cross-Claim in Interpleader by this Defendant praying for adjudication of the rights thereto and further praying for an adjudication of the rights to approximately 8000 other promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, now in the custody and possession of the Defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, as hereinabove set forth, this Honorable Court was vested with the sole jurisdiction to make such determination and that any finding made in such Administrative Hearing would be an idle act insofar as this Defendant is concerned.

V

That if such Administrative Hearing should be had that this Defendant would not have any opportunity to be heard.

VI

That should said Administrative Hearing be had 250 and should the findings and rulings made therein, or as a result thereof, be other and different than those made by this Honorable Court, that the title to real property located in Los Angeles County, California, evidenced by the deeds of trust hereinabove referred to, would be further clouded, that irreparable damage would be caused to the equitable owners thereof and that a multiplicity of actions would further ensue, to prevent all of which was the reason for the filing of the Cross-Claim in Interpleader by this Defendant.

Wherefore, although the Defendant, Title Service Company, a California corporation, is a disinterested party in interpleader, it is respectfully urged that the holding of said Administrative Hearing would be in conflict with the jurisdiction of this Court, would be an idle act, would further cloud titles to real property located within the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court, and would serve no useful purpose and should, therefore, be enjoined.

Respectfully submitted,

Motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of administrative hearing
Filed June 28, 1946

Comes now, the Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader Title Service Company, a Corporation, and complaining of the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of the agents, employees, servants, subordinates, and hearing officers purporting or attempting to hold any purported hearing or hearings under authority of, or as representatives of said John H. Fahey, or the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of Administration, and for grounds of Motion to be made for this Preliminary Injunction state that:

That unless restrained from so doing, the defendant,
John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home
254 Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and the defendant, A. V. Ammann, his purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through their representatives, agents, subordinates and un-named hearing officers, propose to hold a purported administrative hearing, commencing on July 3, 1946, pursuant to their Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration to take testimony for submission to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and to John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration for determination by himself, as to whether or not he, himself, acted properly and within his authority and jurisdiction in having appointed his co-defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in having authorized the seizure, without prior notice and/or hearing, of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its $26,000,000.00 of assets.

That the provisions of the Federal Acts, under which the above named defendant and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration purport to act, and the rules, regulations and directions purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all such Federal Acts, are unconstitutional and repugnant to the Constitution of the United States and Amendments IV and V thereof, and the attempt to delegate legislative and judicial authority to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and its Administrator and Commissioner, the defendant, John H. Fahey, was ineffectual, incomplete and/or an improper and unconstitutional attempt to delegate such judicial and legislative authority.

That the said proposed administrative hearing would not be conducted in a fair and impartial forum for the hearing of the matters in controversy, because the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Administrator, in passing upon, adjudicating and determining the propriety and validity of his own act and the acts of his subordinates in the Federal Home Loan 255 Bank Administration, performed and done pursuant to his own direction and authority, would not be a fair and impartial adjudicator, but they have demonstrated by their actions and their statements, that they will be influenced in such adjudication by bias and prejudice, and they have already decided and determined the issues upon which they propose to hold said administrative hearing.

That the questions proposed to be heard and determined by such Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at the said purported hearing, to wit: the question "as to why the Conservator should not have been appointed and why an order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, discharging the Conservator" are questions involving the constitutionality of the rules, regulations and acts or parts thereof, under which said Conservator was allegedly appointed and which same questions are here raised in this litigation now pending before this Honorable Court composed of three judges, under these proceedings, had pursuant to the provisions of 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code.

That this party, Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader, is not a party to said purported administrative hearing, and that there are various other parties to this present pending litigation, to wit: plaintiffs and another interpleading party, who are not parties to said purported administrative hearing, yet whose rights and interests might be seriously affected by any attempted or purported decision or determination which might be so allegedly made by the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, Administrator, or Chairman of the Board, or which might be made or attempted to be made by any part of said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, its agents, employees, servants, subordinates and/or hearing officers.

That the holding of said purported administrative hearing, the constitutionality of which is placed in question by this pending action, would constitute a multiplicity of actions, be an encroachment and infringement upon the jurisdiction and authority of this Honorable Court, to hear and determine the questions, including constitutional questions, raised by this pending action and would cause immediate and irreparable damage and injury to this Defendant in that in said Administrative Hearing and as a result thereof said defendants will purportedly determine the validity of their acts in the appointment of an alleged Conservator for the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which is the major issue before this Honorable Court in the pending action, and, should the finding made in, and as a result thereof, uphold the actions of said defendants, Fahey and Ammann, that they would then demand that this Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader convey or reconvey the title to the approximately 8000 parcels of real property Located in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, now held by this Defendant and Cross-Claimant, as trustee under deeds of trust given to secure the payment of the same number of promissory notes wherein the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the payee and beneficiary, all of which said promissory notes and deeds of trust are before this Honorable Court in interpleader or in the nature of interpleader.

That in making such adjudication said defendants would be usurping the function of this Honorable Court in determining the constitutionality of the Acts of Congress which are questioned in the pending action. That such acts would further cloud the titles to approximately 8000 parcels of real property located in the County of Los Angeles and State of California, valued at approximately $12,000,000.00, and subject this Defendant, as the holder of the legal title thereto, to a multitude of actions, and cause irreparable damage and injury, not only to this Defendant, but also to the approximately 8000 owners of the equitable titles to said realty, all of whom are strangers to this action and without recourse against the Defendants Fahey and Ammann. That on the 27th 257 day of June, 1946, a Lis Pendens in said action was recorded in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, California, pursuant to the provisions of Section 409 of The Code of Civil Procedure of the State of California covering substantially all of the parcels of real property hereinabove referred to and that any purported adjudication made in, or as a result of said Administrative Hearing, would not operate to clear any of the titles to real property affected by said Lis Pendens, but could only further cloud the same.

Whereupon now come the Plaintiffs, in the above entitled action and make their Motion, as follows, to wit:

Motion for preliminary injunction

That this Honorable Court issue a Preliminary Injunction restraining and enjoining the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and as Chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, and/or A. V. Ammann, individually and as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or any and all of their agents, employees, servants, representatives, hearing officers, and/or subordinates, and each and all of them from, directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until the final determination of the said action, or until further order of this Honorable Court, proceeding with, holding, or attempting to hold any hearing or hearings, pursuant to Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or at all, or, if any such hearings have heretofore been commenced from continuing therewith or making any findings, conclusions or adjudications, or issuing any orders based thereon, or from hearing or determining any other questions, issues or matters, which are now or may hereafter be pending before this Honorable Court in the above entitled action, without the further written order of this Court being first had and obtained.

The above Motion is made and based upon the 258 Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing heretofore served and filed and upon the verified complaint herein, affidavits, records, pleadings and papers on file in this action and upon the Oral Testimony of witnesses, documents, records and files, which may be presented and introduced at said hearing on this Motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

In support hereof, there is attached hereto, Defendant and Cross-Complainant Title Service Company's Summary Statement of Pertinent Facts re: Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of Administrative Hearing, together with supporting affidavits and documents, and its Points and Authorities.

Affidavit of Ethel L. Roberts in support of motion to restrain holding of administrative hearing.

Filed June 28, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Ethel L. Roberts, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That she is an officer, to wit: the Assistant Secretary of Title Service Company, a corporation, one of the defendants and cross-claimants in interpleader, in the above entitled and numbered action. That she is one of the executive officers of said Title Service Company, which is a corporation, duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of the State of California, having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles and State of California.

That said Title Service Company is the trustee
261 named in approximately 8000 deeds of trust given to secure the payment of an equal number of promissory notes aggregating in value the sum of approximately $12,000,000.00. That the beneficiary and payee under said deeds of trust and promissory notes is the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, one of the defendants in this action.

That heretofore, and prior to the commencement of this action, to wit: on the 20th day of May, 1946, the Defendant A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator appointed by the Defendant John H. Fahey, the Commissioner of the Federal Home Loan Bank, took over the physical assets of the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and has refused to give any receipt to any person for the assets so taken. That the Title Service Company occupied a portion of the same offices as did the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and that all of said promissory notes and deeds of trust were in said offices on said 20th day of May 1946.

That thereafter the above entitled and numbered action was commenced by the plaintiffs above named against the said defendants Fahey and Ammann for the purpose of restraining any merger of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with any other financial institution and to prevent and restrain the removal of the assets of said Association by said defendants and to prevent and restrain the comingling of said assets with those of any other institution; to declare the invalidity of the acts of said defendants and the unconstitutionality of the laws under which they purported to act; to require the return of the assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the control of its duly elected and qualified officers; and for an accounting.

That subsequent to the commencement of this action and on or about the 31st day of May, 1946, the Defendant A. V.

Ammann, in his capacity as the purported Conservator of the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and 262 Loan Association did deliver unto Title Service Company 174 promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, on all of which said securities the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was the payee and beneficiary, together with a requests for reconveyances covering all thereof, and did demand that this defendant execute and deliver unto him said reconveyances. That subsequent thereto this defendant did inquire from said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as to whether or not the Defendant Ammann had A authority to act for it in demanding that the execution and delivery of such reconveyances and that on or about the 3rd day of June, 1946, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association did, in writing, advise the Title Service Company that it never had and did not then recognize the authority under which said Defendant Ammann purported to act as its Conservator and did notify Title Service Company not to make, execute or deliver any reconveyances upon the order or request of said A. V. Ammann, either upon the 174 deeds of trust then in question, or upon any other deeds of trust wherein said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was the beneficiary. That shortly thereafter this defendant, Title Service Company, was served with process in this action by the United States Marshal, this defendant being served as John Doe One, as described in the complaint on file herein.

That thereafter, by reason of the fact that this defendant was subject to the conflicting demands of the Defendants Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on the one hand, and those of the Defendant A. V. Ammann, as aforesaid, on the other hand, this defendant did file its answer and cross-claim in interpleader in this action and did physically deposit in the Registry of this Court all of the said 174 promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with the alleged demands for reconveyance thereof executed by the said Ammann. That the total value of said securities so deposited is $800,250.00 and that all of the property described in said deeds of trust is located in the County of Los to the physical deposit of said securities, this defendant did, in its said crossclaim in interpleader allege the fact to be, and it is, that there is a total of approximately 8000 of said promissory notes and deeds of trust upon property in Los Angeles County, California, securing the same and that the total aproximate value of said promissory notes is $12,000,000.00 and did pray that this Honorable Court require that the Defendants Fahey and Ammann deliver up said securities into the custody of this Court and that the Court determine the respective rights of all named defendants in and to all of said securities.

That affiant is informed and believes, and on that ground alleges, that the said Defendant A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, either has, or has attempted to, effectuate the substitution of trustees on a part or all of said deeds of trust and to thereby deprive this defendant of the legal title to the property described therein. That on the 27th day of June, 1946, the Defendant Title Service Company did cause to be recorded in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, a Lis Pendens referring to the above entitled and numbered action.

That affiant is informed and believes, and on that ground alleges, that the Defendant John H. Fahey, as the Commissioner of the Federal Home Loan Bank, his officers, agents and assistants, and the Defendant A. V. Ammann, as one of such officers and agents, propose to hold an Administrative Hearing to determine whether or not they have acted within their rights in taking over the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its assets, said hearing having been called by the Order of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration numbered 5309 and dated June 5th., 1946. That no actual notice 264 of said proposed hearing has ever been served upon the Defendant Title Service Company, nor upon any of its officers or its counsel; but that the only notice thereof which has come to the attention of said defendant is a purported copy of said order included as an exhibit in the Motion to Dismiss filed by and on behalf of the Defendant A. V. Ammann herein. That by reason thereof this defendant has not been able to prepare and file a motion to restrain said hearing and to prepare and serve notices thereof within the time prescribed by the rules of this Honorable Court to enable the same to be heard contemporaneously with a similar motion filed by the plaintiffs herein.

That affiant is informed and believes, and on that ground alleges, that should said hearing be had that it would be a nullity for the reason that the persons conducting said hearing would be acting in the multiple positions of prosecutors, triers of fact and judges, and that they have heretofore committed themselves and have prejudged the case and have, under oath, announced the results of their prejudgment. That affiant has seen portions of the transcript of testimony taken before the Committee of the House of Representatives of the United States Investigating the Acts of Executive Agencies Which Exceed their Authority which substantiate this allegation but that the transcript itself is not available from which affiant can quote, or from which excerpts can be taken for inclusion herein as exhibits.

That the reason for the filing of the Cross-Claim in Interpleader and in the Nature of Interpleader herein by the Defendant Title Service Company was to relieve itself of the responsibility imposed upon it by the deeds of trust hereinabove referred to and the liability thereon imposed by the cross demands of the Defendants Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on the one hand, and of the Defendant A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the said Association, on the other. That under the provisions of the interpleader statute, 265 Title 28, Section 41 (26) of the Judicial Code of the United States, this Honorable Court is vested with the mandatory power to restrain any judicial hearing which would subject the interpleading party to a multiplicity of suits wherever such judicial hearings may be held.

That the Defendant Title Service Company has not been served with any notice of said Administrative Hearing and under the terms of the copy of said notice which has come to its attention it would have no opportunity to be heard, notwithstanding the fact that it holds the legal title to real property, as trustee, under deeds of trust of an approximate value of $12,000,000.00, which constitute one of the major assets of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That if said Administrative Hearing is allowed to be held that findings, conclusions and orders may be made therein, or thereafter, which would conflict with orders and/or judgments made by this Honorable Court in the pending action—and which would, in effect, usurp the functions of this Honorable Court. Since the provisions of Title 28, Section 380 (a) of the Judicial Code of the United States provide for the adjudication of the questions before this Honorable Court by a Court of Three (3) judges, an attempt by an administrative body to adjudicate the same matters appears to be presumptive to say the least. That such conflicting orders would result in placing the Defendant Title Service Company in the same position wherein it now is, to wit: the subject of conflicting demands but the demands made by the Defendants Fahey and/or Ammann being enhanced by color of a quasi-judicial ruling.

That none of the holders of any of the equitable title under any of said deeds of trust were included in the said Order calling said Administrative Hearing and that none of them would be able to be heard thereat, and that the legal title to property in which they held the equitable title would be affected thereby.

That for all of the foregoing reasons, the holding of such proposed Administrative Hearing would be a 266 nullity and of no effect and could only further complicate the matters pending before this Court, and, therefore, the holding of or proceeding with such proposed Administrative Hearing should be enjoined.

Dated: At Long Beach, California this 28th day of June, 1946.

ETHEL L. ROBERTS,
Assistant Secretary of Title Service Company, a California Corporation.

Affidavit of J. Francis Moore

CITY OF WASHINGTON,
District of Columbia, ss:

I, J. Francis Moore, being first duly sworn, do on oath depose and say that I am the duly appointed, qualified, and acting Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and as such Secretary I have custody and control of the records of said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and said Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and that I have full and complete knowledge of the facts herein stated.

I further depose and say that according to said records there was received in the office of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board application for permission to organize a Federal savings and loan association, subscription to shares consisting of three sheets, and petition for charter dated May 21, 1934, which petition was signed by T. A. Gregory, J. S. Watts, J. E. Gregory, J. K. Reedor and S. I. Bacon; that in said application for permission to organize, the following statement, among others, appeared:

272 "(4) Applicants agree not to represent themselves as authorized to organize such an association until this application is acted upon favorably by said Board or the chief executive officer of the Federal home loan bank of the district or a duly authorized organizer for the Board, and that upon such action they will proceed only in accordance with the provisions of Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and rules and regulations made thereunder."

That in said petition for charter, among others, are the following statements:

"5. Petitioners, in good faith, desire to promote thrift and home ownership in their community by the accumulation of funds for home financing in accordance with the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations made thereunder.

"7. Wherefore, petitioners pray that they, their associates, and successors, be incorporated and made a body corporate under said name and style with all powers, privileges, and immunities, and subject to such conditions and restrictions as are provided in said act and rules and regulations made thereunder."

That pursuant to such application and petition a charter, known as Charter E, was issued to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California, on July 10, 1934, and accepted by it; that said charter contained, among others, the following provisions:

"15. The association shall at all times be subject to the provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, providing for Federal savings and loan associations, and to any amendments thereof, and to any valid rules and regulations made thereunder as the same may be amended from time to time.

"19. The bylaws adopted by the association shall provide for the management of the association within the provisions of the law and this charter and the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

"20. The association may be liquidated, merged, consolidated, or reorganized, as is provided in the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board."

That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such charter, the following regulation was in full force and effect:

"14. Whenever it shall appear to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that the interests of the creditors or shareholders of any such association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, or if such association shall refuse to submit its books, papers and concerns to the inspection of said Board, or any examiner appointed by said Board, or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be examined upon oath touching the concerns of any such association, or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations, or if from any examination or report provided for by these rules and regulations, the Board shall have reason to conclude that such association is in an unsound or unsafe condition to transact business, or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a receiver or conservator, and require of him such bond and security as it deems proper.

"Such receiver or conservator, under the direction of the Board, shall take possession of the books, records, and assets of every description of such association, collect all debts, dues, and claims belonging to it, and shall make prompt report to the Board of the condition of the association and shall, after 10 days' notice in writing to all shareholders, borrowers, and creditors of the association, sent by mail to their last address as shown on the books of the association, conduct a hearing at the office of the association or some other convenient place designated by him in such notice, at which hearing any interested parties may submit any evidence as to the condition of the association or its management, and may submit any plan for its operation or for a disposition of its assets and a record shall be made and kept of such hearing, and one copy thereof filed with the Federal home-loan bank of which such association is a member and one copy submitted to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of the evidence submitted at such hearing and the plans submitted for the operation of such association or for the disposition of its assets. The conservator or receiver may subpena witnesses, compel the production of books, records, the documents, swear witnesses, and examine them under oath, and may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for the enforcement of such processes. Thereafter the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall recommend to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board a plan for liquidation, merger, consolidation, or reorganization of the association, and the Board shall give consideration to the same and enter an order providing for the release of the association and its continued operation and the terms therefor or for its liquidation, merger, or consolidation and the terms therefor. Thereupon the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall proceed to dispose of the association as is provided in such order. All costs of such proceedings shall be approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and assessed against the association and its assets and paid by the association or from its assets. In the event of a legal necessity therefor, the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, or any interested party, may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for direction or for confirmation of any sale or disposition of assets, but said Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall have full and exclusive authority, power, and jurisdiction to take possession by a conservator or receiver and to hold and administer the assets on an equitable basis."

I further depose and say that on or about the 8th day of April, 1937, there was received by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board the petition of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for an amendment to its charter, petitioning that the present charter of the Association be amended to read in the form of Exhibit K of the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations; that thereafter and on the 13th day of April, 1937, and pursuant to said petition, an amended charter was issued to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and accepted by it, known as Charter K; that said Charter K contained, among others, the following provisions:

"3. Objects and powers.—The objects of the association are to promote thrift by providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes. The statute, this charter, and rules and regulations made thereunder provide for examination and supervision and at the same time for the protection of all private rights concerned, and shall be construed in keeping with the best practices of local mutual thrift and home financing institutions in the United States.

"The association shall have perpetual succession and power to sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity; to have a corporate seal, affixed by imprint, facsimile or otherwise; to appoint officers and agents as its business shall require, and allow them suitable compensation; to have bylaws not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States, this charter, and rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, providing for the management of its property and regulation and government of its affairs; to wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate, or reorganize in the manner provided by law and rules and regulations made thereunder; and to conduct business in the territory of the United States except as otherwise limited in this charter. The association may purchase, hold, and convey real and personal estate consistent with its objects, purposes, and powers; may mortgage or lease any real and personal estate; and may take such property by gift, devise, or bequest. Unless authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the association may not invest in an office building or buildings for the transaction of the business of the association an amount representing the cost of land and buildings in excess of the sum of its undivided profits and reserve accounts."

That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such amended charter, the following regulation was in full force and effect:

"SEC. 51. (a) Whenever it shall appear to the Board that the interests of the creditors or members of any Federal association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, bylaws, or these rules and regulations, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner; or if such association shall refuse to submit its books and papers for inspection by the Board or any examiner appointed by the Board; or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be examined under oath by a representative appointed by the Board concerning the affairs of any such association; or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations; or if the Board shall conclude that such association is in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact business; or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a conservator for such association. Such conservator may propose a plan of reorganization to the Board. The Board may approve a reorganization of such a Federal association.

"(b) In the event that the Board determines that it is necessary to liquidate such association, the Board will appoint the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation as receiver for the purpose of liquidation.

275. "(c) Before the appointment of a conservator or receiver, the Federal association will be given opportunity to be heard: provided, however, that the Board may appoint a temporary conservator pending such hearing."

That since the 13th day of April, 1937, the said Association has continued to operate under said Charter K, which has been amended only in respect to the voting rights of members, bonus and bonus reserve provisions, and lending powers of the Association: that said amendments were made pursuant to proposals by the Association.

That the exhibits attached hereto and made a part hereof, marked at the bottom of each sheet as Exhibit A, Exhibit B, Exhibit C, Exhibit D, Exhibit E, Exhibit F and Exhibit G, are full, true and complete copies of, respectively:

A—Application for Permission to Organize
B—Subscriptions to Shares
C—Petition for Charter
D—Charter E
E—Petition for Amendment to Charter E

EXHIBIT B

APPLICATION FOR PERMISSION TO ORGANIZE A FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, May 15, 1934.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD,
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIRS: The undersigned respectfully apply for permission to organize a Federal savings and loan association and show that—

(1) Applicants are citizens of the community stated in above date line and desire to form a local mutual thrift institution in which people may invest their funds and to provide for the financing of homes.

(2) Applicants show that they are persons of good character and responsibility and that in their opinion a necessity exists for such an institution in their community and that there is reasonable probability of its usefulness and success and that the same can be established without undue injury to properly conducted existing local thrift and home-financing institutions.

(3) Applicants further show that they are ready to submit such evidence as may be required by the Board or its organizer, or the Federal home loan bank, of the facts herein represented.

(4) Applicants agree not to represent themselves as authorized to organize such an association until this application is acted upon favorably by said Board or the chief executive officer of the Federal home loan bank of the district or a duly authorized organizer for the Board, and that upon such action they will proceed only in accordance with the provisions of Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and rules and regulations made thereunder.

PETITION FOR CHARTER

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, May 21, 1934.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD,
Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIRS: The undersigned respectfully petition for the grant of a charter to themselves, the associates, and successors, as a Federal savings and loan association, and show that:

1. Formal application for permission to organize such association was made and approved by W. F. Duffey, President of the Federal Home Loan Board of Los Angeles.

2. The required number of subscribers have been obtained subscribing the amount in par value of shares required and agreed to pay in cash upon the grant of a charter the amount required and the original subscriptions to such shares are forwarded herewith to be returned to petitioners upon the grant of a charter.

3. Petitioners show that they have complied in all respects with Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for the organization of a Federal savings and loan association.

4. Petitioners further show that no expense has been incurred in connection with the formation of such association by them chargeable to the association and that no money has been collected and that no expense will be incurred or money collected by them prior to the grant of a charter and that an organization committee has been formed of which the undersigned petitioners are the duly elected officers and that they will serve as such officers until officers of the association are elected and that they will proceed to organize the said association upon the grant of a charter.

5. Petitioners, in good faith, desire to promote thrift and home ownership in their community by the accumulation of funds for home financing in accordance with the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations made thereunder.

6. Petitioners request the grant of a charter under the name and style of United Federal Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach, or such other name as to the Board may appear to be appropriate.

7. Wherefore, petitioners pray that they, their associates, and successors, be incorporated and made a body corporate under said name and style with all powers, privileges, and immunities, and subject to such conditions and restrictions as are provided in said act and rules and regulations made thereunder.

CHARTER #426

Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

Whereas T. A. Gregory, J. S. Watts, and J. E. Gregory have filed in proper form their petition for a charter for themselves, their associates and successors, as a Federal savings and loan association and after consideration of same by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and upon all of the information before the Board it appears that said petition comes within the purview of the law and regulations made thereunder, therefore:

1. Said petitioners, their associates and successors are incorporated and granted this charter under the name and style of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to have and exercise all of the rights, privileges, and immunities, subject to such limitations and restrictions as are provided by law, to have perpetual succession until dissolved as is provided by law, and said association shall have full power to sue and be sued and to exercise the full powers of a corporation within the limits of the law.

2. The office of said association shall be at Long Beach in the county of Los Angeles, State of California.

3. The object of said association is to promote thrift and home ownership by providing a convenient and safe method for local citizens and others to save and invest money and by providing for the sound and economical financing of homes.

4. All shareholders of said association and all borrowers therefrom shall be deemed and held to be members thereof, and in all matters for action by the members each shareholder shall be permitted to cast 1 vote for each share held or subscribed but not exceeding 50 votes, and borrowing members shall be permitted to cast a vote whether they hold any shares or not. Voting may be by proxy, but no person shall cast by proxy more than 10 percent of the total vote eligible to be cast in the election.

5. Said association shall be under the direction of a board of directors of not less than 5 nor more than 15, elected from the membership of the association. Directors shall be elected for periods of 3 years, but provision shall be made for the election of approximately one-third of said board each year. In the event of a vacancy the board of directors shall fill the vacancy for the unexpired term. Said board shall elect a president, one or more vice presidents, a treasurer, and a secretary, but one person may hold any two offices. Said officers shall be responsible for the management of the association under the direction of the board of directors.

6. The capital of the association shall be unlimited and shall consist of shares of the par value of $100 each, which may be issued as subscribed and which may be repurchased by the association as is herein provided, and retired. The shares shall be transferable only upon the books of the association, upon terms approved by the board of directors. The association is authorized to issue the following types of shares:

(a) Installment thrift shares

Installment thrift shares shall be issued as subscribed and shall be payable in monthly installments by the subscriber or his successors or assigns at the rate of one-half of 1 percent of the amount subscribed until the payments and the dividends credited thereon are equivalent to the par value of the shares subscribed.

(b) Optional savings shares

Optional savings shares shall be issued from time to time as subscribed, and payments shall be made thereon at the option of the subscriber, his successors or assigns until the payments and the dividends credited thereon are equivalent to the par value of the shares subscribed.

(c) Prepaid shares

Prepaid shares shall be issued as subscribed upon the payment by the subscriber of a lump sum and such shares shall be permitted to stand until the dividends declared and credited thereon pay the same up to their par value.

(d) Full-paid income shares

Full-paid income shares shall be issued as subscribed upon payment in full of the par value thereof by the subscriber.

(e) Preferred shares

Preferred shares shall be issued only to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States for the benefit of the United States as subscribed and paid up by him.

7. On June 30 and December 31 of each year, after payment of all expenses or provision therefor, the board of directors shall credit to an undivided profits account an amount equivalent to one-half of 1 percentum of the total amount standing to the credit of installment thrift shareholders who have paid all installments on their accounts regularly without default for more than 60 days at any one time from the time the same were purchased by them or their predecessors in title and who have not requested the association to repurchase any part of such installment account. The board of directors may credit an additional amount to the undivided profits account sufficient to provide reasonable protection against contingencies over and above the provisions made in the reserve account for losses. Any sums necessary in the discretion of the board of directors may be taken from such undivided profits account provided that the same shall not be reduced below the amount required to pay the bonus herein provided for installment thrift shares. At each dividend date, before the declaration of a dividend, the board of directors shall transfer to the reserve account a credit equivalent to 5 percent of the earnings of the association, after provision for expenses, until said reserve account is equal to 5 percent of the total amount paid in on shares and if at any time said reserve account is below 5 percent of the amount paid in on shares, at least 5 percent of the earnings shall be transferred thereto before the declaration of any dividend, until said account is brought back to 5 percent of the total amount paid in on shares and said reserve account shall at all times be maintained for the purpose of absorbing any losses incurred by the association. After provision for all expenses and said undivided profits account as herein provided, and said reserve account as herein provided, the remainder of the profits for the period shall be declared and credited or paid on share accounts as a dividend, so that all shares in the association shall receive the same rate of earnings. In addition to the dividends herein provided, all installment thrift shareholders who pay their installment thrift share accounts from the date of subscription until the same become paid up, regularly without more than a 60-day default at any time and without the repurchase by the association of any part thereof, shall be paid a bonus in cash upon their shares becoming paid up, to be taken from said undivided profits account, equivalent to 1 percent per annum on the funds paid in by them on such installment thrift share accounts from the time the same are paid in until said installment thrift share accounts are paid up and such shareholders receive their cash bonus. All shareholders in said association shall have the same status as to assets of the same, except preferred shares, which have been issued to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States for the benefit of the United States and which shares shall be preferred as to the assets of the association, and in case of liquidation such preferred shares shall be retired at par before any payments are made to any other shareholders.

8. No call shall be made on the Secretary of the Treasury to subscribe on behalf of the United States to preferred shares in said association unless other shareholders of the association have actually paid in in cash and unless there remains to the credit of such other shareholders a total sum equivalent to the total amount subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, including such call. Receipts shall be issued to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States for payments made by him on subscriptions to preferred shares in the form as attached hereto, marked "Exhibit F" and hereby referred to and made a part of this paragraph, and such receipts shall be the evidence of the interest of the United States in such preferred shares to the extent of the amount so paid. Beginning 5 years from the time of the investment in such preferred shares by the Secretary of the Treasury, the association shall set aside one-third of its receipts from its investing and borrowing shareholders to be used for the purpose of the retirement of such shares, and from time to time, at least semiannually, such funds so set aside shall be paid to the Secretary of the Treasury as a credit on or to take up the receipts issued.

9. When installment thrift shares, optional savings shares, or prepaid shares shall become paid up the same may remain in the association and shall be treated in all respects as full-paid income shares, or the same may be exchanged for full-paid income shares. All types of shares issued by the association, except preferred shares, shall be represented by a share account book containing a certificate of the shares subscribed, except that full-paid income shares may be represented by a separate share certificate or a share account book containing a certificate of the shares.

10. The association shall have the right to repurchase its shares and pay to the holders thereof the value of the same and shareholders shall have the right to file with the association their written application to repurchase their shares, in part or in full, at any time and upon the filing of such written application to repurchase, the association shall number and file the same in the order received and shall, after 30 days from the receipt of such application to repurchase, either pay the holder the value thereof, in part or in full as requested, or apply at least one-third of the receipts of the association from its shareholders and borrowers to the repurchase of such shares in numerical order. Provided, however, that the board of directors shall have an absolute right to repurchase not exceeding $100 of any one share account in any one month in any order regardless of whether such shareholder has filed an application for repurchase or not, and provided further, that if any shareholder applies for the repurchase of more than $1,000 of his share account or accounts, he shall be paid $1,000 in order when reached and his application shall be charged with such amount as paid and shall be renumbered and placed at the end of the list of applications to repurchase and thereafter upon again being reached, shall be paid a like amount, but not exceeding the value of his account, and until paid in full shall continue to be so paid, renumbered, and replaced at the end of the list until paid in full. Shareholders filing written application for the repurchase of their shares shall remain shareholders until paid and shall not become creditors. Dividends upon the shares of any shareholders to the extent of the amount of the application to repurchase shall be discontinued while such shareholders remain upon a list to repurchase shares. In the event of the repurchase of any shares upon the application of a shareholder within 1 year of the date of 282 investment, the association shall retain a sum equal to one-half of the dividends declared on the amounts so repurchased, and in the event of the repurchase of any shares upon the application of a shareholder after 1 year but within 3 years of the date of the investment, the association shall retain a sum equal to one-fourth of the dividends declared on the amount so repurchased. On shares repurchased after 3 years from the date of investment the association shall pay the full amount paid in thereon, together with all dividends declared thereon up to and including the last dividend date but not exceeding the reasonable value thereof as determined by the board of directors. Upon the repurchase of shares, however, the association may determine, by vote of its shareholders, to charge a repurchase fee if any repurchase, withdrawal, membership, or like fee is allowed by the State law in the State in which the association is located, to be charged by building and loan, savings and loan, or similar associations, or cooperative banks, but no such fee shall be charged in excess of that allowed to be charged by such similar institutions under such State law, and in no case in excess of a sum equal to 2 percent of the par value of the shares subscribed, and in no case shall such fee or fees be charged to any one shareholder in excess of $25 except on full-paid income shares. If any repurchase fee is charged, the amount of the same shall be clearly indicated in each share certificate issued.

11. The association may lend its funds on the sole security of its shares and shall have a lien on such share account to secure such loan and in the event of a failure to pay such loan when due, the association may transfer funds from such share account in extinguishment of the debt, but loans on the sole security of shares shall not exceed 75 percent of the amount actually credited on such shares. Such loans shall not be made, however, when the association has applications to repurchase remaining on file for more than 30 days. The association may lend its funds on the security of first liens upon homes, or combination home and business property within 50 miles of its home office; provided, that not more than $20,000 shall be loaned on the security of a first lien upon any such property; except that not exceeding 15 percent of the assets of such association may be loaned on other improved real estate without regard to the said $20,000 limitation, and without regard to said 50-mile limit, but secured by first lien thereon. Any portion of the assets of the association may be invested in obligations of the United States or in the stock or bonds of a Federal home loan bank. No loan shall be made to an officer, director, or employee upon the security of a first lien upon real estate except for the bona fide financing of the home of such officer, director, or employee. The association may invest an amount not exceeding the total amount of its undivided profits and reserve accounts in real estate for its home office or a home office and for rental. No loan shall be made upon the security of a lien upon real estate except after the written signed appraisal of at least two persons selected by the board of directors of the property upon which the loan is to be made. The association may lend not exceeding 75 percent of the value upon the security of a home or a combination home and business property and not exceeding 50 percent upon the security of other improved real estate.

12. Loans on real estate shall be made by the association repayable in monthly installments sufficient to amortize the same, paying off interest and principal in not less than 5 years nor more than 20 years. The association may take a note, bond, or other instrument, legally sufficient in the territory where it is operated, to represent the indebtedness of the borrower, which shall require a monthly payment sufficient to amortize the debt in said period and said payments shall be applied first to the interest on the unpaid balance of the debt and the remainder to the unpaid principal of the debt, until the same is paid in full. Instead of such direct reduction loan, the association may require the borrower to subscribe an amount of shares equal to the amount of the loan and take a note, bond, or other instrument to mature upon the maturity of such account and require a monthly payment sufficient to pay all interest on the debt and estimated to mature said share account within the time specified, and in such case the association shall have a lien on such share account to secure the debt, and upon the maturity of the share account shall transfer the amount to the credit of the shares in extinguishment of the debt and cancel the security. The primary obligation shall be secured by a mortgage or other instrument constituting a first lien upon the premises securing the loan according to the best practices of the territory where the loan is made. Such loans may be paid off before maturity with interest not exceeding 90 days beyond the date of payment. It may make such charges for the use of its money or for the privilege of an advance or both as are permitted by special or general law of the State where it is located to be made by building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, cooperative banks, or similar institutions; such charges, however, shall not exceed those permitted under sections 4 and 5 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act. Loans on the sole security of the shares may be made in such form as the board of directors may determine and at an interest rate legal within the State. The association shall ascertain the total charges paid by the borrower, other than for the use of the money or for the privilege of an advance, and shall make and keep a record of the same and shall also make and keep a record of expenses incurred by the association in connection with the making of loans.

13. The association shall be economically organized and operated and no expense shall be incurred except such as is customary in the operation of properly managed local thrift and home financing institutions, and no expense shall be incurred in respect to the sale of the shares of the association by way of salary, commission, or otherwise in excess of the repurchase fee of the association, if any. No sales contract shall be made to extend for more than 1 year or for the sale of more than $1,000,000 of shares, and all such contracts shall be subject to the approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

14. The association shall have power to borrow money, but shall not borrow exceeding an amount equal to 10 percent of the amount paid in on its shares except from a Federal home loan bank, and it may pledge any part of its assets to secure such borrowings. In no event shall the association borrow more than an amount equal to 35 percent of the amount paid in on its shares.

15. The association shall at all times be subject to the provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, providing for Federal savings and loan associations, and to any amendments thereof, and to any valid rules and regulations made thereunder as the same may be amended from time to time.

16. The association shall not accept deposits in any form or use certificates of indebtedness of any kind except for borrowed money as herein provided, and shall not represent itself as a deposit institution; and payments made on shares shall be called share payments. The profits of shareholders shall be termed dividends and shall not be referred to as interest. All shares shall be nonassessable and shareholders shall not be responsible for any losses incurred by the association in any way beyond the loss of the funds actually paid in plus dividends credited thereto.

17. Minors, married women, and corporations may buy and hold shares in the association and it may repurchase their shares as other shares, thereby relieving itself of responsibility, provided such action is not in conflict with existing law. Two or more persons may hold shares in the association jointly or by joint and survivorship title unless prohibited by law.

18. The association shall have power to do such other things as may be incidental to or necessary for the accomplishment of the purposes of its incorporation as herein provided.

19. The bylaws adopted by the association shall provide for the management of the association within the provisions of the law and this charter and the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

20. The association may be liquidated, merged, consolidated, or reorganized, as is provided in the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

21. This charter, by a certified copy thereof under the seal of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be accepted as evidence of the corporate existence of said association.

I, ———, secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the charter of the ——— Federal Savings and Loan Association of ———, and that said association was incorporated and said charter granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, a quorum being present on the ——— day of ———, 193—.

PETITION FOR AMENDED CHARTER—Exhibit K

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD,
Washington, D. C.

The undersigned, pursuant to Section 9 of the Rules and Regulations for Federal Savings and Loan Associations, respectfully petitions the Board to issue an amended charter in the form of Exhibit K to the undersigned, prescribing the present name and 328 American Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as the new home office.

The undersigned, by its secretary, hereby certifies that the members at a regular annual meeting duly adopted the following resolution:

"Be it resolved, That the present charter of this association be amended to read in the form of Exhibit K of the Rules and Regulations for Federal Savings and Loan Associations effective December 1, 1936, prescribing the present name and 328 American Avenue, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as the new home office".

In witness whereof, the Secretary of the undersigned has hereunto affixed his hand and the seal of the undersigned this 20th day of January, 1937.

[CORPORATE SEAL] LONG BEACH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION,
By J. E. GREGORY,
Secretary.

CHARTER NUMBER 426

EXHIBIT K

Pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board hereby issues the following charter:

1. Name.—The name of the Federal savings and loan association hereby chartered (hereinafter referred to as the "association") is "Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association".

2. Office.—The home office of the association shall be located at Long Beach, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California. No office of the association shall be moved from its immediate vicinity except as may be provided in regulations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

3. Objects and powers.—The objects of the association are to promote thrift by providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes. The statute, this charter, and rules and regulations made thereunder provide for examination and supervision and at the same time for the protection of all private rights concerned, and shall be construed in keeping with the best practices of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States.

The association shall act as fiscal agent of the Government when designated for that purpose by the Secretary of the Treasury, under such regulations as he may prescribe, and shall perform all such reasonable duties as fiscal agent of the Government as he may require. The association may act as agent for any other instrumentality of the United States when designated for that purpose by any such instrumentality.

The association shall have perpetual succession and power to sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity; to have a corporate seal, affixed by imprint, facsimile or otherwise; to appoint officers and agents as its business shall require, and allow them suitable compensation; to have bylaws not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States, this charter, and rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, providing for the management of its property and regulation and government of its affairs; to wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate, or reorganize in the manner provided by law and rules and regulations made thereunder; and to conduct business in the territory of the United States except as otherwise limited in this charter. The association may purchase, hold and convey real and personal estate consistent with its objects, purposes, and powers; may mortgage or lease any real and personal estate; and may take such property by gift, devise, or bequest. Unless authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the association may not invest in an office building or buildings for the transaction of the business of the association an amount representing the cost of land and buildings in excess of the sum of its undivided profits and reserve accounts.

In addition to the foregoing powers expressly enumerated, the association shall have power to do all things reasonably incident to the accomplishment of its express objects and the performance of its express powers. The association shall have such powers as are conferred by law and shall exercise its powers in conformity with the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and all laws of the United States as they now are, or as they may hereafter be amended, and with the rules and regulations made thereunder which are not in conflict with this charter.

4. Members.—All holders of share accounts of the association and all borrowers therefrom shall be deemed and held to be members thereof. In the consideration of all questions requiring action by the members, each holder of a share account shall be permitted to cast one vote for each $100, or fraction thereof, of the participation value of his share account. A borrowing member shall be permitted, as a borrower, to cast one vote, and to cast the number of votes to which he may be entitled as the holder of a share account. No member, however, shall cast more than 50 votes. Voting may be by proxy. Any number of members present at a regular or special meeting of the members shall constitute a quorum. A majority of all votes cast at any meeting of members shall determine any question. The members who shall be entitled to vote at any meeting of the members shall be those owning share accounts and borrowing members of record on the books of the association at the end of the calendar month next preceding the date of the meeting of members.

5. Directors and officers.—The association shall be under the direction of a board of directors of not less than 5 nor more than 15, as determined and elected by the members. Directors shall be elected by ballot from the membership of the association, and a director shall cease to be a director when he ceases to be a member. At the first meeting of members of the association, directors shall be elected to serve until the first annual meeting and until their successors are duly elected and qualified. Thereafter directors shall be elected for periods of 3 years and until their successors are elected and qualified, but provision shall be made for the election of approximately one-third of the board of directors each year. In the event of a vacancy, including vacancies created by an increase by vote of the members of the number of directors within the limits hereinabove specified, the board of directors may fill the vacancy, if the members fail so to do, by electing a director to serve until the next annual meeting of the members, at which time a director shall be elected to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term. At its meeting, which shall be held as soon as practicable after the annual meeting of members, the board of directors shall elect a president, one or more vice presidents, a secretary, and a treasurer. It may appoint such additional officers and employees as it may from time to time determine. The offices of secretary and treasurer may be held by the same person, and a vice president may also be either the secretary or the treasurer. The term of office of all officers shall be 1 year or until their respective successors are elected and qualified; but any officer may be removed at any time by the board of directors. In the absence of designation from time to time of powers and duties by the board of directors, the officers shall have such powers and duties as generally pertain to their respective offices.

6. Share capital.—The share capital of the association shall consist of the aggregate of payments upon share accounts and dividends credited thereto less redemption and repurchase payments. The participation value in the share capital of each share account held by a member shall be the aggregate of payments upon such share account and dividends credited thereto less redemption and repurchase payments. Share accounts of $100 or multiples thereof may be known as investment share accounts, consisting of full-paid income shares. All other share accounts shall be known as savings share accounts. Payments upon share accounts shall be called share payments. Outstanding share accounts, if any, created pursuant to a previous charter of the association issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall continue to be known and treated as provided in the Federal charter in effect at the time each such share account was created, until exchanged for investment or savings share accounts. Share accounts may be issued for cash, or property in which the association is authorized to invest, and, in the absence of actual fraud in the transaction, the value of property taken in payment therefor, as determined by the board of directors, shall be conclusive. All share accounts shall be nonassessable, and no holder thereof shall be responsible for any losses incurred by the association beyond the loss of the participation value of his share accounts at the time the loss is determined.

7. Ownership of share accounts.—All share accounts shall be represented by share account books containing a certificate of membership and evidencing the participation value of the share account, except that investment share accounts may be represented by separate membership certificates. Share accounts may be purchased and held absolutely by, or in trust for, any person, including an individual, male, female, adult or minor, single or married, a partnership, association, and corporation. The receipt or acquittance of any member, including a minor person or a married woman, who holds a share account shall be a valid and sufficient release and discharge of the association for any payment to such person on any share account. Two or more persons may hold share accounts jointly in any manner permitted by law. Trustees and other fiduciaries, including, but not limited to, fiduciaries empowered to invest in first mortgages, may invest in share accounts. Share accounts shall be transferable only upon the books of the association and upon proper application by the transferee and the acceptance of the transferee as a member upon terms approved by the board of directors. The association may treat the holder of record of share accounts as the owner for all purposes without being affected by any notice to the contrary unless the association has acknowledged in writing notice of a pledge. The association shall not directly or indirectly charge any membership, admission, repurchase, withdrawal, or any other fee or sum of money, for the privilege of becoming, remaining, or ceasing to be a member of the association.

8. Power to obtain advances.—The association shall have power to obtain advances of not more than an amount equal to one-half of its share capital on the date of the advance. A subsequent reduction of share capital shall not affect in any way outstanding obligations for advances. The association shall not have power to obtain advances from any source other than a Federal home loan bank of more than an amount equal to 10 percent of its share capital on the date of the advance. The association may pledge or otherwise encumber any of its assets to secure its debts. The association shall not accept deposits from the public or issue any evidence of indebtedness except for advances. It shall not represent itself as a deposit institution.

285 9. Reserves, undivided profits, and dividends.—As of June 30 and December 31 of each year, after payment or provision for payment of all expenses and appropriate transfers to the reserve required below, and additional transfers to other reserve accounts, and provision for an undivided profits account, the board of directors shall declare as dividends the remainder of the net earnings of the association for the 6 months' period. All dividends shall be declared as of said dividend dates. The board of directors may declare dividends as of said dividend dates payable out of the amounts remaining from previous periods in the undivided profits account. Profits to holders of share accounts shall be termed dividends (except bonus payments) and shall not be referred to as interest. The association shall maintain the reserve required for insurance of accounts by sufficient credits on each dividend date. If and whenever the aggregate reserves of the association (less reserve for bonus) are not equal to 10 percent of the share capital, the association shall, at each dividend date, transfer to reserves (other than reserve for bonus) a credit equivalent to at least 5 percent of the net earnings of the association, until such aggregate reserves are equal to 10 percent of the share capital. Any losses may be charged against reserves. Dividends upon investment share accounts shall be promptly paid in cash as of the dividend date. Dividends on savings share accounts shall be credited to such share accounts on the books of the association as of the dividend date. All holders of share accounts shall participate equally in dividends pro rata to the participation value of their share accounts; provided that the association shall not be required to credit dividends on inactive share accounts of $5 or less. Except as provided above, dividends shall be declared on the participation value of each share account at the beginning of the dividend period, plus the share payments made during the dividend period (less amounts repurchased and noticed for repurchase and, for dividend purposes, deducted from the latest previous share payments), computed at the dividend rate for the time invested, determined as provided below. The date of investment shall be the date of actual receipt of such share payments by the association, unless the board of directors fix a date, not later than the tenth of the month, for determining the date of investment of payments on either investment or savings share accounts or on both types of share accounts. Share payments affected by such determination date, received by the association on or before such determination date, shall receive dividends as if invested on the first of such month. Share payments, affected by such determination date, received subsequent to such determination date, shall receive dividends as if invested on the first of the next succeeding month. All holders of share accounts shall be entitled to equal distribution of net assets, pro rata to the value of their share accounts, in the event of voluntary or involuntary liquidation, dissolution, or winding up of the association.

10. Bonus and bonus reserve.—In order to stimulate systematic thrift and to provide regular funds for the financing of homes, the members, by bylaw provision, may obligate the association to pay a cash bonus as follows:

(a) Short-term bonus.—If, after the adoption of the bonus plan, a member desiring a short-term bonus shall agree to make regular monthly share payments of any specified amount on a savings share account until the participation value thereof shall equal 100 times the agreed monthly payment, and if the agreed monthly payments shall be made each and every month thereafter until the participation value thereof shall equal 100 times the agreed monthly payment, without a delay of more than 60 days in the payment of any monthly payment and without any prepayment of more than 12 months, and if during such period no application has been made for repurchase of any part of such savings share account, the bonus shall be payable on the date on which the participation value of such savings share account shall equal or exceed 100 times the agreed monthly payment. The bonus rate on such short-term savings share account shall be one-half of 1 percent per annum and the amount of the bonus shall be determined as follows: Divide the dollar amount of each semiannual dividend declared on such savings share account by a figure equal to twice the annual rate of percent of such semiannual dividend declared. The amount of the bonus is the sum of the quotients obtained.

(b) Long-term bonus.—If, after the adoption of the bonus plan a member desiring a long-term bonus shall agree to make regular monthly share payments of any specified amount on a savings share account until the participation value thereof shall equal 200 times the agreed monthly payment, and if the agreed monthly payments shall be made each and every month thereafter until the participation value thereof shall equal 200 times the agreed monthly payment, without a delay of more than 60 days in the payment of any monthly payment and without any prepayment of more than 12 months, and if during such period no application has been made for repurchase of any part of such savings share account, the bonus shall be payable on the date on which the participation value of such savings share account shall equal or exceed 200 times the agreed monthly payment. The bonus rate on such long-term savings share account shall be 1 percent per annum and the amount of the bonus shall be determined as follows: Divide the dollar amount of each semiannual dividend declared on such savings share account by a figure equal to the annual rate of percent of such semiannual dividend declared. The amount of the bonus is the sum of the quotients obtained.

The members, by amendment of the bylaws, may abolish the bonus plan as to savings share accounts opened after the date of such repeal of the bonus plan.

Simultaneously with the declaration of each semiannual dividend after the adoption of the bonus plan, the board of directors shall transfer out of net earnings to an account designated "reserve for bonus" an amount, which, together with existing credits to such reserve, is sufficient to pay the bonus on all savings share accounts then entitled to participation in such reserve in accordance with the provisions of this section. The board of directors may transfer any excess in such reserve to the undivided profits account.

11. Redemption.—At any time funds are on hand for the purpose, the association shall have the right to redeem by lot, or otherwise as the board of directors may determine, all or any part of any of its share accounts on a dividend date, by giving 30 days' notice by registered mail addressed to the holders at their last address recorded on the books of the association. The association shall not redeem any of its share accounts when there is an impairment of share capital or when it has applications for repurchase which have been on file more than 30 days and not reached for payment. The redemption price of share accounts redeemed shall be the full value of the share account redeemed, as determined by the board of directors, but in no event shall the redemption price be less than the repurchase value. If a share account which is redeemed is entitled to participate in the reserve for bonus, the amount of such accrued participation shall be paid as part of the redemption price. If the aforesaid notice of redemption shall have been duly given, and if on or before the redemption date the funds necessary for such redemption shall have been set aside so as to be and continue to be available therefor, dividends upon the share accounts called for redemption shall cease to accrue from and after the dividend date specified as the redemption date, and all rights with respect to such share accounts shall forthwith, after such redemption date, terminate, except only the right of the holder of record to receive the redemption price without interest.

12. Repurchase.—The association shall have the right to repurchase its share accounts at any time upon application therefor and to pay to the holders thereof the repurchase value thereof. Holders of share accounts shall have the right to file with the association their written applications to repurchase their share accounts, in part or in full, at any time. Upon the filing of such written applications to repurchase, the association shall number and file the same in the order received and shall either pay the holder the repurchase value of the share account, in part or in full as requested, or, after 30 days from the receipt of such application to repurchase, apply at least one-third of the receipts of the association from holders of share accounts and borrowers, to the repurchase of such share accounts in numerical order; provided, that if any holder of a share account applies for the repurchase of more than $1,000 of his share account or accounts, he shall be paid $1,000 in order when reached, and his application shall be charged with such amount as paid and shall be renumbered and placed at the end of the list of applications to repurchase, and thereafter, upon again being reached, shall be paid a like amount, but not exceeding the value of his account, and until paid in full shall continue to be so paid, renumbered, and replaced at the end of the list. When an application to repurchase is reached for payment as above provided, a written notice shall be sent to the applicant by registered mail at his last address recorded on the books of the association, and, unless the applicant shall apply in person or in writing for such repurchase payment within 30 days from the date of mailing such notice, no payment on account of such application shall be made and such application shall be cancelled. The board of directors shall have the absolute right to repurchase not exceeding $100 of any one share account or accounts of any one holder in any one month in any order regardless of whether or not such holder has filed an application for repurchase. Holders of share accounts filing written application for repurchase shall remain holders of share accounts until paid and shall not become creditors. Dividends upon a share account, to the extent of the amount of the application to repurchase all or part thereof, shall be discontinued while such share account remains upon the repurchase list. The repurchase value of share accounts of the association shall be the participation value thereof.

13. Loans and investments.—The association may make loans to holders of share accounts on the sole security of their share accounts. To secure such loans the association shall obtain a lien upon, or a pledge of, the share account. Upon any default on any such loan, the association may, without any notice to or consent of the share account holder, cancel on its books share accounts pledged and apply such share accounts in payment on account of the loan. No such loan shall exceed 90 percent of the repurchase value of the share account securing such loan. No such loan shall be made when the association has applications for repurchase which have been on file more than 30 days and not reached for payment.

The association may also lend its funds on the security of first liens upon homes, or combination of homes and business property, within 50 miles of its home office; provided, that not more than $20,000 shall be loaned on the security of a first lien upon any property; except that not exceeding 15 percent of the assets of the association may be loaned on other improved real estate without regard to said $20,000 limitation, and without regard to said 50-mile limit, but secured by first lien thereon; and, provided further, that the association may lend, without the requirement of amortization of principal, not exceeding 50 percent of the appraised value of the security of a first lien upon improved real estate; but the aggregate amount of such loans and of all other loans made pursuant to this sentence, without regard to the $20,000 limitation and without regard to the 50-mile limit, shall not exceed 15 percent of the assets of the association, without the prior written approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The association, if converted from a State-chartered institution, may continue to make loans in the territory in which it made loans while operating under State charter. The association shall not make any loans to an officer, director, or employee, except loans on the sole security of share accounts owned by such officer, director, or employee, and except loans on the security of a first lien upon the home or combination of home and business property owned and occupied by such borrowing officer, director, or employee. The association may lend an amount not exceeding 75 percent of the value of the security of a home or combination home and business property, and may lend an amount not exceeding 50 percent of the value of the security of other improved real estate, provided that the association may lend a higher percentage of the value of any such security when authorized by the members of the association and by regulations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The association may invest without limit in obligations of, or obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by, the United States, in obligations of Federal home loan banks, and in other securities approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The association may also invest in stock of a Federal home loan bank.

No loan shall be made upon the security of real estate until at least two qualified persons selected by the board of directors shall have submitted a signed appraisal of the real-estate security for such loan. No loan shall be made when the borrower is required to pay to the association or to another person in connection with the loan any unreasonable or unlawful charge or fee. The association shall ascertain the total amount paid by each borrower, to it and to any other person in connection with the loan, and furnish to each borrower upon the closing of the loan a loan settlement statement, indicating in detail the charges or fees such borrower has paid or obligated himself to pay to the association or to any other person in connection with such loan, and a copy of such statement shall be retained in the records of the association.

14. Loan plan.—Loans on real estate shall be made on one of the following bases:

(a) Repayable in monthly installments, equal or unequal, beginning not later than 30 days after the date of the advance of the loan, sufficient to retire the debt, interest and principal, within 20 years; provided, however, that the loan contract shall not provide for any subsequent monthly installment of an amount larger than any previous monthly installment; and provided further, that in the case of construction loans the first payment shall not be later than 4 months after the date of the first advance.

(b) To the extent permitted by this charter, repayable within 5 years from date with or without any amortization of principal but with interest payable at least semi-annually.

The monthly payments required shall be applied first to interest on the unpaid balance of the debt and the remainder to the reduction of the debt until the same is paid in full. The primary obligation shall be secured by a mortgage or other instrument constituting a first lien or the full equivalent thereof upon the real estate securing the loan according to any lawful and well recognized practice which is deemed best suited to the transaction. In keeping with the best loan practices in the territory, the instrument securing a loan on real estate shall provide for full protection to the association and shall be recorded. It shall provide specifically for full protection with respect to insurance, taxes, assessments, other governmental levies, maintenance, and repairs. It may provide for an assignment of rents and for such other protection as may be lawful or appropriate. The association may pay taxes, assessments, insurance premiums, and other similar charges for the protection of its interest in the property on which it has loans. All such payments may, when lawful, be added to the unpaid balance of the loan. The association may require life insurance to be assigned to the association by its borrowers as additional collateral for real-estate loans. The association may advance premiums on any life insurance held as additional collateral for real-estate loans if the association has a first lien on the policy. Such premium advances may, when lawful, be added to the unpaid balance of the loan. The association may require that the equivalent of one-twelfth of the estimated annual taxes, assessments, insurance premiums, and other charges upon real-estate security, or any of them, be paid in advance to the association in addition to interest and principal payments on its loans so as to enable the association to pay such charges as they become due from the funds so received. The association shall keep a record of the status of taxes, assessments, insurance premiums, and other charges on all real estate on which the association has made loans or which is owned by the association. The board of directors shall from time to time determine the rate of interest, premiums, fees, and other charges to be made in connection with loans by the association. In fixing such charges full consideration shall be given to sound and economical home financing in the territory in which the association operates. Borrowers shall have the right to prepay their loans without penalty; except that when the amount prepaid equals or exceeds 20 percent of the original principal amount of the loan, not more than 90 days' interest on the amount prepaid may be charged, provided the loan contract makes provision for such penalty. All loans on the security of real estate shall be made in accordance with this section unless the Federal Home Loan Bank Board approves another loan plan upon application from the association for such approval.

15. Evidence of corporate existence.—This charter, or a certified copy hereof under the seal of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be evidence of the corporate existence of the association.

16. Amendment of charter.—No amendment, addition, alteration, change, or repeal of this charter shall be made unless such proposal is made by the board of directors of the association, and submitted to and approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and is thereafter submitted to and approved by the members at a legal meeting. Any amendment, addition, alteration, change, or repeal so acted upon and approved shall be effective, if filed with and approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, as of the date of the final approval by the members.

I, ———, Secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the charter of the ——— Federal Savings and Loan Association ——— issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, a quorum being present, on the ——— day of ———, 19——.

This, the ——— day of ———, 19——.

This cause coming on for setting for hearing on (1) plaintiff's motion for a preliminary injunction and to take testimony and evidence at the hearing thereof, (2) motion of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for a preliminary injunction on oral testimony, (3) motion of A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, to dismiss, and (4) motion of the plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing; Messrs Westover and Smith by Wyckoff Westover, Esq., appearing as counsel for the plaintiff; Messrs Thomas and Wallace by H. O. Wallace, Esq., appearing as attorneys for the Title Service Co.; Raymond Tremaine, Esq., appearing as attorney for defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis; Chas. K. Chapman, Esq., appearing as attorney for Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; James M. Carter,

U. S. Attorney, by Ronald Walker, Assistant U. S. Attorney, appearing as attorney for defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; F. Henry NeCasek, Esq., appearing in behalf of the Home Investment Co. of Long Beach:

Attorney NeCasek moves and presents a written motion ex parte to file a complaint in intervention for the ultimate purpose of securing an order of this Court for the reconveyance of 174 trust deeds now in the custody of the Clerk of this Court, deposited there by the Trustee, Title Service Co., a party defendant herein, said 289 trust deeds involving approximately $850,000. and there being no objections to said motion by counsel for the Title Service Co., defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis; Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator, etc., and the plaintiffs herein, the Court thereupon orders said motion granted and that the Complaint in Intervention be filed.

Attorney NeCasek now orally petitions the Court and presents a written petition pursuant thereto for an Order to Show Cause on defendants Amman as Conservator and the Title Service Co. why they should not issue reconveyances on the trust deeds now on deposit with the Clerk of this Court to which motion counsel for all parties state that such a petition should be adjudicated by a three judge court; whereupon, Attorney NeCasek advises the Court that the money in lieu of said trust deeds is available for depositing. Attorney Wallace informs the Court that if counsel for the Conservator will stipulate to reconveyance he will so instruct the Title Service Co. to issue same. The Court declines to make a ruling on the petition for an Order to Show Cause at this time and orders further hearing herein continued hereby to 3 P.M. today.

At 4:15 P.M. court reconvenes herein and all being present as before, the Court and counsel discuss the issues herein to be heard before a three judge court and it appearing that Albert Lee Stephens, Circuit Judge, Peirson M. Hall and Dave W. Ling, District Judges, will be the three judges to hear the question.

The Court, and counsel agreeing, orders hearing on the plaintiffs' Preliminary Injunction, motion of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for a preliminary injunction, motion of Ammann to dismiss, and motion of Defendant Fahey to quash service, notice of filing of such a motion is not waived by counsel for the plaintiffs.

Attorney Chapman presents a petition for bringing in third party defendants and there being no objections thereto, said petition is ordered granted and a third party complaint is ordered filed and that summons issue as requested. Counsel for all parties, except counsel for Ammann Conservator, join in said third party complaint.

Attorney Westover presents a motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing in which motion all counsel join except counsel for Conservator Ammann, and which motion is ordered granted over objections of counsel for Defendant Ammann, said preliminary injunction to expire 6 P.M., July 15, 1946.

Now, the Court considers the petition of Attorney NeCasek for an Order to Show Cause which is ordered granted and that service of a true copy be made upon Mr. Fahey by noon, tomorrow, July 2, 1946, said service to be air-mailed and registered to Mr. Fahey at 101 Indiana Ave., Washington, D. C.

At 6:30 P.M. court recesses in the trial of this cause.

Answer to: (1) plaintiff's complaint; (2) cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Title Service Company; (3) cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, and cross-claim of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

Filed July 1, 1946

296 Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, an Association, organized and existing under the laws of the United States of America, severing from its co-defendants and answering for itself alone, admits, denies and alleges as follows:

I

Answering Paragraph VII of plaintiff's Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in said Paragraph contained, except that said other defendants, John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, et al. on or about the 23rd day of May, 1946, caused to be delivered to certain officers of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association a document entitled "Federal Home Loan Bank Administration Order No. 5254", copy of which order is attached to this answer as Exhibit "B" and incorporated herein by reference and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. That said purported order contained no allegations of any specific facts whatsoever. Neither did it set forth any misconduct, errors, omissions or wrongful acts, as charged to said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by the said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

II

Answering Paragraph VIII of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph and in this connection alleges that said association was, and at all times has been, completely and fully solvent and able to pay all of its obligations, and in addition thereto, had a substantial surplus, reserves, etc. of approximately One Million Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,300,000.00). That said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, have never at any time asserted that said association was insolvent, but on the contrary, have admitted and repeatedly affirmed and stated both to the general public and to the members and creditors of said association, that it was fully able to pay all of its obligations in cash at any time upon demand. Notwithstanding which, said association was, without any notice or opportunity whatsoever to said association to correct any defects or to change any of its methods arbitrarily and summarily without notice seized from the possession of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its officers and management, by said other defendants.

III

Answering Paragraph IX of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in said paragraph contained and in this connection alleges that defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, as part of the scheme for the seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and of various other seizures and schemes, said defendant John H. Fahey, just four days before his unlawful and arbitrary seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles attempted to promulgate an order sealing the records and files of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and System from even the authority of the Courts, and the employees of said Federal Home Loan Bank System are by said rule prohibited even from answering a subpoena duces tecum from any Court. (See Federal Register, Mar. 27, 1946, Page 3187, Order No. 46-4948). The President, T. A. Gregory, of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, was a member of various committees by various associations of financial institutions throughout the State of California, which were seeking action because of the said defendant, John H. Fahey's unauthorized seizure of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and was instrumental in causing said other associations to raise funds to bring litigation against the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann for their said unauthorized and unlawful seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and was also instrumental in causing a Congressional Investigation of the said John H. Fahey and his said seizure of the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles to be conducted.

That each and all of said facts were known to the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and that the seizure by them of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was motivated by malice and vindicativeness and was also made with the intent to intimidate and coerce the said president, T. A. Gregory, from testifying at the said Congerssional Investigation and to intimidate and terrify the other financial institutions contributing to and about to bring the said litigation against the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and their unauthorized and unlawful seizure and confiscation of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

IV

Answering Paragraph X of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in said paragraph contained and in this connection alleges the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have dealt with said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's assets, bonds, notes, deeds of trust, cash and other securities to the extent of many millions of dollars with the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles 299 which they also arbitrarily and unlawfully seized and intermixed and co-mingled the assets of both said seized institutions purportedly transferring Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association assets to said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and purportedly lending and advancing money from said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to amounts and extents of many millions of dollars, exact details of which are at this time unknown to this answering defendant. That at the time of said seizure of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann had in their possession, or under their control, in the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, several million dollars of United States Government bonds and other assets belonging to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That the records, receipts, vouchers and other evidences of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles holding securities belonging to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association have all been seized and confiscated from possession of this answering defendant by the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann at the time when they unlawfully and arbitrarily seized and took over possession and control of this answering defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

V

Answering Paragraph XII of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations therein contained, but in this connection, alleges that inasmuch as said purported seizure and said purported appointment of said conservator were wholly and completely unconstitutional, illegal and void, said association's powers to transact business are not suspended thereby, nor is said association precluded from defending itself from the attacks of the other defendants thus made upon it.

VI

Answering Paragraph XIV of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations therein contained and that it is informed and believes and in this connection alleges that it was and is the intent of the said other defendants to destroy the identity of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by merging it with and into various other financial organizations and thereby work the destruction of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association before recourse can be had to the Courts of the United States for a fair and impartial trial and hearing as to the validity, constitutionality and authority of said other defendants in their said arbitrary and unlawful seizure of the assets and property of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

VII

Answering Paragraph XV of plaintiffs' Complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations therein contained, and it is informed and believes and therefore alleges said defendants, John H. Fahey and/or A. V. Ammann, and their various deputies, employees, and assistants, have dealt with all of the property of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, as if they were said association itself, have paid out its money, made loans from its assets, collected, or attempted to collect on its notes, deeds of trust, bonds, rentals and other income producing assets and have attempted to pledge, hypothecate, encumber and otherwise part with its assets as securities for loans, advances, and borrowings by said defendants. That the amounts, nature and details of each and all of said transactions are fully and completely within the knowledge of the said defendants John H. Fahey and/or A. V. Ammann and their various deputies and assistants and are but slightly and vaguely known to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan 301 Association, and that all information concerning such transactions has been refused to said association by said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and all of them.

VII

Answering Paragraph XVI of said complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in said paragraph contained, except that it denies that any of the paying out, disbursements or actions of the said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and their various deputies and assistants were for lawful purposes or were authorized and in this connection, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association alleges that the said defendant John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann were completely without any authority, right, title, interest or ownership whatsoever in or to any and all of the assets of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and that each and every act that the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have attempted or purported to perform in connection with the assets of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is, and are, illegal, invalid and void. That the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, have no authority, jurisdiction or power over the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or its assets, and that every act which they have performed, they have done as trespassers and wrong-doers, who were able by threats, intimidation and show of force to unlawfully, wrongfully and improperly wrest possession and control of said assets and said association from the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

VIII-A

Answering Paragraph XVII of plaintiffs' complaint, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in that paragraph contained and in this connection alleges that at all 302 times since the inception of said association in 1934, it has uniformly progressed and grown in total amount of deposits, earnings, surplus, and in all other ways, and has, during said period, grown from an initial total capital of approximately $5000.00 to a total capital of in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) at the time when said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann launched their attack upon it with the intent to destroy it.

Said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges that during the first week of said destructive campaign of said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, they were enabled to, and did, reduce its assets and total capital by nearly 25% or by approximately Six Million Dollars ($6,000,000.00).

Answer of Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of Cross Claim in Interpleader of Title Service Company.

Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States, severing itself from its co-defendants, and answering Cross Claim in Interpleader of Title Service Company, for itself alone, admits, denies and alleges as follows:

IX

Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association alleges that it is an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America. That each of its member shareholders own a mutual undivided interest in it and the said association has its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California. That said association is a citizen of the State of California, and is a resident within the territory of the Central Division of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of California.

X

Answering Paragraphs I and II of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations in said paragraph contained and joins in said allegations on its own behalf.

XI

Answering Paragraph III of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations therein contained, and in this connection also alleges that all of its detailed records, accounts, books, files, documents, memorandums, and other sources of information concerning the said escrows, loans, sales, contracts, collections, etc., have been seized by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann wrongfully and without authority, and by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann withheld and concealed from said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XII

Answering Paragraph IV of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all the allegations contained in said paragraph and in this connection alleges that said purported appointment of said conservator, defendant A. V. Ammann, and said purported seizure of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's assets by said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, were each and both of them void, unconstitutional, illegal and invalid and conferred no right, title or authority of any nature whatsoever upon the said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, or on either of them, and that such purported appointment creates a lien, cloud and encumbrance on the title to and ownership of each and all of said eight thousand (8,000) parcels of real property so situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as aforesaid.

Answering Paragraph V of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations in said paragraph contained and alleges that each and all of the one hundred seventy-four (174) notes and deeds of trust securing the same were, and are, owned by, and the property of, this defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and were illegally, unlawfully and wrongfully seized and wrested from its possession and control by the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, et al. and that demand has been made, and is hereby made, by the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association that the said defendant and cross-complainant, Title Service Company, return and deliver each and all of said notes and deeds of trust to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, who is rightful owner thereof and entitled to the possession thereof, and that such demands and requests by the said A. V. Ammann create a lien, cloud and encumbrance on the title to and ownership of each and all of said eight thousand (8,000) parcels of real property so situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as aforesaid.

XIV

Answering Paragraph IX of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations therein contained and in this connection alleges that each and all of said notes and deeds of trust in said paragraph IX described, and all of the same, were in the possession and are under the control and direction of this answering defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, when, on or about the 20th day of May, 1946, they were forcibly and illegally and without any authority whatsoever wrested and seized from it by the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, et al., all as herein more particularly alleged.

XV

Answering Paragraph XI of said cross-claim of defendant Title Service Company, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits all of the allegations in said paragraph contained and in this connection alleges that it, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and only it, is authorized, empowered and entitled by the terms of each and all of said deeds of trust to make any substitution of trustees under any or all of the same as therein provided.

That defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, et al, have illegally, unlawfully and wrongfully, by physical force and violence, seized and wrested possession of said notes and deeds of trust from the rightful owner of the same, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges, that defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are attempting to exercise in the name of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or in the name of A. V. Ammann and/or the name of John H. Fahey, as purported conservator, or under other purported authority, documents, substituting and transferring the trustee named in said Deed of Trust, Title Service Company, and have attempted to, purporting to, name and designated some other person, firm or corporation, whose name or names are at present unknown to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as trustee thereunder.

Said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann's purpose and intent in purporting to make such substitution is an effort to avoid submitting themselves to the jurisdiction of this Honorable District Court and litigating therein the validity, legality and constitutionality of their unlawful and invalid acts in seizing and wresting physical possession and control of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association from its duly 306 elected and qualified officers, management and board of directors.

That the person or persons, individual or individuals, firm or firms, corporation or corporations, which said defendants Fahey and A. V. Ammann will attempt to substitute for the said named trustee, Title Service Company, will be, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges, the mere alter ego or dummy of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and will not impartially and fairly exercise the functions of trustee holding title to real property for the benefit of various borrowers and the named beneficiary Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XVI

That by said attempted substitution of trustees as hereinbefore alleged, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are attempting to convey, transfer, allocate and alter the ownership and legal title to more than 8,000 separate parcels of real property, each and all of which are situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, within the jurisdiction of this Honorable District Court. That the determination of the validity or invalidity of such transfer or purported conveyance of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann of necessity involves an adjudication as to the ownership and title of said 8,000 parcels of real property so situated in Los Angeles County, California. That in attempting to make such substitution and in collecting, or attempting to collect, payments on the said notes and deeds of trust, said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are usurping and trespassing upon the ownership of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in and to the said notes and deeds of trust and the said 8,000 parcels of real property, title to which is conveyed thereby. That the said invalid and unconstitutional appointment of the said defendant A. V. Ammann by the defendant John H. Fahey, and the illegal, unauthorized and invalid acts of the defendants 207 John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, in connection with each and all of said 8,000 deeds of trust, creates a lien, cloud and encumbrance upon the title to, and ownership of, each and all of said notes with an aggregate face value in excess of Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00) and also creates a lien, cloud, encumbrance upon the said 8,000 parcels of real property, all situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and clouds and impairs and encumbers the ownership and title of each and all of the same.

Answer of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to cross-claim in interpleader of Robert H. Wallis

Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States, severing itself from its co-defendants, and answering Cross Claim in Interpleader of Robert H. Wallis, for itself alone, admits, denies and alleges as follows:

XVII

Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association alleges that it is an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America. That each of its member shareholders own a mutual undivided interest in it and the said association has its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California. That said association is a citizen of the State of California and is a resident within the territory of the Central Division of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of California.

XVIII

Answering Paragraphs I, II, III and IV of said cross-claim in interpleader of Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraphs.

Answering Paragraph V of said cross-claim in interpleader, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph and in this connection alleges that its President is T. A. Gregory. That said T. A. Gregory actively participated in various committees of the stockholders and members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which committees were about to institute litigation against the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, as defendants, in an effort to set aside the unauthorized and unlawful seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann. That the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association owns stock in the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and owns a proportionate share of the surplus of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That said stock and surplus aggregate a total value of approximately Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($400,000.00). That the said seizure by the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was without justification or authority whatsoever and was done for the purpose of intimidating the President of said association, T. A. Gregory, and for the purpose of preventing his testifying at a Congressional Investigation of the seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and also for the purpose of intimidating various other savings and loan associations located in Southern California, which said associations were also owners of stock in the seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and were contributing to litigation against John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

XX

Answering Paragraph VI of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph.

Answering Paragraph VII of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph, and in this connection alleges that said cross-claimant Robert H. Wallis has performed varied, extensive and valuable services for it in Washington, D. C. in connection with said Congressional Committee Hearings and in numerous and various other ways and places.

XXII

Answering Paragraph VIII of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph.

XXIII

Answering Paragraph IX of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph and in this connection alleges that the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have made statements to each and all of the member shareholders of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and have made numerous public statements to the Press and otherwise seeking to use said appropriation of said Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00) as a justification for their illegal and unwarranted seizure of said association and its assets and in such statements and releases, have distorted and misstated the resolutions and other actions of said Board of Directors of said association, by which said appropriation was made.

XXIV

Answering Paragraph X of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations contained in said paragraph and asks that this Honorable Court, as applications be made to it apportion and distribute said sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00) to the various firms of attorneys endeavoring to prevent the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann from carrying out their malicious intent to destroy said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XXV

Answering Paragraph XI of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits the allegations therein contained and in this connection alleges that the only demands and instructions made by it upon the said defendant Robert H. Wallis are that he fulfill and obey the duties imposed upon him by the purposes for which said check was delivered to him, to-wit: to provide for the defense of said association from the malicious and vindicative attacks and attempts to destroy it by the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and their various deputies.

XXVI

Answering Paragraph XII of said cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association alleges that it also will join in the applications to this Honorable Court for proper allowances and distributions of this said fund for the expenses, including attorney fees, Court costs, transcript charges and various other expenses required and necessary in the efforts to restore said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to its lawful management and remove it from the unlawful usurpation and illegal control of the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, et al.

XII For a separate and distant cause of cross-claim against John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann, and the remaining named defendants, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a corporation, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America, alleges:

I

(a) This action arises under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

(b) This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following Acts of Congress of the United States of America:

(1) "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933", as amended—Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 132 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 128)

(2) "Federal Home Loan Bank Act", as amended—Public No. 304—72nd Congress (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes 725 and amendments thereto)

(3) "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479—73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 847, 48 Statutes 1246 and amendment thereto), and

(4) Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.

(c) This action involves amounts in controversy in excess, exclusive of interest and costs, of the sum of Three Thousand ($3,000.00) Dollars, to-wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00).

(d) This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the enforcement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and Amendment V, thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, the Plaintiffs respectfully request the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d, and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant Title Service Company, a corporation, is a citizen of the State of California, defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, are, defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California. The amount in controversy in the principal action, exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), and defendant is informed and believes said sum amounts to approximately Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00). The amount involved in defendant Title Service Company's Cross-claims exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), to-wit:

is approximately the sum of Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00.)

(e) That the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a mutual thrift association, a citizen of the State of California, with its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of 313 Los Angeles, State of California, and is, therefore, a resident of the district wherein this Honorable Court is situated.

(f) This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d, and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant Robert H. Wallis, is a citizen of the State of California, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are, this defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California.

That the amount involved in defendant Robert H. Wallis' cross-claims exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) to, wit: is approximately in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 118 of the Federal Judicial Code, Certain of the defendants cannot be found within the district of this Honorable District Court of the United States and the action involves claims to, and the removal of clouds, liens and encumbrances upon over Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) worth of real and personal property situated and located within the District and jurisdiction of this Honorable Court.

II

That the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have not only seized unlawfully, arbitrarily and without authority, possession and control of over Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) Dollars of real and personal property, all situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, but have in the period elapsing since said seizure, dealt with said seized property in the following and other manners:

(a) During a run on said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's institution, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann paid out from the assets of said institution to member shareholders 314 thereof sums in excess of Six Million Dollars ($6,000,000.00); that said run was caused and created by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, maliciously and intentionally in an effort to destroy the said institution.

(b) Have sold United States Government bonds seized by them in said association and belonging to it to the extent of several million dollars, the exact amount of which is unknown to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings Loan Association.

(c) Have undertaken and attempted to release and cause to be reconveyed over Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars ($800,000.00) worth of notes and deeds of trust, which deeds of trust convey title to one hundred seventy-four (174) parcels of real property situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

(d) Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges that the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have assigned, transferred, and set over to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which they had also unlawfully and arbitrarily seized, now designated and called by said defendants, as the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco (formerly the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland), approximately five to six million dollars in face value worth of notes (each and all of which notes are payable at Long Beach, California) and deeds of trust belonging to and owned by this defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which were among the assets unlawfully and wrongfully seized by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann from the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That the assignments of said notes and trust deeds purportedly made thereunder by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are invalid, illegal and void.

(e) That each and all of the notes and deeds of trust seized by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann from the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, aggregating above twelve Million 315 Dollars ($12,000,000.00) in unpaid balance and approximately 8,000 in number, conveyed separate parcels of real property situated, as required by law within fifty (50) miles of the main office of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, to defendant and cross-claimant interpleader, Title Service Company, a California corporation. That all of said notes are payable in Long Beach, Los Angeles County, California, and the makers of said notes, and the trustors on said deeds of trust are all residents of said Los Angeles County, California. That said notes and deeds of trust have various clauses and provisions in them authorizing a conveyance of said legal title to said real property from Title Service Company, having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as trustee to another, different, or substituted trustee, said conveyance, according to said provisions, being authorized to be made only by the beneficiary of said deed of trust, to-wit: the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, in furtherance of their efforts to destroy and break up the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and to dissipate, merge and disperse its assets and business have, and are attempting to, execute conveyances of said legal title, thus conveyed and vested in the said Title Service Company, a corporation, as trustee, to other and different trustees, the name or names of which are at present unknown to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That said dfendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are without authority or power to make such substitution and if the same be done, or be attempted to be done, by them, it will cloud, impair and encumber the titles to said 8,000 parcels of real property situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore 316 alleges that defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are attempting and purporting to make such conveyances of such title to real property by substituting trustees as herein alleged on all of the notes and deeds of trust, the possession of which they unlawfully and wrongfully seized from defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, including the titles to the notes and deeds of trust having a face value of approximately five million dollars ($5,000,000.00), which the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have purportedly and without authority attempted to assign and transfer to the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles purportedly merged by said defendants into the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and now styled by said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann as the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

That the unconstitutional, unlawful and unauthorized appointment by the Defendant John H. Fahey of A. V. Ammann, as purported conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and the unlawful seizure by him of the physical possession and control of the said Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) of assets, of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and the depriving of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its sixteen thousand (16,000) shareholder members, of the possession and control of said assets, constitutes an encumbrance, lien, or cloud upon the title to the real property and the personal property belonging to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its sixteen thousand (16,000) shareholder members, all of which Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) of assets, consisting of real property, notes and trust deeds on real property, bonds, securities, equipment, and cash, have at all times herein mentioned been, and are now, wholly within the State of California, and wholly within the jurisdiction of this Court.

317 That the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have checked out and drawn against bank balances, assets of and belonging to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in excess of a million dollars and have made deposits in the said accounts and withdrawals from said account in amounts aggregating many millions of dollars. That each and all of said deposits and withdrawals have been made within the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That each, all and every act of the said defendants

John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and their various deputies, assistants, servants, agents, employees and subordinates, have been performed by them upon, concerning and dealing with real and personal property of an aggregate value of in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00), all situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, within the jurisdiction of this Honorable District Court, and having a permanent local situs in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California. That the said defendants are trespassers upon real property belonging to the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association situate within the County of Los Angeles, State of California, aggregating in value more than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00), and comprising several parcels which said real property is owned by said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in fee simple. That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have forcibly, unlawfully and without authority seized and wrested from defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association notes, securities, bank accounts and other personal property aggregating in value of many millions of dollars. That each and all of said real and personal property was so forcibly and unlawfully seized and is now wrongfully and unlawfully detained by the said defendants, and each and all of them, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

318 That upon determination of the issues presented in this litigation, this Honorable District Court can enforce its process directly against the real and personal property physically within its jurisdiction and grant relief concerning it, which is the objective sought in this cross-claim and in the plaintiffs' complaint and the various cross-claims of the inter-pleading defendants.

That this action is a proceeding to remove encumbrances, liens and clouds upon the title to real and personal property and for the returning of assets, the physical possession of which has been unlawfully seized by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and the legal title to which is in, and owned by defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, each and every parcel of which property, both real and personal, is physically within the jurisdiction of this Honorable District Court and approximately Eight Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($850,000.00) of which is physically in the Registry of this Honorable District Court.

That such incidental relief as is sought by way of injunction is purely and simply to prevent said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann from destroying, merging and dissipating the said real and personal property, which they have thus seized from defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, while they the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are wrongfully and unlawfully in possession of said seized real and personal property, and from placing it beyond the power of this Honorable Court to restore said real and personal property to its true and rightful owner from whom it was wrongfully seized by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

That the determination of this action and the issues involved in it directly and vitally affect the financial welfare of over sixteen thousand (16,000) member shareholders of said association, whose aggregate shares 319 exceed twenty-two and one-half million dollars ($22,500,000.00) and directly and vitally affect and concern the title to and the ownership of the homes of more than 8,000 borrower members, the title to which homes have been by them conveyed in trust under deeds of trust with an aggregate unpaid total balance of approximately Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00). That the vast majority of the said individual sixteen thousand (16,000) shareholder members and all of said eight thousand (8,000) borrowers members, whose total interests exceed Thirty-four Million Dollars ($34,000,000.00) are residents of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, within the jurisdiction of this Honorable District Court of the United States.

III

That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized by its President T. A. Gregory and its present Board of Directors and management during the year 1934, at which time, its total capital was Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00). That ever since said date, it has been under the direction, operation and management of the same Board of Directors with the exception of one director who was added to said Board several years ago. That said management and board of directors have been re-elected at each and every annual meeting by the shareholder members from the time of the organization in said company in 1934 to the present time. That under said management and direction, it has progressively grown from said capital of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) until at the time of said unauthorized and unlawful seizure, on the 20th day of May, 1946, by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, its total assets were in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00). That it has uniformly paid a dividend to its member shareholders, during each and every year, from the time of its organization to the time of its seizure, said dividends varying from a maximum of four percent (4%) per annum to a minimum of two and one-half (2½%) percent per annum.

320 That at the time of said seizure of said association by said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, it had accumulated a surplus reserve and undivided profits (above all obligations of said association) amounting to approximately One Million Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,300,000.00). Said association was, at the time of said seizure and at all times prior thereto from the date of its organization to the time of said seizure had been fully solvent, liquid and sound and was then and at all times prior thereto had been able to pay all of its obligations in full in cash at any and all times and in addition to the said surplus reserves of undivided profits of approximately One Million Three Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,300,000.00) had also accrued profits of increased value of securities, government bonds, and other assets of several hundred thousand dollars. That attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference and marked Exhibit A is a full, true and correct copy of the last statement of condition of said association prior to the time of its seizure by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

IV

That on the 18th day of May, 1946, defendant John H. Fahey caused his deputies and agents, examiners for the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration to commence an examination of the affairs of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That at no time, during said examination, or at any time, subsequent thereto, did said defendant John H. Fahey, or any of his deputies, employees, agents or examiners, make any statement, written or oral, to the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor to any of its officers, management or directors, complaining of any irregularity of any of the affairs of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or ordering any changes in its methods of doing business, nor directing it or instructing it to cease or change any practices, nor in any other way indicating, stating or outlining any fault, error or 321 mistake in the said records, affairs and business of said association, nor did the said defendants, or any of them, make any preliminary or interlocutory orders, directions, or suggestions of any nature or sort whatsoever of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, nor to any of its management or directors.

V

That said association, as hereinbefore alleged, was fully solvent and had a large surplus. That no defects in its capital structure, assets, methods of conducting its business, or any other nature whatsoever, exist. That said association, as is shown by its record of growth, from Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) in 1934 to Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) twelve years later, in 1946, was soundly and brilliantly managed and directed. That in all manners, its records, books and accounts, affairs and business were regularly, safely and properly conducted, operated and managed.

VI

That on Monday, the 20th day of May, 1946, defendant A. V. Ammann, with various other persons accompanying him, whom the said defendant stated were his employees and deputies, all purporting to act under the authority of the defendant John H. Fahey, entered the home offices of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in Long Beach, Los Angeles County, California. That said defendant A. V. Ammann orally announced that he had been appointed by the defendant John H. Fahey, as Conservator for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that he had thereby taken possession of said association and its assets. That he then and there refused and declined to state any reason, ground and/or causes for his so seizing this said institution and its assets and stated that an order had been entered in Washington, D. C. authorizing him to make such seizure. That he stated that no order of any Court whatsoever, or other judicial process, had 322 been taken and that he needed no such Court order or process. That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's President, T. A. Gregory at first declined to surrender possession of said association and its assets and was then and there threatened by the said A. V. Ammann with criminal prosecution for violation of the laws of the United States and resisting an officer of the United States.

That said President T. A. Gregory then and there demanded and requested receipts or other acknowledgement of delivery of the said assets of said association, exceeding in value Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) and that despite and notwithstanding repeated demands for such receipts and acknowledgements of delivery, said defendant A. V. Ammann declined and refused and one month after the time of said seizure, still declines and refuses to give any such receipts, or acknowledgements.

That said seizure and every part of the same was and is in violation of, and contrary to the provisions of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

That the property thus seized by the said defendant A. V. Ammann included over Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000.00) in cash; over One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($150,000.00) in bearer bonds; approximately Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00) in notes and deeds of trust conveying real property situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California; approximately Ten Million Dollars ($10,000,000.00) United States Government Bonds; several hundred thousand dollars worth of real property owned by said association in fee simple, all situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and also included the records, books, files, papers, memorandums and documents, credits, receipts, notes, certificates and all other papers of said association. That said seizure and every part of the same was contrary to and in violation of provisions of the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

323 That ever since the time of said seizure, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and various other defendants purporting to act under their authority and as their subordinates and agents, have remained in said illegal and unlawful possession and control of the said association and its assets, cash, premises, books, documents, files, etc. and during the month that has elapsed since said seizure said defendants have dealt with and purported to carry on the business of said association, have paid out over Six Million Dollars ($6,000,000.00) of its assets in a run which occurred immediately after said defendants' seizure, have pledged between five and six million dollars of its notes and deeds of trust as collateral for loans made to said defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, have attempted to convey and transfer the title to 8,000 parcels of real property upon which said association was beneficiary in deeds of trust with an aggregate value in excess of Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00) have withdrawn bank accounts belonging to said association in excess of One Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($1,500,000.00); have sold, pledged and otherwise disposed of millions of dollars worth of United States government bonds owned by said association. That said defendants are so continuing unlawfully and without authority to operate and manage the affairs of said association and to deal with its assets, loans and business at their pleasure.

That the only authority, justification or rights which said defendants claim or assert for all of their acts herein complained of are orders made by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann themselves and by their various agents, employees and subordinates, purportedly authorizing them to do the acts herein complained of.

Said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and each and all of them, have, at all times, admitted and asserted to the general public and have communicated in writing to the sixteen thousand member share-324 holders of said association that the said association was and is liquid, solvent and sound and was and is able to pay all of its obligations in full in cash upon demand.

VII

That the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was one of the twelve of such banks existing throughout the United States and had its offices in the City of Los Angeles, State of California. That one of the requirements of the statutes authorizing the existence of Federal Savings and Loan Associations, such as the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is that such association shall hold stock in and be a member of Federal Home Loan Bank. That on or about the 23rd day of November, 1944, the then president of the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Mr. M. M. Hurford died. That one of the members of the Board of Directors of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was T. A. Gregory and was also President of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That upon the death of the then president M. M. Hurford of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, James Twohy, who was then governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, with his offices in Washington, D. C., and who was one of the deputies of, and a close friend of, the defendant John H. Fahey, aspired to the Presidency of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That C. E. Berry, who was Vice-President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and had served said institution since 1934 was elected President of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles by the Board of Directors. That under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, the approval of the said defendant John H. Fahey is required before a President elected by the Directors of any Federal Home Loan Bank can take office. That various disputes and controversies arose between the defendant John H. Fahey and the Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, that said C. E. Berry was three times elected President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles by the 325 Directors and such election was unanimously confirmed by all of the stockholders of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, but the said defendant John H. Fahey persistently refused to approve the said election of the said C. E. Berry as President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and refused to give any reasons for so doing. That various committees were appointed from the stockholders in said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and from the various building and loan and savings and loan associations throughout the State of California. That said President T. A. Gregory of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was a member of certain of said committees and was in active and frequent contact with the said defendant John H. Fahey in connection with the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles matter. That defendant John H. Fahey unable to dictate to the directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles finally, on the 29th day of March, 1946, without authority or justification whatsoever and without ever giving any reason therefor, with the assistance of defendant A. V. Ammann, unlawfully and arbitrarily seized all of the assets, securities, affairs and business of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles which at the time of said seizure had assets in excess of Forty-three Million Dollars ($43,000,000.00). That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association owned stock of the face value of Three Hundred Sixty Thousand Dollars ($360,000.00) and owned a proportion of the undivided surplus of approximately Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00), all in the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, thus seized by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann. That upon the same day, said seizure of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann attempted and purported to merge Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, with its Forty-three Million Dollars ($43,000,000.00) of assets into and with Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland having assets of about Nine Million Dollars ($9,000,000.00) and named the bank, thus seized and merged, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. That by said seizure and merger, the defendants John J. Fahey and A. V. Ammann claimed to have terminated the existence of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, have discharged all of its officers and directors and ended their existence as such officers. That a Committee of the stockholders of the thus seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was formed and one of the committeemen for said committee was President T. A. Gregory of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That said committee was raising funds from the stockholders of said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles for the purpose of instituting legal action against the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann to call them to account in the Federal Courts of the United States for their unlawful, arbitrary and destructive acts in connection with the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That the said defendant T. A. Gregory was active for many months in Washington, D. C. in seeking a Congressional Investigation of the acts of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann in their seizure and general conduct of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles matter. That the efforts to secure a congressional hearing were successful and a date was set for said hearing. That the efforts to raise funds to call John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann to account in the Federal Courts were bearing fruit and attorneys had commenced work and a Complaint instituting said action was about to be filed. That said matters and all of the same were known to defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and in an effort to prevent said T. A. Gregory from testifying at said Congressional hearing and to intimidate all other Federal Savings and Loan Associations throughout Southern California and to prevent the bringing of said action to the Federal Courts concerning their, (the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann), seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of

Los Angeles, and as a calculated step to destroy 327 Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, without justification or right whatsoever therefor, also unlawfully and wrongfully seized it, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in expectation and anticipation of the acts of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, had on the 8th day of May, 1946, adopted a resolution appropriating the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00) to its attorneys to be used to defend it from the attackes of the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann. That said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association anticipated that if it were seized, it also would be instantly merged into some other association as the said defendants had done in their seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

That said association is informed and believes [redacted] therefore alleges that said merger would have [redacted] carried out by said defendants, except for the restraining order obtained upon the institution of this action and issued by this Honorable District Court.

VIII

That the said defendants, John H. Fahey and his various subordinates, have adopted rules and regulations prescribing for themselves their own conduct in making seizures, conducting hearing as to whether the seizures they have already made were properly made and in various other ways setting forth their own rules by which they are supposed to conduct themselves.

That defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, having received no definite statements of any reasons for its seizure prior to said seizure and being unable to ascertain any factual grounds for said seizure in the said order No. 5254, made a demand upon said defendants for a more definite statement upon the grounds upon which said seizure had been made by 328 said defendants. That receiving no answer to said demand for statement of causes for its seizure, said association, in an effort to ascertain why said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann had seized and confiscated it and its assets, made a request for a hearing by the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann. That after making said request, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association received a document entitled Statement of More Definite Grounds for Appointment of Conservator for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That said document was signed by one of the deputies of the said defendant John H. Fahey. That subsequent to the making of the demand and subsequent to the demand for statement of grounds for seizure and request for hearing by said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, to wit: on or about the 12th day of June, 1946, The Select Committee for Investigation of Executive Agencies, which exceed their authority, (a committee of the House of Representatives of the United States) conducted its hearing in Washington, D. C. inquiring into the unauthorized and unlawful seizure by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann of Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and the unauthorized and unlawful seizure of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That at said hearing in response to Congressional subpoenas, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and Harold Lee, governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and Kenneth G. Heisler, general counsel of said system, all testified. That the testimony of said defendants, and each and all of them, completely and decisively demonstrated that they have already prejudged and decided the question of the seizure by them of this defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That Harold Lee, governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System stated "I don't think Mr. Gregory can ever get it back from that institution" (meaning thereby that Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would never be returned by said defendants John H. Fahey 329 and his aides, regardless of what evidence was produced.) That the defendant John H. Fahey stated in substance that T. A. Gregory, President of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association should never have been granted a charter for a Federal Savings and Loan Association and that he could not get a charter for a State Savings and Loan Association.

That by their Order No. 5309, the said defendants have pretended to hold a purported hearing at which some person, whose name they have not yet seen fit to disclose, is to be authorized to take testimony in Los Angeles, California, which testimony is to be sent to the defendants John H. Fahey and his subordinates for them, to, at some time and place and manner undisclosed by them, decide for themselves whether or not they were justified in their own acts committed by themselves in seizing and attempting to destroy Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That the conduct of said defendants, and each and every act by them, including the method and manner of their seizure and conduct of the business of said association since it was seized and their testimony at the said Congressional hearing conclusively prove the outcome of their pretended hearing before it is conducted. That they have already determined for themselves that their past conduct has been absolute perfection.

Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges that the malice, vindicativeness and spite which has motivated said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann in their every act in connection with the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will be continued in their pretended hearing and that they will use such hearing and the publicity that they intend to promote in connection therewith for the purpose of further destroying and undermining public confidence in the said 330 association and its management and in efforts to create further and additional runs and to further destroy, dissipate and waste the assets and business of said association. That if they are permitted by this Honorable Court so to do, they will, by, and at, such pretended hearing cause irreparable and great harm, damage and destruction to the business, reputation, confidence and good will of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That government officials, such as these defendants, exercising the highest authority of the United States of America, who have conclusively demonstrated by their own testimony under oath, the malice and vindicativeness which are motivating their acts, should not be permitted to be the judges at their own hearing of their own acts.

That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is under the Constitution of the United States entitled to a fair and impartial tribunal, such as this Honorable District Court to hear, determine and pass upon the questions involved between it and the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and their various deputies and employees.

IX

That the Acts of the Congress of the United States under which said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann purport and claim to have acted, no where attempt or purport to delegate or grant to the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann the authority which they claim to have exercised in both the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles seizure and destruction and the seizure and attempted destruction of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That in the delegation by said acts of powers to adopt rules and regulations, no where is there any attempt to authorize the said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, to place themselves above and beyond the reach of all Courts, nor to authorize them without notice, or process of any sort whatsoever, at their whim and pleasure, to seize and destroy completely solvent properly managed, and properly conducted, financial institutions, such as the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles with its forty-three million dollars ($43,000,000.00) in assets and the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, with its record of growth in twelve years from five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) to twenty-six million dollars ($26,000,000.00). That each, every and all acts of the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and the orders, rules, regulations, directives and decrees, purportedly issued by them, are repugnant to, contrary to, and violate the provisions of, both the Fourth and Fifth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States of America. That each, and all of said acts, rules, regulations, directives and orders of said defendants, and each and all of them, are unconstitutional, illegal and void.

X

That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have dealt with, paid out, taken in, conveyed, transferred, assigned and generally dealt with the twenty-six million dollars ($26,000,000.00) of assets which they seized from the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. This action is primarily for return of the balance of said assets remaining in the hands of said defendants and ancillary and incidental thereto, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association requests an accounting by said defendants, and each of them, for (1) a detailed and itemized, specific statement of the amounts of money, bonds, securities, notes and deeds of trust, contracts and real and personal property taken by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann from it by said illegal and unlawful seizure, and (2) an itemized and detailed statement and accounting as to what the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have done with such of the said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings 332 and Loan Association's property and assets as they are unable to return to it.

XI

That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by resolution, duly made and adopted by its Board of Directors, appropriated the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00) to its attorneys to be used by them for defense and resistance of said association against the malicious, vengeful and unauthorized attacks upon it which it knew would be made by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and in furtherance of said appropriation, it caused to be issued to the said Robert H. Wallis, one of its attorneys, a cashier's check for Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00).

described in Cross-claim for interpleader of said Robert H. Wallis on file in this action, and now before this Honorable Court.

That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have no interest in, title to, or claim upon, said cashier's check and the funds it represents, and that the said check and the said funds are held by the said Robert H. Wallis for the purposes for which they were appropriated.

That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have, and are, using the fact of the making of said appropriation as a pretext to justify their malicious seizure of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and are seeking to prevent said Robert H. Wallis from using said funds for the purpose for which they were appropriated by said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XII

That defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges, that it was, and is, the intention of the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, unless prevented and restrained by this Honorable Court from so doing, to merge and dissolve and com-ingle the assets, cash, securities, notes, deeds of trust, real property and other properties and assets of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association into and with various other financial organizations in an effort to break up and dissipate this association, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its membership and organization by forcing its members to become members of other financial institutions or associations and to accept in lieu of their present membership in defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association interest shares or certificates in other financial corporations, associations or institutions, the names of which are as yet unknown to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That when the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann seized, confiscated and destroyed the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, as herein elsewhere alleged, as part of their said plan and scheme of destruction of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann purported to merge it and its forty-three million dollars ($43,000,000.00) in assets into the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, and to transfer the said assets so merged to the new bank, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, which said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann claimed they had created as the successor to the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That by such merger, the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann pretended to have discharged and terminated the authority of the Board of Directors and elected officers of the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and pretended and purported to have caused all of the stockholders of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles without any consent or action whatsoever on said stockholder's part to have become stockholders of and members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. The defendant Long Beach 334 Federal Savings and Loan Association alleges that the same general plan or scheme of destruction and merger as was used by defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann in the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles confiscation was, and is, intended by them as their plan to dispose of this defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has no plain, speedy, adequate or other remedy at law and unless said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are prevented and restrained by this Honorable Court from carrying out their plans of destruction and merger, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its shareholder members, property and assets will suffer great and irreparable damage from the acts of said defendants, and each and all of them.

Wherefore, defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prays judgment against the defendants, and each and all of them, as follows:

1. That the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and all other defendants, be ordered and directed to return to defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its officers and directors, each, every and all parcels and pieces of the real and personal property, records, files, books and every other thing whatsoever, seized by them from said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

2. That the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and all other defendants, be ordered and directed to make, execute and deliver to defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a detailed, itemized and specific statement and list, particularly setting forth in detail each and all of the cash, securities, notes, deeds of trust, contracts, bonds, books, records, files, accounts and real and personal property, and every other thing whatsoever, which they 335 seized and took from the said defendants Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

3. That the possession, management, control and operation of the business of said association be ordered by this Honorable Court returned by said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and all other defendants to said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its officers and management.

4. That said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann disclose and account with defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as to all transactions, dealings, disbursements, and other acts of said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann in connection with, or upon said property and assets of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which they have seized as hereinbefore alleged.

5. That each and every act, order, decree, directive or other action of the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, including the purported appointment of said A. V. Ammann as Conservator and his acts as such, be declared unconstitutional, illegal and void by this Honorable Court.

6. That orders be made enjoining and restraining the said defendants, and each and all of them, from making any transfers, assignments, conveyances, mergers or other disposition of the assets, securities, cash, properties, of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, except such as may be made under the approval and authorization of this Honorable Court.

That said defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, and their deputies and employees, and each and all of them, be enjoined and restrained from any further destructive actions against said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and particularly from any hearings before themselves, with particular reference to the purported hearing said defendants have set for July 3rd, 1946.

336 That defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann be ordered and enjoined to cease and desist from all further attacks upon, or interference with the management, business and affairs of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

7. That this Honorable Court issue an order to show cause to each and all of said defendants requiring them to show cause upon specified dates why preliminary injunctions should not be made enjoining and restraining them, and each of them, during the pendency of this action, from doing any of the acts from which defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prays relief in this action, and that such preliminary injunctions be continued in force during the pendency of this action and on final judgment that each and all of said injunctions be made permanent.

8. That the said notes, deeds of trust, money, payments, etc., including those deposited or hereafter to be deposited, in the Registry of this Honorable Court, and including the eight thousand ($8,000) which defendant Title Service Company was unable to deposit, be ordered, adjudged and decreed to be the property of, and to belong to, defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

9. That said notes, deeds of trust, money, property, and each and all of the same, be ordered, adjudged and decreed by this Honorable Court to be delivered to said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by any and all other defendants who may have physical possession or control of the same.

10. That the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have no right, claim or demand to said check for Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00) (or the fund it represents) deposited by defendant Robert H. Wallis in the Registry of this Honorable Court; that upon application to it that this Honorable Court order and direct the payments of various portions of said check and the fund it represents towards the expenses 337 including attorney fees, Court costs, transcript charges and various other expenses necessary and required to defend said association from the attacks of said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann.

11. That defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Asseociation recover its costs and expenses incurred herein;

12. And for such other and further relief as may seem just and proper to the Court in the premises.

Charles K. Chapman,
CHARLES K. CHAPMAN,
Attorney for Defendant and Cross-Claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Third party complaint (for return of property. Accounting and for declaratory relief)

Filed July 1, 1946

347 Plaintiffs have filed against the defendants John H. Fahey, et al, and also against the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a Complaint for return of property, for injunction and for declaratory relief and for account, a copy of which complaint is hereto attached and marked Exhibit "A".

I

(a) This action arises under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00), without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

(b) This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following Acts of Congress of the United States of America:

(1) "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933", as amended Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 132 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 128)

(2) "Federal Home Loan Bank Act", as amended Public No. 304—72nd Congress, (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes 725 and amendments thereto)

(3) "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479 73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 847, 48 Statutes 1246 and amendment thereto, and

(4) Regulations, rules and directives purportedly
348 made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said acts.

(c) This action involves amounts in controversy in excess exclusive of interests and costs, of the sum of Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000.00) to wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00)

(d) This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00), wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the enforcement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and Amendment V thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, the Plaintiffs respectfully request the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d, and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant Title Service Company, a corporation, is a citizen of the State of California, defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are, defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California. The amount in controversy in the principal action, exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), and defendant is informed and believes said sum amounts to approximately Twenty-Six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00). The amount involved in defendant Title Service Company's Cross-claim exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), to wit: is approximately the sum of Twelve Million Dollars ($12,000,000.00)

(e) That the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a mutual thrift association, a citizen of the State of California, with its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is, therefore, a resident of the district wherein this Honorable Court is situated.

(f) This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d, and e, of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant Robert H. Wallis, is a Citizen of the State of California, defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are, this defendant is informed and believes, citizens of the District of Columbia, which is other than the State of California.

That the amount involved in defendant Robert H. Wallis' cross-claims exceeds Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) to wit: is approximately in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00)

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 118 of the Federal Judicial Code. Certain of the defendants cannot be found within the district of this Honorable District Court of the United States and the action involves claims to, and the removal of clouds, liens and encumbrances upon over Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00) worth of real and personal property situated and located within the District and jurisdiction of this Honorable Court.

II

Defendant and third party plaintiff, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is a mutual thrift association organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States and having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is a citizen of, domiciled in, and a resident of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

That the defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was, and is a Federal Home Loan Bank organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States with its principal place of business in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, domiciled therein and a resident thereof.

Defendant and third party plaintiff is informed and believes and therefore alleges:

350 (a) That the original defendant, John H. Fahey, et al., claims and purports to be the Federal Home Loan Bank commissioner exercising such authority as is conferred by law upon such commissioner.

(b) That the defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland is a Federal Home Loan Bank existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States having a place of business in the City of San Francisco, State of California, and also having its principal place of business in the City of Los Angeles, State of California.

(c) That the defendant, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco is a Federal Home Loan Bank existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States, having a place of business in the City of San Francisco, State of California, and having its principal place of business in the City of Los Angeles, State of California.

That due to the facts and circumstances hereinafter alleged, defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is uncertain as to the exact status of the defendants, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and their principal places of business but that defendant and third party plaintiff alleges that one of the three defendants Federal Home Loan Bank, ie., Portland, San Francisco, or Los Angeles, has many millions of dollars of assets owned by, and belonging to, defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

III

That prior to the 29th day of March, 1946, the defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles had in its possession and control as custodian and trustee for defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association approximately five to six million dollars in United States government bonds, many of which were bearer bonds. That defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was and is the owner of Three Thousand Four Hundred and Seventeen (3,417) shares of the capital stock of the defendant, Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each with a total par value of Three Hundred Forty-One Thousand and Seven Hundred Dollars ($341,700.00). That as the owner of such stock, defendant and thirty party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association also owned a fractional undivided share in the surplus, reserves and other assets of said defendant, Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which share of said surplus defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges amounted to approximately Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000.00).

That on or about the 29th day of March, 1946, the defendants in the principal action, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, purported and attempted illegally, and without authority and without right or justification whatsoever, to seize and merge the defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which then had total assets of approximately Forty-three Million Dollars ($43,000,000.00) into and with the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, which defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is informed and believes and therefore alleges had assets of approximately Nine Million Dollars ($9,000,000.00).

IV

That said original defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, purported to and claimed to have merged and dissolved the identities of defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland into a new institution consisting of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco under the management and direction of the former officers and directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and that said original action defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, by their various orders and decrees attempted and purported to make defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association a member of, a stockholder in, and connected with the purported Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

That defendant and third party plaintiff, Long 352 Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has never surrendered its stock certificates or other rights in the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, nor has it in any other way participated in the affairs or business of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, or the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

V

That defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is informed and believes and therefore alleges that each and all of the acts of the original defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann in attempting to seize and destroy the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, merge it into the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and create the new entity Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, were, and are, illegal, void, unconstitutional and beyond the power and authority of said original defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and each of them.

VI

That the President of the third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is T. A. Gregory, who was also a member of the Board of Directors of defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That he was extremely active among the stockholders of said seized Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles in their resistance to the said unlawful and unconstitutional and arbitrary acts of original defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, in making said seizure of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles as a result and consequence of which the said original defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, on the 20th day of May, 1946, unlawfully, arbitrarily, illegally and without right or authority so to do physically seized possession of defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its securities, assets and property, which were then worth in excess of Twenty-six Million Dollars ($26,000,000.00).

VII

That the said original defendant, John H. Fahey, attempted and purported to appoint the original defendant, A. V. Ammann as conservator for defendant and third party plaintiff, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That by such seizure and confiscation of the property, files, records, receipts and assets of the said defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach

Federal Savings and Loan Association, the said defendants, John H. Fahey, and A. V. Ammann, obtained possession of and control of all of the receipts, acknowledgments of delivery and other evidences of title to and ownership by the said defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of the said Three Thousand Four Hundred and Seventeen (3,417) shares of the capital stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, of the approximately five to six million dollars in bonds then in possession of the defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco or one or all of said defendants.

That the seizure of said receipts from the possession of third party plaintiff and defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is why more specific data cannot be alleged in this complaint as to the exact amount, serial numbers and designations of the United States government bonds hereinbefore referred to.

VIII

That since his purported appointment as conservator, the defendant A. V. Ammann, and the defendant John H. Fahey have transferred, assigned, sold, conveyed, delivered and otherwise dealt with many millions of dollars worth of notes, deeds of trust, bonds, securities, assets and property of the defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, possession and control of which they unlawfully and wrongfully obtained by the said unconstitutional seizure. That defendant and third party plaintiff is informed and believes and therefore alleges that they, the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, have made transactions with the defendants, Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, and 354 Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, and with each and all of them, or with one or more of them, in which the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann have withdrawn into their own possession all or part of the said five to six million dollars in United States government bonds which were originally held by the said defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and which were owned by, and the property of, defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and have also sold, assigned, transferred and delivered some five to seven million dollars in face value of notes and deeds of trust to one or more of the defendants, Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, the makers of which notes are each and all domiciled in, and residents of, the County of Los Angeles, State of California, that the deeds of trust securing each and all of said notes convey the title to many thousands of parcels of real property, each and all of which are situated in the County of Los Angeles, State of California. That the trustee on each and all of said deeds of trust is Title Service Company, a California corporation, having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and that each and all of said notes and deeds of trust are made payable at the home office of said defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

IX

That the defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, purport to act as the successors of defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and now have the physical possession and control of the said five to six million dollars in bonds and said five to seven million dollars in notes and deeds of trust, all of which they hold as custodian for and as trustee for the true owner of said notes and deeds of trust and said bonds, to-wit: the defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That each and all and every act, transaction, assignment, transfer and conveyance of the original defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann with and to the third party defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, and Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, are and were illegal, void and conveyed no title, authority or ownership whatsoever, and did not convey or transfer any right or title of defendant third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

XI

That a bona fide controversy and dispute exists between defendants and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and third party defendants, as follows:

Defendants, and each of them, claim that they hold the property of defendant and third party plaintiff, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association under the authority of and for the account of defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann and defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association claims that such property, and each and all of the same, is owned by and belongs to it, and that it is entitled to the immediate possession thereof.

That a further controversy and dispute also exists in that third party defendants claim that defendant and third party plaintiff is a member of and stockholder of and connected with defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association contends that it is still a member of, stockholder of, and connected with, third party defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. That each and both of said contentions of defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and of defendants are conflicting and irreconciliable and cannot both be correct.

Wherefore, defendant and third party plaintiff,
356 Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prays judgment, against the defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, and Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, as follows:

1. That said defendants, and each of all of them, account with defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach

Federal Savings and Loan Association, for and as to each, every and all assets, bonds, notes, deeds of trust, security, and other prorperty belonging to said defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which is now or has ever been in the possession, custody or control of said defendants, or any of them.

2. That this Honorable Court order said defendants and each and all of them to return and deliver to defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, each, every and all of its securities, bonds, notes, deeds of trust, and other property in the custody or order the control of the said defendants, or each, or any of them.

3. That this Court adjudge and declare which of said defendants, if any, is the Federal Home Loan Bank in which defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association owns three thousand four hundred and seventeen (3,417) shares of the capital stock, and that this Court adjudge and declare the amount of surplus owned by defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in whichever Federal Home Long Bank this Court determines it to be a stockholder.

4. That this Court adjudge and declare that each and every transfer, assignment, conveyance, transaction of said original defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann concerning property of defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, with and to the third party defendants Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, were, and are, unauthorized, illegal and void, and conveyed no title or interest whatsoever.

357 5. That this Honorable Court make its declaratory judgment adjudging and declaring which of the three third party defendants, Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, is actually in existence and has the property and assets of defendant and third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

6. That defendant and third party plaintiff recover its costs of action incurred herein.

7. And for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just and proper in the premises.

Charles K. Chapman,
CHARLES K. CHAPMAN,
Attorney for defendant and third party plaintiff, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Order setting the 15th day of July 1946, for hearing, by court composed of three judges, of the plaintiffs' motions for preliminary injunctions to restrain the merging or commingling of assets and to restrain the holding of administrative hearing, and continuing temporary restraining order in force

Filed July 1, 1946

From reading the Verified Complaint, Affidavits, Pleadings, Motions, Records on file herein, and

It appearing therefrom and otherwise, that there is reason to believe that the defendants, or some of them may dissipate and break up the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its membership shares, and organization, by merging, consolidating, reorganizing or uniting said Association, or commingling the said Association's assets, membership shares, or members with other organizations, corporations, associations or institutions, and that there would thereby be caused immediate and irreparable injury, loss and damage to the plaintiffs, and other shareholder members of said Association; and

It further appearing that the plaintiffs in said
378 action have made and/or submitted to the Court, the following:

1. Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Enjoin and Restrain the defendant from commingling, merging, consolidating or reorganizing the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its assets with other institutions; and

2. Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the defendants from holding an Administrative Hearing; and

It further appearing to this Court that both of said motions for injunction involve the restraining, enforcement, operation, execution or setting aside in whole or in part, of an Act of Congress, upon the grounds that such Act, or a part thereof, or Rules or Regulations made thereunder is, or are, repugnant to the Constitution of the United States of America, and for good cause shown;

Now therefore, it is hereby ordered, that the plaintiffs' motion for preliminary injunction re restraining the defendants from merging the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and the plaintiffs' motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing, together with all other Motions in this matter, remaining unheard and undecided, which have heretofore been noticed for July 1, 1946, be, and the said Motions, and each of them is and are hereby continued to and set for hearing by a Court composed of three judges, to a time commencing at 2:00 o'clock P.M., on the 15 day of July 1946, in the Courtroom of the Honorable Peirson M. Hall, Judge of the United States District Court, in the Federal Building, at Los Angeles, California.

It is further ordered that all such documents shall be filed herein, in quadruplicate for consideration by a Court composed of three judges.

It is further hereby ordered, upon the findings above made, and for the reasons above set forth, that the Temporary Restraining Order heretofore made on the 27th day of May, 1946, restraining the defendant from consolidating, merging or commingling the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or its assets be, and it hereby is continued in full force and effect, until the hearing of, and until the final determination of the said Motion for Preliminary Injunction restraining against so merging, or until further Order of this Court.

Dated at Los Angeles, this 1st day of July 1946.

Motion for temporary restraining order to enjoin the holding of an administrative hearing
Filed July 1, 1946

Come now, the Plaintiffs, in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a Temporary Restraining Order to Enjoin and Restrain the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of their agents, employees, servants, Conservators, hearing officers, and subordinates, and each and all of them from, directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until the hearing and final determination of the now pending Motion of these plaintiffs for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing, or until further Order of this Honorable Court, from proceeding with, holding, or attempting to hold any hearing or 384 hearings, pursuant to Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or at all, to determine, or attempt to determine, adjudicate, or attempt to adjudicate, any of the questions, issues, or matters, which are now, or may hereafter, be pending before this Honorable Court in the above entitled action without the further written order of this Honorable Court being first had and obtained.

This Motion is made upon the grounds, that unless restrained from so doing, the defendants, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and the defendant, A. V. Ammann, his purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through their representatives, agents, subordinates and unnamed hearing officers, propose to hold a purported Administrative Hearing, commencing on July 3, 1946, pursuant to their own Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and proposed to take such testimony as they see fit for submission to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and to John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration for determination by himself, as to whether or not he, himself, acted properly and within his authority and jurisdiction in having appointed his co-defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in having authorized, condoned, consented to and approved the seizure, without prior notice or prior hearing, of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars of assets.

That the provisions of the Federal Acts, under which the above named defendant and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration purport to act, and the rules, regulations and directions purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all such Federal Acts, are unconstitutional and repugnant to the Constitution of the United States and Amendments IV and V thereof, and the attempt to delegate legislative and judicial authority to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and its Administrator and Commissioner, the defendant, John H. Fahey, was ineffectual, incomplete and improper and unconstitutional attempt to delegate such judicial and legislative authority.

That the said proposed administrative hearing would not be conducted in a fair and impartial forum for the hearing of the matters in controversy, because the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Administrator, in passing upon, adjudicating and determining the propriety and validity of his own acts and the acts of his subordinates in the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, performed and done pursuant to his own direction and authority, would not be a fair and impartial adjudicator, as the Defendant; John H. Fahey and other members of his Staff in the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration have demonstrated by their actions and statements, that they will be influenced in such adjudication by bias and prejudice, and that they have already decided and determined the issues upon which they propose to hold said administrative hearing.

That the questions proposed to be heard and determined by such Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at the said purported hearing, to wit: the question "as to why the Conservator should not have been appointed and why an order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, discharging the Conservator" are questions involving the constitutionality of the rules, regulations and acts or parts thereof, under which said Conservator was allegedly appointed and which same questions are here raised in this litigation now pending before this Honorable Court and should properly be heard by a Court composed of Three Judges, pursuant to the provisions of 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code.

That these parties, Plaintiffs, are not parties to 386 said purported administrative hearing, and that there are various other parties to this present pending litigation, to wit: interpleading parties, who are not parties to said purported administrative hearing, yet whose rights and interests will be seriously affected by any attempted or purported decision or determination which might be so allegedly made by the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, Administrator, or Chairman of the Board, or which might be made or attempted to be made by any person in said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration or its agents, employees, servants, subordinates, or hearing officers.

That the holding of said purported administrative hearing, the constitutionality of which is placed in question by this pending action, would constitute a multiplicity of actions, be an encroachment and infringement upon the jurisdiction and authority of this Honorable Court, to hear and determine the questions, including the constitutional questions raised by this pending action and would cause immediate and irreparable damage and injury to these Plaintiffs and to the interests of the other approximately 16,000 shareholder members in the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and would injure and damage the good-will and going concern value of said Association and its shareholder members, and the resultant publicity might start again a "run" of withdrawals from said Association, which might even exceed the "run" of withdrawals caused by the seizure of said Association by said defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator, which said "run" within a comparatively short time, caused withdrawals in excess of Six Million ($6,000,000.00) Dollars.

This Motion is made and based upon the Verified Complaint, the Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of this Administrative Hearing, the Plaintiffs' Summary Statement of Pertinent Facts In re: Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing, the excerpts from the testimony of these 387 defendants and others given under oath before the Select Committee of the House of Representatives, while holding a hearing investigating the Acts of Executive Agencies, which have exceeded their authority, upon Complaint of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and upon the Affidavits, Points and Authorities, Papers, Pleadings, Records and Files in this action.

Dated this 21st day of July, 1946.

Affidavit of Wyckoff Westover in Support of Motion for temporary restraining order to restrain the holding of administrative hearing

Wyckoff Westover, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is a member of the firm of Westover & Smith, Attorneys of Record for the Plaintiffs herein;

That on Friday, June 14, 1946, at about 4:30 P.M., there was served upon the firm of Westover & Smith, a Notice of Motion to Dismiss the above entitled action made upon behalf of the defendants, A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that attached thereto, among other documents was a photostatic copy marked Exhibit "E" of what purports to be Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

That neither the Plaintiffs, nor your affiant have ever been notified of the issuance of said purported 389 Order No. 5309; and that this was the first time that your affiant ever saw said Order No. 5309, or a copy thereof.

That from the reading of the photostatic copy of said purported Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, it appears that the said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Board of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator, and Director thereof, or otherwise, and the said A. V. Ammann, defendant, as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and/or otherwise, propose or contemplate the holding of an so-called hearing at Room 510, Chester Williams Building, 215 West Fifth Street, Los Angeles, California, on Wednesday the 3rd day of July, 1946, commencing at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time, one of the defendants in this action, to wit:

The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California, is invited to appear and show cause "why the Conservator should not have been appointed and why an Order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration discharging the Conservator."

That from the reading of said purported Order No. 5309, it would appear that the decision of said question is to be made by the same persons, to wit: the defendant, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and/or as Administrator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or his Conservator, A. V. Ammann, or appointee, and as such would simply be, a determination by himself, to wit: John H. Fahey, as to whether or not he, himself, John H. Fahey, acted properly and within the authority and jurisdiction of his office as Admin strator of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration in having appointed his co-defendant, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in having authorized the seizure without prior notice of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its $26,000,000.00 of assets.

That the questions proposed to be heard and determined by such Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at the said purported Administrative Hearing proposed to be held commencing July 3, 1946, involve the constitutionality of the Rules, Regulations and Acts or parts thereof, under which said Conservator, A. V. Ammann, was allegedly appointed and the same constitutional questions are here raised in this litigation, now pending before this Honorable Court, and are set to be heard by this Honorable Court composed of three judges, under the proceeding to be had, pursuant to the Provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code.

That the Plaintiffs herein, have heretofore on June 20, 1946, duly filed their Notice of Motion for Preliminary Injunction to Restrain the Holding of this said Administrative Hearing, which said Motion for Preliminary Injunction has been duly set by this Honorable Court for Hearing to be held before a Court composed of three judges, as required by the Provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of the Judicial Code, which said Hearing is to be held on the.....day of....., 1946, which is a date subsequent to July 3, 1946; and

That unless temporarily restrained from so doing, the defendants, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as Administrator of the Home Loan Bank Administration, and the defendant, A. V. Ammann, his purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by and through their representatives, agents, subordinates, and un-named hearing officers will proceed to hold the said purported Administrative Hearing, commencing on July 3, 1946, and may determine among themselves, as to whether or not they acted properly and whether or not it was within their authority and jurisdiction to have appointed A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in having authorized, consented to, and condoned the seizure without prior notice or hearing of the Long 391 Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and its $26,000,000.00 of assets; and

That the holding of said purported Administrative Hearing, the constitutionality of which is placed in question by this pending action, would constitute a multiplicity of actions, would be an encroachment and infringement upon the jurisdiction and authority of this Honorable Court to hear and determine the questions, including the constitutional questions raised by this pending action, and would cause immediate and irreparable damage and injury to these plaintiffs, and to the interests of the other shareholder members in the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, who approximate in number 16,000.

That the hearing on these Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary injunction to Restrain the Holding of said Administrative Hearing would be a hearing upon a moot question, unless a Temporary Restraining Order is issued to restrain the holding of said proposed Administrative Hearing, until after the final determination and adjudication of the Plaintiffs' Motion for Preliminary Injunetion to Restrain the Holding of said Administrative Hearing.

Further your affiant sayeth not.

Restraining order re holding of administrative hearing
Filed July 1, 1946

Upon the reading of the Verified Complaint, Affidavits, Documents, Points and Authorities, Records and Pleadings on file herein, and it appearing that there is reason to believe that the defendants, or some of them, by or through their representatives, agents, subordinates, unnamed hearing officers, or employees, propose to hold an administrative hearing commencing on July 3, 1946, pursuant to Order No. 5309, of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, to take testimony and to determine and to adjudicate questions, issues and matters, which are now pending before this Court in this above entitled action, the determination of which questions, issues and matters, of necessity, involve the determination of the constitutionality of the rules, regulations and directives, made under and pursuant to certain Federal Acts, as well as the determination of the constitutionality of such Federal Acts, and as there are various parties and parties defendant, who have interplead in this action,

394 and who are not made parties to said administrative hearing, yet whose rights and interests, including rights and interests in a large number of parcels of real property in Southern California, would be affected by the holding of said administrative hearing and by the determination or the attempted determination of the matters therein considered; and, it further appearing

That to permit said administrative hearing to be held would constitute a duplication of actions and a multiplicity of suits for the hearing and determination of questions, issues and matters, including constitutional questions now pending in this action before this Court, and would cause immediate and irreparable injury to Plaintiffs and others.

It is hereby ordered that the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of their agents, employees, servants, conservators, hearing officers and subordinates, each, and all of them, be and they hereby are restrained and enjoined from, directly or indirectly, during the pendency of the above entitled action, and until the hearing and final determination of the now pending motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing, or until further Order of this Court, proceeding with, holding, or attempting to hold any hearing or hearings, pursuant to Order No. 5309, of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or at all, to determine, adjudicate, or to attempt to adjudicate, any of the questions, issues or matters, which are now, or may hereafter be, pending before this Court in the above entitled action, without first obtaining the further written Order of this Court.

It is further hereby ordered, for the reasons above set forth, and for the further reason, that this Temporary Restraining Order has been granted without prior Notice of the Motion therefore, that the same shall expire at 6 o'clock P.M., on the 15th day of July, 1946, as required by the provisions of Section 380 (a) and 381 of Title 28 of the Judicial Code, unless prior thereto, for good cause shown, this Order is extended in accordance with the provisions of said Sections, and in accordance with the provisions of Rule 65, Subdivision (b) of the Federal Court Rules.

Dated at Los Angeles, this 1 day of July, 1946.

PEIRSON M. HALL,
Judge of the District Court of the United States.

Bond as security in accordance with the Provisions of Rule 65, Subdivision (c) is hereby fixed in the sum of $2500.00.

Dated at Los Angeles, this 1st day of July 1946.

Complaint by intervener Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation

Filed July 1, 1946

403 Comes now Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a California corporation, after leave of the court first had and obtained and files this its complaint in intervention in the above-entitled cause, and alleges:

I

That intervenor, hereinafter referred to as complainant, is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of California, and having its principal place of business in the City of Long Beach, within the jurisdiction of this Court.

II

That complainant is so situated as to be adversely affected by a distribution or other disposition of property in the custody of this Court or by an officer thereof.

III

That complainant is the maker and trustor under 174 deeds of trust heretofore tendered or deposited with the registry of this Court by the cross defendant and/or interpleader, Title Service Company, a corporation, as trustee named in said deeds of trust.

IV

That complainant is the record owner of the real property affected by said 174 deeds of trust hereinabove referred to in paragraph III hereof; that said real property is improved with dwellings and is all located in Tract No. 12529, in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 256, Pages 18, 19 and 20 of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County; that said lot numbers, the face amount of said deeds of trust and the book and page number of recordation are as follows:

V

That the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association is the beneficiary and owner of all said deeds of trust; that defendant A. V. Ammann has assumed the position as conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association.

VI

That prior to the said A. V. Ammann assuming his duties as conservator of the Long Beach Federal 407 Savings & Loan Association, complainant had negotiated with the duly qualified and acting officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association to pay in full the balances then due on said 174 deeds of trust and had requested reconveyances thereof; that complainant had tendered to the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association the full amount due thereon, including interest and costs, and had been assured by the officers of the said Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association that reconveyances would be forthcoming.

That relying upon said representations complainant had secured a commitment for other and additional financing to repay said loans and to secure an increased amount of cash and new trust deed loans have been recorded against the said 174 parcels of real property, but the consideration therefor has not been paid to or received by complainant.

VIII

That before said refinancing could be completed and reconveyances obtained the said defendant A. V. Ammann assumed control of the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association.

IX

That subsequent to his assuming office the said A. V. Ammann as Conservator aforesaid, delivered to the said Title Service Company as trustee thereunder the said 174 deeds of trust with requests for full reconveyances, together with all proper costs and his demand for reconveyance.

X

That the said Title Service Company thereupon refused to execute said reconveyances upon the demand of the said A. V. Ammann and subsequently deposited said deeds of trust with the Clerk of this Court; that said deeds of trust are now in the custody of this Court.

XI

That the total amount due the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association under said deeds of trust, amounting to approximately $847,190.00, has been tendered in payment thereof and is now available upon delivery to complainant of the reconveyances of said deeds of trust; that complainant is ready, willing and able to pay said amount, plus accrued interest and costs, upon receipt of proper reconveyances of said deeds of trust and does hereby tender said amount to this Court.

XIX

That by reason of the fact that said reconveyance cannot be obtained, complainant is suffering great and irreparable loss in its operations in the home investment business, as well as the duplicate payment of interest, costs and attorney's fees, and delay in the construction of over nine hundred Title VI G.I. Homes, as well as numerous sales of completed homes to veterans and others; that demand has been duly made upon defendants Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association, Title Service Company and A. V. Ammann for said reconveyances; that said parties have failed and refused to furnish said reconveyances; that by reason thereof complainant has sustained damages in a sum which at this time it is unable to ascertain and complainant asks leave of Court to amend its complaint and pray for such damages against the parties plaintiff or defendant, or either or any of them, when such damages have been ascertained.

XIII

That in addition to the fact that complainant is so situated as to be adversely affected by a distribution or other disposition of property in the custody of this Court or by an officer thereof, this Honorable Court has jurisdiction to hear and try the matters herein submitted by reason of diversity of citizenship of the various parties plaintiff and defendant, and also by reason of the fact that said action involves the interpretation and effect of the following laws and acts of Congress of the United States of America:

Home Owners Loan Act of 1933;
Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended;
The National Housing Act—Public No. 479;
409 Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.
Judicial Code, Title 28, Section 41, (26)

Wherefore, complainant, Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a California corporation, prays that it have judgment against both plaintiffs and defendants as follows:

That the Court direct the immediate execution and delivery of the above mentioned trust deed reconveyances upon payment of the amount due, plus accrued interest and costs, into this Court;

That an order to show cause issue directed to the parties in interest requiring them to show cause why said money should not be accepted and deposited and the said trust deed reconveyances executed and delivered to complainant.

That complainant have judgment for damages, including attorney's fees and court costs, in such amount as may be sustained and proven to the satisfaction of this Court;

That complainant have such other and further relief as to the Court may seem proper.

F. HENRY NECASEK,
Attorney for Complainant
Home Investment Co. of Long Beach.

Order to show cause why petition for intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation, should not be granted and why the defendants should not be required to execute and deliver 174 trust deed reconveyances upon payment of demand.

Filed July 1, 1946

420 Upon reading and filing of the motion and petition of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a California corporation, praying to intervene as a party in this action and requiring the parties plaintiff and defendant to show cause why the defendants should not execute and deliver to intervener 174 trust deed reconveyances upon payment of the total demand, plus accrued interest and costs, and good cause appearing therefor;

It is hereby ordered that the above-named plaintiff and the defendants show cause before me, in court room No. 3 thereof, in the U. S. Federal & Postoffice Building, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the 8th day of July, 1946, at 2 o'clock p.m., of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

It is further ordered, that copies of this order and said petition and complaint be served upon the above-named plaintiffs and defendants by service of a copy thereof by mail on or before 6 p.m., July 2, 1946 on Messrs. Westover & Smith, Attorneys for the Plaintiffs; Messrs. Thomas & Wallace, Attorneys for Defendant Title Service Company, a corporation; Raymond Tremaine, Attorney for Robert H. Wallis; Charles K. Minute order—July 8, 1946

This cause coming on for hearing on Order to Show Cause directed to the defendants to show cause why the petition of the Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation, should not be granted and why the defendants should not be required to execute and deliver 174 Trust Deed Reconveyances upon payment of demand, pursuant to notice filed July 1, 1946; Messrs. Westover and Smith by Attorney Smith appearing as counsel for the plaintiffs; F. Henry NeCasek, Esq., appearing as counsel for Intervener, Home Investment Company of Long Beach; Messrs. Thomas and Wallace by H. O. Wallace, Esq., appearing as counsel for the Title Service Co.; Raymond Tremaine, Esq., appearing as counsel for the defendant and cross-complainant R. O. Wallis; Chas. K. Chapinen, Esq., appearing as counsel for the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and James M. Carter, U. S. Attorney, by Ronald Walker, Assistant U. S. Attorney, appearing as counsel for the Government:

The Court presents for filing an Order from the Senior Circuit Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit designating Hon. Albert Lee Stephens as the U. S. Circuit Judge and Hon. David W. Ling as the other U. S. District Judge to participate in the hearing and determination of the hearing herein now set for July 15, 1946.

Attorney Chapman voluntarily presents for lodging herein 174 requests for full reconveyances of trust deeds now on deposit with the Clerk of this Court and the Court thereupon orders same lodged in this case.

446 Attorney Wallace assures the Court that the Title Service Co. is prepared and ready to issue reconveyances on the 174 Trust Deeds on order of this Court.

Attorney NeCasek presents a prepared statement of the Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association as to the total amount of principal and interest due as of June 30th amounting to $[illegible],927.50, plus $95.217 per day thereafter, and the Home Investment Co. of Long Beach has the money ready in the form of a cashier's check to be deposited in lieu of the trust deeds. The Court orders said statement filed.

Attorney NeCasek presents a form of order for the issuance of the 174 reconveyances, and after much discussion between the Court and counsel as to the conditions of the order,

The Court orders counsel for the Home Investment Co. of Long Beach to prepare an order including all of the suggestions made here in open court, submit said proposed order to all counsel on record herein for their approval, and after each of counsel has signed approval thereof, said order may be submitted to the Court for approval and signature, and thereafter filed.

Counsel for all parties are allowed until the 15th of July 1946 in which to file answering affidavits to Defendant Ammann's motions to dismiss interpleader and Defendant Fahey's motion to quash service of summons and to dismiss, also points and authorities.

Filed July 8, 1946

454 Come now, the plaintiffs herein, Paul Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, individually, and as representatives of a class suing for and on behalf of all of the shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, an Association organized and existing under and by virtue of the Laws of the United States of America, plaintiffs in the above entitled action, and defendants therein in intervention and separating themselves from their co-defendants in intervention and for themselves alone, and for answer to the Complaint in Intervention by intervener Home Investment Company of Long Beach, a Corporation, admits, denies and alleges, as follows:

I

That these answering defendants in intervention do not have sufficient information or belief to enable them to answer the allegations contained in Paragraphs IV, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X and XI, of said Complaint by intervener Home Investment Company of Long Beach, a Corporation, and basing their denial on the lack of such information and belief, generally and specifically denies each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs IV, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X and XI of said Complaint on file herein, except that the answering defendants in intervention do specifically admit that the deeds of trust described in said

Complaint have been deposited with the Clerk of this Court, and that said deeds of trust are now in the custody of this Court, as in Paragraph X of said Complaint alleged.

II

That these answering defendants in intervention do not have sufficient information or belief to enable them to answer the allegations contained in Paragraph XII of said Complaint, and basing their denial upon that ground, generally and specifically deny each and every allegation contained in said Paragraph XII, except that these answering defendants in intervention allege that no demands and/or cross demands have ever been made upon 455 them, or any or either of them, or any reconveyances and further, in connection with the matters so alleged in said Paragraph XII, these answering defendants in intervention allege that if the said plaintiff in intervention has or does ever suffer any damage whatsoever, as in said Paragraph XII alleged, that the same damage was caused by, and is a result of the intermeddling, interfering and/or improper and unlawful usurpation by the defendants in said action, A. Y. Ammann and/or John H. Fahey, with the business, affairs and/or property of the defendants herein, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or with the possession thereof.

III

By way of answer to Paragraph XIII of said Complaint in Intervention, these answering defendants in intervention admit each and every of the allegations therein contained and in that connection allege that the jurisdiction of this Court can be exercised only by issuance of its orders, judgments and/or decrees against all and not against only part of the defendants in intervention joined in said Complaint in Intervention.

Wherefore these answering defendants in intervention (the plaintiffs in the above entitled action) pray judgment as follows:

1. That the adverse claims, demands and/or alleged titles of any and all parties be declared and adjudged by this Honorable Court and that by its Order it be decreed that the title, ownership and right to possession in and to said notes and/or trust deeds be found to be in these answering defendants in intervention, by virtue of their ownership of and/or interests in said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as shareholder members thereof.

2. That any and all other adverse claims, demands and/or assertions of titles of any and all other parties, be quieted and forever barred.

3. That each, all and every of said 174 notes
456 and deeds of trust and each of them, as well as any and all proceeds thereof, or money, or other thing of value substituted in lieu thereof, be ordered by this Honorable Court delivered into the possession of these answering defendants in intervention.

4. That all other parties to this action be perpetually enjoined and debarred from claiming or ever asserting any title, claim or demand whatsoever in and/or to said notes and deeds of trust.

5. That these answering defendants in intervention have and recover their costs herein incurred, and attorneys' fees.

6. And for such other and further relief as to this Court may seem meet and proper in the premises.

Dated at Los Angeles, California, this 8th day of July, 1946.

Answer of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to complaint in intervention of Home Investment Company of Long Beach, a corporation

Filed July 8, 1946

Comes now, defendant in intervention, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and for answer to Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Company of Long Beach, plaintiff in intervention, denies, admits and alleges as follows:

I

Answering Paragraph IV of Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Company, defendant in inter-460 vention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has not information nor belief sufficient upon which to base a denial as to who is the record owner of the one hundred seventy-four (174) parcels of real property described in said Paragraph IV of said Complaint in Intervention and on such lack of information and belief, denies that plaintiff in intervention, Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, is such record owner.

II

Answering Paragraph V of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits that it is the beneficiary and owner of all of said deeds of trust and in this connection alleges that defendant A. V. Ammann illegally, wrongfully, and forcibly seized possession and control of said notes and deeds of trust from the possession of said defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, without any right, authority or justification for so doing. That the said defendant A. V. Ammann was and is a trespasser and wrongdoer in possession of said defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's property, including said one hundred seventy-four notes and deeds of trust.

III

Answering Paragraph VI of Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits that negotiations for paying the balance due on said notes and deeds of trust were in progress, but denies that plaintiff in intervention, Home Investment Co. of Long Beach had tendered to defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association payment of said deeds of trust and in this connection alleges said one hundred seventy four notes and deeds of trust and each of the same, has, since the date of said negotiations, been forcibly and wrongfully seized and wrested from the possession and control of the said defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, by the defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey.

IV

Answering Paragraph VII of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has neither information nor belief sufficient to make allegations concerning said matters and on such lack of information and belief, denies every allegation in said paragraph contained.

V

Answering Paragraph VIII of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association denies that the said defendant A. V. Ammann has any rightful, authority, control or dominion over the said defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or its affairs, and in this connection alleges that the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Amman forcibly, unlawfully and wrongfully seized and wrested possession and control of said association and its business and properties from this defendant, all as more fully alleged in defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association's Answer and Cross-Claim to which reference is made for further particulars.

VI

Answering Paragraph IX of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association denies that the said A. V. Ammann ever assumed office as, or obtained any valid authority or appointment as, conservator of this defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. This defendant also denies that requests for full reconveyances of said one hundred seventy-four notes and deeds of trust 462 were executed by it, or by anyone on its behalf, or in place of it; and in this connection alleges that the said defendant A. V. Ammann has, was and is, attempting to usurp and divert the authority, control and possession of said one hundred seventy-four notes and deeds of trust and the funds they represent from the true owner of the same, to-wit: Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, to himself the said A. V. Ammann.

VII

Answering Paragraph X of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, this defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits that the trustee named in said deeds of trust, defendant Title Service Company, refused to execute said reconveyances and in this connection alleges that no authorized, proper or legal request for such reconveyances had ever been presented to said defendant Title Service Company by anyone authorized or empowered to make such request.

VIII

Answering Paragraph XI of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, this defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association denies that the sum of Eight Hundred Forty-seven Thousand One Hundred Nin-ty Dollars ($847,190.00), or any sum, has been tendered to it, nor to anyone for it, or on its behalf. This answering defendant has not information nor belief sufficient to answer or deny the other allegations contained in said Paragraph XI and upon that ground denies each and all of the same.

IX

Answering Paragraph XII of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, this defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has neither information nor belief to answer said Paragraph and therefore upon such lack of information and belief denies each and every allegation in said paragraph contained, except that defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association specifically denies that demand has ever been made upon it for any or all of said reconveyances and in this connection alleges that if said plaintiff in intervention has, or does, suffer any damage whatsoever the same was caused by, and is a result of, the intermeddling, interference and unlawful usurpation by and of the defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, with the affairs, property and business of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

X

Answering Paragraph XIII of said Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, this defendant in intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association admits that this Honorable Court has jurisdiction of the matters contained in said Complaint in Intervention and in that connection alleges that said jurisdiction can only be exercised by orders, judgments and decrees against all and not merely part of the defendants in Intervention named in said Complaint in Intervention.

XI

That each and all of said notes and deeds of trust contain a provision that the attorney fees of beneficiary in any action brought, involved or concerning said deeds of trust are secured thereby. That defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has employed as its attorney in connection with the said matter of said one hundred seventy-four notes and deeds of trust, Charles K. Chapman, Esquire, who is a member of the State Bar of the State of California, an attorney at law duly licensed and qualified to practice in all of the Courts of the State of California, and in this Honorable United States District Court, and in the Supreme Court of the United States. That the amount of said attorney fees which will have to be incurred can not be exactly estimated this early in this proceeding.

464 Wherefore, Defendant in Intervention Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prays judgment against all parties, as follows:

1. That the said one hundred seventy-four (174) notes and deeds of trust securing the same, and all interest, rights and titles therein, thereto, and conveyed thereby, are owned by, the property of, and belong to, the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that no other party plaintiff or defendant has any interest, right or title thereto, or therein.

2. That each and all of said one hundred seventy-four notes and deeds of trust, and all of the same, be ordered by this Honorable Court delivered to the possession of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

3. That the adverse claims, demands and assertions of all other parties be declared and adjudged by this Honorable Court to be void, invalid and of no effect.

4. That the title, ownership and possession of said defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association be quieted, established and cleared forever of each, every and all of said adverse claims, demands and assertions of all other parties to this action.

5. That all other parties to this action be perpetually enjoined and debarred by this Honorable Court from herein or elsewhere asserting, presenting or seeking to establish their said claims, titles and demands against the said notes, deeds of trust and each and all of the same or the proceeds thereof or any of the same.

6. That this Honorable Court fix a reasonable sum as attorney fees for attorney for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and declare the same to be a lien and first charge upon said notes and deeds of trust or the funds and proceeds thereof.

465 7. That the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association recover its costs herein incurred, and

8. For such other and further relief as seem just and proper to the Court in the premises.

Answer of defendant in intervention Title Service Company to complaint in intervention of Home Investment Co., etc.

Filed July 8, 1946

Comes now the Defendant in Intervention, Title Service Company, hereinafter called Defendant, separating itself from its co-defendants in intervention, and for itself alone, and for answer to the Complaint in Intervention of Home Investment Co., of Long Beach, a corporation, hereinafter referred to as the Complaint, admits, denies 468 and alleges as follows:

I

Admits the allegations of Paragraph I of said complaint.

II

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer denies the allegations of Paragraph II of said Complaint.

III

Admits the allegations of Paragraph III of said Complaint.

IV

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies the allegations as to record ownership of the property described in Paragraph IV of said complaint, and alleges that if the Intervenor has any title in and to said real property that the same is an equitable ownership, only, and that the legal title in and to said real property is vested in this Defendant, as trustee under deeds of trust given to secure the payment of said promissory note.

V

Admits the allegations of Paragraph V of said complaint.

VI

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies generally and specifically each and every allegation of Paragraph VI of said complaint.

VII

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies generally and specifically, each and every allegation of Paragraph VII of said complaint.

VIII

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies generally and specifically, each and every allegation of Paragraph VIII of said complaint.

469 IX

Admits the allegations of Paragraph IX of said complaint, save and except the allegation that the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, delivered to this Defendant, Title Service Company, "all proper costs" which allegation is specifically denied; this answering defendant denying that any proper costs, or any sum of money to cover costs were ever delivered by the said A. V. Ammann to this Defendant; and alleges that ~~said requests for~~ full reconveyance were not executed by the beneficiary of trust deeds, to-wit: Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

X

Admits the allegations of Paragraph X of said complaint.

XI

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer denies, generally and specifically, each and every allegation of Paragraph XI of said complaint, and alleges that no tender of any sum of money has ever been made to this Defendant by the Complainant in intervention, or on its behalf.

XII

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies generally and specifically, each and every allegation of Paragraph XII of said complaint, save and except the allegation that demand has been made upon this Defendant for said reconveyances which allegation is admitted. Alleges that this Defendant is, and at all times since the 10th day of June, 1946, has been, unable to make execute or deliver unto the Intervenor any reconveyances by reason of the fact that on said date the promissory notes, deeds of trust and requests for reconveyance executed by the said A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association were deposited, in 470 interpleader, by this defendant, with the Registry of this Honorable Court.

Denies that the Intervenor has sustained damages in any sum, or in any sum at all, unascertained or otherwise, by reason of any matter, act or thing done or refused to be done by this answering Defendant.

XIII

For lack of sufficient information or belief to enable it to answer, denies, generally and specifically, each and every allegation of Paragraph XIII of said complaint.

XIV

Alleges that by reason of the matters set forth and alleged in its Answer and Cross-Claim in Interpleader on file herein, hereby referred to and made a part hereof by reference with the same force and effect as though the same were herein set forth in full, this defendant was placed in a position of jeopardy and made subject to a multiplicity of actions and thereby elegible to the relief provided in Section 41 (26) of Title 28 of the United States Court and that the deposit with the Registry of this Honorable Code by this Defendant of said 174 promissory notes, deeds of trust and purported requests for reconveyance were made pursuant to the provisions of that statute.

Wherefore, this answering Defendant offers to carry out any proper order of this Honorable Court made in the premises and prays that the complainant in intervention take nothing against this defendant and that this defendant be awarded its costs of action and reasonable attorneys' fees herein.

Affidavit of T. A. Gregory re pertinent facts in opposition to motions of defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann to dismiss or to quash return of service of summons on defendant, John H. Fahey.

Filed July 10, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

T. A. Gregory, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is now, and has at all times since its organization, been President of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That neither Subdivision (a) nor (c) of Section 1464 of Title 12 of the Federal Code; of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, nor any other part of said Home Owners Loan Act sets up or establishes any standard or policy, limiting or defining standards or policies authorizing the making of Rules and Regulations by one man, to wit: the defendant John H. Fahey.

That the attempted delegation of Legislative authority or quasi judicial authority to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (now and for the past several years composed of only one man, to wit: the defendant John H. Fahey) was ineffectual and incomplete and an unconstitutional attempt by Congress to so delegate its exclusive Legislative authority and an ineffectual and unconstitutional attempt to delegate to a one man Board, the authority to create judicial or quasi judicial hearing tribunals;

That the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is a mutual savings and loan Association, organized by the filing of subscriptions to shares from fifty-one (51) different persons at Five ($5.00) Dollars each, except for your affiant, who originally invested the sum of Seventy-two hundred and fifty ($7250.00) Dollars making the total original investment Seven thousand five hundred ($7,500.00) Dollars;

That on or about July 10, 1934, Charter No. 426 was issued, a partial copy of which has been attached by the defendant A. V. Ammann to his Memorandum in Opposition to Motion of the Plaintiffs for Preliminary Injunction, marked Exhibit "D", which Exhibit is not completely filled out, dated nor signed.

That at the time of the organization of the Long Beach Federal Federal Savings and Loan Association in 1934, and thereafter until 1942, such Associations were regulated and supervised by a Board, which was defined by Section 1462 of Title 12 of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933 as,

"The term Board means the Federal Home Loan Bank Board created under the Federal Home Loan Act."

That the Federal Home Loan Bank Board was created by the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, Section 1437 of Title 12 Federal Code, which at that time and until 1942, provided:

"For the purposes of this Act, there shall be a Board, to be known as the 'Federal Home Loan Bank Board', which shall consist of Five (5) citizens of the United States appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Not more than Three (3) members of the Board shall be members of the same political party. Each member shall devote his entire time to the business of the Board. * * *" [Italics added.]

That in 1934, when the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized, the Rules and Regulations for Federal Savings and Loan Associations provided, among other things, that the Board, upon making of findings that the interests of creditors or shareholders were being jeopardized, or the business was in an unsafe condition, or if the Association had suspended payment of its obligations and under various other conditions, the said Board (composed of five members) might take certain specified action, including the appointment of a Conservator, and at that time the Regulations specifically provided that:

"It will not be the policy of the Board except in extraordinary circumstances to exercise such power without giving the institution an opportunity to be heard."

That at said time in 1934, said Rules and Regulations did not provide for any appeal to the Court, excepting for the limited purposes to confirm a sale or dispose of assets.

That on April 8, 1937, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association made its application for leave to amend its Charter to a so-called Charter "K" giving it broader powers of operation, and, pursuant thereto and shortly thereafter, Charter K No. 426 was issued, and so-called copies thereof having been attached as Exhibit "F" to the Memorandum in Opposition to Motion for Preliminary Injunction of the defendant A. V. Ammann, which said Exhibit "F" is apparently an incomplete copy as it is not signed, dated and only partially filled in.

478 On December 1, 1936, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (still composed of five members) adopted Revised Rules and Regulations, which, among other things, changed and deleted the statement of policy of the Board to give institutions an opportunity to be heard before exercising the powers, if any they had, to seize such an Association.

That offsetting the deletion of the Board's Statement of Policy, the Board (then composed of five members) by its Revised Rules and Regulations, provided that:

"Before the appointment of a Conservator or Receiver, the Federal Association will be given an opportunity to be heard; provided, however, that the Board may appoint a temporary Conservator pending such hearing."

(Section 51 c of Revised Rules and Regulations of Federal Savings and Loan Association, effective December 1, 1936.)

The former Rules and Regulations, effective October, 1934, provided, among other things, for an automatic hearing upon a ten days' notice, mailed to all shareholders, borrowers and creditors, affording them an opportunity to be heard in regard to any seizure by any Conservator.

Similar provisions for an opportunity for the shareholder members to be heard, were contained in the Rules and Regulations adopted December 1, 1936. (See Section 52 thereof.)

That the Federal Home Loan Bank Board was consolidated with the National Housing Agency by Executive Order No. 9070, effective the 24th day of February, 1942, and thereby the defendant, John H. Fahey, the then Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, became the Commissioner and the sole and only member of the so-called Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and that ever since said date, the said John H. Fahey, has exercised and 479 dictated the powers and policies of the so-called Board composed of one man, to wit: himself.

That on about August 15, 1943, the Board, i.e., the defendant, John H. Fahey, changed, revised and adopted new and different Federal Regulations dealing with the appointment of Conservators, etc., for Federal Savings and Loan Associations providing, among other things, that, whenever in the opinion of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration (composed of one man, the defendant, John H. Fahey), any Federal Savings and Loan Association was guilty of the commission of any of some ten offenses, listed as legal conclusions, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration (to wit: the defendant, John H. Fahey, one man) may appoint a Conservator, etc., who shall forthwith upon his appointment take possession of the Association, and thereupon the officers and directors of such Association shall not thereafter have or exercise any rights, powers or privileges, or act in connection with any of the assets or property of the Association.

(See Section 207.3 of Federal Regulations. Part VI.)

That the Federal Regulations, as adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration (composed of one man, the defendant John H. Fahey), do not provide due or any process or hearing, or any notice of any hearing, or opportunity to be heard, or examined, or for any hearing to be held prior to the appointment of such a Conservator to seize the possession of such Federal Savings and Loan Associations and all of their assets.

That no hearing of any kind is provided for in said Federal Regulations, except only that such Federal Savings and Loan Associations, who have not requested nor consented to the appointment of a Conservator or Receiver may file an answer and serve a written demand for a hearing within fourteen days after such seizure and if so demanded, such a hearing may be held before the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, or before a trial examiner, or hearing officer, appointed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration (composed of one man, the defendant, John H. Fahey);

480 That such Federal Regulations do not provide for, nor do they establish any procedure for, nor allow, nor authorize, nor permit any appeal to the duly constituted Courts of Justice of the United States of America, nor of any State thereof, from the determination of any such matters.

That the Federal Regulations as revised and adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration (composed of one man, the defendant John H. Fahey, alone), dated August 15, 1943, repealed, deleted and omitted from said Regulations, the requirements that;

"After ten (10) days' notice, mailed to each member and creditor of the Association at his last known address, as shown on the books of the Association, the Conservator or Receiver shall conduct a hearing at the home office of the Association, or at some other convenient place designated by him in said notice."

The Rules and Regulations purportedly adopted August 15, 1943, by the so-called Home Loan Bank Administration, to wit: the defendant, John H. Fahey, alone, do not provide for, authorize or afford opportunity to the shareholder members, owners of such Association, to appear at any hearing, submit any evidences, or be afforded any opportunity to participate in, or have anything to do with, the determination of, or disposition of, the Association, which they own and its assets which belong to them.

That on May 20, 1946, the defendant A. V. Ammann, orally claiming to act, by appointment of the defendant John H. Fahey, as the Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, did physically and violently seize and take possession of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and all of its $26,000,000.00 of assets, all then being located in the City of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Thereafter, repeated demands, by your affiant, as 481 to the authority of the said defendant, A. V. Ammann, he did finally produce a typewritten sheet of paper, unsigned, and he did then and there, in your affiant's presence, verify the same by he, himself, appointing himself the said A. V. Ammann, to be the alleged Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That the dispossessing of your affiant and the other duly elected, qualified and acting officers and directors of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, was accomplished by the defendant A. V. Ammann by repeated threats of criminal prosecution, unless your affiant and the other officers and directors immediately deliver to him the records, cash, securities, bonds, furniture, equipment, real estate and all assets of said Association.

That at the time of said seizure, to wit: on May 20, 1946, the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association had grown, under the management of your affiant and its duly elected officers, and directors, from an Association organized in 1934 with assets of $7,500.00 to an Association on May 20, 1946, having assets in excess of $26,000,000.00, and having outstanding shareholder member certificates of savings, amounting to approximately $22,500,000.00.

That semi-annual dividends of 2½% to 4% per annum, have been paid regularly without ommission or default every year since the organization of the Association.

That all of the assets of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association amounting to in excess of $26,000,000.00, and including profits and undivided surplus and reserves in excess of $1,300,000.00, belonged to, and were the property of, approximately 16,000 mutual shareholder members, nearly all of whom are residents of Los Angeles County, in Southern California.

That on May 20, 1946, at the time of said seizure, said Association had approximately $12,000,000.00 in Government Bonds, a large part of which were unregistered bearer bonds, negotiable without endorsements.

482 That said Association at said time also had approximately 8,000 secured notes, with an unpaid balance amounting to approximately $12,000,000.00, all made by residents of Southern California, and which were payable at the office of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in Long Beach, and were payable to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a mutual association, having its legal domicile in Long Beach, Southern California, and all of which were secured by Trust Deeds, which conveyed the title to approximately 8,000 parcels of real estate in Southern California, to the Title Service Company, a California Corporation, having its legal domicile in Long Beach, California, as Trustee under such deeds of trust.

That at the time of said seizure on May 20, 1946, all of the assets of said Association, including both real and personal property were physically present in Southern California.

That at the time of said seizure, there was physically present in the office of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association cash and unregistered bearer bonds, negotiable without endorsements, amounting in the aggregate to approximately $100,000.00, the exact amount of which is unknown to this affiant for the reasons that though repeatedly requested so to do, the defendant A. V. Aufmann refused, declined and did not give to your affiant or to any of the other officers or directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association any receipt, acknowledgment, inventory, or other evidence of the amount of cash, bearer bonds, securities, negotiable assets, valuables, or other property, which were at that time physically seized and taken from the possession of your affiant and the officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That at the time of said seizure, the said defendant, A. V. Ammann, and his assistants and employees, although requested so to do, refused, declined and would not permit the auditors of said Association, or any other Certified Public Accountant to make any 483 list or inventory of the bearer bonds, cash, securities and other property being seized from said Association.

That at the time of said seizure, your affiant heard the said defendant A. V. Ammann state, "If it gets in the paper we are here, we will create a "run" and tear down the institution, that's why we are here."

Your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges that within the first ten days after said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was seized by the defendant A. V. Ammann, a "run" on said financial institution was created and there was withdrawn from said Association in excess of $6,000,000.00; and

That your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges that since said Association was seized on May 20, 1946, by the said defendant A. V. Ammann, there has been withdrawn from said financial institution in excess of $8,000,000.00.

That your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges that since the defendant A. V. Ammann seized the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and for the period from May 20, 1946, to June 30, 1946, a period of approximately forty days, the said defendant A. V. Ammann did appropriate and set aside for salaries, expenses and costs for himself and his associates, the sum of approximately $17,000.00, over and above the expenses and salaries paid the regular employees of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That your affiant and other officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association were fearful that the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, immediately following the seizure of said Association, would merge, consolidate or otherwise com-mingle the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its $26,000,000.00 of assets with some other financial institutions.

On or about March 29, 1946, the defendant A. V. Ammann, as the alleged Conservator by appointment of John H. Fahey, seized the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank and its approximately $43,000,000.00 worth of assets, and within twenty-four hours allegedly liquidated, commingled, merged, consolidated or otherwise dissipated the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank and its approximately $43,000,000.00 in assets, and forthwith allegedly merged and consolidated the same with the Portland Federal Home Loan Bank and its approximately $9,000,000.00 of assets and allegedly transferred the same to and created the San Francisco Federal Home Loan Bank.

That at the time of said seizure of the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank, to wit: on or about March 29, 1946, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association had approximately $341,000.00 of the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank, and in addition was entitled to an undivided interest in the profits of said Bank, which profits had a value of approximately $40,000.00, belonging to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That subsequent to the seizure of the said Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank and prior to the seizure of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, your affiant on behalf of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was engaged in investigating and the preparation of a complaint to bring appropriate legal action to recover from the said defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, the assets and profits belonging to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, which they had so unlawfully seized.

That, by virtue of the seizure of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association on May 29, 1946, the defendants, John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, according to their alleged Rules and Regulations allegedly suspended and deprived your affiant, and the officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan

Association of their rights and powers to bring suit for and on behalf of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association against the defendants 485 John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, to recover from said defendants and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration the assets and equitable interest of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the undivided profits and assets so illegally seized by the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, when they seized the Los Angeles Federal Home Loan Bank.

That since the filing of this action conflicting demands have been made upon the Title Service Company, a California corporation, and it has interplead in this action 174 notes secured by Trust Deeds upon real estate in Southern California, said notes having an aggregate unpaid balance of nearly $800,000.00, and has filed its Cross Claim in the nature of interpleader, as to the remaining notes secured by Trust Deeds on approximately 8,000 Parcels of Southern California real estate, having an aggregate unpaid balance of approximately $12,000,000.00 on said notes on, all of which, said Title Service Company is the named Trustee.

That there has been filed in this action an intervener action for, and on behalf of, Home Investment Company of Long Beach, California, a California corporation, requesting an order to permit it to deposit with the Registry of this Court the unpaid balance on said 174 Notes and Trust Deeds amounting to approximately $800,000.00, and to authorize the reconveyance of title to said property by the said Title Service Company. The intervener, Home Investment Company of Long Beach is endeavoring to clear the clouds from the title to said properties, which clouds upon the title to said properties were caused and created by the seizure of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its assets, including such notes and trust deeds, by the defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey.

The defendant A. V. Ammann not being an official of, nor a duly elected officer of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, who are the named 486 beneficiaries on trust deeds on approximately 8,000 Parcels of real property located in Southern.

California, he, therefore, would have no authority to sign requests to reconvey the titles to said properties by the Title Service Company, the named Trustee on said Trust Deeds, unless his appointment as Conservator of said Association was a valid appointment properly made and properly executed and performed.

Until the appointment of said A. V. Ammann as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has been judicially determined as either valid or invalid, there remains a cloud upon the title to said approximately 8,000 Parcels of real property in Southern California.

Your affiant is informed and believes and upon such information and belief alleges that Notices of lis pendens have heretofore been filed and recorded in Los Angeles County upon the Parcels of real property located in Los Angeles County.

That the defendant Fahey having revised the Federal Rules and Regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board for Federal Savings and Loan Associations so as to free himself as aforesaid, from any requirements constituting due process such as prior notice, or hearing, or regulations specifying what acts would constitute grounds for seizure and without notice or hearing, or criticism, or opportunity to rectify caused the defendant Ammann to seize said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association on said 20th day of May, 1946.

That defendant Fahey having provided no procedure for redress against his own unlawful or unwarranted acts or those of his assistants before any impartial tribunal and having provided no regular procedure to that effect is now, and at all times herein mentioned has been unwilling and has opposed and by his conduct in this action is opposing any hearing on the merits of the issues raised in this proceeding not controlled by himself and not dependant on his personal approval of any finding by his subordinates against himself.

That the plaintiffs, as a committee for the protection of the member shareholders of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association have been, and are being joined daily by large numbers of other shareholder members in requesting and praying for the return to the shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of the management, operation and control of said Association and all of its $26,000,000.00 of assets; the said shareholder members being the true, equitable and mutual owners.

Dated: At Los Angeles, this 10th day of July, 1946.

Affidavit of Harold Lee
Filed July 10, 1946

CITY OF WASHINGTON,
District of Columbia, ss:

Harold Lee being first duly sworn on oath deposes and says that he is Deputy Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and has full personal knowledge of the facts leading to and justifying the appointment of a conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; that the order appointing A. V. Ammann as conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was made by affiant pursuant to authority duly and regularly vested in him.

That on May 18, 1946, certain facts relative to the administration of the Long Beach Federal Savings

492 and Loan Association and the acts of its officers and directors were developed by examiners of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration in the regular examination provided by law; that said facts were communicated to affiant and in his opinion necessitated the immediate appointment of a conservator to conserve the assets of said association.

That the act of affiant in making the order appointing such conservator was in no sense a reprisal against T. A. Gregory or other officers or directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or based upon any other than the facts developed by said examiners and communicated to him.

HAROLD LEE.

Affidavit of Ray E. Dougherty
Filed July 10, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Ray E. Dougherty, being first duly sworn, on oath deposes and says that he is Associate General Counsel for the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and is personally familiar with all the facts hereinafter stated.

Affiant states that the former Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was liquidated and reorganized and its assets transferred to and its liabilities assumed by the present Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco under and by virtue of Federal Home Loan Bank Administration Orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084, dated March 29, 1946, which orders were respectively issued under and by virtue of section 26 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, section 3 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act and section 25 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, copies of which orders are attached hereto and by reference made a part of this affidavit.

495 Affiant further states that he personally served said orders upon the officers then in charge of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles and was present at the time the physical properties and assets of the former Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles were taken over by the officers of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

Affiant further states that no conservator was ever appointed for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles nor for any other Federal home loan bank.

Affiant further states that the rights of members of any Federal home loan bank to withdraw as a member of such bank and to receive reimbursement for its cash paid subscriptions for its capital stock in such Federal home loan bank, are fixed by the provisions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act and particularly section 6(i) thereof, and that the rights and privileges of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as a member of the former Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles were in no way affected by such reorganization into the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, except that in the event of complete liquidation and distribution of the assets of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco subsequent to the effective time of the orders above referred to, the members of the former Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles would have profited in that the book value of each share of stock had been increased by approximately $2; that the par value of each such share of stock was and is $100.

Order No. 5082. Date March 29, 1946

Whereas, it has been and is hereby determined that the efficient and economical accomplishment of the purposes of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, will be aided by the action contemplated herein; now, therefore,

It is hereby ordered that effective March 29, 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles shall be liquidated and reorganized and all assets and property of any kind or nature of such bank, including any unexpended amounts in approved and outstanding budgets and personnel but excluding officers and directors, are hereby transferred to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and all the liabilities and obligations of such Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles are to be assumed by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and are hereby declared to be and become the liabilities and obligations of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland. The President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland (hereinafter called Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco) is hereby authorized and directed to execute, issue or sign in the name of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles or in the name of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco as the successor and legal assignee of the assets, property, liabilities and obligations of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles such instrument or instruments as may be necessary or advisable and to cancel, assign or otherwise dispose of in whole or in part, any lease under which the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles has been bound or committed. All members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles are to become members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland (hereinafter called Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco) is ordered and directed to issue appropriate evidences of the ownership of all of the stock formerly held by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles including stock purchased and held on 497 behalf of the U. S. Government. The charter of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles is hereby cancelled.

It is further ordered and directed that effective March 29, 1946, the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland shall move and is hereby moved to the city of San Francisco, California, and shall be known hereafter as the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. Subject to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the charter and by-laws of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, including right of dismissal, said bank shall have as its directors, officers, employees, attorneys, and agents the directors, officers, employees, attorneys, and agents transferred, elected, designated, or appointed, to, by or for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland for the calendar year 1946 and shall operate under the charter and by-laws used by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland until duly changed.

It is further ordered and directed that effective March 29, 1946, and until changed by the Board of Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, the said Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco shall maintain a branch of said bank in the cities of Portland, Oregon, and Los Angeles, California.

It is further ordered and directed that in order to provide for adequate representation of the states in the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco region, effective August 1, 1946, the terms of all directors of said bank shall expire and that prior to July 1, 1946, a new election of directors shall be held. The terms of all officers of said bank shall expire upon the designation by the Board of Directors after August 1, 1946, of new officers and their approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration. In such election and in future elections of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco the states of Nevada and Arizona shall constitute one state with the right of minimum representation to be alternated between each of said states within the rules and regulations and orders of the Federal Home 498 Loan Bank System providing for a minimum representation from each state in a Federal Home Loan Bank district. Order before July 1, 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration shall appoint or reappoint four public-interest directors whose terms shall begin August 1, 1946, but shall end respectively December 31, 1946; December 31, 1947; December 31, 1948; and December 31, 1949.

It is further ordered and directed that the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco shall take such other action subject to the approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration as may be necessary or desirable for the effective operation of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

I hereby certify that the above is an order issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration on March 29, 1946.

Affidavit of A. V. Ammann
Filed July 10, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

A. V. Ammann, being first duly sworn, on oath deposes and says that on May 20, 1946, he was appointed conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by Federal Home Loan Bank Administration Order No. 5254, copy of which is attached hereto and by reference made a part of this affidavit; that he immediately qualified and entered upon his duties and ever since said time has been conservator of said Association and that the facts hereinafter stated are personally known to affiant.

Affiant has read the affidavit of T. A. Gregory attached to the motion for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of the administrative hearing and the same is not a true statement of the events and happenings occurring on the morning of May 20, 1946, at the time affiant took possession of the affairs of the Association.

Affiant states that on May 20, 1946, affiant entered the Association at approximately 8:35 A.M.; that within two or three minutes thereafter affiant met Mr. T. A.
503 Gregory in the president's room at the office of the Association and immediately told Mr. Gregory that the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration had that morning appointed affiant conservator for the Association and that this action had been taken because of acts and practices on the part of the officers and directors considered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration as injurious to and jeopardizing the interests of the members and creditors of the Association and of the public; that the immediate effect of this action was to relieve the officers and directors of all authority and that it placed the conservator in their stead. Mr. Gregory asked affiant for a certified copy of the order and affiant explained that the order was in full force and effect upon its entry in Washington; that there had not been time for a certified copy to reach Long Beach from Washington, but that such copy was being brought by airplane and would arrive later that day. Affiant explained further that the order had been read to him over the telephone; that he had written it down and had typewritten it from the notes taken over the telephone and that affiant would give Mr. Gregory the copy he had made, with the understanding that such minor typographical differences as there might be between affiant's copy and the copy being brought from Washington would be considered corrected by the latter. In affiant's capacity as Assistant Secretary for the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration the copy was then certified and delivered to Mr. Gregory.

At no time during the conversation did affiant threaten Gregory with criminal prosecution unless Gregory delivered up and surrendered possession of the property in the Association to affiant; the true facts concerning this particular matter are as follows:

Within the first five minutes of our meeting Mr. Gregory stepped outside his office doors and gave instructions to some one. These instructions were not fully understood by me. Later he again stepped outside the door and asked one of the employees to instruct the men who were waiting not to go away because he might want to have some one arrested. Gregory then told affiant 504 that men were outside who at his word would take or lead me out of the office. I told him they wouldn't lead me but would have to carry me. I advised him in his own best interest to refrain from any physical actions of resistance because I was sure that that would embarrass him and that he might thus risk serious consequences under the law.

Affiant specifically denies the statement made by Mr. Gregory in his affidavit as follows:

"That at the time of said seizure your affiant heard one Ben O. Reddick ask the said A. V. Ammann 'Why are you here?' and heard the said A. V. Ammann reply, 'If it gets in the paper we are here, it will create a run and tear down the institution, that's why we are here'.

The said A. V. Ammann, upon being further questioned by the said Ben O. Reddick, repeated his statement."

Affiant states that the said Ben O. Reddick mentioned in Mr. Gregory's affidavit is reported to be the reporter for the Los Angeles Examiner who appeared at the Association's offices shortly after affiant had arrived at such offices; that affiant is informed and believes that the said Reddick came at the request of Mr. Gregory; that affiant told Reddick that the public interests and the interests of the Association would be best served by avoidance of sensational publicity relative to the matter since such publicity would inevitably tend to cause a run upon the Association and that the conservator was in the Association to conserve its assets and carry on its operation in a proper and lawful manner until further disposition could be made of its affairs. Affiant states that in spite of such statements and requests by affiant to the said Reddick, distorted and misleading statements appeared in the Los Angeles Examiner, many of such news items containing alleged quotations from Mr. Gregory, which were not true statements of fact.

Affiant further states that the said Reddick not only gave such statements to his paper, but engaged in 505 other activity in and around the Association, which instead of quieting the public hysteria induced by the said newspaper statements, added to such hysteria; that on certain occasions when there were a large number of people in the Association being served by the tellers at the counter, Reddick would walk up and down on the counters in order to take pictures of the crowd of people in the institution; that he would climb on desks and file cabinets back of the counters where the tellers were working and take pictures with a flash bulb, thus adding to the hysteria and confusion which was then existent in the institution and otherwise demeaned himself in a manner which indicated that his every action was motivated by the desire to get "scarehead and sensational news" and to serve the interests and purposes of Gregory in attempting to discredit the action of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration rather than in any manner to attempt to serve the public interests and the interests of the shareholders of this institution.

Affiant states that he did not give Mr. Gregory a receipt for the assets of the Association for the reason that such assets did not belong to Mr. Gregory but did belong to the Association and for the further reason that the delivery of a detailed receipt at that time was impossible as neither Mr. Gregory nor any one else had a current inventory of the assets of the Association; and further states that affiant as conservator is carefully complying with the provisions of Section 207.8(a) of the Rules and Regulations for the Federal Savings and Loan System, which section reads as follows:

"(a) Inventory. As soon as practicable after taking possession, the conservator shall make an inventory of the assets of such association as of the date of such taking possession, showing the value as carried on the books of the association, and the security therefor, if any, in whatever form the same shall exist, with a brief description of each such asset and such security. Such assets may be listed in such groups or classes as 506 shall, to the satisfaction of the Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, or any Deputy or Assistant Governor, afford full information as to their character and book value, and the conservator shall include a record of the creditor and share liabilities of the association. One copy of such inventory shall promptly be filed with the Secretary to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, one copy with the Office of the Governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, and one copy shall be retained in the principal office of the association, so long as such office is maintained by the conservator."

Affiant further states that he has read the complaint of the plaintiffs wherein among other false statements therein contained, there appears at paragraph 10 thereof, the following:

"That the said A. V. Ammann was and is the purported conservator for said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles."

That this affiant is not and never has been the conservator or purported conservator of the former Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles nor of any other Federal home loan bank.

Affidavit in opposition to motion to dismiss or to quash return of service of summons
Filed July 10, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

S. I. Bacon, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is one of the officers, to-wit: the Vice-President of the Title Service Company, one of the Defendants and a Cross-Claimant in Interpleader, in the above entitled and numbered action.

That heretofore and subsequent to the commencement of this action, and after the filing of the Answer and Cross-Claim in Interpleader of Title Service Company and the concurrent deposit with the Clerk of the Registry of this Honorable Court of 174 promissory notes and deeds of trust, the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as 511 the purported Conservator of the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, commenced proceedings to substitute another and different trustee, in the place and stead of the Title Service Company under said deeds of trust. That said deeds of trust contain a proviso allowing the substitution of trustees with the consent of the named beneficiary, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that said A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of said Association, apparently was seeking to substitute trustees thereunder in order to obtain reconveyances of said trust deeds, notwithstanding the filing of said cross-claim in interpleader and the deposit with the Registry of this Court of said trust deeds. That affiant is informed and believes, and on that ground alleges, that said A. V. Ammann negotiated with and solicited the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association to accept such substitution and to act as substituted trustee.

That upon such negotiations becoming known to the Defendant, Title Service Company, in order to protect its rights under said trust deeds and to prevent the attempted ouster of jurisdiction of this Court by such substitution of trustees, did cause to be filed for record in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, California, the county wherein the real property described in said deeds of trust is located, a Lis Pendens, pursuant to the provisions of Section 409 of Code of Civil Procedure of the State of California. That said Lis Pendens was filed for record by Thomas and Wallace, the attorneys for said Title Service Company on the 27th day of June, 1946. That in addition to the 174 parcels of real property described in the trust deeds physically deposited with the Registry of this Court in said Cross-Claim in Interpleader, said Lis Pendens also referred to and described so many of the other parcels of real property as were known to said Title Service Company, and which were referred to in said Cross-Claim in 512 Interpleader and were brought before this Court thereby in the nature of interpleader. That the total number of parcels of real property, all located in the County of Los Angeles and State of California, described in said Lis Pendens was approximately 3700. That the book and page of such recording is not known to affiant, the original document not having been received back from the office of the County Recorder as of this date.

That in addition to the reasons hereinabove set forth for the preparation and recording of said Lis Pendens, the recording of the same was deemed necessary by reason of the continued demands of said Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for reconveyances of deeds of trust in the possession of said A. V. Ammann, delivered to Title Service Company, since the filing of the Cross-Claim in Interpleader herein. That no proof of the authority of the said A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator, has ever been presented to the Title Service Company and that it has no actual notice of his appointment of such, nor of the authority purportedly granted to him. That the prayer of said cross-claim, among other things, prayed that the Defendants having said trust deeds in their possession, including the said A. V. Ammann, be required to deliver the same into the Registry of this Court, and that the adverse claimants set forth their respective claims thereto. That in the body of said cross-claim in interpleader it was alleged that the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association had, on the 3rd day of June, 1946, advised the said Title Service Company, in writing, that it, the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, did not recognize the authority of the said A. V. Ammann and that it had not authorized him to execute any requests for reconveyances on its behalf and directing it not to reconvey upon the strength of such requests and further stating that if the said Title Service 513 Company did so reconvey, and such reconveyances were held to have been executed and delivered without proper authority that the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would hold Title Service Company liable in damages for any damages suffered thereby. That affiant is informed and believes that this information was known to the Defendant Ammann by reason of service upon him of a copy of said cross-claim. That notwithstanding such knowledge in said Ammann, and after such service upon him, he continued to deliver to Title Service Company requests for reconveyances and that since said time he has delivered to Title Service Company eighteen (18) such requests for reconveyances, executed by himself as the purported Conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

In view of all of the foregoing, it is respectfully submitted on behalf of the Title Service Company that the pending motions for dismissals should be denied and that the returns of summons should not be quashed, and that the entire matter should be heard and decided on the merits.

July 12, 1946

This cause coming on ex parte; J. Henry McCasek, Esq., appearing for the Intervener, Home Investment Company of Long Beach; Harry O. Wallace, Esq., appearing for the Title Service Co.; Ray F. Dougherty, Esq., Associate General Counsel, Home Loan Bank Board, appearing, and Ronald Walker, Esq., Asst. U. S. Attorney, appearing for A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The Court informs counsel as follows: "I have signed an order directing the deposit in Court of the sum of $778,927.90, plus interest subsequent to June 30, 1946, directing the execution of 174 trust deed reconveyances, the manner of payment and other things. The order is approved as to form by counsel for all of the parties who have heretofore appeared. While the order is signed, it will be merely lodged with the Clerk and the Clerk is directed to file it only when the Home Investment Co. of Long Beach deposits the sum of money therein required by the order to be deposited by them and the Title Service Co by actual reconveyances on all of the trust deeds. They will be ordered lodged with the Clerk and to be filed upon the same conditions. The requests for reconveyances of the 174 trust deeds heretofore lodged with the Clerk by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and now held by him will be filed likewise upon the same conditions, so that simultaneously they will be filed, the requests for reconveyances by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the reconveyances by the Title Service Co., the order which I have just signed, and the sum of money approximating $800,000.00, the precise amount being set forth in the order.

521 I will make the further provision that the requests for reconveyances and the reconveyances shall be returned to the parties upon demand and the order returned to me for destruction of my signature by the Clerk unless the money is on deposit with the Clerk in compliance with the terms of the order on or about Wednesday, July 17, 1946, at 5 P.M."

This cause coming on for hearing on the following matters:

(1) Motion of plaintiff for a preliminary injunction to restrain defendants from merging or consolidating the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or its assets with other institutions, and to take testimony and evidence at the hearing thereof, pursuant to notice thereof, filed June 14, 1946:

(2) Motion of A. V. Ammann, both individually and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss, pursuant to notice thereof, filed June 14, 1946;

(3) Motion of plaintiffs for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding an an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, et al., pursuant to notice thereof, filed June 20, 1946;

(4) Motion of interpleader, Title Service Co., for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, et al., pursuant to notice thereof, filed June 28, 1946;

(5) Motions of the plaintiffs to continue in force the temporary restraining orders to restrain the merging of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with any other institutions; and to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, until the final adjudication and determination on the motions for a preliminary injunction, pursuant to notice thereof, filed July 5, 1946;

523 (6) Motion of defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, to dismiss or in lieu thereof, to quash service of summons, pursuant to notice thereof, filed July 5, 1946;

(7) Motion of defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as a Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss answer and cross-claim in interpleader of Title Service Co., and Robert H. Wallis, pursuant to notice thereof, filed July 5, 1946:

Wyckoff Westover and Steadman G. Smith, Esqs., appearing for the plaintiffs; H. O. Wallace, Esq., appearing for Title Service Co.; Raymond Tremaine, Esq., appearing for defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis; Chas. M. Chapman, Esq., appearing for Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; James M. Carter, Esq., United States Attorney, and Ronald Walker, Esq., Assistant United States Attorney, appearing for defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; Ray E. Dougherty, Esq., Associate General Counsel, appearing for Home Loan Bank Administration:

On motion of Attorney Walker, it is ordered that Moe Silverman, Esq., may be admitted as associate counsel for the purpose of this case only.

Attorney Westover orally moves to amend the complaint, and there being no objections to said motion, the same is ordered granted and amendment ordered filed.

Attorney Chapman informs the Court, and orally gives notice to counsel for defendants Ammann and Fahey, that the Board of Directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association have resolved to meet and pass a resolution that approximately $800,000.00 be deposited with the Clerk of this Court in lieu of 174 trust deeds now on deposit with the Clerk.

Attorney Westover now argues to the Court in support of motion for an injunction, and on motion of said attorney, and there being no objections thereto, it is ordered that the temporary restraining order and order restraining administrative hearing be continued in full force and effect until the determination of this three-judge Court re the question of constitutionality at issue herein.

524 Attorney Westover continues his argument.

The Court of three judges informs counsel that this Court will consider, only, the question of the constitutionality of the Statute and any questions arising beyond that may be heard by a District Judge or a one-man Court.

Attorney Chapman argues in support of the preliminary injunction.

Attorney Wallace argues in support of the temporary restraining order to restrain the administrative hearing.

At 3:55 P.M. Court recesses and reconvenes at 4:20 P.M.; all present as before.

Attorney Tremain argues in support of the preliminary injunction.

Attorney Chapman argues further.

At 4:45 P.M. Court recesses herein until 10 A.M., July 16, 1946.

Amendments to complaint—Filed July 15, 1946

The plaintiffs herein respectfully submit motion to amend their Complaint in enumerated particulars to make the same more clear and definite; and

The plaintiffs herein respectfully submit these Points and Authorities in reply to:

1. Memorandum of defendant A. V. Ammann in opposition to Restrain Merger, etc. and

2. Memorandum of defendant A. V. Ammann in opposition to Motion for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the Holding of an Administrative Hearing.

WESTOVER & SMITH,

WYCKOFF WESTOVER,

533 AMENDMENT TO THE COMPLAINT

Come now, the plaintiffs, and pursuant to the provisions of Rule 15 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure respectfully request leave of this Honorable Court to amend their Complaint, and that the Complaint be hereby amended in the following particulars:

1. That Paragraph I, on Page 3, after subdivision (d) at line 15, be amended thereto by adding subdivision (e).

"The plaintiffs are now informed and upon such information allege:"

"That the defendant John H. Fahey is a resident of Swampscott in the State of Massachusetts." (See affidavit of Ray E. Dougherty attached to the Motion to Dismiss of John H. Fahey); and "That the defendant A. V. Ammann is a resident of the State of Maryland." (See affidavit of Robert H. Wallis heretofore filed.)

"That diversity of citizenship exists between the plaintiffs, residents of California, and various of the defendants non-residents of the State of California."

2. That paragraph IV on Page 5 at line 18, in order to more definitely comply with Rule 24 (b) Federal Rules of Civil Procedure be amended by adding thereto:

"That this action is not a collusive one to confer on a Court of the United States, jurisdiction of any action of which it would not otherwise have jurisdiction."

"That the plaintiffs were on the 20th day of May, 1946, and still are shareholder members and have not made an effort to secure from the managing directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, action to enforce the rights here asserted because so to do would have been an idle act for the following reasons:"

"(a) If the acts here in question, are unconstitutional the officers and directors of said Association would 534 not have statutory authority to act for the Association.

(b) If the Acts, here in question are held to be constitutional and the Federal Regulations are held to be valid they deprive the officers and directors of said Association of authority to institute legal action on behalf of the Association and provide that:

"Such officers and directors, or any of them, shall not hereafter have, exercise, or act in connection with, any such rights, powers, or privileges, or any asset or property of any nature of the Association;"—(Federal Regulations Part VI—Sec. 207.3—adopted by the defendant John H. Fahey as Federal Home Loan Bank Administrator, August 15, 1943.)

3. That Paragraph VIII on Page 8 at Line 20 be amended by adding thereto:

"That no legal grounds or justification existed for the appointment of the purported Conservator, the defendant A. V. Ammann, by the defendant John H. Fahey.

4. That Paragraph XII on Page 13 at line 22 be amended by adding thereto:

"That neither the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended nor any of the rules or regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration provide, nor afford, any administrative remedy, or relief for the shareholder members of any Federal Savings and Loan Association, either before or after the seizure of such an Association by a purported Conservator therefore." That on and after May 20, 1946, there did not exist any administrative remedy for these plaintiff shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to exhaust.

535 That Paragraph (a) and (d) of Section 1464 of Title 12 of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933 of the Federal Code are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States, and the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto and thereunder by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Administration, and/or commissioner are contrary to, and repugnant to the Constitution of the United States and are void.

The above amendments are offered pursuant to the provisions of Rule 15 of the Rules of Civil Procedure in order clarify and make more definite the pleading in order that all issues may be settled in a single suit.

Amendments to pleading may be offered subsequently to the filing of a Motion to Dismiss and a Hearing thereon.

Order directing execution of 174 trust deed reconveyances, directing manner of payment, and defining rights of parties

Filed July 20, 1946

546 An Order having been regularly issued and served requiring the Plaintiffs and Defendants to appear and show cause, if any they had, why, among other things, they should not be required to do and abide by the things hereinafter ordered, and the same having come on regularly for hearing on the 8th day of July, 1946, in Court Room No. 3 of the above-entitled Court, and proof having been made, and the Court finds that service of the aforesaid Order, together with a copy of Intervener's petition and Complaint, had been made on all parties plaintiffs and defendants in accordance with the requirements of the aforesaid Order, now comes F. Henry Ne Casek, attorney for the Intervener, Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation; Messrs. Westover & Smith, attorneys for the Plaintiffs herein: Messrs. Thomas & Wallace, attorneys for Title Service Company, a corporation; Raymond Tremaine, attorney for Robert H. Wallis;

Charles K. Chapman, attorney, for The Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association, an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America; James M. Carter, United States District Attorney, attorney for A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator of The Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; and the defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner and/or as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, having been served with a copy of the Order To Show Cause, together with a copy of Intervener's petition and complaint, in compliance with the requirements of the aforesaid order, and having failed to appear and answer hereto; and evidence having been introduced and the matter submitted to the Court for decision, the Court now finds:

(1) That the total amount of the demand of A. V. Ammann, as Conservator of The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and of The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for the payment in full of principal, interest and costs of the one hundred and seventy-four (174) trust deed loans of the Intervener, hereinafter enumerated, is the sum of $774,927.90 up to and including the 30th day of June, 1946, and the additional amount due for each day thereafter up to and including the date of payment is the sum of $95,217.

(2) That the said 174 notes and deeds of trust have been deposited with the Clerk of this Court,

(3) That the defendant Title Service Company, a corporation, is the named trustee in said deeds of trust.

(4) That two sets of requests for reconveyances of said 174 deeds of trust, one set duly executed by A. V. Ammann, as Conservator of The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and one set duly executed by the said The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, without having been ordered so to do in these proceedings, directed to and requesting the Title Service Comp v, as trustee, to reconvey said deeds of trust, have been deposited with the Clerk of this Court, and said re-conveyances are to be effective only upon payment of the sums of money in the manner as hereinafter set forth.

(5) That no cause has been shown why any of the following Orders should not be made or performed.

548 (6) That said Orders and the performance thereof are reasonably necessary and are required by the circumstances of the parties and that the payment of the money in the amounts and at the times directed and the doing of any other things directed herein, can be performed by the party ordered to perform the same.

Wherefore, it is hereby Ordered and Decreed as follows, to wit:

That the defendant Title Service Company is hereby directed to forthwith deposit with the Clerk of this Court, 174 duly executed and acknowledged reconveyances, together with a copy of each thereof, reconveying to the persons legally entitled thereto all of its interest and all the right, title and interest of the beneficiary, The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of Long Beach, California, an association organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the United States of America, and also all the right, title and interest of said Conservator, in and to the real property, the said notes and deeds of trust, as hereinafter more fully described.

That said 174 reconveyances shall be held by the Clerk of this Court and the said Clerk is hereby ordered and directed to deliver said 174 original reconveyances to the order of the Intervener, Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation, upon clearance of the payment by it to the said Clerk of this Court of the sum of $774,927.90 principal, interest and costs up to and including the 30th day of June, 1946, and the additional sum of $95.217 for each day thereafter up to and including the date of payment; that the sum of $7,972.50, representing a one per cent (1%) bonus for advance payment due the Federal Housing Authority, and the sum of $435.00, representing trustee's fees due the Title Service Company, as trustee, included in said principal sum, shall be so designated and segregated by said Clerk upon deposit of said sums in the registry of the Court.

That upon payment of the aforesaid amounts to 549 the Clerk of this Court, the said Clerk shall forthwith deposit said sums of money in the registry of this Court, and said amounts shall remain on deposit in the registry until the further order of this Court, and the rights heretofore existing of each and every party to this action, except as to the Intervener Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a corporation, its successors or assigns, be and the same are hereby expressly reserved and preserved without prejudice and shall be enforced against the said sum of deposited money to all intents and purposes as though said reconveyances had not been executed and delivered pursuant to this Order.

That the Clerk of this Court is directed to accept in payment thereof either a cashier's check payable to himself drawn by the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association or by the Security First-National Bank of Los Angeles, or cash lawful money of the United States, but he is to perform no acts hereunder until said checks have cleared.

That the Clerk of this Court shall take the receipt of the Intervener upon delivery of the 174 reconveyances, and he shall also issue a receipt to the Intervener for all sums of money received by him.

That upon deposit and clearance of the total consideration paid by Intervener the Clerk is directed to cancel said trust deed notes and trust deeds by marking thereon, "Cancelled pursuant to Order of Court dated July , 1946," and he shall retain said cancelled trust deed notes and trust deeds in the registry of this Court; and that upon payment of the said sums of money and the delivery of the 174 original reconveyances, the Clerk shall also retain the copies of said reconveyances, together with two sets of requests for reconveyances, in the registry of this Court.

That this Court reserves jurisdiction of this matter so as to enable it to make such other and further orders in the premises to carry out the terms, conditions 550 and provisions of this Order, and for the allowance of attorneys fees and costs, if any, and otherwise.

That the real property, trust deed notes and deeds of trust affected by this Order, and hereinabove referred to, are described as follows:

One Hundred and Seventy-four (174) trust deed notes, dated December 15th, 1943, excepting one which is dated October 24th, 1944, pertaining to Lot 68, all executed by Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a California corporation, secured by deeds of trust of even dates, executed by Home Investment Co. of Long Beach, a California corporation, as Trustor, to Title Service Company, a California corporation, as Trustee, in favor of and made payable to The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a Federal corporation, as Beneficiary, all of which were recorded December 20th, 1943, in the official records of Los Angeles County in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, California, excepting the one pertaining to Lot 68 which was recorded December 1, 1944.

That the following is the face amount of each note, the legal description of the property covered by the deed of trust securing the note, together with the book and page in which the Deed of Trust securing said note is recorded; That all of said real properties are located in Tract No. 12529, in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 256, pages 18, 19 and 20 of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County, State of California.

Notice of motion for permission to file supplemental cross-claim in interpleader

Filed Aug. 9, 1946

To John H. Fahey, individually and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner; Paul Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin and Westover and Smith, your attorneys; A. V. Ammann, individually and as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and James Carter, United States Attorney, Ronald Walker and Mildred Kluckhohn, Assistant United States Attorney, your attorneys; Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and Charles K. Chapman, your attorney; Robert H. Wallis and Raymond Tremaine, your attorney:

You, and each of you, will please take notice, and you are hereby notified, that on Monday, the 9th day of September, 1946, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard, in the Court Room of the 568 Honorable Peirson M. Hall, Judge of the United States District Court, Federal Building, in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, the Defendant and Cross-Claimant Title Service Company will present to this Honorable Court a Motion for Permission to file a Supplemental Cross-Claim in Interpleader.

This motion will be made pursuant to the provisions of Rule 15 (d) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and will be based upon this Defendant and Cross-Claimant's original Cross-Claim in Interpleader. Affidavits to be filed in support of said motion and the proposed Supplementary Cross-Claim in Interpleader, all of which documents are attached hereto and served herewith, save and except this party's original Cross-Claim in Interpleader to which reference is hereby made in the original files of this action.

Dated at Long Beach, California, this—day of August, 1946.

Motion for permission to file supplemental cross-claim in interpleader

Filed Aug. 9, 1946

Comes now the Defendant and Cross-Complainant in Interpleader Title Service Company and moves this Honorable Court for permission to file a Supplemental Cross-Claim in Interpleader, in order to bring before the Court the matters set forth in its proposed Supplemental Cross-Claim in Interpleader, a copy of which is attached hereto and to which reference is hereby made for greater particularity, and in order to relieve itself of the liability and responsibility for approximately twenty-five (25) trust deeds and promissory notes, together with the purported requests for reconveyances thereof executed by the defendant A. V. Ammann as the purported Conservator for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, all of which have been presented to this Defendant subsequent to the filing of its original Cross-Claim in Interpleader herein.

This moving Defendant and Cross-Claimant also asks permission of this Honorable Court to file additional supplemental cross-claims in interpleader, from time to time, in the future, as additional trust deeds, promissory notes and requests for reconveyances may be presented to it, without the necessity of the filing and hearing of further motions for permission so to do, in order to save the time of the Court and of all parties to the action.

This motion is made pursuant to the provisions of Section 15 (d) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and is based upon the original Cross-Claim in Interpleader filed herein by this Defendant and Cross-Claimant, the affidavits of Ethel L. Roberts, Assistant Secretary of the Title Service Company, a corporation and of H. O. Wallace, of counsel for this moving party, and upon all of the files in said action.

Dated at Long Beach, California, this 9 day of August, 1946.

Supplemental cross-claim in interpleader

Comes now the Defendant and Cross-Claimant, Title Service Company, leave of Court so to do having heretofore been had and obtained, and for a Supplemental Cause of Action and Cross-Claim in Interpleader Against the Defendant, John H. Fahey and All Other Remaining Named Defendants, alleges:

I

Incorporates herein Paragraphs II, III, IV, VI, IX, X, XI and XII of its original cross-claim in interpleader with the same force and effect as though the same were herein set forth in full.

II

(a) This action arises under the Fifth Amend-
572 ment of the Constitution of the United States of America, in that Plaintiffs have been deprived of property in excess of Twenty-six million Dollars ($26,000,000.00), without due process of law as hereinafter more fully appears.

(b) This action also arises under and involves the interpretation and effect of the following acts of Congress of the United States of America:

1. "Home Owners Loan Act of 1933", as amended—Public No. 43—73rd Congress—48 Statutes 1932 (June 13, 1933—Chapter 64, Paragraph 1, 48 Statutes 1928).

2. "Federal Home Loan Bank Act", as amended—Public No. 304—72nd Congress (July 22, 1932, Chapter 522, Paragraph 1, 47 Statutes 725 and amendments thereto).

3. "The National Housing Act"—Public No. 479 73rd Congress (June 27, 1934, Chapter 847, 48 Statutes 1246 and amendment thereto), and

4. Regulations, rules and directives purportedly made and adopted pursuant to and under each and all of said Acts.

(c) This action involves amounts in controversy in excess exclusive of interest and costs, of the sum of Three Thousand ($3,000.00), Dollars, to-wit: involves amounts in controversy in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars.

(d) This action also seeks injunctive relief to prevent the wrongful dissipation of private property in amounts in excess of Twenty-six Million ($26,000,000.00) Dollars, wrongfully taken without due process of law and to restrain the enforcement, operation and execution, in whole or in part, of Acts of Congress, upon the ground that such Acts or parts thereof, are repugnant to the Constitution of the United States; and Amendment
573 V thereof, and therefore pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) Title 28 of the Federal Judicial Code, this defendant respectfully requests the senior Circuit Judge of the Ninth Judicial Circuit to immediately designate three (3) Judges to comprise the Court to hear this action as in said Section 380 (a) provided.

This action also arises under Title 28, Section 41, subdivision 26, subsections a, b, c, d, and e of the Federal Judicial Code. Defendant, Title Service Company, a corporation, is a citizen of the State of California. Defendants, John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and/or as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, is a resident of Washington, District of Columbia, and that John H. Fahey, as an individual is a resident of the State of Massachusetts; that A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is a resident of Washington, District of Columbia, and that A. V. Ammann, as an individual is a resident of the State of Maryland, which are other than the State of California. The amount in controversy in the principal action, exceeds $500.00, and this Defendant is informed and believes said sum amounts to approximately $26,000,000.00. The amount involved in this Defendant's cross-claim exceeds $500.00, to-wit: is approximately the sum of $12,000,000.00.

III

That since the filing of its original cross-claim in interpleader herein, and after the service upon him of the Alias Summons on the Cross-Claim in Interpleader and the service upon him of a copy of said cross-claim in interpleader of the Defendant, Title Service Company, the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported conservator for the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association did, on the 21st day of June, 1946, deliver to the Title Service Company fifteen (15) promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with requests for full reconveyances
574 thereof executed by himself, which documents are listed with particularity in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof, and did demand that this Defendant make, execute and deliver to the makers of said trust deeds and promissory notes said full reconveyances thereof.

That thereafter, and on the 8th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann did deliver to the Title Service Company three (3) additional promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with requests for full reconveyances thereof executed by himself, which documents are listed with particularity in Exhibit "B" attached hereto and made a part hereof, and did demand that this Defendant make, execute and deliver to the makers of said trust deeds and promissory notes said full reconveyances thereof.

That thereafter, and on the 12th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann did deliver to the Title Service Company six (6) additional promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with requests for full reconveyances thereof executed by himself, which documents are listed with particularity in Exhibit "C" attached hereto and made a part hereof, and did demand that this Defendant make, execute and deliver to the makers of said trust deeds and promissory notes said full reconveyances thereof.

That thereafter, and on the 13th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann did deliver to the Title Service Company, one (1) additional promissory note and deed of trust securing the same, together with a request for a full reconveyance thereof executed by himself, which documents are described with particularity in Exhibit "D" attached hereto and made a part hereof, and did demand that this Defendant make, execute and deliver to the maker of said promissory note and trust deed said full reconveyance thereof.

IV

That by reason of the notice theretofore served upon it by the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the effect that the purported appointment of the said A. V. Ammann is invalid and of no effect and that the said A. V. Ammann is without authority to act for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, said association being the named beneficiary in all of the deeds of trust hereinabove described, this Defendant, Title Service Company is faced with conflicting, inconsistent and contrary demands. That the total face value of the hereinabove described promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same is $61,632.90. That said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, in writing, has notified Title Service Company not to reconvey said deeds of trust upon the demands of the said A. V. Ammann, and has warned Title Service Company that if such reconveyances are issued said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will hold it in damages for the total amount of said deeds of trust and the promissory notes which the same were given to secure. Said Title Service Company is not interested nor concerned with the said conflicting demands, but that it will be imperiled whichever way it attempts to decide such controversy.

V

That Defendant, Title Service Company, herewith deposits with the Registry of this Court said twenty-five (25) promissory notes and trust deeds securing the same hereinabove described, aggregating the sum of $61,632.90 face value, together with requests for reconveyances presented to it by the said A. V. Aminann, purporting to act as Conservator for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

VI

That at no time since the 20th day of May, 1946, the date of the purported appointment of the said A. V. Ammann as the alleged Conservator for the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, has any documentary evidence, or any evidence other than hearsay, been given, directed or delivered to the Defendant, 576 Title Service Company, of the authority, if any, of the said A. V. Ammann.

Wherefore, Defendant and Cross-Claimant, Title Service Company, prays judgment as follows:

1. That said Defendants and each and all of them be ordered by this Honorable Court to interplead and litigate with each other and with this Defendant and Cross-Claimant, their various conflicting claims to the said twenty-five (25) trust deeds and promissory notes with the face value of $61,632.90 deposited with the Registry of this Honorable Court herewith.

2. That this Honorable Court adjudge and determine between the parties hereto their respective rights, title and interest in and to the said promissory notes and trust deeds and each and all of the same deposited herewith. That the Court adjudicate the validity of the conflicting claims of the said Defendants Fahey and Ammann and the said Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, thus set forth and presented to it.

3. That the cross-claimant, Title Service Company, be instructed and ordered by this Honorable Court, as to its rights and duties as named trustee in each and all of the twenty-five (25) deeds of trust deposited herewith.

4. That cross-claimant, Title Service Company, be released and discharged of and from any and all responsibility and liability as trustee under said twenty-five (25) trust deeds deposited herewith, and any and all of the same, except as directly adjudicated by Decree of this Court.

5. That cross-claimant, Title Service Company, herein recover its costs and expenses and a further reasonable sum for attorneys' fees incurred, and their costs and expenses, and that said sum so allowed, together with beneficiary's costs and expenses be ordered paid by Defendants Fahey and Ammann and/or Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association from assets of said Association in possession of said Defendants, or any and all of the same.

577 6. And for such other and further relief as to this Court may seem meet and proper in the premises.

Affidavit of H. O. Wallace in support of motion for permission to file supplemental cross-claim in interpleader
Filed Aug. 9, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss.:

H. O. Wallace, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is a member of the firm of Thomas and Wallace, the attorneys of record for the Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader, Title Service Company, in the above entitled and numbered matter. That he has had the exclusive charge and handling of said litigation for his firm and that he is more fully familiar with the matters set forth herein than any other person.

That since the 3rd day of June, 1946, he has received an average of not less than six telephone calls or 586 personal calls from persons, firms, corporations or escrow officers regarding the obtaining of reconveyances of titles to real property affected by deeds of trust wherein the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the beneficiary, the Title Service Company is the trustee and the person making such calls was the maker or the agent of the maker. That in each case he has attempted to explain to the caller the reason why reconveyances could not be given by the Title Service Company and that the matter of authority to issue such reconveyances is now pending before this Honorable Court for consideration.

That in company of counsel for the Plaintiffs in said action, counsel for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and with counsel for the Defendants, Ammann and Fahey, your affiant has tried to reach a basis for stipulation under the terms of which such reconveyances could be issued; but that counsel for the Defendants Ammann and Fahey, have consistently declined to enter into any such stipulation.

That affiant has been informed by many of his callers, referred to above, that they have escrows pending for the sale of their respective parcels of real property affected by the deeds of trust hereinabove referred to and that by reason of their inability to obtain reconveyances that such escrows were about to be cancelled, or were, in fact, being cancelled, resulting in financial losses to themselves by reason of matters over which they had no control. That as a result thereof legal actions have been threatened against Title Service Company for damages for failure to reconvey. That many of such callers have stated to affiant that they have paid to the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association the full balance due upon their respective promissory notes and have been told that reconveyances of their deeds of trust could be obtained from the Title Service Company.

That many of the callers hereinabove referred to 587 are ex-service personnel who are seeking to obtain loans under the "G-I Bill" and others are seeking to refinance their homes or to purchase homes under the provisions of the California State Veterans' Welfare Act, but that by reason of their inability to obtain reconveyances on outstanding deeds of trust that they are unable so to do.

That one of such callers, a Mrs. Woods, has represented to affiant that she is in great need of surgery and hospitalization and that it is necessary for her to refinance her real property, covered by a deed of trust, and that by reason of her inability to obtain a reconveyance she is unable so to do, and that she is undergoing needless physical suffering as a result thereof.

That so far as affiant has been able to ascertain there are at least 150 persons who are seeking to obtain such reconveyances, part of whom are acting individually and part of whom are acting through various escrow offices and other financial institutions.

That by reason of all of the premises aforesaid affiant verily believes that the Title Service Company may be made the object of varied and numerous actions in law and in equity to require the making, execution and delivery of reconveyances under deeds of trust whereunder it is the trustee and the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the beneficiary, and for damages for failing to so reconvey, unless the protection of this Honorable Court, in equity, is extended to said Title Service Company and it is allowed to interplead such promissory notes and deeds of trust. That such actions would be unavailing to the litigants and would cause additional expense and vexation to said Title Service Company.

That the reason advanced by counsel for the Defendants, Fahey and Ammann for declining to enter into any stipulation for the payment into the Registry of this Court of the money due under the promissory notes and deeds of trust hereinabove referred to as the basis for the issuance of reconveyances is that such procedure would establish a precedent and would result in depriving said defendants of sufficient funds wherewith to carry on the business of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association which they are allegedly conserving. That in truth and in fact the number of notes seeking to be paid off and trust deeds reconveyed are a small proportion, being approximately in the ratio of 150 to 8000.

That the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, in his capacity as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association has heretofore handed to the Title Service Company, twenty-five (25) promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, aggregating $61,632.90, with requests for reconveyances thereof, executed by himself. That it is the best judgment and opinion of affiant that said documents should be deposited with the Registry of this Honorable Court, in interpleader, pending the outcome of the pending litigation.

Dated at Long Beach, California, this 8th day of August, 1946.

Affidavit of Ethel L. Roberts in support of motion for permission to file supplemental cross-claim in interpleader

Filed Aug. 9, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss.:

Ethel L. Roberts, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That she is the Assistant Secretary of the Title Service Company, a California corporation, a Defendant and Cross-Claimant in Interpleader in the above entitled and numbered action.

That on the 21st day of June, 1946, the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, delivered unto Title Service Company, a total of fifteen (15) promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same, together with requests for reconveyances of 590 said trust deeds executed by himself. That on the 8th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann delivered unto the Title Service Company an additional three (3) such promissory notes, trust deeds and requests for reconveyances; that on the 12th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann delivered unto the Title Service Company an additional six (6) such promissory notes, trust deeds and requests for reconveyances; and that on the 13th day of July, 1946, the said A. V. Ammann delivered to the Title Service Company one (1) additional such promissory note, trust deed and request for reconveyance. That in all of such documents the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was either named as the payee of the promissory note, or the assignee of the payee, and as the beneficiary under the deeds of trust securing the same, or as the assignee of such beneficiary. That the Title Service Company was the named trustee in all of said deeds of trust. That the total face value of said promissory notes is $61,632.90.

That on or about the 3rd day of June, 1946, there was delivered to the Title Service Company by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its notice and demand, in writing, wherein and whereby the Title Service Company was notified that the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association did not recognize the validity of the purported appointment of A. V. Ammann, as the alleged Conservator for said Association, that the validity of such appointment and the constitutionality of the Acts of Congress and the regulations adopted pursuant thereto under which said purported appointment was allegedly made, were being attacked in this Honorable Court and advising and warning Title Service Company not to make any reconveyances upon the request of the said A. V. Ammann and stating that the Title Service Company would be held liable for such damages as might accrue to the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association should it so reconvey.

591 That the said A. V. Ammann has never delivered to Title Service Company any evidence of his authority as such purported Conservator and that the only information in that regard had by the Title Service Company is hearsay or self-serving statement made or written by the said A. V. Ammann.

That since the 20th day of May, 1946, the date upon which the Defendant, A. V. Ammann assumed the control of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, affiant, or those employees of the Title Service Company working with her or under her supervision, have received an average of at least ten (10) calls per day from persons, firms or corporation representatives, seeking to obtain reconveyances of trust deeds under which the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is the beneficiary. That it is the best estimate of affiant that there are approximately 150 such trust deeds under which the trustors are seeking reconveyances. That, as related to affiant by many of such callers, great hardship is being worked on many such persons and they have been caused financial loss by reason of the inability of Title Service Company to issue the requested reconveyances. That many such persons have been recently discharged from the armed services of the United States and are trying to take advantage of either the "G-I Bill" of the California Veterans' Welfare Act in the purchase or refinancing of homes, but are unable so to do until such time as they can obtain reconveyances of such trust deeds.

That unless the Defendant and Cross-Claimant, Title Service Company is allowed to deposit the hereinabove described promissory notes, deeds of trust and requests for reconveyances, aggregating $61,632.90 in face value, it will be submitted to continuing conflicting cross-claim and possible litigation as a result thereof. That it has been represented to affiant by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the named payee under all of said promissory notes, that it has no information or 592 belief as to whether the indebtedness represented by said notes has been paid, and if so to whom the same has been paid, notwithstanding the recitation in the face of the requests for reconveyance executed by the said A. V. Ammann that the indebtedness evidenced by said promissory notes has been paid in full.

Cross-claim to enforce legal and equitable claims to, to obtain possession of, and to remove liens from and clouds upon title to, property and for other and general relief

Filed Aug. 26, 1946

597 Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, a body corporate, sued herein as a third party defendant, as and for its cross-claim against cross-defendants above named and each of them, alleges:

1. This cross-claim is brought against the co-parties hereinabove named and arises out of the occur-ence that is the subject matter of the third party complaint of third party plaintiff Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association herein, to wit, the purported seizure of cross-claimant and its assets and its purported merger with cross-defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland on or about March 29, 1946, all as is set forth in Paragraph III of the third party complaint herein and as is hereinafter set forth in detail.

2. Jurisdiction of the action arises as is set forth in the original complaint herein and in the third party complaint aforesaid; and in addition thereto jurisdiction of this cross-claim arises under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, under Section 57 of the Judicial Code (28 U.S.C., Section 118) and under Sections 3, 12, 17, 25 and 26 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act (July 22, 1932; 47 Stat. 725 et seq., 12 U.S.C. Sections 1421-1499) and under the facts alleged in Paragraph 1 hereof; and this cross-claim is brought to enforce 598 legal and equitable claims to, to obtain possession of, and to remove clouds upon the title to, the hereinafter described assets and properties owned or held by cross-claimant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles as of March 29, 1946, and which are now situated within the Southern or Northern Districts of California. The matter in controversy exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum of $45,000,000.00.

3. Cross-claimant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles (sometimes hereinafter referred to as "Los Angeles Bank") is and at all times herein mentioned was a body corporate, a Federal Home Loan Bank duly established by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the authority and within the meaning of Chapter 11 of Title 12 of the United States Code.

4. Cross-defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland (hereinafter referred to as "Portland Bank") is and at all times herein mentioned was a body corporate, a Federal Home Loan Bank duly established by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board at Portland, Oregon, under the authority and within the meaning of Chapter 11 of Title 12 of the United States Code. Said Portland Bank on and since March 29, 1946, has been and is sometimes known and referred to as "Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco." Said Portland Bank has since said date of March 29, 1946, been purportedly engaged in business within the Southern District of California and is now found within said district in the course of its activities in such regard.

5. John H. Fahey is sued herein both individually and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board 599 purportedly serving as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner. He is hereinafter referred to in each and both of said capacities as "Commissioner." He is and at all times mentioned herein was the Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and since on or about February 24, 1942, has purportedly been serving as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner under the asserted authority of Title I of the First War Powers Act, December 18, 1941, 55 Stat. 838, 50 U.S.C. 601-605 and of Presidential Executive Order No. 9070 (February 24, 1942, 7 F.R. 1529). Commissioner is, as cross-claimant is informed and believes and hence alleges, a resident of a district other than and is not found within the Southern District of California. He is joined herein as an absent defendant, to wit, as a defendant to this cross-claim, within the meaning of Section 57 of the Judicial Code.

6. Los Angeles Bank is and at all times herein mentioned was the owner or, in the alternative, the lawful holder, either as pledgee, depositary, custodian, trustee or other bailee of its stockholders and members, and in any event entitled to the possession as against cross-defendants and each of them of all those certain assets and properties described as follows:

Its Corporate Franchise

Cash on hand and in bank (solvent credits) Value—$1,019,279.54.

Government securities owned or held as collateral, including owner's and bailor's interest in securities deposited with others for safekeeping Value—$22,860,958.56.

Advances to members (accounts receivable) Value—$21,624,186.47.

600 Accrued interest receivable Value $33,065.20.

Miscellaneous:

Leasehold interest (office), furniture and equipment, etc., all as shown on Exhibit A hereunto attached.

7. Said assets and properties and the whole thereof are within either the Southern or the Northern District of California. Cross-defendants and each of them and particularly the Portland Bank have full knowledge as to the whereabouts of said property. Cross-claimant herein is without knowledge with reference thereto since, as is hereinafter more particularly alleged, Los Angeles Bank was on March 29, 1946, ousted of possession of the aforesaid assets and properties by cross-defendants and each of them, which said ouster was wholly without right on the part of said cross-defendants or of either of them.

8. On March 29, 1946, Commissioner, without any prior notice, investigation, hearing, opportunity to be heard or warning whatever, arbitrarily and unlawfully seized the Los Angeles Bank and the whole of its assets and properties, being the assets and properties hereinabove described, ousted and turned out its officers and directors and purported to do each and all of the various other acts and things specified in his purported orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084, which said purported orders were and are in words and figures as follows:

Order No. 5082. Date March 29, 1946.

Whereas it has been and is hereby determined that the efficient and economical accomplishment of the purposes of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, will be aided by the action contemplated herein; now, therefore,

It is hereby ordered that effective March 29, 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles shall be liquidated and reorganized and all assets and property of any kind or nature of such bank, including any unexpended amounts in approved and outstanding budgets and personnel but excluding officers and directors, are hereby transferred to the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and all the liabilities and obligations of such Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles are to be assumed by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and are hereby declared to be and become the liabilities and obligations of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland. The President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland (hereinafter called Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco) is hereby authorized and directed to execute, issue or sign in the name of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles or in the name of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco as the successor and legal assignee of the assets, property, liabilities and obligations of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles such instrument or instruments as may be necessary or advisable and to cancel, assign, or otherwise dispose of in whole or in part, any lease under which the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles 602 has been bound or committed. All members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles are to become members of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland and the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland (hereinafter called Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco) is ordered and directed to issue appropriate evidences of the ownership of all of the stock formerly held by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles including stock purchased and held on behalf of the U. S. Government. The charter of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles is hereby cancelled.

It is further ordered and directed that effective March 29, 1946, the said Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland shall move and is hereby moved to the city of San Francisco, California, and shall be known hereafter as the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. Subject to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the charter and by-laws of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, including right of dismissal, said bank shall have as its directors, officers, employees, attorneys, and agents the directors, officers, employees, attorneys, and agents transferred, elected, designated, or appointed, to, by or for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland for the calendar year 1946 and shall operate under the charter and by-laws used by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland until duly changed.

It is further ordered and directed that effective March 29, 1946, and until changed by the Board of Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, the said Federal Home Loan Bank of San 603 Francisco shall maintain a branch of said bank in the cities of Portland, Oregon, and Los Angeles, California.

It is further ordered and directed that in order to provide for adequate representation of the states in the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco region, effective August 1, 1946, the terms of all directors of said bank shall expire and that prior to July 1, 1946, a new election of director shall be held. The terms of all officers of said bank shall expire upon the designation by the Board of Directors after August 1, 1946, of new officers and their approval by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration. In such election and in future elections of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco the states of Nevada and Arizona shall constitute one state with the right of minimum representation to be alternated between each of said states within the rules and regulations and orders of the Federal Home Loan Bank System providing for a minimum representation from each state in a Federal Home Loan Bank district. On or before July 1, 1946, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration shall appoint or reappoint four public-interest directors whose terms shall begin August 1, 1946, but shall end respectively December 31, 1946; December 31, 1947; December 31, 1948; and December 31, 1949.

It is further ordered and directed that the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco shall take such other action subject to the approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration as may be necessary or desirable for the effective operation of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

I hereby certify that the above is an order issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration on March 29, 1946.

[SEAL] (S.) A. V. AMMANN,
Assistant Secretary.

Federal Home Loan Bank Administration
Order No. 5083. Date March 29, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 3 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the powers vested in me by law, the district of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland is readjusted and shall have added thereto the states of Arizona, California and Nevada, and the Territory of Hawaii.

The said Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland is moved to San Francisco and shall be known as the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

Federal Home Loan Bank Administration
Order No. 5084. Date March 29, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 25 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the powers vested in me by 605 law the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles is dissolved.

* * * * * *

I hereby certify that the above is an order issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration on March 29, 1946.

[SEAL] (S.) A. V. AMMANN,
Assistant Secretary.

9. Thereafter, and pursuant to the terms of said purported orders, each and all of the assets and properties then owned or held by the Los Angeles Bank (other than its corporate franchise, purportedly abolished by purported Order No. 5084) were by Commissioner delivered over to Portland Bank and Portland Bank is now and ever since has been in possession of said assets and properties.

10. Said Orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084 were, on or about the date which they bear, published in the Federal Register and cross-defendants herein and each of them assert and claim that they and each of them were and are valid and proper exercises of administrative authority reposed in Commissioner by law. In truth and in fact, however, and as will appear by the facts herein elsewhere alleged, said orders and each of them and as well each and all of the acts and things done by cross-defendants and each of them pursuant thereto were and are wholly illegal, invalid and void, without reasonable justification or excuse and were the result and consummation of a plan and scheme on the part of said Commissioner, aided and abetted by said Portland Bank, whereby, he the said Commissioner, did arbitrarily and capriciously attempt to deprive cross-claimant herein of its 606 property without due or any process of law.

11. Furthermore, and as a result of said orders, Portland Bank and Commissioner and each of them assert and claim that Portland Bank is the owner or otherwise entitled to the possession of each and all of the said assets and properties other than said corporate franchise by virtue of said purported orders and the delivery of possession of said assets and properties to Portland Bank by Commissioner. Said claims and each of them were and are wholly without right.

12. Cross-claimant therefore alleges that said orders and each of them and as well each and all of the acts and things done or purported to be done by defendants and each of them pursuant thereto operated to and did (a) deprive it of its property without due or any process of law, (b) constitute a trespass and a fraud in law upon and an invasion of the constitutional rights of said Los Angeles Bank, and (c) cast a cloud upon the rights, titles and interests of Los Angeles Bank in and to those certain assets and properties of said Bank hereinabove described.

13. At all times herein mentioned down to the action taken by the Commissioner on March 29, 1946, and which is hereinabove set forth, the Los Angeles Bank was being efficiently and economically operated and its affairs were in a healthy and prosperous condition. As of December 31, 1945, it was the second largest in value of assets of the twelve Federal Home Loan Banks in the country; its advances to members were the highest of any of such other banks; the total of advances made by it and repaid during the year 1945 was the highest of any of said banks;
607 and its ratio of total compensation of officers and employees to gross operating income was the lowest of any of said banks. The assets, liabilities and capital of the Los Angeles Bank as of March 29, 1946, were as shown on that certain document hereunto annexed, marked Exhibit A, and made a part hereof.

14. In and by and subsequent to his said purported orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084, Commissioner attempted and purported, wholly without warrant of law or legal authority:

(a) To abolish, without notice or hearing or opportunity to be heard, the Twelfth Federal Home Loan Bank District consisting of the states of California, Arizona and Nevada and the Territory of Hawaii; and to establish a new district which said new district was established arbitrarily and wholly without regard to the convenience or customary course of business of the institutions eligible or likely to subscribe for stock in the Federal Home Loan Bank established within said district, including each and all of the stockholders and members of Los Angeles Bank;

(b) To preclude and to prevent, without notice or hearing or opportunity to be heard, the states of Nevada and Arizona from having their minimum representation of one director in the Federal Home Loan Bank established within their district all as provided in subparagraph (9) of Paragraph (a) of Section 2.4 of the rules and regulations for the Federal Home Loan Bank system;

(c) To liquidate, dissolve and reorganize the Los Angeles Bank, wholly without notice or hearing or opportunity to be heard and without taking any steps whatever toward paying off or retiring its stock either in 608 whole or in part or at all, and cross-claimant alleges in this connection on its information and belief that Commissioner has no intention of paying off or retiring said stock either in whole or in part or at all;

(d) To remove, in the guise of a seizure of the Los Angeles Bank, each and all of the directors and officers of the Los Angeles Bank wholly without cause (other than the refusal of said directors to accept the arbitrary dictates of Commissioner as to officer-personnel of said bank) and wholly without communicating the asserted cause or any cause of such removal either in writing or forthwith or at all to such directors or officers or any thereof;

(e) To confiscate wholly without notice or opportunity to be heard the stock in the Los Angeles Bank of each and every member and stockholder thereof;

(f) To compel each and all of the members and stockholders of the Los Angeles Bank against their will and without their consent and without any notice whatever or opportunity to be heard, to become members and stockholders of the Portland Bank, the assets of which said Portland Bank as at December 31, 1945 and as at March 29, 1946 comprised less than one-third of those of the Los Angeles Bank.

(g) On information and belief, to coerce and he did coerce the said Portland Bank, its directors and officers, wholly without the opportunity of exercising free choice in the matter, into purportedly acquiring the assets and assuming the liabilities of the Los Angeles Bank.

(h) To reduce the representation of the California members on the Board of Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank within their district from seven members to one; and in this connection cross-claimant alleges 609 that under the purport of said orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084 said California members do or would comprise in number more than 56% of the total members in the so-called Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and are or would be the purported holders of more than 65% of the total stock of said San Francisco bank held by the purported members thereof.

(i) To attempt to usurp and exercise wholly without the concurrence or knowledge of the or any of the other members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the functions and powers vested by law in such Board.

(j) To establish and to permit the operation and maintenance of a so-called branch of said Portland Bank in the City of Los Angeles, California.

15. The purported finding and determination of Commissioner in his Order No. 5082 that the efficient and economical accomplishment of the purposes of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, would be aided by the action contemplated therein was and is wholly untrue, sham and false. In truth and in fact the action taken by Commissioner on March 29, 1946, was but the culmination of a series of acts whereby the Commissioner attempted arbitrarily to dominate the affairs of the Los Angeles Bank wholly without regard for the well-being or the legitimate desires or wishes of said bank or of its directors, members and stockholders; and said action was wholly punitive and disciplinary and not otherwise.

16. The controversy between Commissioner and the Los Angeles Bank had its inception on November 23, 1944, with the death of one M. M. Hurford, former president of 610 said bank. Upon the death of Mr. Hurford, his duties as president devolved upon one C. E. Berry, vice-president. Mr. Berry was and is a man of long experience in Federal Home Loan Bank administration, and of demonstrated ability. At the time of Mr. Hurford's death, said C. E. Berry had been vice-president of the Los Angeles Bank for over seven years. Prior thereto he had been a field representative for the Federal Home Loan Bank administration for three and one-half years. Before that he had been engaged in the savings and loan business for more than thirteen years.

17. On December 15, 1944, the board of directors of the Los Angeles Bank unanimously elected Mr. Berry president of the bank to succeed Mr. Hurford. Such election was to take effect January 1, 1945. This action was heartily endorsed and approved by the members of the bank and by the savings and loan industry in the 12th District generally.

18. Approval of Commissioner as to Mr. Berry's election as president was sought by the bank on December 26, 1944.

19. On or about December 30, 1944, Commissioner notified the Los Angeles Bank that Berry's election was disapproved because he, Commissioner, had not had sufficient time to study the matter. On January 19, 1945, Berry was again unanimously elected president by the board of directors, and this action was unanimously approved by the members at the annual stockholders meeting on February 16th.

20. On March 12, 1945, Commissioner informally advised one D. G. Davis, then chairman of the board
611 of directors of the Los Angeles Bank, that he was unable to approve Berry's election because the latter, according to Commissioner, did not have the necessary background or experience and was not qualified to assume the responsibility of the office of president. His reasons as so given were specious and unfounded, and his actual reasons for such disapproval were other than as stated to said Davis, as will hereinafter appear.

21. On March 18, 1945, the board of directors appointed a committee of three to confer with the Commissioner in Washington with regard to the matter, and about the same time, and because of its importance to the industry generally, the California Savings and Loan League likewise sent a committee of three to Washington.

22. At the resulting conference in Washington the real reasons for Commissioner's refusal to approve the election were revealed. At first Commissioner stated that he had nothing against Berry except that the latter was not, as Commissioner put it, a "big" enough man for the job. Commissioner then stated in substance that he would approve no one unless there should be submitted to him a list of candidates from which he could choose the person to be subsequently elected by the directors. He stated that this had become his settled procedure, and that he would regard any departure from it as evidence of bad faith. He further stated that the responsibility for the election of officers rested solely with him irrespective of the opinion or wishes of either the board of directors or of the industry as a whole; that the acts of the board of the Los Angeles Bank were "stupid"; that he was in a better position to know what was good 612 for the industry in the 12th District than were the managing officers of the institutions constituting the membership of the bank, or the Board of Directors of the Bank, and that he and he alone would select the president irrespective of the actions of the board.

23. Despite Commissioner's persistent refusal to approve Mr. Berry as president, Commissioner has nevertheless permitted Berry, as vice-president and acting president of the Los Angeles Bank, and at all times since Mr. Hurford's death, to discharge without objection each and all of the functions and duties of president of the Los Angeles Bank down to March 29, 1946.

24. Commissioner's action on said latter date was precipitated by the fact that in early March of 1946, the controversy between the board of directors of the Los Angeles Bank and the Commissioner, was, by Congressman Cecil R. King of California, referred to the House of Representatives Select Committee to Investigate Acts of Executive Agencies beyond the Scope of their Authority, and by the further fact that the board thereof took steps toward employing counsel to assist in the presentation of the facts to the Committee. Commissioner was advised of this latter fact on or about March 15, 1946.

25. Cross-claimant alleges on its information and belief that between March 15 and March 25, 1946, Commissioner formulated a plan and scheme for punitive action and retaliation upon the Los Angeles Bank and its directors through the means of ordering its "liquidation," "dissolution," and "reorganization" by the means and methods evidenced by his orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084 herein-above referred to. On said latter date and in 613 order, as he conceived, to obstruct and, so far as he deemed it possible, to forestall, any judicial inquiry into his motives and activities in that regard, he caused to be promulgated and published in the Federal Register that certain bulletin 54, a copy of which is hereunto annexed, marked Exhibit B, and made a part hereof. As will be noted by reference to said exhibit, its general purport is and was to declare all records of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and all records in the possession of any person, including the Federal Home Loan Banks, as agents of said Administration, to be privileged and confidential to the end that such persons, if served with a subpoena duces tecum calling for the production of said records, were to "respectfully" decline to produce the same save only where authorized by the Commissioner. By taking such action Commissioner attempted arbitrarily and illegally to place himself above and beyond the law and the jurisdiction of the courts.

26. Four days after the promulgation of said bulletin 54, Commissioner, in pursuance of the plan and scheme aforesaid, seized the Los Angeles Bank and its assets and attempted to oust its officers and directors and to do each and all of the other acts and things purportedly authorized by his purported orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084 above mentioned.

27. Cross-claimant alleges that each and all of the acts and things done or purported to be done under the aforesaid orders and each of them were and are unlawful, void, and in excess of the authority vested in Commissioner by law, and that the same and each of them were and are arbitrary abuses of discretion on his part amounting to fraud in law upon the rights of cross-claimant
614 and which resulted in cross-claimant herein being deprived of its property without due or any process of law, and which has operated to and which has in fact cast false and fictitious liens and clouds upon the titles of cross-claimant to its assets and properties situated within this District and within the Northern District of California, all as is hereinabove more particularly alleged.

Wherefore, cross-claimant respectfully prays:

That said purported orders Nos. 5082, 5083 and 5084

and each of them, and as well, each and all of the acts and things done or purported to be done by cross-defendants or either of them pursuant to said purported orders be declared and adjudged to be null, void and of no effect and that any and all clouds and purported liens thereby created upon the hereinabove described assets or properties of cross-claimant herein be removed;

That the titles and rights to possession of cross-claimant as against cross-defendants and each of them to the assets and properties hereinabove described be confirmed and be declared, adjudged and established to be superior to and be quieted as against any and all claims or rights asserted by cross-defendants or either of them under or by virtue of said purported orders or any of them or under or by virtue of any acts or things done or purported to have been done thereunder or pursuant thereto; and that possession of the said assets and properties be restored to cross-claimant herein; that a writ of possession, or other appropriate process issue from this Court in order that the judgment herein with reference to such restoration of possession may appropriately be enforced; or, in the alternative, that Portland Bank be mandatorily ordered and enjoined to execute, by its officers thereunto duly authorized and within a period of 615 time to be specified in the judgment and decree herein, such deed or deeds, assignment or assignments or other instruments necessary or proper to vest in the Los Angeles Bank title and right to possession to any and all the above assets and properties now in the possession of Portland Bank and to deliver possession of the same pursuant thereto; and in default thereof that this Court appoint a commissioner or other appropriate officer duly authorized in and by said judgment and decree to execute such instrument or instruments in its behalf and that in such event appropriate process issue, as above prayed, in order that the Los Angeles Bank may be let into possession;

That Portland Bank be required to account to the cross-claimant with reference to any and all acts or omissions done or omitted to be done by said Portland Bank with reference to said assets and properties during its possession thereof and that judgment be rendered against it for any balance thereby found to exist in favor of cross-claimant;

That cross-defendants and each of them, their successors and assigns, be forever barred from asserting any claims whatever as against said assets or properties or any thereof and arising out of or by virtue of said purported orders or any of them or arising out of or by virtue of any acts or things done or purported to have been done thereunder or pursuant thereto;

That this Court make its order, in the event cross-defendant Fahey shall not voluntarily appear herein, directing said cross-defendant to appear, plead, answer or move to this cross-claim by a day certain to be designated therein, such order to be personally served, if practicable, upon said cross-defendant wherever found and, if not practicable, that such order be published in such manner as the Court shall direct, not less than 616 once a week for six consecutive weeks; and in case said cross-defendant shall not appear, plead, answer or move to the complaint within the time so limited, or within such further time as the Court in its discretion may allow, that the Court, upon proof of the service or publication of said order and of the performance of the direction contained in the same, entertain jurisdiction and proceed to the hearing and adjudication of this action as against Portland Bank in the same manner as if said cross-defendant Fahey had been served with process within this district; such adjudication, in such event, to affect only the assets and properties which are the subject of this action and as well the validity or invalidity of any legal or equitable liens upon or claims to or incumbrances or liens or clouds upon the title of the same or any thereof;

And that cross-claimant have and receive such other, further or different relief as may be meet and equitable in the premises.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK ADMINISTRATION

(Bulletin 54)

Part 7—Supervision

RECORDS AND FILES

Part 7 of the rules and regulations for the Federal Home Loan Bank System is hereby amended, effective as of March 25, 1946, by adding at the end thereof an additional section 7.3, reading as follows:

Sec. 7.3 Records of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration—(a) In control of the Bank Administration. —All records of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration are in its custody and control for purposes relating to the powers, duties and authorities of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, under the provisions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended. No officer or employee has any control over such records and no discretion with regard to permitting the use of them for any other purpose. All such officers and employees are hereby prohibited from giving out any official information obtained by any one of them on behalf of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or any of such records, to any private person or to any local officer or to any court, including the production of such records or copies thereof made pursuant to their official duties, whether in answer to a subpoena duces tecum or otherwise. Whenever any such subpoena shall have been served upon any of them, they will appear in court in answer thereto, and respectfully decline to produce the records called for, on the ground of being prohibited therefrom by this part.

620 (b) In control of agents, etc.—All records in the control of any person, including any of the Federal Home Loan Banks, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, or the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, in the capacity as agents of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or in the hands of any officer or employee of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, must be considered deemed to be privileged and confidential, and such records are in their custody and control for purposes relating to the powers, duties and authorities of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration under the provisions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, and the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended. They have no control over them and no discretion with regard to permitting the use of them for any purpose. All such agents are hereby prohibited from giving out any official information obtained by any one of them on behalf of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or any of such records to any private person or to any local officer or to any court, including the production of such records or copies thereof made pursuant to their official duties, whether in answer to a subpoena duces tecum or otherwise. Whenever any such subpoena shall have been served upon any of them, they will appear in court in answer thereto, and respectfully decline to produce the records called for, on the ground of being prohibited therefrom by this part.

(c) Confidential character.—The giving out of any such records or information or documents relative thereto, by any of the persons hereinabove referred to, is held to be contrary to public policy by reason of its privileged and confidential character involving delicate and sensitive matters relating to the condition and affairs of 621 financial institutions, and not to be permitted. In all cases where any such documents or records, or copies thereof, are desired by, or on behalf of, any private party, or parties to a suit, whether in a court of the United States or any other, such information, or copies shall be furnished only upon the written authorization or approval of the Commissioner of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or such person or persons as may be authorized by him to grant such authorization or approval.

This amendment is deemed to be of a procedural character within the meaning of sec. 8.3 of the rules and regulations for the Federal Home Loan Bank System.

Dated: March 25, 1946.

JOHN H. FAHEY,
Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

Affidavit for order directing service of process outside the district, or for publication thereof (Judicial Code, §57; 28 U.S.C. §118)

Filed Aug. 27, 1946

625 SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

C. E. Berry, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: He is an officer, to wit, vice president, of Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, a body corporate and cross-claimant in the above entitled action, and he makes this affidavit for and on its behalf. Said cross-claim is brought to enforce legal and equitable claims to, to obtain possession of and to remove liens from and clouds upon title to property, within the meaning of Section 57 of the Judicial Code, and for other and general relief. Said property is located within the State of California and is more particularly described in the cross-claim on file herein, reference to which is hereby made for further particulars. The larger portion of said property is located within the Southern District of California.

John H. Fahey is joined as a cross-defendant to said cross-claim, both individually and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board purportedly serving as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner. Said Fahey is not an inhabitant of nor is he found within the Southern District of California; his duties as above set forth require his presence in Washington in the District of Columbia, and he is to be found in said District at the office of 626 the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at 101 Indiana Avenue NW., in said City of Washington.

Wherefore, affiant prays on behalf of cross-claimant that an order issue directing personal service upon said Fahey either outside the Southern District of California and in the District of Columbia or, in the event such personal service be not practicable, then that said Fahey be served by publication in manner and form as provided in Section 57 of the Judicial Code.

C. E. BERRY.

Order directing service of process outside the district, or for publication thereof

Filed Aug. 27, 1946

628 Upon reading and filing the affidavit of C. E. Berry presented herewith, and good cause appearing;

It is ordered that cross-defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and cross-defendant John H. Fahey, as Chairman of The Federal Home Loan Bank Board purportedly serving as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and each of them, unless they shall have heretofore voluntarily appeared in the above entitled action, be and they each hereby are directed, on or before October 29, 1946, to appear, plead, answer or move to the cross-claim herein, and that, if practicable, a copy of this order, together with a copy of the cross-claim herein, be personally served upon each of said cross-defendants by the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia, at the office of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration at 101 Indiana Avenue, N.W., in the City of Washington, D. C.; or, if such personal service be not practicable, that this order be published once a week for seven consecutive weeks in Los Angeles Daily Journal, a newspaper of general circulation within the County of Los Angeles and the Southern District of the State of California; and

In the event said cross-defendants or either of them shall not appear, plead, answer or move within the time so limited as above set forth, or within such further time as the Court in its discretion may allow, the Court 629 will, upon proof of the service or publication of this order and of the performance of the direction contained in the same, entertain jurisdiction and proceed to the hearing and adjudication of the above entitled cross-claim in the same manner as if said cross-defendants and each of them had been served with process within this District; such adjudication, in such event, to affect only the assets and properties which are the subject of said cross-claim under the jurisdiction of this Court as being within the State of California, with portions thereof being within the Southern District of California.

Answer of third party defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles
Filed Aug. 26, 1946

Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, a body corporate, for answer to the third party complaint of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a federal savings and loan association, admits, denies, and alleges as follows:

641 1. It admits each and every allegation in said third party complaint contained, except the following: It denies that Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco is or at any time was a Federal Home Loan Bank or that the same is or at any time was existing under or by virtue of the laws of the United States or that the same has or at any time has had a place at business anywhere. It alleges in this connection that "Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco" is but a name under which third party defendant Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland has been purportedly transacting business in California, Arizona, Nevada, and elsewhere since on or about March 29, 1946; and it denies each and every allegation in said complaint contained which treats of Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco as a legal entity capable of either transacting business or of being sued. It denies that it contends as is alleged with reference to the contentions of defendants in Paragraph XI of said complaint; and alleges that its contentions are as set forth in its cross-claim served and filed herewith; and it prays for relief as in said cross-claim set forth.

Filed Sept. 5, 1946

645 Before ORR, Circuit Judge, and HALL and LING, District Judges

ORR, Circuit Judge: The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized in 1934 under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act as amended. At the time of its incorporation its assets had a value of approximately $7,500. It has had the same president and board of directors during the ensuing years under whose management and guidance the institution has expanded to a point where, at the time of the seizure hereinafter referred to, its assets were of a value of approximately $26,000,000. It was at the time of seizure entirely solvent, with assets, in addition to an amount sufficient to pay its obligations, in the form of reserves and undivided profits in the sum of $1,300,000.

On May 20, 1946, A. V. Ammann, by virtue of his appointment as a conservator for said institution by John H. Fahey, Administrator, took charge of said institution, and has since been in possession thereof. The conservator took over the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association without notice or hearing of any kind. Subsequent to the taking possession of the bank an administrative hearing was ordered.

Plaintiffs are shareholders in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. Several petitions in intervention and third party claims have been filed. All but one of them have joined in the motions of the original plaintiff for injunction.

Temporary orders were issued restraining the merger of the institution with other institutions of like character and restraining the commissioner from holding an administrative hearing.

At the request of certain of the parties a three-judge court was convened under authority of § 380 (a) of the Judicial Code (28 U.S.C.A. § 380(a)).

Defendant Ammann has challenged the jurisdiction of the three-judge court to hear and determine the application for the restraining orders on the ground that the provisions of § 380 (a) have no application to the law and the facts as presented by said applications. Defendant Ammann's position is: That the instant proceeding seeks to restrain the operation of rules and regula-646 tions promulgated by the Board rather than the enforcement, operation or execution of or setting aside in whole or in part of an act of Congress on the ground that the law itself is unconstitutional.

We think the contention is without merit.

Authority to do the acts sought to be restrained, if found to exist, must be bottomed on subsection (d) of § 5[1] of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act as amended. It is on the direct operation of this statute that the commissioner must rely.

Threatened action under the authority of the statute is sought to be restrained on the ground that the statute is unconstitutional and void in that it attempts to confer legislative power on the board. Clearly this proceeding comes within the provisions of § 380 (a) and the question is required to be heard by a three-judge court.

Appellants concentrate their attack on subsections (a) and (d) of § 5 of the Act. It is argued that subsection (d), in attempting to authorize the board to make rules and regulations for the purposes mentioned in said subsection (d) delegates legislative power to the board without prescribing either adequate, or any statement of policy, standards, limitations or criteria to guide the board in exercising its functions and is contrary to Article I, Section 1, and Article I, Section 8, (paragraph 18), of the Constitution of the United States (U.S.C.A. Constitution, Article I, Sec. 8, Clause 18).

It is agreed that functions of the legislature may not be delegated by the Congress to any executive or executive department, hence, there is posed a single question for determination, to-wit: Has the Congress made such a delegation in the sections of the Act under consideration? Fortunately the course to be followed in determining questions of this character had been well chartered by the Supreme Court of the United States. We 647 have but to endeavor to make the proper application of the principles by said court enunciated to the conditions existing in the matter before us. We refer particularly to Panama Refining Co. v. Ryan, 293 U. S. 388, and Schechter v. U. S., 295 U. S. 495. We look to the statute to see whether the Congress has declared a policy with respect to the providing of rules and regulations for the reorganization, consolidation, merger, or liquidation of federal savings and loan associations, including the power to appoint a conservator or receiver to take charge of the affairs of any such association, and to require an equitable readjustment of the capital stock of the same; and to release any such association from such control and permit its further operation;—"Whether the Congress has set up a standard for the president's (board's) action; whether the Congress has required any finding by the president (board) in the exercise of the authority" to do the things enumerated in Sec. 5 (d) of the Act. (Panama Refining Co. v. Ryan, supra, p. 415) It may be said of Sec. 5 (d), as was said of the section involved in the Panama case, that it is "brief and unambiguous". It makes no attempt to lay down rules for the guidance of the board, nor does it state in what circumstances or under what conditions the board is to merge institutions or appoint a conservator or receiver. It establishes no criterion to govern the board's course. It does not require any finding by the board as a condition of its action. No policy is declared by Congress as to merger, or appointment of conservator. The section gives to the Board unlimited authority to formulate rules for the board's action in the respects mentioned and to do so as it may see fit. The only restrictions on those powers were to be such as the board might choose to put upon itself in the rules and regulations which it, the board, adopted to govern itself. We are unable to find in the Act a declaration of policy or standard of action which can be deemed to relate to the subject of section 5 (d).

The Los Angeles Bank, with assets of $43,000,000 was merged with a Portland bank and later both with a bank in San Francisco. While the legality of this merger is not before us we consider it because the aim of a statute may be learned "both from its terms and from the administrative practice under it." Schechter v. 648 U. S., supra. The merger was made without notice or hearing of any character. In fact, none is required by the statute and herein lies a fatal defect as to its constitutionality.[2]

We think due process requires a hearing on notice and this should be provided within the Act itself.

[2] Ohio Valley Water Co. v. Ben Avon, 253 U. S. 287; Coe v. Armour Fertilizer Works, 237 U. S. 413; Hovey v. Elliott, 167 U. S. 409; See also, Boeing Air Transp. v. Farley, 75 F 2d., 765.

Comparison of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, under consideration here, with other acts of Congress which have been held unconstitutional because of improper delegation of legislative power, demonstrates that said Home Owners Loan Act fails to set up as comprehensive and definite statements of policy, standards, guides, criteria and limitations as do those acts.[3]

We hold Sec. 5 (d) of Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional and void as attempting to delegate legislative power to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board created under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act.

Let judgment be entered in accordance with this opinion.

Motion for preliminary injunction in re interference with operation of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

Filed Sept. 14, 1946

656 Come now, the Plaintiffs and the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and move this honorable Court for a preliminary injunction restraining and enjoining the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, and his subordinates, servants, agents, deputies and employees, and each of them, from interfering in any way with the management and operation of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by its duly elected officers, and

Further, they and each of them be particularly restrained and enjoined from selling, conveying, transferring, mortgaging, pledging, hypothecating, setting over or otherwise disposing of any of the property, records and assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association over which he, or they, or any of them, have received possession or control, to any person, firm or corporation, excepting only the duly elected officers, or any of them, of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and in furtherance hereof, said Defendant, A. V. Ammann, his subordinates, servants, agents, deputies and employees, and each of them, be ordered and directed to forthwith deliver to the officers and attorneys, or any of them, of the Defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, all of the records, property, and assets, of every kind and nature, and wheresoever located, of, or relating to, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and to make, execute and deliver unto said officers or attorneys, or any of them, any and all documents necessary to vest all its right, title and interest in and to said property and assets, in said association in, and to, any and all such property, records and assets.

And further, that the Defendant, A. V. Ammann, and his subordinates, servants, agents, deputies and employees, and each of them be restrained and enjoined from asserting or setting up any estate, right, title, interest, claim, lien, encumbrances, in, to, upoon, or relating to, the 657 property, records and assets or any part thereof of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association without the order of this Honorable Court so to do, being had and obtained.

And further, for an order to prevent the threatened immediate irreparable damage, loss and detriment to the shareholder members of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and for the reasons above set forth herein, that a Temporary Restraining Order be granted without notice to expire at 10:00 A.M. on the ——— day of ———, 1946, unless prior thereto, for good cause shown, said Order be extended in accordance with Rule 65(b) of the Federal Court Rules.

Notice of motion for preliminary injunction in re interference with operation of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

Filed Sept. 14, 1946

660 To The Defendants John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; and

To James Carter, United States Attorney, and Ronald Walker and Mildred Kluckhohn, Assistant United States Attorneys, and Moe Silverman of the Nebraska Bar, their attorneys of record; and 661 To the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, and O'Melveney and Myers and Richard Fitzpatrick, its attorneys.

You and each of you will Please Take Notice that plaintiffs and the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will appear in the District Court of the United States, Southern District of California, State of California, before the Honorable Judge Peirson M. Hall at Court Room No. Three in the United States Federal and Postoffice Building at Temple and Spring Streets in the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California, on the —— day of ————, 1946, at the hour of —— o'clock of said day and as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard and will then and there present to the Honorable Court the following Motion, to wit:

"Now come the Plaintiffs and the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a Temporary Restraining Order enjoining and restraining the defendant A. V. Ammann and his subordinates, servants, agents, deputies and employees, and each of them, from directly or indirectly during the pendency of the above entitled action and until further order of this Honorable Court from interfering in any way with the management and operation of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by its duly elected officers;

"And further that they and each of them particularly be restrained and enjoined from selling, conveying, transferring, mortgaging, pledging, hypothecating, setting over, or otherwise disposing of, any of the property, records, assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association over which he, or they, or any of them, have received possession or control, to any person firm, or corporation, excepting only the duly elected officers, or any of them, of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association;

662 "And further that the said defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees, and each of them be ordered and directed to forthwith deliver to the officers and attorneys, or any of them, of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, all of the records, property, and assets of every kind and nature and wheresoever located, of, or relating to, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and to make, execute and deliver unto said officers or attorneys, or any of them, any and all documents necessary to vest all its right, title and interest in and to said property and assets in said Association in, and to, any and all such property, records, and assets;

"And further that the defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from asserting or setting up any estate, right, title, interest, claim, lien, encumbrance, in, to, upon, or relating to, the property, records and assets or any part thereof of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association without the order of this Honorable Court so to do, being first had and obtained.

"The above motion is made upon the grounds that unless so restrained and enjoined by this Honorable Court from so doing the defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees will continue through mismanagement and otherwise, to dissipate and diminish the assets of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the irreparable damage of the shareholder members thereof; and that this fact is particularly true following the rendering of the opinion of the three judge court herein, holding Section 5(d) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 as amended, unconstitutional and void; and which said opinion has been widely known to the investing public, and as a result, the public and investors and shareholder members 663 are now well informed that because of the unconstitutionality of the portion of said Act, the purported Conservator has been and is acting without authority and is only a trespasser upon the premises of said Association and intergloper in the business of the Association, all of which facts in a financial institution, if allowed to continue unrestrained may well increase the present nervousness of investors and destroy the public confidence in the stability of the institution, thereby causing irreparable damage and the loss of one of the primary assets of the institution to-wit: the good will of the investing public and their confidence in its stability and the integrity of the management.

"By virtue of the unlawful seizure of the said Association by the defendant A. V. Ammann, the title to thousands of parcels of real property in Southern California have become clouded and thus prevent the reconveyance of a clear and marketable title to borrowers who have paid their obligations in full, thereby causing great distress to many innocent parties and will continue and grow worse unless the rightful officers are forthwith restored to the management of said Association.

"The granting of the requested restraining order will stop the depletion of assets by withdrawals which have resulted in a material loss of assets of approximately $10,000,000.00.

"That further it is anticipated that there may be considerable delay in settling the Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Decree of the Statutory Court as counsel have been informed that the counsel for the defendants Ammann and Fahey do not agree with prevailing counsel as to the form and contents of the proposed Findings of Fact, Conclusion of Law and Decree, and it is anticipated that some time will elapse before judgment is entered due to the causes set forth in the supporting affidavit of H. O. Wallace attached hereto for which reason prompt relief will not be afforded and the requested restraining order is essential.

"This Motion is made and based upon the records, 664 files and proceedings herein, the opinion of the three judge statutory court and the supporting affidavits attached hereto.

"Dated this 11 day of September 1946.

Affidavit
Filed Sept. 14, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

William MacArthur, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is now, and since before the 20th day of May, 1946, has been, the Supervisor of Accounting for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That since said 20th day of May, 1946, he has worked under the supervision of A. V. Ammann, the purported Conservator for said Association. That in his capacity as Supervisor of Accounting he has access to a part, but not all, of the records of said Association.

That the balance sheet of said Association, on the 12th day of September, 1946, showed, among other things, that the sum of $4,729,156.01 was on deposit in commercial banking account in the name of "A. V. Ammann, as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association", said account being with the Third and American Avenue Branch of the Bank of America, National Trust and Savings Association, in Long Beach, California.

That substantially all of the sum of $4,729,156.01, represents the balance of the proceeds of the sales of United States Government bearer bonds sold by the said A. V. Ammann on July 10, 1946 and July 29, 1946, all as set forth in an affidavit made by this affiant on the 10th day of September, 1946. That said bonds had been the property of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prior to its seizure by the said A. V. Ammann on the 20th day of May, 1946. That prior to such sale said bonds had been income-producing as set forth in said affidavit, but that since the sale thereof and the deposit of the proceeds of said sale, the money derived from the sale of said bonds has lain idle and not producing any income for said association.

That the records of said association also disclose that funds belonging to said Association were invested in stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, by the said A. V. Ammann, in the sum of $266,700.00 and that stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was exchanged for stock in the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco in the sum of $341,700.00, making a total of $608,400.00 of the funds of said association invested by the said A. V. Ammann in stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. That all of said investment and exchange was done without the knowledge or consent of the officers or directors of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

That the records of said Association also disclose and reflect that promissory notes on which said Association is the payee and the trust deeds securing the same have been pledged by the said A. V. Ammann with the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco in the approximate amount of $10,000,000.00, having been pledged as collateral for loans made by said Federal Home Loan Bank to said Conservator, said promissory notes and trust deeds 669 being a part of the subject matter of the bill in the nature of interpleader heretofore filled by the Title Service Company, a corporation, the Trustee under said trust deeds.

That United States bearer bonds, the property of said Association and in its possession on the 20th day of May, 1946, are no longer physically located in the premises occupied by the Association and that affiant has no information or belief as to their disposition, but that the books and records of said association do not disclose that the same have been sold.

That the records of said association further disclose that there is as of the 12th day of September, 1946, the sum of $7,300,000.00 as the unpaid balance on loans borrowed on the sole signature of the said A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for said Association, from the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

Further affiant sayeth naught.

Affidavit

Filed Sept. 14, 1946

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

S. I. Bacon, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That on the 13th day of September, 1946, he stationed himself near the rear of the premises located at 328 American Avenue, Long Beach, California, the premises of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, at a point where he could observe the rear of said building and a portion of the parking lot in the rear thereof. That he took up said position at 5:00 p.m. and remained there until approximately 8:45 p.m.

That at 5:08 p.m., A. V. Ammann, known to affiant personally, came from the rear of said building carrying two large manila folders which appeared to be quite well filled, and approximately one and one-half (1½) inches in thickness, and proceeded in the direction across said parking lot to where his automobile was parked.

671 That in so doing, he passed from the sight of affiant. That he returned within one (1) minute and returned in the direction from which he had come, but that he did not have the two large manila folders which he had theretofore had.

That at 5:14 p.m., one Ray Williams, personally known to affiant, one of the assistants of A. V. Ammann, came from the direction of said building carrying four (4) or five (5) large and well filled brief cases. He proceeded to an automobile, placed the said brief cases therein, got into said automobile and drove away.

That at 5:28 p.m., Robert Moore, an employee of said A. V. Ammann, and F. M. Bourland, a special representative of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration and Loan Specialist now in charge of the department making new real estate loans for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association under the direction of said A. V. Ammann, both personally known to affiant, both came from the direction of said building. The said

Robert Moore had two large manila envelopes in one hand and a well filled paper bag in the other hand, and the said F. M. Bourland had several large manila folders and packages in his hands. That affiant thereafter, and almost immediately, saw the said Bourland drive away in a car known to affiant to be generally used by said A. V. Ammann, and that as he drove away, affiant observed two large envelopes in the rear window behind the seat similar to those which affiant had previously observed being carried by said A. V. Ammann, as hereinabove set forth. That said Robert Moore drove away in an automobile known to affiant to be the property of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Further affiant sayeth naught.

Motion for temporary restraining order in re interference with operation of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association

Filed Sept. 14, 1946

673 Now come the Plaintiffs and the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the above entitled action and move this Honorable Court for a Temporary Restraining Order enjoining and restraining the defendant A. V. Ammann and his subordinates, servants, agents, deputies and employees, and each of them, from directly or indirectly during the pendency of the above entitled action and until further order of this Honorable Court from interfering in any way with the management and operation of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by its duly elected officers;

And further that they and each of them particularly be restrained and enjoined from selling, conveying, transferring, mortgaging, pledging, hypothecating, setting over, or otherwise disposing of, any of the property, records, assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association over which he, or they, or any of them, have received possession or control, to any person 674 firm, or corporation, excepting only the duly elected officers, or any of them, of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association;

And further that the said defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees, and each of them be ordered and directed to forthwith deliver to the officers and attorneys, or any of them, of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, all of the records, property, and assets of every kind and nature and wheresoever located, of, or relating to, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and to make, execute and deliver unto said officers or attorneys, or any of them, any and all documents necessary to vest all its right, title and interest in and to said property and assets in said Association in, and to, any and all such property, records, and assets;

And further that the defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from asserting or setting up any estate, right, title, interest, claim, lien, encumbrance, in, to, upon, or relating to, the property, records and assets or any part thereof of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association without the order of this Honorable Court so to do, being first had and obtained.

The above motion is made upon the grounds that unless so restrained and enjoined by this Honorable Court from so doing the defendant A. V. Ammann and his servants, agents, deputies, subordinates and employees will continue through mismanagement and otherwise, to dissipate and diminish the assets of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the irreparable damage of the shareholder members thereof; and that this fact is particularly true following the rendering of the opinion of the three judge court herein, holding Section 5(d) has been widely known to the investing public, and as a result, the public and investors and shareholder members are now well informed that because of the unconstitutionality of the portion of said Act, the purported Conservator has been and is acting without authority and is only a trespasser upon the premises of said Association and interloper in the business of the Association, all of which facts in a financial institution, if allowed to continue unrestrained, may well increase the present nervousness of investors and destroy the public confidence in the stability of the institution, thereby causing irreparable damage and the loss of one of the primary assets of the institution to-wit: the good will of the investing public and their confidence in its stability and the integrity of its management.

By virtue of the unlawful seizure of the said Association by the defendant A. V. Ammann, the title to thousands of parcels of real property in Southern California have become clouded and thus prevent the reconveyance of a clear and marketable title to borrowers who have paid their obligations in full, thereby causing great distress to many innocent parties and will continue and grow worse unless the rightful officers are forthwith restored to the management of said Association.

The granting of the requested restraining order will stop the depletion of assets by withdrawals which have resulted in a material loss of assets of approximately $10,000,000.00.

That further it is anticipated that there may be considerable delay in settling the Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Decree of the Statutory Court as counsel have been informed that the counsel for the defendants Ammann and Fahey do not agree with prevailing counsel as to the form and contents of the proposed Findings of Fact, Conclusion of Law and Decree, 676 and it is anticipated that some time will elapse before judgment is entered due to the causes set forth in the supporting affidavit of H. O. Wallace attached hereto for which reason prompt relief will not be afforded and the requested restraining order is essential.

This motion is made and based upon the records, files, and proceedings herein, the opinion of the three judge statutory court and the supporting affidavits attached hereto.

Affidavit of William C. Mac Arthur

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

William C. Mac Arthur, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is the Supervisor of Accounting of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, one of the Defendants in the above entitled and numbered matter. That he has been employed in such capacity since the 20th day of May, 1946, the date on which A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of said Association, took possession thereof. That in his capacity as such Supervisor of Accounting he has access to part, but not all, of the records of said association in the hands of said purported Conservator. That the following data is based on 679 his personal knowledge from inspection of records of said Association in the hands of said purported Conservator since the 20th day of May, 1946.

That the records of said association, as seen by affiant, reflect that on the 10th day of July, 1946, the said purported Conservator sold, on the open market, United States bearer bonds, 1¾ percent, 1948, of the face value of $150,000.00; and United States bearer bonds, 2 percent, 12/5, 52-54, of the face value of $500,000.00, which bonds belonged to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and came into the hands of said purported Conservator when he took over the assets of said Association on the 20th day of May, 1946.

That thereafter, and on the 29th day of July, 1946, said purported Conservator also sold on the open market the following described United States Bearer Bonds, belonging to said Association, which had also come into his hands when he took over the assets of said Association:

$2,700,000.00, 2½ percent, 6/15, 62-59;
150,000.00, 2½ percent, 9/15, 72-67;
300,000.00, 2½ percent, 59-62;
1,200,000.00, 2¼ percent, 12/15, 62.

That other records which have come under the inspection of affiant disclose that on the 29th day of July 1946, the said purported Conservator invested funds of said Association in United States bearer bonds of the face value of $150,000.00 for which he paid a bonus of 3-3/32 percent.

That on May 24, 1946 said purported Conservator invested funds of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco in the sum of $75,000.00 and that on the 1st day of July, 1946 he invested additional funds belonging to said Association in said Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco in the sum of $191,700.00.

680 That since said 20th day of May 1946 the said purported Conservator has exchanged stock in the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles for stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco in the face value of $341,700.00.

That said Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco is the banking institution purportedly established by John H. Fahey as the Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner on the 29th day of March 1946 contemporaneously with the order purportedly dissolving the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, which orders are under attack and the authority so to do which is being challenged in that certain action now pending in this Honorable Court entitled "Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, Etc, et al., vs. Federal Home Loan Bank of Portland, Etc., et al.," the same being numbered 5677-W.M. in the files of said Court.

That the purported Conservator set up as charges against the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association the sum of $17,000.00 representing the charges for the said Conservator and his staff for the first forty (40) days of his possession of said Association, or an average of $425.00 per day. That affiant has been informed by deputies of said Conservator, and on that ground alleges, that the expense of said Conservator and his staff have continued at about the same rate since the 20th day of May, 1946. That said expense is in addition to the salaries of the former regular employees of said Association who have been retained by said Conservator and the normal fixed operating charges for said Association.

That substantially all of the promissory notes and deeds of trust securing the same on which the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was the payee and beneficiary have been removed from the premises of said Association and affiant is informed and believes, have been deposited with the Los Angeles Branch of the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, as collateral for loans made to said Conservator in the approximate amount of $7,000,000.00.

That the sum of approximately $4,500,000.00 have been deposited in commercial banking accounts in the name of "A. V. Ammann, Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association."

That the records seen by affiant also reflect the payment of a premium for a surety bond in favor of John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, in the principal sum of $100,000.00, as security for the faithful performance by the said A. V. Ammann as the appointed Conservator of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of his duties as the purported Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That said bond is the only bond in effect to insure the faithful performance of his duties by the said A. V. Ammann, and that said bond runs only in favor of the said John H. Fahey, as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and that the same in no way protects the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its officers, directors or shareholders.

Affidavit of G. A. Walker

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Comes now G. A. Walker who being first duly sworn deposes and says:

First, that he is the President of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach, a banking corporation with its principal place of business in the city of Long Beach, County of Los Angeles, State of California;

Second, that for over ten years last past the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with offices at 328 American Avenue, Long Beach, California, have carried a substantial commercial account at the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach in amounts varying from $500,000.00 to $1,500,000.00 or thereabouts;

Third, that on or about the 24th day of July 1946, A. V. Ammann, Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association withdrew from the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach the sum of $500,000.00 in one check, and that again on the 26th day of July 1946, said A. V. Ammann, Conservator of the said Long 683 Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association withdrew from the said Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach a further sum of $500,000.00 in one check, and on the same day an additional check for the sum of $566,000.00, and that the balance carried in a commercial account in the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Long Beach is approximately $60,000.00.

And fourth, that this affidavit is made by the affiant at the request of the Board of Directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Affidavit of Leon Frazer

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Leon Frazer, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That on and prior to May 20, 1946, he was employed by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the capacity of Escrow Officer.

That following the seizure of said association on May 20, 1946, by A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator thereof, affiant was retained in said position until his resignation on or about the 26th day of June, 1946. That a copy of his letter of resignation is attached hereto, marked Exhibit "A" and by reference made a part hereof.

That on April 15, 1946, M. C. Stanford and 685 Frances J. Stanford, husband and wife, did make arrangements for and obtain a loan from said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the sum of $4,275.00, and did make, execute and deliver to said association their promissory note for said amount and deed of trust securing the same, which deed of trust was, on May 1, 1946, recorded in the office of the County Recorder of Los Angeles County. That said loan was for the purpose of paying the costs of erecting a building on the real property which was the subject matter of said deed of trust and that the money therefore was not actually paid to said borrowers, but was transferred into the account carried at said Association for the purpose of paying out to the subcontractors to be employed by said borrowers as construction progressed.

That thereafter said M. C. Stanford and Frances J. Stanford informed affiant that they had been unable to secure the services of subcontractors and that said loan was to be cancelled. Affiant was thereupon directed by his superiors in said association to prepare a cancellation order for said loan, which he, in fact, did do. That the seizure of said association on May 20, 1946, as above set forth, happened before a reconveyance was made of said deed of trust and before the physical cancellation of said promissory note. That the last time that affiant saw said documents in the premises of said association they were still intact and not cancelled.

That after the 26th day of June, 1946, affiant accepted employment with the Title Service Company, a corporation. That said Title Service Company was the trustee under the deed of trust hereinabove described and referred to which was executed by the same M. C. Stanford and Frances J. Stanford.

That on or about the 20th day of July, 1946, there was delivered to said Title Service Company, and came to the attention of affiant, a letter from the said 686 A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, enclosing said deed of trust, promissory note and a request for reconveyance of said trust deed executed by said A. V. Ammann, and an affidavit executed by the same A. V. Ammann. That when so received the promissory note and deed of trust had been mutiliated by having the signatures torn therefrom. That true and correct copies of said promissory note and deed of trust, as mutilated, are attached hereto, marked Exhibits "B" and "C", respectively, and by reference are made a part hereof. That a true and correct copy of said affidavit is atttached hereto, marked Exhibit "D", and by reference made a part hereof.

That between the 20th day of May, 1946, and the 26th day of June, 1946, affiant noticed innumerable cases of loose business practice on the part of the staff of said A. V. Ammann and a failure on their part to keep adequate records, such as were equipped to be kept, and which were, in fact, kept, by said association when it was in possession of its business, and that such loose practice will make it very difficult for said conservator to render any adequate account when and if said association is returned to its original management.

Dated at Long Beach, California, this 10th day of September, 1946.

LEON FRAZER.

JUNE 26, 1946.

Mr. A. V. Ammann,
Conservator, 328 American Avenue, Long Beach 2, California.

DEAR SIR: I hereby advise you that I will not longer serve as an employee during your occupation of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

I have served the Association since October 1, 1937, except for the period during which I served the United States Army during the war.

I have taken this action as a result of your obvious determination to continue to destroy the Association, your unwarranted and unfair treatment of the public, and the abuse and intimidation of the employees.

Under your intolerable dictation I can no longer properly serve our clients.

Yours very truly,

LEON FRAZER.

Do not destroy this note: When paid, this note, with Deed of Trust securing same, must be surrendered to Trustee for cancellation, before reconveyance will be made.

NOTE SECURED BY DEED OF TRUST

$4275.00 LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, April 15th, 1946.

For value received I promise to pay to Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a federal corporation, or order, at the office of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the principal sum of Forty-two Hundred hereof, 19__, on unpaid principal at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, interest payable monthly on the 15th day of each month for the period from April 15th, 1946, to July 15th, 1946, both dates inclusive; commencing August 15th, 1946, principal and interest payable in monthly installments of Forty-two and 75/100 dollars each, on the 15th day of each month, and continuing until said principal and interest have been paid in full. (Balance of note illegible.)

689 Exhibit "C"

This Deed of Trust, Made this 15th day of April, 1946, between M. C. Stanford and Frances J. Stanford, who acquired title as Francis J. Stanford, husband and wife, herein called Trustor, whose address is.....
(Street and Number)
.....
(City) (State)

Title Service Company a Corporation, of Bellflower, California, herein called Trustee, and Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a Corporation, Long Beach, California, herein called Beneficiary, Witnesseth: That Trustor irrevocably grants to trustee in trust, with power of sale, that property in Los Angeles County, California, described as: All of Lots 91 and 92 except the southwest 40 feet thereof, Tract 10503, City of Lynwood, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 158, Pages 3 and 4 of Maps.

Together with all buildings and improvements now or hereafter placed thereon, and the rents, issues and profits therefrom, it being understood and agreed that all classes of property attached or unattached used in connection therewith shall be deemed fixtures.

For the purpose of securing: (1) Payment of the sum of $4275.00 with interest thereon according to the terms of a promissory note or notes of even date herewith, made by Trustor, payable to the order of the Beneficiary and extensions or renewals thereof; (2) Payment of such additional sums with interest thereon, as may be hereafter borrowed from the Beneficiary by the then record owner or owners of said property when evidenced by another promissory note or notes. (3) Performance of each agreement of Trustor herein contained.

690 A. To protect the security of this Deed of Trust, Trustor agrees:

1. To keep said property in good condition and repair; not to remove or demolish any building thereon; to complete or restore promptly and in good and workmanlike manner any building which may be constructed, damaged or destroyed thereon and to pay when due all claims for labor performed and materials furnished therefor; to comply with all laws affecting said property or requiring any alterations or improvements to be made thereon; not to commit or permit waste thereof; not to commit, suffer or permit any act upon said property in violation of law; to cultivate, irrigate, fertilize, fumigate, prune and do all other acts which from the character or use of said property may be reasonably necessary, the specific enumerations herein not excluding the general.

2. To provide and maintain in force, at all times, fire, earthquake and other insurance each in an amount satisfactory to, and with loss payable to said Beneficiary. Said insurance policies shall be in form and content satisfactory to Beneficiary, shall be written through such agency as said Beneficiary may designate, and shall be delivered to and remain in possession of Beneficiary as further security for the faithful performance of these trusts. Neither Trustee nor Beneficiary shall be responsible for such insurance or for the collection of any insurance moneys, or for any insolvency of any insurer or insurance underwriter. Any and all unexpired insurance shall inure to the benefit of and pass to the purchaser of the property conveyed hereby at any Trustee's sale held hereunder. The amount collected under any fire or other insurance policy may be applied by Beneficiary upon any indebtedness secured hereby and in such order as Beneficiary may determine, or at option of Beneficiary the entire amount so collected or any part thereof may be released to Trustor. Such application or release shall not cure or waive any default or notice of default hereunder or invalidate any act done pursuant to such notice.

3. To appear in and defend any action or proceeding purporting to affect the security hereof or the rights or powers of Beneficiary or Trustee; and to pay all costs and expenses, including cost of evidence of title and attorney's fees in a reasonable sum, in any such action or proceeding in which Beneficiary or Trustee may appear.

4. To pay: at least ten days before delinquency, all general and special City and County taxes, and all assessments on appurtenant water stock, affecting said property; when due, all special assessments for public improvements, and not permit any improvement bond to issue for any such special assessment; on demand of Beneficiary, all other encumbrances, charges and liens, with interest, on said property or any part thereof, which appear to be prior or superior hereto; all costs, fees and expenses of this Trust.

Should Trustor fail to make any payment or to do any act as herein provided, then Beneficiary or Trustee, but without obligation so to do and without notice to or demand upon Trustor and without releasing Trustor from any obligation thereof, may: make or do the same in such manner and to such extent as either may deem necessary to protect the security hereof, Beneficiary or Trustee being authorized to enter upon said property for such purposes; appear in and defend any action or proceeding purporting to affect the security hereof or the rights or powers of Beneficiary or Trustee; pay, purchase, contest or compromise any incumbrance, charge or lien which in the judgment of either appears to be prior or superior hereto, and, in exercising any such powers, pay necessary expenses, employ counsel and pay his reasonable fees.

5. To pay immediately and without demand all sums so expended by Beneficiary or Trustee, with interest from date of expenditure at seven per cent per annum.

6. To insure the payment of taxes and assessments which are now or hereafter may be a lien upon the property described at least ten days before the delinquency thereof as provided for in paragraph A4 hereinabove, and to pay such premiums upon policies of insurance which may be required by the Beneficiary as provided for in paragraph A2 hereinabove, the Trustors agree to pay to the Beneficiary in addition to any other payments required hereunder, an installment of the taxes and special assessments levied or to be levied against the hereinabove described premises and an installment of the premium or premiums that will become due and payable to renew the insurance on the premises covered hereby and required by the Beneficiary, Trustor agreeing to deliver promptly to Beneficiary all bills and notices therefor. Such installments shall be equal to the estimated premium or premiums for such insurance and taxes and assessments next due (as estimated by Beneficiary) less all installments already paid therefor, divided by the number of months that are to elapse before one month prior to date when such premium or premiums and taxes and assessments will become delinquent. If the amounts paid to the Beneficiary under the provisions of this paragraph are insufficient to discharge the obligation of the Trustor to pay such premium or premiums, taxes and assessments as the same become due, Trustor shall pay to Beneficiary upon its demand such additional sums as it may require to discharge Trustor's obligation to pay premium or premiums, taxes and assessments. At the option of Beneficiary, all moneys paid to Beneficiary under the terms of this paragraph shall be held by Beneficiary in trust to pay such premium or premiums, taxes and assessments before the same become delinquent, or may be credited directly to interest and principal due under the terms of the note secured hereby and upon payment by the Beneficiary of taxes, assessments and insurance premiums, the amount so paid shall be charged to the principal due upon the note secured hereby. If the Trustor shall fail to pay the installments provided for in this paragraph, such failure shall constitute a default under this Deed of Trust.

7. In the event of default in the payment of any of the monies to be paid under the terms of the note secured hereby or this deed of trust or in the performance of any of the covenants and obligations of this deed of trust, then any funds in the possession of the Beneficiary under the provisions of paragraph A (6) may, at the option of the Beneficiary, be applied to the payment of principal and/or interest upon the obligation secured hereby in lieu of being applied to any of the purposes for which the fund established under Paragraph A (6) is establish

B. It is mutually agreed that:

1. Any award of damages in connection with any condemnation for public use of or injury to said property or any part thereof is hereby assigned and shall be paid to Beneficiary who may apply or release such moneys received by him in the same manner and with the same effect as above provided for disposition of proceeds of fire or other insurance.

2. By accepting payment of any sum secured hereby after its due date, Beneficiary does not waive his right either to require prompt payment when due of all other sums so secured or to declare default for failure so to pay.

3. At any time or from time to time, without liability therefor and without notice, upon written request of Beneficiary and presentation of this Deed and said note for endorsement, and without affecting the personal liability of any person for payment of the indebtedness secured hereby, Trustee may: reconvey any part of said property; consent to the making of any map or plat thereof; join in granting any easement thereon; or join in any extension agreement or any agreement subordinating the lien or charge thereof.

4. Upon written request of Beneficiary stating that all sums secured hereby have been paid, and upon surrender of this Deed and said note to Trustee for cancellation and retention and upon payment of its fees, Trustee shall reconvey, without warranty, the property then held hereunder. The recitals in such reconveyance of any matters or facts shall be conclusive proof of the truthfulness thereof. The grantee in such reconveyance may be described as "the person or persons legally entitled thereto." Such request and reconveyance shall operate as a re-assignment of the rents, issues and profits hereinafter assigned to Beneficiary.

5. Upon default by Trustor in payment of any indebtedness secured hereby or in the performance of any agreement hereunder, Beneficiary shall be entitled and may and is hereby authorized, without notice, and irrespective of whether declaration of default has been delivered to Trustee and without regard to the adequacy of the security for the indebtedness secured hereby, either personally or by attorney or agent, without bringing any action or proceeding, or, by receiver to be appointed by a court, to enter into possession and hold, occupy, possess and enjoy the said property, make, cancel, enforce or modify leases, obtain and eject tenants and set or modify rents and terms of rents, and to take, receive and collect all or any part of the rents, issues and profits thereof and, after paying such costs of maintenance and operation of said property as it in its judgment may deem proper, to apply the balance upon the entire indebtedness then secured hereby, the rents, issues and profits of said property being hereby assigned to Beneficiary as further security for the payment of such indebtedness; and the acceptance of such rentals, issues and profits shall not constitute a waiver of any other right which Trustee or Beneficiary may enjoy under this deed or under the laws of California. The receipt and application by said Beneficiary of all such rents, issues and profits pursuant hereto, after execution and delivery of the Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale or during the pendency of Trustee's Sale proceedings hereunder, shall not cure such breach or default, nor affect said sale proceedings or any sale made pursuant thereto, but such rents, issues and profits, less all costs of operation and maintenance, when received by Beneficiary, shall be applied in reduction of the entire indebtedness from time to time secured hereby.

691 6. Upon default by Trustor in payment of any indebtedness secured hereby or in performance of any agreement hereunder, Beneficiary may declare all sums secured hereby immediately due and payable by delivery to Trustee of written declaration of default and demand for sale of written notice of default and of election to cause to be sold said property, which notice Trustee shall cause to be duly filed for record. Beneficiary also shall deposit with Trustee this Deed, said note and all documents evidencing expenditures secured hereby.

At least three months having elapsed after recordation of said notice of default, and notice of sale having been given as then required by law, Trustee, without demand on Trustor, shall sell said property at the time and place fixed by it in said notice of sale, either as a whole or in separate parcels, and in such order as it may determine (but subject to any statutory right of Trustor to direct the order in which such property, if consisting of several known lots or parcels, shall be sold), at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in lawful money of the United States, payable at time of sale. Trustee may postpone sale of all or any portion of said property by public announcement at such time and place of sale, and from time to time thereafter may postpone such sale by public announcement at the time fixed by the preceding postponement. Trustee shall deliver to such purchaser its deed conveying the property so sold, but without any covenant or warranty, express or implied. The recitals in such deed of any matters or facts shall be conclusive proof of the truthfulness thereof. Any person, including Trustor, Trustee, or Beneficiary as hereinafter defined, may purchase at such sale.

After deducting all costs, fees and expenses of Trustee and of this Trust, including cost of evidence of title in connection with sale, Trustee shall apply the proceeds of sale to payment of: all sums expended under the terms hereof, not then repaid, with accrued interest at seven per cent per annum; all other sums then secured hereby; and the remainder, if any, to the person or persons legally entitled thereto.

7. The Trustee named herein, or any successor or successors to any such Trustee may, from time to time, be substituted by the recording, in the County in which the property herein described is located, of a substitution executed and acknowledged by Beneficiary hereunder or Beneficiary's successors in interest. Beneficiary, or Beneficiary's successors in interest, shall upon election to substitute Trustees hereunder, cause a copy of such substitution to be mailed, prior to the recording thereof, to all persons to whom a copy of notice of default is required to be mailed by the provisions of the laws of the State of California; in the manner required by said laws. The substitution must contain the date of execution of this Trust Deed, the name of the Trustee, Trustor and Beneficiary hereunder, the book and page where this Trust Deed is recorded, and the name of the new Trustee, and affidavit attached to said substitution to the effect that notice has been given to the persons and in the manner above required. The substitution must also contain an acknowledgment signed and acknowledged by the then Trustee of the receipt of a copy of such substitution. Said Trustee shall execute and acknowledge receipt of a copy of the substitution upon delivery of a copy thereof to said Trustee, and the presentation of this Trust Deed and the note for inspection by said Trustee, and upon payment of all said Trustee's costs, fees or expenses. From the time the substitution is filed for record, the new Trustee shall succeed to all the powers, duties, authority and title of the Trustee herein named. The procedure herein provided for substitution of Trustee shall be exclusive of all other provisions for substitution, statutory or otherwise.

8. This Deed applies to, inures to the benefit of, and binds all parties hereto, their heirs, legatees, devisees, administrators, executors, successors and assigns. The term Beneficiary shall mean the owner and holder, including pledgees, of the note secured hereby, whether or not named as Beneficiary herein. In this Deed, whenever the context so requires, the masculine gender includes the feminine and/or neuter, and the singular number includes the plural.

9. Trustee accepts this Trust when this Deed, duly executed and acknowledged, is made a public record as provided by law. Trustee is not obligated to notify any party hereto of pending sale under any other Deed of Trust or of any action or proceeding in which Trustor, Beneficiary or Trustee shall be a party unless brought by Trustee. (Balance of note illegible).

Affidavit

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

A. V. Ammann being first duly sworn deposes and says:

That he is Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California:

That according to the records of said association, a loan in the amount of $4275.00 to M. C. Stanford and Frances J. Stanford, was approved by the Board of Directors of said association:

That the note dated April 15, 1946, and Deed of Trust, dated April 15, 1946, securing said Note, which are attached hereto, were executed by the said M. C. Stanford and Frances J. Stanford to Title Service Company, a Corporation, of Bellflower, California, Trustee, for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, a Corporation, Long Beach, California, Beneficiary, covering the following described property:

All of Lots 91 and 92 except the southwest 40 feet thereof, Tract 10503, City of Lynwood, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 158, Pages 3 and 4 of Maps.

That said Deed of Trust was recorded May 1, 1946, in Book 23184, Page 3–, of Official Records, County of Los Angeles, California;

That the loan represented by said Note and Deed of Trust was never completed and no funds of the association were disbursed thereunder;

That at the request of said M. C. Stanford the said Note and Deed of Trust were returned to him;

That the signatures of said Note and Deed of Trust were torn off before the instruments were returned to Mr. M. C. Stanford.

A. V. AMMANN.

Subscribed to and sworn before me this 12th day of August 1946.

Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

My Commission Expires Nov. 25, 1947.

694 In the District Court of the United States

Affidavit of Paul L. Mallonee

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Paul L. Malonee, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That he is one of the Plaintiffs in the above entitled and numbered action. That he, together with C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, comprise a Shareholders' Committee representing the Shareholders in the Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That affiant is the chairman of such Shareholders' Committee.

695 That it is the opinion of affiant that said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is being rapidly wrecked by the conservator, A. V. Ammann, and his staff now in possession of the assets of said association; and that the longer that said A. V. Ammann is allowed to remain in possession thereof, the greater the losses to the Shareholders will be.

That said Shareholders' Committee addressed form letters to all of the known shareholders of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and did request that the shareholders of said Association execute proxies in favor of Shareholders' Committee and did provide a form of authorization and proxy to be signed by such Shareholders as desired to execute the same. That in response thereto proxies have been received by said committee representing considerably in excess of a majority of the shareholders in said Association.

That many letters have been received by affiant and the Association from shareholders and former shareholders in the Association expressing confidence in the management of the Association prior to its seizure on May 20, 1946; protesting the seizure; and indicating a desire for the return of the Association to its original management, officers and directors, and indicating an immediate desire to re-establish financial dealings when the Association might be returned to its original management.

That attached hereto, made a part hereof by reference are copies of sixteen (16) letters, memoranda, or other communications received by affiant from various persons, all of whom are or were shareholders in the Association prior to May 20, 1946.

That as evidenced by the attached letters, and particularly the letter from Mrs. C. W. Bryant, the affairs of the Association under the direction of the Conservator are being grossly mismanaged and negligently handled.

That affiant has talked to several hundred present and former shareholders of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That all of said persons to whom affiant has talked have expressed dissatisfaction with the management of said Association by A. V. Ammann as the purported Conservator thereof and have related to affiant innumerable instances of discourtesy, disrespect and inefficiency on the part of said purported Conservator and his staff, all of which reflect discredit on the Association and which will be difficult, if not impossible, for the original management to overcome when it is restored to possession of the Association.

That it is for the best interest of the shareholders in said Association and for the Association itself that the Conservator be removed at the earliest possible date and that the assets of the Association be returned to its officers, directors and management as the same existed on and immediately prior to May 20, 1946.

Mr. PAUL L. MALLENEE—
C. H. NEWHOUSE—
WINNIE BUCKLIN—

This letter may not be of much interest to you but, as you sent me these papers to sign will tell you of my experience with the loan Co. as if you look it up will find it so.

I only had $800.73 in the Federal Savings so drew all out ~~except $1.00.~~

The lady at the window was so rushed she handed me $3200 beside my $800.73 in cash.

It was so crowded at the window I got out and went over to the Bank of America 4th & Pine to put it in the Savings Account and told the clerk what happened and told him to put my $800.73 in and call them up to tell them so, he did and it was returned as I found out later.

My son and I went down to see if they didn't think they should at least reward me something but not much as a "Thank you" did they offer me.

So don't you think that was unfair as I wanted to be honest and fair myself—with them——

Yours Truly,

Mrs. C. W. BRYANT,

Gentlemen: Mrs. L. C. Bryant of 6164 Pearce St. Bellflower, Calif. whose old address of 3767 Brayton Ave. Long Beach Calif. is shown on your records has consulted me in regard to the proxies forwarded to her.

I have advised her that in my opinion she should sign the proxies and do all she can to help the Committee. She has a total of only $200 invested in the concern so her proxies will not be much help but are enclosed for what they are worth. She does not know how many shares they represent.

Please change her address on your mailing list and keep her informed as to progress in returning this company to sound non-political management.

Sincerely,

GENTLEMEN; I no longer have an account at the Federal Saving; thus, I am not a shareholder at this time. If and when this affair is settled I may open another account. Until then,

Yours Truly,

ROY B. PUTNEY.

700 DEAR MR. MALLONEE: I had intended to close the Federal Account before I left for the East on May 10th but just couldn't get over there—So on my return I attended to that—The trouble which had developed during my absence had no bearing on my actions. I regarded the Bank as perfectly safe. I am returning the proxies so that I may be accounted for.

Very truly,

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION
146 E. THIRD ST., LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

You are probably aware of the fact that John H. Fahey and A. V. Amman have seized the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, claiming to act under some governmental authority. A large number of the shareholders in the Association, fearing that the action of John H. Fahey and A. V. Amman may result in the unnecessary destruction of or injury to the Association have organized a protective committee to look after and protect the interests of the shareholders. Paul L. Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse, and Winnie Bucklin now constitute this Committee.

If the Committee is to effectively represent and protect the shareholders, it must have proxies and authorizations from a considerable number of shareholders. For this reason the enclosed form of proxy is sent to you, with the express understanding that if you sign it you shall be under no personal liability for any expenses of any kind, and you shall not be called on for any contribution. The purpose of this Committee is to protect the Association and its shareholders, and to assure local management of the Association.

Will you please sign the proxy and mail in the enclosed envelope.

706 Authorization and Proxy to Shareholders' Committee

No. 5834

To: Paul L. Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, Shareholders' Committee:

The undersigned shareholders in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association protest its seizure by John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, which is resulting in the destruction of our Association and has deprived the directors and officers we elected from managing and operating our Association.

We do hereby constitute and appoint Paul L. Mallonee, C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, or any of them, our Shareholders' Committee and our duly authorized agents and proxies, for all purposes and they are hereby vested with every right, power and authority of whatsoever character, nature or purpose to do any and all things necessary, or in their opinion advisable, including the right to commence, continue and prosecute to conclusion any and all legal actions they or their attorneys may deem advisable, for and on behalf of and for the protection of our best interests, and to recover from the said John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, or others, the possession, management, control and operation of our Association, and all of its assets, and to restore our duly elected directors and officers, whoever they may be, to the full management, operation and control of our Association, and our said proxies or their appointees shall have full power in our name, place and stead to attend and to vote for, and on our behalf, and in our stead, the number of shares we would be entitled to vote if personally present at any and all meetings at which shareholders may be called upon to vote as fully as we could do if personally present, and they shall, in all respects hereunder, act as joint tenants.

We are not to be held personally liable for any expenses.

We hereby ratify and confirm all acts of our said agents and proxies, or their substitutes, which they have done or may hereafter do.

This proxy may be revoked by me upon thirty days written notice.

We own share number(s)——with an aggregate total of approximately $2,000 in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

We did own shares but withdrew them but will replace when the local men are serving us again. I found no fault with the management before Ammann took over.

Dated: This 8 day of July 1946.

SHAREHOLDERS COMMITTEE OF LONG BEACH, FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSOC.,
146 E. Third. L. B. 2

I am enclosing the three copies of authorization and proxy—signed by me—BUT In a moment of panic on May 23 I withdrew my $4149.80. Though we had been assured that in these Federal Savings & Loan assoc. we were insured up to $5000.00—we had never yet seen this tested—so in order to save the principal—as I thought, I withdrew my account—with No interest from Jan 1, 1946–May 23, '46. If this seizure by Fahey and A. V. Ammann is illegal in anyway and the institution is solvent I do not see why in all honesty our interest cannot be paid. I was informed over the counter by one of the regular L. B. Federal Savings men that the institution (Gregory) was willing to pay the interest due from Jan 1 to the time of withdrawal—but that the government men would not permit this. It seems entirely wrong that we investors should lose our interest under the circumstances of the flury. This is not at all comparable to withdrawals under ordinary conditions. The press notice and the letter sent out two weeks after the crash—looks bad for the Institution. Cecil King writes me in response to my letter to him to withhold my judgment on the Institution. He speaks of a 'hearing' on the matter—but he too seems rather vague. What is the mystery?—What is all this talk about 'politics' entering into this loss that we have taken?

I hope this Committee will work on the interest matter. Somebody brought this crash about and the investors should not be penalized because they wish to rescue their principal.

Very truly yours,

JESSIE J. GLASS.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

Leona Hiestand, being first duly sworn, deposes and says:

That she has been an employee of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the bookkeeping department since the 20th day of May, 1946, the date when A. V. Ammann took possession of said association under a purported order appointing him Conservator;

That in the course of her employment she has had an opportunity to observe some of the acts of A. V. Ammann, and his agents, but not all of them. That she has had come to her personal knowledge on numerous occasions that cash has been paid from the share accounts without obtaining receipts or withdrawal orders signed by the shareholders, or any other evidence of the payment bearing the signature of said customer; she has ob-715 served where accounts have been transferred from one book to another without the signature of the shareholder.

Affiant further says that it is common practice for the agents and employees of A. V. Ammann in taking receipts to fail to place thereon the balance remaining in the account, and in numerous occasions wrong balance is placed thereon, and repurchases are numerous where no signature of the customer appears.

Further affiant sayeth naught.

Frances Bond, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that she has been and now is an employee of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in the Federal Housing Loan Department and particularly since the 20th day of May, 1946, the date when A. V. Ammann took possession of said association under a purported order appointing him Conservator;

That during her term of employment, particularly in connection with loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration, she has had full charge of communications and correspondence between said Association and the Federal Housing Administration and that subsequent to said 20th day of May, 1946 she was directed by an agent of A. V. Ammann to notify the Federal Housing Administration on forms provided by the Federal Housing Administration in accordance with their regulations, that a certain loan had been paid in full and was of no further force or effect and, notwithstanding said affidavit 719 to FHA, said loan remained upon the books of said Association as a non-paid loan with the same regular monthly payments to be made until paid in full.

Affiant further sayeth, that upon receipt of the foregoing instructions from the agent of A. V. Ammann, she protested and was advised that this was common practice in the associations, which they had previously administered under conservatorship.

Further affiant sayeth naught.

Affidavit of O. D. Brick

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

O. D. Brick, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the Superintendent of the Surety Department of Los Angeles Branch Offices of United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company;

That on or about May 4, 1935, the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company wrote its Building and Loan Blanket Surety Bond guaranteeing the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association against any and all losses arising from any dishonest, fraudulent or criminal act of any officer or employee of the assured, and also covers forgery of certain designated instruments, 721 burglary, robbery, larceny, hold-up, theft, misplacement, mysterious unexplainable disappearances, abstraction or removal from the possession of the insured of any property that are on the designated premises and also covers against larceny, embezzlement, robbery, burglary, hold-up, theft, misappropriation, misplacement, mysterious, unexplainable disappearance of property in transit to the insured, covering all of the then officers and directors who were the following: Thomas A. Gregory, J. H. Gregory, S. I. Bacon, J. S. Watts, J. K. Reeder, M. T. Killingsworth, and Ethel L. Barlow, in the penal amount of $10,000.00.

That on or about April 20, 1936, the penal amount of this surety bond was increased by endorsement to $15,000.00 and the name of Roy H. Wolfers was added as an additional officer.

That on or about August 18, 1936, the penal amount of this surety bond was increased to $20,000.00. That on or about November 16, 1936, the penal amount of this surety bond was increased to $25,000.00.

That on or about November 18, 1938, this surety bond was released and replaced with a new form of surety bond covering in slightly broader language all of the same risks and all of the same officers and directors in the increased penal amount of $30,000.00.

That on or about February 23, 1939, the penal amount of this surety bond was increased to $40,000.00 and on August 1, 1939, to $50,000.00; on November 18, 1939, to $55,000.00; on April 3, 1942, to $60,000.00; on June 7, 1943 to $65,000.00; on June 7, 1944 to $175,000.00, and on January 15, 1946, it was increased to $200,000.00 and is now in that amount.

That said surety bond is No. 14036-02-506-38 and has never been cancelled by the said United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company and no fidelity losses have 722 ever been paid under any of the above mentioned bonds at any time.

That this affiant on behalf of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, at this time, is ready, willing and able to renew or re-write said bond, if so required, on the said named officers, or any of them.

Further affiant sayeth not.

Objections of defendant to proposed findings, conclusions of law and decree.
Filed Sept. 19, 1946

Comes now defendant, A. V. Ammann, and objects to the proposed findings of fact, conclusions of law and decree heretofore submitted by plaintiff's herein and as reasons for the objection respectfully shows to the Court:

1. That the Court is without jurisdiction to make such findings, conclusions of law, or decree.

2. That said proposed findings, conclusions of law, and decree purport finally to determine all of the issues of law and fact in this cause although defendant's time to answer has not yet expired and no default exists.

3. That said findings are not based on evidence, proof or purported proof before the Court.

4. That they are contrary to the order of the Court as announced as the Presiding Judge at the time of the hearing as follows:

"In order that there be no confusion, so counsel will know exactly what they have to follow, we rule now we will not consider any question presented other than on the constitutionality of the statute under question."

726 5. That the plaintiffs have not standing in this Court to raise the question of constitutionality.

6. That even if the Court had jurisdiction and authority to make it, a determination of unconstitutionality does not finally determine all the issues that may properly be joined in this cause.

7. That the only matters that could properly be before the Court were (1) plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain the merger or consolidation of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or the commingling of its assets with other institutions, and, (2) plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

8. That the only issue that could properly be before the Court and the only issue that could properly be decided by it was whether interlocutory injunctions should issue; that the only findings to make on such issue are: (1) Do substantial issues of law and fact under the Constitution of the United States exist? (2) Will irreparable injury to one party be prevented by the issuance of temporary injunctions? (3) Will undue inconvenience or loss be suffered by the other party by the issuance of such temporary injunctions?

9. That the Court is without authority to make final findings of fact without proof thereof.

10. That the Court is without authority to make final findings of fact and conclusions of law and enter a final decree prior to a ruling on the motion to dismiss heretofore filed, which motion to dismiss was, under the Court's ruling, not considered.

11. That the Court is without authority to make final findings of fact and conclusions of law and enter a final decree prior to the expiration of the time for filing an answer.

12. That the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law are an attempt on behalf of the plaintiffs to secure a settlement of the facts and the law in the case on a preliminary motion and without the introduction of any evidence.

13. That the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law attempt to decide questions which were not 727 open on the hearing and prejudice the position of the defendant on final hearing.

14. That the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law go beyond the question of a prima facie showing made for the purpose of obtaining a temporary injunction and proceed on assumptions of fact not sustained by any evidence and which defendants could negative by proof adduced at final hearing.

15. That the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law constitute a pre-judgment on the part of the Court on questions of fact and law which have not yet been submitted to it and which at a later time may be properly before the Court for determination.

16. That the proposed findings of fact, conclusions of law and decree would preclude this defendant from making other and further defenses which he has and which he is entitled by law to make.

17. That the Court has not acquired jurisdiction of the person of John H. Fahey.

18. That jurisdiction of the person of John H. Fahey is indispensable to an injunctive decree against him and is indispensable to a final decree.

Without waiving any of the foregoing objections and if, in spite thereof, the Court makes final findings of fact and conclusions of law, defendant objects to the proposed findings and conclusions specifically as follows:

1. Proposed Finding I is contrary to fact as shown by the record for the reason that the record and the law show that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was not organized under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act as amended, but under regulations issued pursuant to the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended; that the finding as to comparative assets and as to solvency are immaterial and irrelevant; and that there has never been a "seizure" of said institution but only an appointment of a conservator.

2. Proposed Finding II does not truly state the facts as shown by the record for the reason that the record shows that within the time fixed by the Rules and Regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association demanded, in accordance with such regulations, an Administrative hearing and that the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration immediately after such demand, issued its order directing the holding of an administrative hearing in accordance with the demand.

3. Proposed Finding III is not in accordance with fact as shown by the record for the reason that the action is a derivative one.

4. Proposed Finding V is not in accordance with fact as shown by the record for the reason that there has never been a "seizure"; that the findings as to demand for change of policy and procedure and as to criticisms are immaterial and irrelevant.

5. Proposed Finding VI is contrary to fact as shown by the record in that there never has been a "seizure".

6. Proposed Finding VII is contrary to fact as shown by the record in that Order No. 5254 was not issued by defendant A. V. Ammann but by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

7. Proposed Finding VIII is contrary to fact as shown by the record for the reason that no valid service of summons has ever been made on said John H. Fahey, but if the Court makes such finding, it should explicitly state the basis thereof.

Again without waiving its objections to the authority of the Court to make final findings of fact and conclusions of law and to enter a final decree herein, defendant objects to the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law for the reason that if thereby the motion to dismiss heretofore filed by defendant, A. V. Ammann, is denied, defendant is entitled to findings of fact, among others, as follows:

1. That there was received in the office of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shortly subsequent to its date, an application for permission to organize a Federal savings and loan association, subscription to shares consisting of three sheets, and petition for charter dated May 21, 1934, which petition was signed by T. A. Gregory, J. S. Watts, J. E. Gregory, J. K. Reeder and S. I. Bacon; that in said application for permission to organize, the following statement, among others, appeared:

"(4) Applicants agree not to represent themselves as authorized to organize such an association until this application is acted upon favorably by said Board or the chief executive officer of the Federal home loan bank of the district or a duly authorized organizer for the Board, and that upon such action they will proceed only in accordance with the provisions of Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and rules and regulations made thereunder."

That in said petition for charter, among others, are the following statements:

"5. Petitioners, in good faith, desire to promote thrift and home ownership in their community by the accumulation of funds for home financing in accordance with the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations made thereunder.

"7. Wherefore, petitioners pray that they, their associates, and successors, be incorporated and made a body corporate under said name and style with all powers, privileges, and immunities, and subject to such conditions and restrictions as are provided in said act and rules and regulations made thereunder."

730 2. That pursuant to such application and petition a charter, known as Charter E, was issued to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Long Beach, California, on July 10, 1934, and accepted by it; that said charter contained, among others, the following provisions:

"15. The association shall at all times be subject to the provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, providing for Federal savings and loan associations, and to any amendments thereof, and to any valid rules and regulations made thereunder as the same may be amended from time to time.

"19. The bylaws adopted by the association shall provide for the management of the association within the provisions of the law and this charter and the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

"20. The association may be liquidated, merged, consolidated, or reorganized, as is provided in the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board."

3. That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such charter, the following regulation was in full force and effect:

"14. Whenever it shall appear to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that the interests of the creditors or shareholders of any such association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, or if such association shall refuse to submit its books, papers, and concerns to the inspection of said Board, or any examiner appointed by said Board, or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be examined upon oath touching the concerns of any such association, or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations, or if from any examination or report provided for by these rules and regulations, the Board shall have reason to conclude that such association 731 is in an unsound or unsafe condition to transact business, or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a receiver or conservator, and require of him such bond and security as it deems proper.

"Such receiver or conservator, under the direction of the Board, shall take possession of the books, records, and assets of every description of such association, collect all debts, dues and claims belonging to it, and shall make prompt report to the Board of the condition of the association and shall, after 10 days' notice in writing to all shareholders, borrowers, and creditors of the association, sent by mail to their last address as shown on the books of the association, conduct a hearing at the office of the association or some other convenient place designated by him in such notice, at which hearing any interested parties may submit any evidence as to the condition of the association or its management, and may submit any plan for its operation or for a disposition of its assets and a record shall be made and kept of such hearing, and one copy thereof filed with the Federal home-loan bank of which such association is a member and one copy submitted to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of the evidence submitted at such hearing and the plans submitted for the operation of such association or for the disposition of its assets. The conservator or receiver may subp-ena witnesses, compel the production of books, records, and documents, swear witnesses, and examine them under oath, and may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for the enforcement of such processes. Thereafter the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall recommend to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board a plan for liquidation, merger, consolidation, or reorganization of the association, and the Board shall give consideration to the same and enter an order providing for the release of the association and its 732 continued operation and the terms therefor or for its liquidation, merger, or consolidation and the terms therefor. Thereupon the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall proceed to dispose of the association as is provided in such order. All costs of such proceedings shall be approved by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and assessed against the association and its assets and paid by the association or from its assets. In the event of a legal necessity therefor, the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, or any interested party, may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for direction or for confirmation of any sale or disposition of assets, but said Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall have full and exclusive authority, power, and jurisdiction to take possession by a conservator or receiver and to hold and administer the assets on an equitable basis."

4. That on or about the 8th day of April, 1937, there was received by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board the petition of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for an amendment to its charter, petitioning that the present charter of the Association be amended to read in the form of Exhibit K of the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations; that thereafter and on the 13th day of April, 1937, and pursuant to said petition, an amended charter was issued to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and accepted by it, known as Charter K; that said Charter K contained, among others, the following provisions:

"3. Objects and powers.—The objects of the association are to promote thrift by providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes. The statute, this charter, and rules and regulations made thereunder provide for examination and supervision and at the same time for the protection of all private rights concerned, and shall be construed in keeping with the best practices of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States.

733 "The association shall have perpetual succession and power to sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity; to have a corporate seal, affixed by imprint, facsimile or otherwise; to appoint officers and agents as its business shall require, and allow them suitable compensation; to have bylaws not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States, this charter, and rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, providing for the management of its property and regulation and government of its affairs; to wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate, or reorganize in the manner provided by law and rules and regulations made thereunder; and to conduct business in the territory of the United States except as otherwise limited is charter. The association may purchase, hold, and convey real and personal estate consistent with its objects, purposes, and powers; may mortgage or lease any real and personal estate; and may take such property by gift, devise, or bequest. Unless authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the association may not invest in an office building or buildings for the transaction of the business of the association an amount representing the cost of land and buildings in excess of the sum of its undivided profits and reserve accounts."

5. That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such amended charter, the following regulation was in full force and effect:

"SEC. 51. (a) Whenever it shall appear to the Board that the interests of the creditors or members of any Federal association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, bylaws, or these rules and regulations, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner; or if such association shall refuse to submit its books and papers for inspection by the Board or any examiner appointed by the Board; or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be 734 examined under oath by a representative appointed by the Board concerning the affairs of any such association; or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations; or if the Board shall conclude that such association is in an unsafe or unsound condition to transact business; or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a conservator for such association. Such conservator may propose a plan of reorganization to the Board. The Board may approve a reorganization of such a Federal association.

"(b) In the event that the Board determines that it is necessary to liquidate such association, the Board will appoint the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation as receiver for the purpose of liquidation.

"(c) Before the appointment of a conservator or receiver, the Federal association will be given opportunity to be heard; provided, however, that the Board may appoint a temporary conservator pending such hearing."

6. That since the 13th day of April, 1937, the said Association has continued to operate under said Charter K, which has been amended only in respect to the voting rights of members, bonus and bonus reserve provisions, and lending powers of the Association, that said amendments were made pursuant to proposals by the Association.

Without in any way waiving the objections hereinbefore made, defendant objects to the proposed conclusions of law and the proposed decree for the following reasons:

1. Proposed Conclusion 1 is contrary to the opinion of the three judge court heretofore filed in that the opinion held Section 5 (d) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional and void only as attempting to delegate legislative power to the 735 Federal Home Loan Bank Board created under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act; that the opinion did not hold said Act unconstitutional as repugnant to Amendments Nos. IV and V of the Constitution of the United States.

2. Proposed Conclusions 2, 3, 4 and 5 are not based on any proper finding of fact nor on any matter properly before the Court.

3. Proposed Conclusion 6 is not based on any proper finding of fact nor on any matter properly before the Court and is a conclusion, which if made by the Court, would prematurely decide all the issues in this case.

4. The proposed decree, if entered by the Court at this time, would be premature and would amount to a final decree on the merits without the opportunity being given to the defendant to answer or set up his defenses to the complaint and the defendant objects to the entry of any decree at this time for all the reasons previously stated in his objections to the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

Dated: September 18, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Plaintiffs' response to defendants Fahey and Ammann's objections to proposed findings, conclusions of law, and decree and points and authorities in support of said response

Filed Sept. 21, 1946

739 Come now, the plaintiffs for themselves and on behalf of all shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and respond to the objections of the defendants Fahey and Ammann to the findings of fact, conclusions of law and decree, heretofore proposed by these plaintiffs, as follows:

I

The jurisdiction of a Federal Court having been invoked and it having assumed jurisdiction, the court's power to hear and determine extends to a complete disposition of the whole case and the entire controversy and enables the court to rest its judgment on the decision of such of the questions which in its opinion, effectively dispose of the case: Sterling v. Constantin (1932), 53 S. Ct. 190, 287 U. S. 378, 77 L. Ed. 375.

Chief Justice Hughes in affirming the order of interlocutory and permanent injunction, granted by a three-judge court (under Section 380, Title 28) restraining the Governor and certain military officials of Texas, from enforcing military orders restricting the production of the plaintiffs' oil wells, stated at Page 393 of the United States Reports opinion, as follows:

"The jurisdiction of the District Court so constituted, and of this Court upon appeal, extends to every question involved, whether of state or federal law, and enables the court to rest its judgment on the decision of such of the questions as in its opinion effectively dispose of the case."

II

The purposes of the statute, (380 (a), Title 28 U. S. C.), are to provide an adequate hearing and a full deliberation by three judges and there is no sug-

740 gestion in the statute, or in the effect intended by the statute, that the statutory court lacks any of the ordinary powers of a District Court which may be found useful in the performance of its duties, least of all, that such court lacks the ordinary and basic powers of a court of equity to protect both the parties and itself from fraudulent imposition directly affecting the litigation.

The cases "do not even hint that, once having assumed jurisdiction properly, such a court cannot exercise all of the ordinary equitable powers of a District Court in respect to such litigation." American Insurance Co. v. Lucas (1941), 38 Fed. Supp. 926 @ 932.

"It is an elementary maxim in equity jurisprudence that there is no wrong without a remedy." Leo Feist v. Young (7 CCA 1943), 138 Fed. (2d) 972 @ 974, in which case the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the lower court's decision, which had entered a judgment for the defendant on the grounds that the plaintiff in not having licensed himself in the appropriate state was barred from bringing this copyright infringement action, the court stating:

"By refusing to grant plaintiff's prayer, the District Court not only deprived plaintiff of its copyright, but in effect gave judicial blessing to defendant's confiscation of it. Since equity seeks above all else to do justice, we cannot agree that a Court should supinely sit by while such unlawful appropriation occurs. It is an elementary maxim of equity jurisprudence that there is no wrong without a remedy and certainly plaintiff chose the proper forum and followed the statutorily prescribed pro-741 cedure by which to assert that remedy." (974)

III

The broad equitable powers inherent in a court of equity to do justice summarily have been ratified and enlarged by Rule 54, Subd. (b) which states:

"Judgment at various stages: When more than one claim for relief is presented in an action, the court at any stage, upon a determination of the issues material to a particular claim and all counter-claims arising out of the transaction or occurrence, which is the subject matter of the claim, may enter a judgment disposing of such claim."

And further along similar lines of broad equity Subd. (c) also states:

"Except as to a party against whom a judgment is entered by default, every final judgment shall grant the relief to which the party in whose favor it is rendered is entitled, even if the party has not demanded such relief in his pleadings." (Rule 54 (d) (c) Rules of Civil Procedure.)

Rule 1—referring to the interpretation of such rules states: "They shall be construed to secure the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of every action." (Rule 1—Rules of Civil Procedure.)

Response to the objections of the defendants to the Plaintiffs' proposed Findings, Conclusions of Law and Decree.

A

742 The defendant Ammann's objections Numbers 1 and 5 on Pages 1 and 2 attempt to suggest that this Statutory Court did not have jurisdiction to herein determine the constitutional question raised, which contention is obviously without merit. The defendant Ammann's objections to the effect that the "plaintiffs had no standing in this court to raise the constitutionality" is without merit, as we presume the doors of the courts of justice in United States are usually open to all plaintiffs as well as to the defendants and should be particularly available to these plaintiffs, who are suing as committee of shareholder members, bringing action for, and on behalf of over fifty-six (56%) percent of all of the shareholder members of the "seized" association in an effort to protect the rights of such shareholder members from this unconscionable, as well as unconstitutional seizure.

The defendant Ammann's objections 2-4-6-7-8-10-11-12-13-14-15-16, are all substantially the same and simply reiterations in slighly varying language, which may all be summarized under the general heading of an objection that the proposed Findings, Conclusions of Law and Decree will in effect determine the entire litigation excepting only accountings and similar supplemental proceedings.

This Honorable Court composed of three judges and convened in conformance with the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of U.S.C.A. after full hearing have already heretofore rendered its opinion that:

"Authority to do the act sought to be restrained if found to exist, must be bottomed on Subsection 5 (d) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, it is on the direct operation of this statute that the commissioner must rely.". This Honorable Court having further found that: "We hold Section 5 (d) of Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional and void as attempting to delegate legislative power to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, created under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act."

It follows that such holding of unconstitutionality does finally determine all the issues that may properly be joined in this cause, and that, in compliance with the requirements of Rule 54 of Rules of Civil Procedure, and Rule 1 of Rules of Civil Procedure, this court should, and we presume is endeavoring to, and we hope will so construe Rule 54 as to secure the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of this action.

Defendant Ammann's objections numbers 3, 9 and 14, Pages 1 and 2 are obviously false and misleading statements as the proposed Findings heretofore submitted are based on evidence. Therefore this Honorable Court does, not only have authority to make final findings of fact, but is required so to do under the Law. (See Rule 52 (a) Rules of Civil Procedure.)

Numerous and extensive affidavits have heretofore been made and filed in this matter by the plaintiffs and the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and interpleading defendants, to which no counteraffidavits have been filed by the defendants Fahey or Ammann, nor either of them. As pointed out by the Honorable Pierson M. Hall at the time of hearing of argument on request for temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction to enjoin the defendants Ammann and Fahey from interfering in the operation and management of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association by its proper officers, which was held on Saturday, September 14, 1946, at Los Angeles, such affidavits not having been controverted said defendants thereby conceded that the allegations of the affidavits were correct. (See Page 69, Lines 7 and 8 Reporters Transcript.)

744 Defendant Ammann's objections numbers 17 and 18 again attempt to cloud the issue of unconstitutionality by seeking to question the court's jurisdiction over the entire matter by virtue of Mr. John H. Fahey having his official residence in Washington, which residence obviously cannot affect the constitutionality of the provisions of the act of Congress here in question.

While there no doubt has been some conflict, particularly in the older decisions, the more recent decisions apparently are consistent in holding that where the constitutionality of an act of Congress is involved the superior is not necessarily an indispensable party. Jarvis (Postmaster) v. Shachelton Inhaler Co. 136 F. (2d) 116 (June 1, 1943).

The court in affirming the lower court's issuance of a permanent injunction restraining the postmaster from interferring with the defendant's business stated:

"The fraud order was void as a matter of law. Appellant was excluding appellee from the use of the mails without authority. He was destroying appellee's mail order business, which was 95% of the whole. Was almost, if not altogether, a trespasser upon appellee's rights and privileges. * * * A stronger case for injunctive relief can hardly be stated. The Postmaster General did not seek to intervene. If he had done so, he would have been bound upon the question of the validity of the fraud order upon the record as made, just as we have indicated appellee was bound by it * * *."

"Courts of equity have always struggled against 745 technical rules, which impede rather than contribute to substantial justice." Decision was affirmed. (Page 122). Colorado vs. Toll (1924) 268 U.S. 228.

This is one of the leading cases determining the question as to whether or not the Superior officer is an indispensable party. The District Court of Colorado had dismissed a bill in equity brought by the State of Colorado, asking to enjoin the local superintendent of a national park from carrying out said park regulations, particularly with regard to automobile traffic, which regulations applied to the Rocky Mountain National Park, situated in the State of Colorado. Only the local park superintendent was made a party to the action without joining any of his superior officers. The United States Supreme Court, in reversing the District Court's order dismissing the bill in equity by an opinion written by Mr. Justice Holmes, stated as follows:

"The object of the bill is to restrain an individual from doing acts that it is alleged that he has no authority to do and that derogate from the quasi-sovereign authority of the State. There is no question that a bill in equity is a proper remedy and that it may be pursued against the defendant without joining either his superior officers or the United States. Missouri v. Holland, 252 U.S. 416, 431. Philadelphia Co. v. Stimson, 223 U.S. 605, 619, 620. As the bill was dismissed upon the merits it is not necessary to say more upon this preliminary question."

This case appears to be "on all fours" with the 746 instant litigation, even to the holding that there was involved the question of infringement of local state regulations and their position under the reserve powers of the Constitution of the United States. American School of Magnetic Healing vs. McAnnulty, 187 U.S. 94 (1902).

This decision involved the propriety of a complaint for injunction brought in the District Court of Missouri against McAnnulty, the Postmaster in charge of the United States Post Office in the city of Nevada, Missouri, without joining the Postmaster General. Homer Glen

Here the action was brought in the District Court of the Southern District of California, Southern Division, against Lt. Gen'l. John L. DeWitt, United States Military Official. Esquire, Inc. vs. Walker (Postmaster General) (1944), 55 Fed. Supp. 1015.

Here again proper jurisdiction was obtained over the Postmaster General in the United States District Court.

The recompilation of defendant Ammann's objections to proposed findings as stated on Pages 3 and 4 are unsubstantial, dealing only with trivial technicalities for example:

(a) If we could rely upon the government's position "That the findings as to comparative assets and as to solvency are immaterial and irrelevant," (Page 3; Line 25, 26) we would probably not have too serious objections to omitting these findings, but, since the consistency of their position cannot necessarily be relied upon, and, as obviously the findings of comparative assets and as to solvency are certainly descriptive and no doubt will be of assistance to reviewing courts in understanding the true situation, we believe such findings are not 747 immaterial and certainly are not irrelevant.

(b) The unlawful taking possession of assets, property and business of this magnitude by an interloper and trespasser, who is acting without authority and has prevailed only by an expressive show of force, in our opinion might be appropriately described as a "seizure", and hence we submit the use of the objective word seizure, as reasonably descriptive of the ultimate facts found.

(c) Objection 3 on Page 4 to proposed finding No. 3, is not well taken, as proposed finding number 3 specifically states that the plaintiffs "are suing as representatives of all members of that class."

(d) We submit that proposed finding 7 is not contrary to fact, so it is not in dispute that Order No. 5254 was actually issued by John H. Fahey or his subordinates of the said Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

The proposed findings endeavor to state ultimate facts as distinguished from evidentiary facts, and as Mr. John H. Fahey has through his counsel, Mr. Moe Silverman, appeared specially in the matter, and has filed a motion seeking to have this Court quash the service upon him, which motion this court has never granted, it would appear that the ultimate fact is in conformance with the proposed finding number 8, to the effect that John H. Fahey has been served with process.

F

Defendant Ammann's proposed findings as set forth on Pages 5 to 10 inclusive, are essentially evidentiary in their content, and are neither material nor relevant to the issue of constitutionality. The rules and regulations therein set forth and proposed to be introduced as findings by the defendant Ammann are void and so declared in the opinion of this court, holding Section 5 (d) of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, is unconstitutional and hence any regulations, irrespective of the language 748 contained in them, are void ab initio, as they draw their authority, if any, from that section of the act, herein declared to be unconstitutional.

The plaintiffs herein, constituting a shareholder committee, suing for, and on behalf of, and as representatives of shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, respectfully submit, that as they have never signed any of the original applications for charter of such association, they cannot be bound thereby. Nor have they ever consented to any of the void rules and regulations submitted by the defendant Ammann. Therefore, as to these plaintiffs, the proposed void rules and regulations are not material or relevant in these proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

G

(a) Defendant Ammann's objection Number 1 on Page 10 to the proposed conclusion Number 1, would, in effect, require that this Honorable Court limit its decree of unconstitutionality, of the said Section 5 (d), to the single ground suggested by the defendants. But we do not understand the opinion, of this Honorable Court, to so limit its finding of unconstitutionality.

(b) Defendant Ammann's objection to 2 and 3 on Pages 11 to proposed conclusions 3, 4, 5 and 6 are not well taken, as the conclusions are founded upon findings of fact, which are based upon the numerous affidavits heretofore filed to which no contravening affidavits have been filed, and therefore said affidavits should be taken as correct.

It is respectfully submitted that the findings of fact, as proposed by the plaintiffs are sufficiently broad to, and do support the proposed conclusions of law.

(c) When the defendant Ammann claimed that the proposed decree would be premature, he overlooked the obvious fact that Section 5 (d) of the Home Owners Loan Act was obviously unconstitutional "upon its face," and hence that no additional pleadings can in any way alter or change the unconstitutionality of said Section, nor aid this Honorable Court in discerning the law as to unconstitutionality of said Section. To delay the ultimate decision of this matter as suggested by the defendant Ammann, could serve no useful purpose, and would be contrary to the requirement of Rule 1 of the Rules of Civil Procedure "to secure the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of every action."

H

Answer to defendant Ammann's Points and Authorities—Point I

The contention is made by defendant Ammann that "the court is without authority at this time to make final findings of facts, conclusions of law and final decree." In support of this contention three cases are cited: Mayo et al. v. Lakeland Highland Canning Co. et al., 309 U.S. 310.

This case is distinguishable from the instant case on the following grounds:

1. It appears that the act there was not unconstitutional on its face. In fact the act was ultimately declared unconstitutional and in the dissenting opinion of Justice Frankfurter concurred in by Justices Black and Douglas, the statement is made: "Inasmuch as the Florida statute is obviously constitutional, the bill does not raise a substantial federal question and the District Court was without jurisdiction to entertain it on behalf of the appellees who are citizens of Florida." (Page 322).

The question there was not essentially one of unconstitutionality of the act itself, but rather was essentially concerned with the question of unconstitutionality of 750 acts and operations being had under color of the authority of the Florida law, and hence ultimate disposition of the case was primarily determinable by issues of fact as to methods of operation and performance under color of the act, and was not solely determinable by the issue of law, as to the constitutionality of the enactment itself.

In the instant question of unconstitutionality of Section 5 (d) of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, in the instant case the determination of unconstitutionality of this Section, which has already been declared by this Honorable Court's opinion coupled with the declaration of this Honorable Court in its opinion that whatever authority the commissioner and his subordinates had of necessity must have been "bottomed" upon the declared unconstitutional subdivision of the act, is determinative of all the numerous claims of the plaintiffs and of other parties.

In the instant case the instant question is one purely of law.

In the instant case, the question of unconstitutionality is one purely of law, the existence of the act being undisputed, and as the unconstitutionality of the act being apparent on its face, this issue would be totally unaffected by any further pleadings or evidence. To pass on the same issue again after answer would add nothing to the ability of the court to discern the law and to delay final decision would serve only the cause of red tape and delay and permit further irreparable damage and impairment of capital.

2. Further the court in the Mayo case suggests that the result might have been different had unequivocal findings in support of the conclusion against the constitutionality of the act there in question been made. (Page 318.)

3. In the Mayo case there were not, in the proper sense, any findings of fact upon the vital issues. (Page 316.)

4. Statements of fact in the Mayo case were made without sufficient basis either in the affidavits or in the oral testimony. (Page 316.)

751 5. In the case at bar unlike the Mayo case supra, there was here a motion to dismiss. The Supreme Court in the Mayo case held (Pages 317-318) that sufficiency of the bill to raise the constitutional question could have been decided on a motion to dismiss. Public Service Commission of Wisconsin v. Wisconsin Telephone Co., 289 U. S. 67.

It is distinguishable as it was reversed and sent back to the lower court for findings of fact, which were missing in the original order.

In Cone et al., v. Rorick, et al.; 112 Fed. (2d) 894, the court granted a preliminary injunction and the defendant appealed the matter—case was affirmed. It is, therefore, difficult to understand why the case has been cited by the defendant Ammann.

I

In reply to defendant Ammann's contention; "that the defendant is entitled to file an answer and have the issues thereon determined before a final decree," we submit that it having been decided by this Honorable Court in its opinion that—

1. "This three judge statutory court has jurisdiction to herein determine the matters presented, and

2. The authority of the conservator to do the acts sought to be restrained, if found to exist, must be bottomed on Sub-section (d) of Section 5 of the Federal Home Loan Act, as amended. It is on the direct operation of this statute that the commissioner must rely, and

3. We hold Section 5 (d) of Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional and void as 752 attempting to delegate legislative power to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, created under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act."

"There has been a determination of the issues material to a particular claim and all counterclaims arising out of the transaction or occurrence, which is the subject matter of the claim."

Therefore, this Honorable court may enter a judgment disposing of the matter and "the relief to which the party in whose favor it is rendered is entitled." All pursuant to the provisions of Rule 54 of the Rules of Civil Procedure.

VI

The provisions of Section 792, Title 28 of the Judicial Code, which prohibit a single judge of the District Court in matters which require the action of three judges, from hearing and determining or from entering "a summary or final judgment" on all or any part of the action, indicate that the entry of such summary or final judgment may be made by appropriate action of the three judges of such a statutory court.

Since the provisions of Section 792 of Title 28 of the U. S. C. A. prohibits a one judge district court from hearing and determining any application for, or vacation of, an interlocutory injunction or from dismissing the action, or from entering a summary or final judgment on all, or any part of the action where an injunction is required to restrain action under an unconstitutional act, it appears that such jurisdiction to enter "a summary" or final judgment on all, or any part of the acts is vested in this Honorable three judge statutory court. In the case of Coca Cola Co. v. Los Angeles Brewery Co., 1 Federal Rules Decisions, 67 (1939).

753 In the granting of a preliminary injunction to restrain the commercial use of the term coke in the manufacture, sale, or marketing by the defendant of a beverage under that name, which injunction was later made permanent, the Honorable Paul McCormick of the Southern District of California, Central Division stated: "What is there here that can be modified or changed or that needs any further exploration? What factual situation is there that could be more definitely presented to the Court in January than today? I think there is nothing. There may be many more affidavits filed on each side of the question. There may be a great deal of oral testimony developed on both sides of the issue. There may be extensive arguments made as to the effect of those matters, but upon analysis the same issue will be presented. If that is the case, it should be determined summarily."

Having acquired jurisdiction for the purpose of preventing waste and the destruction of the estate, a court of equity will retain jurisdiction for the purpose of granting full relief. In the case of Allegheny Oil Co. v. Snyder, et al., 106 Fed. Reporter 764 (1900), involving the destruction of two oil leases upon the same property where there were cross suits between the two lessees, which were heard together by a Federal Court upon motion for preliminary injunction and there were also the involved rights of the parties defendant on the validity and construction of the first lease, the lower court having granted the injunction and the matter having been appealed to the Circuit Court, Judge Day in rendering the opinion stated:

"The equitable estate of appellees was in danger 754 of destruction by the removal of gas and oil. In such case equity will intervene to prevent irreparable injuries. Having acquired jurisdiction for the purpose of preventing waste and the destruction of the estate, the court of equity will retain jurisdiction for the purpose of granting full relief." Pomeroy Equity Jurisprudence, 237, 1399. Bettmann v. Harness, 42 W. Va. 433, 26 S. E. 271.

"It is urged by counsel for appellant that the Circuit Court erred in disposing of the cases on their merits and entering final decrees therein without taking proof in due course, under the equity rules. The case came on for hearing on the application of the oil company for a temporary injunction, granting or refusal of which necessarily involved continuing the injunction granted in the state court as well as the cross application of the oil company for an injunction. The court considered these cases together. The cases stood upon bill, answer and affidavits. In view of the construction given the Snyder lease in the circuit court, affirmed in this court, the holders thereof were entitled to have their rights protected, and interference therewith by holders of the second lease enjoined. The first lease being held valid, the attempted second lease must necessarily fail. There was nothing in the Allegheny Oil Company in the one case, or its answer in the other, which required further 755 testimony before construction and effect could be given to the first lease. As was said by Judge Thompson in the circuit court the facts were substantially undisputed. The allegations made that Fowler understood the premises were to be promptly drilled for oil and gas could not affect the agreement as reduced to writing, in the absence of allegations of fraud or mistake. There was no attempt to reform the instrument. No amendment to the bill or answer was proposed, nor has there been any suggestion of further facts material to the controversy. In such cases the courts of the United States may proceed to administer final relief without putting the parties to the expense and delay of protracted litigation." (Citing numerous cases.)

Judgment affirmed.

A petition for a writ of certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the 6th Circuit was denied April 22, 1901. 45 L. Ed. 1030, 181 U. S. 618.

Although this case has been cited in most jurisdictions and upon numerous occasions the proposition of law herein enunciated by this case has never been questioned or modified.

What issue determinative of this litigation could be raised by further pleadings? None has been suggested.

What fact could justify this unlawful seizure under an unconstitutional act? None has been suggested.

What useful purpose would be served by further pleadings continuing the defendants trespassers in their unlawful possession? None.

756 SUMMARY

It is respectfully submitted that the proposed findings of fact, Conclusions of Law and Decree submitted by the plaintiffs, approved by all defendants, excepting only the Governmental officials as to the form thereof, put into form for the entry of final judgment the essential elements contained in the opinion of this Honorable three-judge statutory court and constitute the appropriate judgment to be entered in conformance with the instructions contained in its opinion:

"Let judgment be entered in accordance with this opinion."

Dated: At Los Angeles, this 20th day of September, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Answer of defendant and cross-claimant Title Service Company to objections of defendant A. V. Ammann to proposed findings, conclusions of law, and decree

Filed Sept. 21, 1946

Comes now Title Service Company, a defendant and cross-claimant in the above styled action, and herewith answers the Objections of Defendant A. V. Ammann to Proposed Findings, Conclusions of Law and Decree.

It is deemed necessary by this defendant to urge the settling of the proposed Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Decree in the form submitted by the plaintiffs by reason of the interests of the some 8000 makers of promissory notes and trust deeds securing the same, all affecting real property within the jurisdiction of this Court which interests are adversely affected by the pendency of this proceeding, and the titles to which may only be cleared by an ultimate disposition of the action. As recited in the Affidavits of Ethel L. Roberts and H. O. Wallace in support of a motion to be allowed to file a supplemental cross-claim in interpleader, there are more than 150

760 individual instances pending wherein the promissors and makers of deeds of trust are endeavoring to obtain reconveyances of said trust deeds and cannot do so during the pendency of this litigation.

I

It is the position and belief of this defendant and cross-claimant that all of the first eighteen objections interposed are specious. It is admitted that the proposed findings, conclusions and decree will dispose of all issues raised in the action. If such had not been the ultimate intention of Congress, there is no reason why Section 380(a) of Title 28, U.S.C. would have been placed in the statute, requiring an adjudication of constitutionality by a statutory court. It is further conceded that the order was made by the Court that its consideration would be limited to the constitutionality of the act in question. Such being the case, and the Court having found that the sole powers of the Commissioner or Administrator were "bottomed" on a statute which the Court found to be unconstitutional and void, all acts done pursuant to the power contained in the void statute become ultra vires, and whether right or wrong, are not subject to a judicial review. As was so aptly pointed out by the Supreme Court in the Panama Refining Case, heretofore cited at length, and argued, the fact that regulations adopted and acts done might have been with the best of intentions and without any ulterior motives does not validate any of them if the statute under which they were purportedly adopted and done is not constitutional.

"As to the fact that the motions to dismiss were not considered or that the defendant John H. Fahey was not before the Court, and the Court did not have jurisdiction of him, personally, we cannot agree. The action was brought under Section 118 of Title 28, U.S.C., and under that statute the Court has the power to make a binding judgment, in rem, against a non-resident and non-appearing defendant after service upon him in the 761 prescribed manner, which has been done in this matter. That no prejudice can result is evident from the fact that John H. Fahey is not only fully informed of the pendency and status of the action but that he is actively participating therein from the appearance, allegedly specially, for him of the U. S. Attorney and his Assistants and Moe Silverman, of the Nebraska Bar, and the filing on his behalf of motions to dismiss and to quash the service of summons upon him. Further, it is not conceded or believed that John H. Fahey is either a necessary or an indispensable party to the litigation.

II

With reference to the objections directed to the proposed Findings of Fact, it is believed that the arguments adduced are also very largely specious. Although it may be admitted that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized under "regulations" issued pursuant to the Home Owner's Loan Act of 1933 and not under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, the error is one of terminology and reference to the same by Statute and page would eliminate any ambiguity. Whether or not the appointment of a purported Conservator amounted to a "seizure" is a question of fact and it is believed that the affidavits on file support the finding that it did amount to a "seizure". None of the other objections are deemed worthy of comment.

III

All of the objections stated in pages 5 to 10 of the Objections and the proposed additional Findings of Fact suggested apparently go to the point of raising an estoppel against the plaintiffs of their right to sue and of the right of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to appear and be heard in this Court. Research by counsel undersigned has failed to disclose any prohibition, either statutory or by judicial precedent, for the position that any person, firm or corporation is ever estopped to challenge the constitutionality of any legislative enactment sought to be used as a basis for arbitrary deprivation of rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

As to whether the objection that Proposed Conclusion is contrary to the opinion of the Court is for the Court to decide, although it is believed, and strongly urged that the facts adduced by affidavit do disclose violations of Amendments IV and V of the Constitution of the United States. It is believed that the arguments with reference to Proposed Findings 2, 3, 4 and 5 are repetitions and that the same have heretofore been covered herein. If, as to Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6, the statute in question is unconstitutional and void, certainly the acts done under the power sought to be given by it are also void and of no effect and the equity arm of this Court must be extended to curtail the continuing damage being done to the innocent holders of deeds of trust under which this defendant is the trustee and the defendant Association is the beneficiary, i.e. by restoring the officers and directors to the control of their association, forthwith. As a result of conferences between counsel undersigned, other counsel in this action and some of the officers of the Title Insurance and Trust Company, including its Chief Counsel, it is believed that a procedure has been worked out by which guaranteed titles may be obtained following the restoration of the Association to the control of its officers and directors.

Finally, as to the objections raised in point 4 on page 11, to the effect that the entry of a final decree would cut off the right of the defendant Ammann to answer and be heard on the merits, the question is posed:

"What rights can one have to act or defend his acts done under a void and unconstitutional statute?"

The obvious answer is that there are none. If the act under which the defendant Ammann claims his right of appointment and on which he seeks to sustain acts done by him is void, the appointive power is likewise void 763 and he has no rights. Such being the case any further hearing in this matter has, of necessity, become moot. It is respectfully submitted that nothing which could be raised by answer, or other pleading, could or would restore life to the statute which has been declared to be void, and that to allow further pleadings to be filed on behalf of the defendant Ammann could only result in further and useless delay.

In view of all of the foregoing, it is respectfully submitted that the objections are substantially without merit and that the Proposed Findings of Fact, are adequately supported by the facts before the Court in affidavit form, there being no question raised but that the Conservator was appointed under the claimed authority of regulations promulgated under the section of the statute held to be unconstitutional; that the Conclusions of Law properly flow from the facts so found; and that the Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law fully support the Decree. Therefore, this defendant believes that said documents, as submitted with possible clerical corrections, should be settled, signed and the decree based thereon entered. Although the time within which this document has had to be prepared has been entirely too short, it is believed that substantially all relevant points have been covered.

Respectfully submitted.

Answer of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n to objections to proposed findings, conclusions of law, and decree

Filed Sept. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant and cross-claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and for answer to the objections of the defendant A. V. Ammann of the proposed Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Decree, respectfully shows to the Court as follows:

Defendant Ammann enumerates eighteen specific objections to the Court making any findings, conclusion or decree whatsoever. The conclusive and decisive point in the entire matter is the act having been found unconstitutional, what more needs to be determined? Defendants, by the wildest stretch of their imagination, can make no pretense of any right to remain in possession of the remnants of the original $26,000,000.00 in assets which they seized from the defendant Long Beach Federal. If they have any rights whatsoever, those rights must originate and stem from the Home Owners Loan 769 Act or the regulations which the Court has already determined to be unconstitutional. The defendant's insistence on remaining in possession of property the Court has adjudged they obtained wrongfully does them little credit. Particularly in view of their record of administration of such property. Under the management which defendant Ammann ousted, the property grew from $7500.00 to $26,000,000.00 in twelve years. Under the administration of Ammann, it shrank from $26,000,000.00 to $16,000,000.00 (approximately forty per cent) in less than four months. If this same rate of depletion continues, in a very few months more, the defendants will have achieved their purpose and destroyed the association, under no other authority than a law declared unconstitutional by this Court.

The circumstances under which defendant Ammann obtained his wrongful possession of this association and its assets must never be obscured in the "fog" of legal technicalities raised by him in his attempts to justify his seizure. Acting under a law, now adjudged unconstitutional with no authority other than his own signature, by intimidation and threats of criminal prosecution, he physically ousted the rightful management from control of $26,000,000.00 of assets belonging to the citizens of Long Beach. Under his administration, these assets have shrunk $10,000,000.00, nearly 40% and now he seeks by every subterfuge and delay to prolong said administration until the final destruction and dissolution of the defendant association. He has succeeded in half strangling it. The question remaining is will a court of equity allow him, whom the court has adjudged without authority in law, to continue choking the association until it is completely destroyed?

The case of Mayo v. Lakeland, etc., 84 L. Ed. 775, 309 U. S. 310, cited by defendant Ammann, in his Points and Authorities, presents an entirely different situation than the present case. There, the question of unconstitu-770 tionality depended upon involved factual matters, upon which the Court made no findings whatsoever. Here, the constitutional question is to be decided solely from the law itself.

This Honorable Three Judge Court excluded oral testimony and passed solely upon the law. If this Court were to grant only a temporary injunction, the Mayo case might have some application. But upon determining the question of law without recourse to any factual matters, the Court can grant a permanent injunction thereon. In the Mayo case, all parties conceded the necessity of a further hearing and lengthy trial. One of the most serious questions there involved was whether or not the defendants were complying with the law and the constitutionality of the law depended greatly upon such compliance or non-compliance. In the present case we have a pure question of law unmixed with any facts whatsoever. That is the power of Congress to delegate to the Board or the Commissioner the power to make laws of the United States. This question cannot be affected by any factual situation whatsoever. Either the delegation was valid or it was unconstitutional. This Court has held it to be unconstitutional, not upon any factual matters but solely upon consideration of the law itself. Such determination so made carries with it the necessity of the permanent injunction and the restoration of possession. Adequate findings have been presented to the Court and we feel sure will be adopted by the Court. The turning point of this matter is what facts, answer or allegations can change or affect the invalid attempt of Congress to delegate to the Commissioner and the Board the power to make the laws of the United States. The answer to this is the basis for the Court making the final judgment at this time. No more light can be thrown on this question by trial or any other facts. The law must stand or fall by what is contained in it and this Court has already determined that it falls.

The real question now before the Court is the life or death of the Long Beach Federal. If restored to 771 its rightful management, it will, despite the damage it has suffered from the wrongs inflicted by the defendants Ammann and Fahey, start its gradual recovery and growth. If permitted to remain in their "tender care" its death and dissolution is inevitable and immediate. If defendants Fahey and Ammann have anything to present in the way of a meritorious defense there has nothing prevented them from presenting it to this Court during the months the action has been pending. The factual situation demanding, indeed almost compelling, the restoration of possession to the rightful management needs no further elaboration. The only remaining question is, does the Honorable Three Judge Court have the power, upon hearing motions for preliminary injunctions to issue a decree deciding not the entire case, but all questions affected by and stemming from the unconstitutionality of the act. This question can best be answered by inquiring what the defendants Ammann and Fahey can put in their answer that would make constitutional an unconstitutional law. Assume for a moment, that defendants Ammann and Fahey appeal from the adjudication of unconstitutionality, and such adjudication is sustained (as we are convinced it surely will be) and the case then returned to the Three Judge Court for further proceedings, what further proceedings can be taken on the question of constitutionality? The answer of course is none.

Courts of equity have faced similar problems in other cases and have not found themselves without power to effect a complete remedy.

In the case of Allegheny Oil Co. v. Snyder et al., 106 Fed. 764, the action was decided and a final judgment entered by the Trial Court upon applications for temporary injunctions. An appeal was taken in the Circuit Court of Appeals, among other things; on the ground that the trial court erred in disposing of the cases on their merits without a trial. This contention was overruled and the trial court judgment affirmed, in the following language:

772 Where cross-suits between two lessees of the same property were heard together by a federal court upon motions for preliminary injunctions, submitted on bill, answer, and affidavits in each case, and the rights of the parties depended solely on the validity and construction of the first lease, the facts being substantially undisputed, the court had power to enter final decree on such hearing.

"It is urged by counsel for appellant that the circuit court erred in disposing of the cases on their merits, and entering final decrees therein without taking proofs in due course under the equity rules. The cases came on for hearing on the application of the oil company for a temporary injunction, the granting or refusal of which necessarily involved the continuing of the injunction granted in the state court, as well as the cross application of the oil company for an injunction. The court considered these cases together. The cases stand upon bill, answer, and affidavits. In view of the construction given the Snyder lease in the circuit court, affirmed in this court, the holders thereof were entitled to have their rights protected, and interference therewith by holders of the second lease enjoined. The first lease being held valid, the attempted second lease must necessarily fail. There was nothing in the bill of the Alleghany Oil Company in the one case, or its answer in the other, which required further testimony before construction and effect could 773 be given to the first lease. As was said by Judge Thompson in the circuit court, the facts were substantially undisputed. The allegation made that Fowler understood the premises were to be promptly drilled for oil and gas could not affect the agreement as reduced to writing, in the absence of allegations of fraud or mistake. There was no attempt to reform the instrument. No amendment to the bill or answer was proposed, nor has there been any suggestion of further facts material to the controversy. In such cases the courts of the United States may proceed to administer final relief without putting the parties to the expense and delay of protracted litigation. Mast, Foos & Co. v. Stover Mfg. Co., 177 U. S. 485, 20 Sup. Ct. 708, 44 L. Ed. 856, citing, with approval, Gardt v. Brown, 113 Ill. 475; Green v. Mills, 16 C.C.A. 516, 69 Fed. 852, 25 U. S. App. 383; and the decision of this court in Mayor etc., of Knoxville v. Africa, 23 C.C.A. 252, 77 Fed. 501, 47 U. S. App. 74. Finding no error in the decrees entered in the court below, the same will be affirmed."

The United States Supreme Court refused to grant certiorari to review this judgment, such refusal being contained in 45 L. Ed. 1930; 181 U. S. 618 (1901) Case No. 617.

As so aptly said "Nor has there been any suggestion of further facts material to the controversy. In such cases the courts of the United States may proceed to administer final relief without putting the parties to the expense and delay of protracted litigation." While defendant Ammann has vehemently insisted to the Court that he wants to raise defenses in his answer for 774 reasons of his own, he has completely failed to specify the nature of any of such defenses.

Our own District Court for the Southern District of California, has in the case of Coca Cola Co. v. Los Angeles Brewing Co., 1 Federal Rules Decisions, page 67, wherein Judge McCormick presented with a similar situation, granted a permanent injunction finally disposing of the entire case upon the application for a temporary injunction, used the following language:

"(1) The court believes that these matters are admittedly in the sound discretion of the court, to be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily. There is, however, a fixed principle in patent law and I dare say it is applicable in trade-mark litigation as well. It has been applied in many cases by this court. It operates where there isn't anything to be gained by prolonging litigation except to afford one or the other of the litigants a respite and moratorium to suspend the enforcement of right; but that is no safe criterion in determining the course that the court should follow on an application for a preliminary injunction. It usually applies in patent litigation where there has been a prior adjudication validating a patent and the only question at issue is one of infringement. There the situation can be arrived at generally, except in so far as the question of infringement is concerned, just as securely and much more satisfactorily on the preliminary application as it can by a trial after 775 a long hearing, expensive both as to time and as to money.

(2) What is there here that can be modified or changed or that needs any further exploration? What factual situation is there that could be any more definitely presented to the court in January than today? I think there is nothing. There may be many more affidavits filed on each side of the question. There may be a great deal of oral testimony developed on both sides of the issue. There may be extensive arguments made as to the effect of those matters but, upon analysis, the same issue will be presented. If that is the case, it should be determined summarily.

(5) * * * It seems to me that in the interests of both sides of the case it should be decided now. * * * An injunction will issue accordingly restraining the use or sale or advertisement of a beverage of this type or any beverage for human consumption using the word 'coke'."

As Judge McCormick so aptly said, "What is there here that can be modified or changed or that needs any further exploration? What factual situation is there that could be any more definitely presented to the Court in January than today? * * * Upon analysis, the same issues will be presented. If that is the case it should be determined summarily."

In addition, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule No. 54, reads in part as follows:

"(a) Definition; Form. 'Judgment' as used in these rules includes a decree and any order from which 776 an appeal lies. A judgment shall not contain a recital of pleadings, the report of a master, or the record of prior proceedings.

"(b) Judgment at various stages. When more than one claim for relief is presented in an action, the Court at any stage, upon a determination of the issues material to a particular claim and all counter claims arising out of the transaction or occurrence which is the subject matter of the claim, may enter judgment disposing of such claim. The judgment shall terminate the action with respect to the claim so disposed of and the action shall proceed as to the remaining claims. In case a separate judgment is so entered the court by order may stay its enforcement until the entering of a subsequent judgment or judgments and may prescribe such conditions as are necessary to secure the benefit thereof to the party in whose favor the judgment is entered."

This language is particularly significant: "In case a separate judgment is so entered the court * * * may prescribe such conditions as are necessary to secure the benefit thereof to the party in whose favor the judgment is entered.' Judgment is defined as including "any order from which an appeal lies". In addition therefore to the inherent equity powers of the court, it has authority under the Federal Rules to do exactly what has been proposed in the findings and judgment submitted to it. The determination of unconstitutionality will be of no benefit to plaintiffs or to defendant Long Beach Federal if the wrong doer and trespasser Ammann be allowed to remain in possession until he succeeds in completing 777 the destruction of the association already 40% destroyed in four months. Both plaintiffs Complaint and defendant Long Beach Federal's cross-claim present numerous claims for relief among them accounting, quiet title, preliminary and permanent injunctions, etc. The Court is now at the stage of having completely determined all issues material to constitutionality of the act and should grant all relief connected therewith, reserving jurisdiction as to the approval of the accountings when rendered, damages and such phases of the case as do not involve or flow from the determination of unconstitutionality, but to determine the act unconstitutional and yet to leave the trespasser Ammann in possession until the association be destroyed is to deny and not to secure the "benefits to the party in whose favor judgment is entered".

Respectfully submitted.

Request for stay of execution
Filed Sept. 25, 1946

Proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law and decree in the above matter having been submitted, which proposed findings, conclusions and decree provide in effect for the complete relief requested by the plaintiffs, including the removal of defendant A. V. Ammann, as conservator, and objections to said proposed findings; conclusions and decree having been filed and the settlement of such findings, conclusions and decree now being before the Court,

And it appearing that the three judge court will not be convened for a hearing upon the settlement of such proposed findings, conclusions and decree,

Request is hereby made that in the event the three judge court shall issue the decree in the form as submitted by plaintiffs or in such other form as shall provide for the immediate removal of defendant, A. V. Ammann, as conservator, or for relief other than an interlocutory injunction restraining:

1. Consolidating or merging the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or commingling its assets with other financial institutions, or from making any transfers, assignments, conveyances of any and all of the assets thereof to affect such merger, consolida-782 tion or reorganization, or from uniting, commingling, joining or consolidating the securities, assets, cash, resources, property or membership shares of said Association with those of any other association, bank, corporation, organization or institution whatsoever;

2. The holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration pursuant to Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration; that a stay of execution of said decree be granted for a period of thirty (30) days or such other time as the Court may fix to permit the perfecting of an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States and application to be made before said Supreme Court for a further stay during the pendency of such appeal.

This request is based upon the affidavit of Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney, which affidavit is attached hereto marked Exhibit A.

Dated: September 19, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Ronald Walker, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he is an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of California, and one of the attorneys for the defendant, A. V. Ammann, in the above entitled action.

That in the event the order or decree of this Court shall provide for the immediate removal of defendant, A. V.

Ammann, as conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and no stay of execution as to the enforcement of such order or decree be granted, and said defendant, A. V. Ammann, be immediately removed as such conservator, and thereafter a stay order be issued by the Supreme Court of the United States, staying the execution of such decree or order pending an appeal, great confusion and damage would result, rendering another accounting necessary, and affecting seriously the supervisory operations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration; that great expense would result to the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and ultimately to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association if the decision of this Court be reversed.

That this affiant as Assistant United States Attorney and as one of the attorneys for the defendant will promptly and with the utmost dispatch do all within his power and authority to expedite an appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

That a stay herein is sought solely for the purpose of maintaining the status quo pending an application to be made for a further stay by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Opposition to request for stay of execution
Filed Sept. 21, 1946

787 Come now, the plaintiffs, individually, and as representatives of the class of all of the shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and oppose the request of the defendant A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for stay of execution of the decree to be entered in the above entitled matter.

It is respectfully submitted, that this Honorable Court, having, by its opinion heretofore rendered, declared Section 5 (d) of the Federal Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional and having by said opinion found that the only authority, if any, of said A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator, or otherwise, is "bottomed" upon said declared unconstitutional section of said act and that said A. V. Ammann, his employees, agents and subordinates had no authority whatsoever, and are wrongfully in possession, control and management of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and all of its assets and further that any, and all acts of said A. V. Ammann, in connection with said matter, are void, and, if improper, might well be set aside and so declared void, and

It is further submitted that, to permit said A. V. Ammann, his staff, agents, employees and subordinates to remain in control and possession of said association and its assets, will be to continue dissipation of said assets and destruction of said association contrary to, and in spite of this Honorable Court's decision.

In spite of the expeditious manner in which this Honorable Court has endeavored to handle the above entitled litigation, it is further submitted, that from the time the said A. V. Ammann seized the said association on May 20, 1946, claiming to be purported conservator thereof, until the time of argument to wit: on or about July 16, 1946, there occurred withdrawals by shareholder members amounting to approximately $8,000,000.00, and that from the time of submission of said motion on to wit: July 16, 1946, until September 12, 1946, there occurred further withdrawals by shareholder members amounting to nearly $1,000,000.00 additional, raising the total withdrawals to slightly under $10,000,000.00.

788 And it is further submitted that assets, documents etc., have been and are continuing to be withdrawn from the premises of said association and that the title to property of said association has been and is continuing to be changed into the name of A. V. Ammann, a purported conservator, thereby clouding real property titles and making more difficult the handling of essential business matters, in an expeditious manner.

It is further submitted that numerous improper methods of business operations have been indulged in by the said A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator, and his staff, agents, employees and subordinates and that such improper operations are continuing.

This Honorable Court's attention is respectfully directed to the following affidavits in support hereof, as follows, to wit: Affidavits Filed in Support of and Attached to Motion for Temporary Restraining Order in re Interference of Operations of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

H. O. Wallace, August 8, 1946.

Re: Efforts to get Government Attorneys to agree to the handling of Trust Deeds and their declining to enter into stipulation therefore.

Ethel L. Roberts (Assistant Secretary to Title Service Company), August 8, 1946.

Re: Trust Deed in Request for Reconveyances.

That all of the foregoing affidavits are by reference expressly incorpofated herein, as though set forth herein at length.

The above opposition to defendant Ammann's request for stay of execution is made upon the grounds that 791 unless this Honorable Court promptly restores the officers of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to its management and control and restrains and enjoins the said A. V. Ammann, his secretary, agents, employees and subordinates from so doing, they will continue through mismanagement and otherwise to dissipate and diminish the assets of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the irreparable damage of the shareholder members thereof and will continue to destroy the public confidence in the stability of the management of this financial institution.

It is respectfully submitted that it rests within the sound discretion of this Honorable Court, as to whether or not a stay of execution of this decree should be granted. This court is in a position to judge best whether or not the balance of convenience requires the suspension of this decree and a withholding of its mandate.

As was stated by Chief Justice Taft during the opinion in the case of Magnum & Co. v. Coty, 262 U.S. 159 @ 163, 164 (1923).

"That court is in a position to judge first where the case is one likely under our practice to be taken up by us on certiorari, and second whether the balance of convenience requires a suspension of its decree and a withholding of its mandate. It involves no disrespect to this court for the Circuit Court of Appeals to refuse to withhold its mandate or to suspend the operation of its judgment or decree pending the application for certiorari to us. If it refuses, this court requires an extraordinary showing, before it grants a stay of the decree below pending 792 the application for a certiorari, and even after it has granted a certiorari, it requires a clear case and a decided balance of convenience before it will grant such stay." Cumberland Tel. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 260 U.S. 212 (1929) at 219.

In discussing the granting of a stay execution, Chief Justice Taft again states:

"But the court, which is best and most conveniently able to exercise the nice discretion needed to determine this balance of convenience is the one which has considered the case on its merits and, therefore, is famil-ar with the record. Records in cases like this are often very voluminous. Such is the record in this case. Without abdicating our unquestioned power to grant such an application as this, and conceding that exceptional cases may arise, we are generally inclined to refer applications of this kind to the Court of three judges, who have heard the whole matter, have read the record, and can pass on the issue without additional labor."

It is therefore respectfully submitted that, in view of the record here, equity does not warrant the granting of a stay of execution, which would cause the continuation of irreparable damage and injury to the approximately 16,000 shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Dated: This 20th day of September, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Opposition of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to request for stay of execution

Filed Sept. 21, 1946

Defendant Ammann has made a request for stay of execution of the judgment (if such judgment be made ousting him from possession of the assets and business of defendant Long Beach Federal). The effect of the granting of such stay will be the destruction of said association by defendant Ammann during the pendency of the appeal. $10,000,000.00, approximately 40% of the assets of said association have already been withdrawn in the four months of defendant Ammann's usurpation of management. In view of this disastrous effect of such stay, it is pertinent to inquire upon which Court the duty rests of determining whether the stay shall be granted. The Supreme Court of the United States has uniformly referred such matters to the three judges or other trial courts.

In Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, 67 L. ed 217; 260 U. S. 212 (1922), the Supreme Court of the United 796 States, in considering an application for stay of execution, said:

"But the Court which is best and most conveniently able to exercise the nice discretion needed to determine this balance of convenience is the one which has considered the case on its merits and therefore is familiar with the record. Records in cases are often very voluminous. Such is the record in this case. Without abdicating our unquestioned power to grant such an application as this, and conceding that exceptional cases may arise, we are generally inclined to refer applications of this kind to the court of three judges who have heard the whole matter, have read the record, and can pass on the same issue without additional labor. That was the course taken by this court in Southern R. Co. v. Watts, 66 L. ed. 1071; 259 U.S. 576, U.S. Supreme Court (1922). A similar order will be made here * * *."

Therefore the stay of execution is one for the Honorable Three Judge Court to determine for itself in the first instance. Such determination should not be merely for the purpose of permitting the Supreme Court of the United States to exercise a duty resting primarily upon the Honorable Three Judge Court. Further, as is shown in the case of Magnum Import Company v. De Spoturno, etc., 67 L. ed. 922; 262 U.S. 160 (1923), the application must be made in the first instance to the trial or lower court and when determined by them (unless discretion is abused) will not be reversed by the Supreme Court. In this case, the Court said:

"When, therefore, after the petition is filed and before its submission, an application is made for a suspension of the judgment or decree of the circuit court of appeals, a heavy burden rests on the applicant. The 797 petition should, in the first instance, be made to the circuit court of appeals, which, with its complete knowledge of the cases, may, with full consideration, promptly pass on it. The court is in a position to judge, first, whether the case is one likely, under our practice, to be taken up by us on certiorari; and, second, whether the balance of convenience requires a suspension of its decree and a withholding of its mandate. It involves no disrespect to this court for the circuit court of appeals to refuse to withhold its mandate or to suspend the operation of its judgment or decree pending application for certiorari to us * * *. This is a matter, however, wholly within its discretion. If it refuses, this court requires an extra ordinary showing before it will grant a stay of the decree below, pending the application for a certiorari, and even after it has granted a certiorari, it requires a clear case and decided balance of convenience before it will grant such stay * * *. Coming now, to the circumstances presented on the inquiry before us, we find nothing to justify our granting the motion. It is clear that the circuit court of appeals gave full consideration to a similar motion, and, with a much fuller knowledge than we can have, denied it. As we have said, we require very cogent reasons before we will disregard the deliberate action of that court in such a matter." [Italics added.]

The law is thereby settled that the granting or denying of the stay of execution rests primarily with the Honorable three judge court and that the application for such must be made to them first and not initially in the Supreme Court of the United States. Further, the three judge court's determination of the matter will (unless extreme circumstances be shown) be conclusive 798 on appeal to the Supreme Court.

It is therefore respectfully urged that no stay be granted "to permit perfecting of appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States" but that the Court consider the question of the stay fully upon its merits and determine the same.

It is further respectfully submitted that the entire record of growth of $7500.00 to $26,000,000.00 under the ousted management and of loss of $10,000,000.00 in four months under the usurpation of defendant Ammann conclusively requires the denial on the merits of the application for stay of execution.

Attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference is affidavit of T. A. Gregory, President of defendant Long Beach Federal supporting the statements herein contained as to usurpation, damage and destruction, if the stay of execution is granted.

Also attached hereto is a list of affidavits heretofore filed by plaintiffs and other parties to this action also supporting the statements as to irreparable damage.

Respectfully submitted.

Attorney for Defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Affidavit of T. A. Gregory on opposition to stay of execution

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
County of Los Angeles, ss:

T. A. Gregory, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the President of the defendant Long Beach Federal and has been such since the inception of said association in 1934; that the same management and Board of Directors (with one exception) have been in charge of the affairs of said defendant association, under which management its assets has grown from $7,500.00 to approximately $26,000,000.00 at the time of its seizure by defendant A. V. Ammann. That during the four months of the usurpation of management of the affairs of said association by said defendant A. V. Ammann assets of said association have shrunk approximately $10,000,000.00

(approximately 40%). That if said management be left with the said defendant A. V. Ammann and he be in control of its business and affairs during the many months necessary to perfect and decide an appeal to the Supreme 800 Court of the United States, the said association will be completely destroyed. If the rate of withdrawals of approximately two and one-half million dollars per month be continued for only eight or nine months more, all assets of said association will have disappeared and its dissolution will have been achieved by the said defendant A. V. Ammann, regardless of the adjudication of unconstitutionality of Section 5-D of the H.O.L.C. Act. That if, on the contrary, the duly elected and rightful management of said association be restored to control of its affairs, they can set about the work of restoration of public confidence and commence to rebuild the $10,000,000.00 damage done to said association by the usurpation of the defendants Ammann, et al. That if restoration of possession be denied, or if a stay of execution allow defendants Ammann, et al. to remain in possession, the winning of the decision of unconstitutionality will have been an empty and fruitless victory.

As defendants claim to be acting in the guise of officers of the United States, no bond can be required upon the appeal and no recourse had for the enormous and irreparable damage resulting from the destruction of said association by said defendants.

Affiant respectfully prays that possession, control and management of the affairs of the defendant Long Beach Federal be restored and that defendants A[redacted]nn, et al., who obtained such possession by intimidation and coercion under law declared unconstitutional be removed from possession they thus obtained.

Further affiant sayeth not.

T. A. Gregory.

Memorandum in opposition to granting of stay of execution

Filed Sept. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant and cross-claimant Title Service Company and files this, its memorandum, in opposition to the Request for Stay of Execution heretofore filed on behalf of the defendant A. V. Ammann. The granting of such requested stay of execution would result in continuing irreparable damage to this defendant and to the many innocent persons, firms and corporations who are the equitable owners under the deeds of trust wherein this defendant is the trustee and which are adversely affected by this litigation, as well as to the other defendants in this action, all as set forth in affidavits heretofore filed herein. Following is a list of such affidavits to which reference is hereby made and which are hereby incorporated herein by reference:

Affiant	Date of affidavit	Document to which attached
Ethel L. Roberts	August 8, 1946	Motion for Supplemental Interpleader.
H. O. Wallace	August 8, 1946	Same.
S. I. Bacon	September 13, 1946	Filed in hearing for temporary restraining order, September 14, 1946.
William McArthur	September 13, 1946	Same.
Leon Frazer	September 10, 1946	Motion for temporary restraining order heard September 14, 1946.
William McArthur	September 10, 1946	Same.
Frances Bond	September 10, 1946	Same.
Paul Mallonee	September 10, 1946	Same.
Ethel L. Roberts	June 28, 1946	Motion to Restrain Administrative hearing.
S. I. Bacon	July 10, 1946	Opposition to Motion to Dismiss or Quash.
T. A. Gregory	July 10, 1946	Same.
T. A. Gregory	June 28, 1946	Motion to Restrain Administrative Hearing.

That, as is demonstrated by said affidavits, the defendant A. V. Amuann, has dissipated the assets of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, has participated in and allowed poor business practices to prevail under his supervision, is not "conserving" the assets of said association and may have removed, or allowed to be removed, assets and records of said association and of this defendant. That if a stay of execution be granted there is no reason to believe that said defendant would amend his manner of handling the property in his care and that the irreparable damage heretofore done and now being done would continue.

808 Dated at Long Beach, California this 20th day of September, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Petition of intervention
Filed Oct. 7, 1946

Comes now the intervenor, Michael J. O'Rourke, and files this complaint in intervention in the above-entitled cause, and alleges:

I

That the Long Beach Federal Loan & Savings Association is the holder of a note and trust deed under Loan #8082 secured by the following described property belonging to the intervenor:

PARCEL I. That portion of Lot 2 of Tract 7996, in the City of Los Angeles, as per map recorded in Book 186, Pages 4 to 7 inclusive of Maps, in the office of the County Recorder of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of the Northeasterly line of Blueridge Drive with the Easterly line of said Tract 7996, thence along the said last mentioned Northeasterly line North 56° 50′ 25″ West, 37.71 feet to the beginning of a tangent curve concave to the South, leaving a radius of 90 feet and a delta of 64° 14′ 38″, thence westerly along 817 the arc of said curve 65.91 feet; thence North 18° 36′ 25″ East, 109.87 feet; thence South 63° 40′ 22″, East 58.03 feet to a point in the Easterly line of said Tract 7996, said point being distant 131.92 feet northerly, measured along the said Easterly line of Tract 7996, from the point of beginning; thence South 0° 46′ 53″ East, 131.92 feet to the point of beginning.

That the Intervenor has a right to intervene in the above-entitled case against the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association and the Title Service Company under Rule 24 on the ground that the intervenor has a right to the reconveyance of a trust deed on the above described property upon paying the balance due on the note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association, and that the right to make said reconveyance is involved in litigation in the above-entitled case.

That the Title Service Company has refused to execute a reconveyance of trust deed even though the note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association is discharged. Said refusal is on the ground that the Title Insurance & Trust Company will not accept reconveyances by the Title Service Company of property held as security on loans held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association until litigation involving the appointment of a conservator is settled or until order directing reconveyances is made by this court.

That the Intervenor has no remedy but to petition this court to direct the Title Service Company to execute reconveyance of the trust deed upon discharge of the obligation that said deed secures.

That the execution of a reconveyance by the Title Service Company would in no way prejudice or be inimical to the rights of any parties to this litigation.

III

That the Intervenor owes a balance of $3456.03 to the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association on a note secured by a deed of trust on the above described property wherein the Title Service Company is designated as trustee for the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association.

IV

That the Intervenor has entered into a contract to sell the above described property, that this agreement of sale is in escrow with the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, 469 North Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, California, under Escrow #136-19035-M, that there is on deposit in escrow money with instructions to the escrow holder to discharge the note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association and accept reconveyance of the trust deed, that the Title Service Company has refused and still refuses to execute said reconveyance on the ground that the above-entitled litigation in this court involves issues that would affect the validity of any reconveyance, that refusal of the Title Service Company to execute the reconveyance irreparably injures the Intervenor, that unless said reconveyance is executed by the Title Service Company on or before October 20, 1946, the Intervenor will lose the sale of his property and will suffer great loss and the expenses of cancellation of the escrow agreement, notwithstanding that said reconveyance would in no manner affect the property or legal rights of the litigants in this case.

That the Intervenor has instructed the escrow holder to discharge in full the amount of the note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association and to accept reconveyance from the Title Service Company so that an insurable title may be conveyed to the buyer of the Intervenor's property, that the Intervenor seeks an order 819 of this court directing the Title Service Company to execute a reconveyance of the trust deed on Intervenor's above described property upon payment to the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association the balance of the note plus accrued interest to date from funds now on deposit at the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles in Beverly Hills under escrow; or in the alternative, the intervenor hereby deposits the sum of Three thousand five hundred ($3500) Dollars with the Clerk of this Court and requests that this Court direct and order the intervenor's note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association be delivered up and discharged from said funds on deposit therein, and that the Title Service Company be directed and ordered to execute a reconveyance of the trust deed held on the intervenor's property, that upon the full discharge of the balance of the note and accrued interest the Clerk of this Court return to the intervenor any monies remaining on deposit after the liquidation of the obligation held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association.

Wherefore, the Intervenor prays that this Court make an order directing the Title Service Company to execute immediate reconveyance of the trust deed on Intervenor's above described property upon payment to the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association the balance due on said note secured by trust deed and to accept payment from the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, 469 North Canon Drive, Beverly Hills, California, from funds now held by them under Escrow #136-19035-M, which money is deposited in said escrow for the specific purpose of discharging the balance due on Intervenor's note held by the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association; or, in the alternative, the Intervenor prays that this Court make an order directing the Clerk of this Court to use 820 monies deposited by the Intervenor to discharge the balance of the note and accrued interest to the Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association and direct the Title Service Company to execute a reconveyance of trust deed of Intervenor's above described property held as security for the payment of the aforesaid note.

ARNOLD O. STEELE,
Attorney for Michael J. O'Rourke, Intervenor, 245-A South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California, CR-1-5201, BR-2-1735.

Findings, conclusions of law, and decree
Filed Sept. 30, 1946

828 Various motions came on to be heard on the 15th day of July, 1946, at 2:00 o'clock P. M., in courtroom No. 3 of the above entitled Court, situated in the Federal Building, in the City of Los Angeles, State of California, upon the pleadings, notices of motion, affidavits, points and authorities and arguments of counsel, before a Statutory Court convened, pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a) of Title 28 of U. S. C. A., composed of the Honorable William E. Orr, Judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the 9th Circuit, presiding, Judge David W. Ling, Judge of the District Court for the District of Arizona, and Judge Peirson M. Hall, Judge of the District Court for the Southern District of California.

Appearing as counsel for the various parties were: Messrs. Wyckoff Westover and Steadman G. Smith, of the firm of Westover & Smith, Attorneys for the Plaintiffs;

James Carter, Esquire, United States Attorney at Los Angeles, by Rolland L. Walker, Esquire, Assistant United States Attorney, and Moe Silverman, Esquire, of the Nebraska Bar, Associate Counsel, representing the defendant A. V. Ammann, individually; and as conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and the defendant John H. Fahey, specially for the limited purpose only of making a motion to dismiss and to quash service of process upon defendant John H. Fahey;

Charles K. Chapman, Esquire, appearing for the defendant and cross claimant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association;

H. O. Wallace, Esquire, of the firm of Thomas & Wallace, appearing as Attorneys for the defendant and cross claimant in interpleader Title Service Company, a corporation; and Raymond Tremaine, Esquire, appearing as Attorney for the defendant and cross claimant in interpleader Robert H. Wallis.

The following motions were duly called for hearing and were argued by counsel for the respective parties, to wit:

1. Motions of the plaintiffs to continue in force
829 the Temporary Restraining Orders to restrain the Merging of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with any other institutions, and to restrain the holding of an Administrative Hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, until the final adjudication and determination of the Plaintiffs' Motions for Preliminary Injunctions.

2. Motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to Dismiss the Complaint.

3. Motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, to Dismiss the Answer and Cross Claim in Interpleader of the defendant Title Service Company, a corporation.

4. Motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to Dismiss the Answer and Cross Claim in Interpleader of the defendant Robert H. Wallis.

5. Motion of the defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, appearing specially to Dismiss the Complaint, or in lieu thereof to Quash Service of Summons upon defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

6. Motion of the plaintiffs for Preliminary Injunction to restrain the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann individually and in their representative capacities, from merging or consolidating Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or commingling its assets with other institutions, and to take testimony and evidence at the hearing thereof.

7. Motion of the plaintiffs for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration or any other persons.

Counsel for plaintiffs presented a written motion to amend the Complaint in certain particulars, and 830 leave of Court being first had and obtained, the same allowed to be filed and their being no objection to said motion, the motion to amend was granted by the Court, and the Complaint so amended.

The Court next considered the matter of the plaintiffs' motions to continue in force the temporary restraining orders to restrain the merging of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with any other institutions, and to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, until the determination on the Plaintiffs' Motions for preliminary injunctions, and the Court thereupon granted both of said motions and continued the same in full force and effect until the determination by this three-judge Court re the question of constitutionality at issue herein.

The motions of the plaintiffs and of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to take oral testimony and evidence at the hearing on the Plaintiffs' motions for preliminary injunctions were both denied by the Court.

At the close of oral argument by counsel representing the respective parties, on the 16th day of July, 1946, the Court requested counsel for the respective parties to submit within five (5) days a compilation of their points and authorities on the sole question of the unconstitutionality of Paragraphs (a) and (d) of Section 5 of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended; the said compilations of points and authorities, having been filed within the time allowed by the Court counsel for all parties, and the Court, having considered the same together with the motion, affidavits, pleadings, and arguments, previously presented, now makes its findings as follows, to wit:

FINDINGS

I

The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized in 1934 under the Federal Home 831 Loan Bank Act, as amended. At the time of its incorporation its assets had a value of approximately $7,500.00. It has had the same president and board of directors during the ensuing years under whose management and guidance the institution has expanded to a point where, at the time of the seizure hereinafter referred to, its assets were of a value of approximately $26,000,000.00. It was at the time of seizure entirely solvent, with assets, in addition to an amount sufficient to pay its obligations, in the form of reserves and undivided profits in the sum of $1,300,000.00.

II

On May 20, 1946, A. V. Ammann, by virtue of his appointment as a conservator for said institution by John H. Fahey, Administrator, took charge of said institution, and has since been, and now is, in possession thereof. The conservator took over the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association without notice or hearing of any kind. Subsequent to the taking possession of the bank an administrative hearing was ordered.

III

Plaintiffs are shareholders in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and are suing as representatives of all members of that class.

IV

Temporary orders were issued restraining the merger of the institution with other institutions of like character and restraining the commissioner from holding an administrative hearing.

V

That prior to said seizure no demand was made upon said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, its officers or directors, for the correction of, or change in any of its policies, actions, procedures, or doings of any kind or nature. That there was no official criticism of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or any its officers, directed to it.

VI

That prior to said seizure no notice was given to defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of any hearing of any kind or nature and the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was afforded no opportunity to be heard by defendant John H. Fahey as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, or by any of his assistants, agents, servants or employees, or at all.

VII

That Order No. 5254, dated May 20, 1946, purporting to appoint defendant A. V. Ammann to act as the Conservator of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and all acts taken by defendant A. V. Ammann, subsequent thereto, were done and made by defendant A. V. Ammann, or under his direction or control, without any authority whatsoever, excepting only such as might claim to be derived from rules and regulations promulgated by said defendant John H. Fahey, under claim of color of authority to make such rules and regulations, pursuant to the rule making authority purportedly delegated by provision of subdivision (d) of Section 5 of Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, as amended.

VIII

That the defendant John H. Fahey has been duly and regularly served with process, both individually, and in his representative capacity as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

From the foregoing facts the Court concludes:

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. That Section 5 (d) of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933 as amended is unconstitutional in that it is repugnant to Article I, Section 1, and Article I, Section 8, Clause 18 and Amendments Nos. IV and V of the Constitution of the United States of America.

2. That the motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, both individually, and as conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss the complaint and to dismiss the answers and cross claims in interpleader of the defendant Title Service Company, a corporation, and the defendant Robert H. Wallis should be denied; and

833

3. That this Court has acquired jurisdiction over the defendant John H. Fahey, that the motion of the defendant John H. Fahey, individually, and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner to dismiss the Complaint, or in lieu thereof to quash service of summons, should be denied; and

4. That the Motions of the plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction to restrain the defendant from merging or consolidating the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or commingling its assets with other institutions should be granted and made permanent; and

5. That the motions of the plaintiffs and of the defendant and cross claimant in interpleader, Title Service Company, a corporation, and of the defendant and cross claimant in interpleader Robert H. Wallis for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, or administration should be granted and made permanent; and

6. That the purported appointment of the defendant A. V. Ammann to act as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was, and is wholly illegal, null and void, and that all acts done and actions taken by him, as such purported Conservator, are void ab initio and of no force or effect.

DECREE

Now therefore, it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed:

1. That the motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, both individually and as Conservator for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss this action be, and the same is hereby denied.

2. That the motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, both individually, and as Conservator for the 834 defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss the answer and cross claim in interpleader of the defendant Title Service Company, a corporation, be, and the same is hereby denied.

3. That the motion of the defendant A. V. Ammann, both individually, and as Conservator for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to dismiss the answer and cross claim in interpleader of the defendant Robert H. Wallis, be, and the same is hereby denied.

4. That the motion of defendant John H. Fahey, both individually, and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, to dismiss, or in lieu thereof, to quash service of summons be, and the same is hereby denied.

5. That the motion of the plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction to restrain the defendants John H. Fahey, individually and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and A. V. Ammann, individually and as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the assistants, servants, agents representatives and employees, from merging or consolidating the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or commingling its assets with other financial institutions be, and the same is hereby granted. Said defendants John H. Fahey, individually and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and A. V. Ammann, individually and as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, their assistants, servants, agents, representatives and employees, and each of them are hereby permanently restrained and enjoined from making, attempting to make, or instituting any merger, consolidation or reorganization of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and from making any transfers, assignments, conveyances, of any and all of the assets thereof, which might affect or bring about such merger, consolidation and/or reorganization, and from and, of uniting, commingling, joining, or 835 consolidating the securities, assets, cash, resources, property, membership shares of said association with those of any other association, bank, corporation, organization, or institution whatsoever.

6. That the motions of the plaintiffs and of the defendants and cross claimant in interpleader Title Service Company, and of the defendant and cross claimant in interpleader Robert H. Wallis for preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board or Administration, or any other person be, and the same is hereby granted, and a permanent injunction be, and the same is hereby granted and the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, and John H. Fahey, as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and as the Commissioner thereof, or otherwise, and A. V. Ammann, individually, A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or otherwise, and any and all of their agents, employees, servants, conservators, hearing officers and subordinates, each and all of them, be and they hereby are, restrained and enjoined from directly or indirectly, holding any administrative hearing, or proceeding with, the holding or attempting to hold, any hearing, or hearings, pursuant to Order No. 5309 of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, or at all.

7. That the defendant A. V. Ammann, both individually, and as purported Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association be, and he is hereby removed forthwith as such purported Conservator.

8. That the said officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association be forthwith restored to, and placed in full possession of, and control of the business and all of the business of said Association, and that the said defendants John H. Fahey, A. V. Ammann and their subordinates, agents, employees and servants be, and they are hereby ordered to forthwith deliver, return, relinquish, assign, transfer, convey, quitclaim, surrender and 836 set over to said officers, title control and possession of any and all property of every kind and nature, wheresoever situated, owned by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, on or after May 20, 1946, or pertaining to the operation of said Association by said persons thereafter, including all books, records, reports, accounts and other documents, and unless possession of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, as aforesaid, upon service of a copy of this decree upon defendant A. V. Ammann, either personally or upon his servant, agent or representative in possession, is forthwith delivered, as aforesaid, let a writ of assistance and possession issue placing the officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association in peaceable and complete possession of the assets, property and business of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

9. That the defendants, A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, both individually, and in their representative capacities, are ordered to forthwith render an inventory to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its officers and directors of all property, assets, securities, cash, instruments, documents, records, and effects, pertaining to or taken from the possession of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or received by said defendants on or subsequent to May 20, 1946, and the said defendants, and each of them, are further hereby ordered to render, within ten days from the date hereof, their verified account in accordance with rules of sound accounting practice, to this Court, of all monies and income of all kinds received by them, or either of them, and for all acts and transactions done by them, or either of them, while acting as the alleged or purported Conservator or Conservators of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, together with interest on all such sums of money so received, and together with a detailed and complete report of any and all transactions had, or done by them as such purported Conservator or 837 Conservators of said Association, on and since May 20, 1946, and that they are further ordered to deliver forthwith to said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its officers all such property, stock, bonds, notes and other personal property and such sums of money as they may have received during said period of time, less only such disbursements as the Court shall have found to have been properly made by them, if any.

10. That neither the defendant A. V. Ammann, nor the defendant John H. Fahey in their representative capacities have had any right, title or interest, or claim to any of the properties herein mentioned, or to the properties heretofore interplead and deposited with the Clerk of this Court by the defendants and cross claimants in interpleader. The defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey in their representative capacities are hereby permanently enjoined from ever asserting any claims, right, title or interest in or to said property, or any of it.

11. That the defendants A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey are hereby further ordered, within ten days from the date hereof, to produce and deposit with the Clerk of this Court, the said Conservator's bond of the defendant A. V. Ammann, and that the said bond shall remain in full force and effect until further order of this Court.

12. That the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann are hereby ordered to do and perform such acts as are necessary or expedient to carry out the provisions hereof.

13. That the plaintiffs and the defendants and cross complainant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, Title Service Company, a corporation, and Robert H. Wallis, recover their costs of suit herein from the defendants A. V. Ammann and the defendant John H. Fahey in the sum of $320.79 favor plaintiffs; $24.36 favor Title Service Company; $305.82 favor L. B. Fed. Sav. and Loan.

14. There is reserved to the District Court the right to make such other and further orders herein as shall 838 hereafter be necessary to determine collateral issues hereto and to give to this Decree full force and effect.

Writ of assistance and possession
Filed Oct. 10, 1946

The People of the United States of America:

To the United States Marshal of the District Court of United States, Southern District of California, Central Division, at Los Angeles, California, or to any other United States Marshal, Greetings:

Whereas, on the 30th day of September, 1946,
847 Paul Mallonee C. H. Newhouse and Winnie Bucklin, individually, and as representatives of a class, suing for, and on behalf of the shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, plaintiffs, and the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, recovered a judgment and decree in the District Court of the United States, Southern District of California, Central Division, against the defendant, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as Chairman (or commissioner) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as the purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and their subordinates, agents, employees and servants, for the possession among other things of the assets, property and business of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and all of its properties, both real and personal, wherever situated.

And whereas, The said judgment and decree was entered in the records of said court and judgment and decree was filed in the Office of the Clerk of said Court in the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Now therefore, you are hereby commanded and required to place the duly elected officers and directors, or any of them, to wit: Thomas A. Gregory, J. E. Gregory, S. I. Bacon, J. S. Watts, J. K. Reeder, M. T. Killingsworth and Ethel L. Barlow, in quiet and peaceable possession and in complete and full possession of, and control of, the business and all of the business of the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of its property of every kind and nature wheresoever situated and including any and all assets and property, both real and personal, belonging to the said Association, or in any way pertaining to the operation of said Association, and also including all books, records, reports, accounts and other documents of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

848 And you are further required to make return of this Writ of Possession and Assistance within 10 days of your receipt hereof, with what have you done endorsed hereon.

Witness the Honorable Presiding Justice, William E. Orr, United States Circuit Judge and the Honorable Associate Justices, Dave W. Ling, United States District Judge and Peirson M. Hall, United States District Judge of the Statutory Three-Judge Court heretofore regularly convened, pursuant to the provisions of Section 380 (a), Title 28 U.S.C. Assignment of errors
Filed Oct. 2, 1946

To the District Court of the United States in and for the Southern District of California, Central Division:

Come now the defendants John H. Fahey and A. V. Ammann, each individually and respectively as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner and Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in connection with their appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States from the decree of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of 859 California, Central Division, entered the 30th day of September, 1946, severally make the following assignment of errors upon which they will rely to reverse the decree entered herein:

I

The Court erred in making any determination upon the constitutionality of Section 5(d) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, Chapter 64, 48 Stat. 128.

II

The Court erred in holding Section 5(d) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, unconstitutional as repugnant to Article I, section 1 or Article I, section 8 of the Constitution of the United States, or as repugnant to any other provision of the Constitution of the United States.

III

The Court erred in making final findings of fact and conclusions of law.

IV

The Court erred in the rendition of a final decree in this case filed and entered September 30, 1946.

V

The Court erred in overruling defendant Ammann's objections to the findings, conclusions of law and decree.

VI

The Court erred in ruling upon defendant Ammann's motion to dismiss the complaint in view of the three judge court's ruling upon the only hearing held before it, which ruling was as follows:

"In order that there be no confusion, so counsel will know exactly what they have to follow, we rule now we will not consider any question presented other than on the constitutionality of the statute under question."

VII

The Court erred in ruling upon defendant
860 Fahey's motion to dismiss or in lieu thereof quash the return of service of summons in view of the Court's said ruling.

VIII

The Court erred in denying defendant Ammann's motion to dismiss.

IX

The Court erred in denying defendant Fahey's motion to dismiss or in lieu thereof quash the return of service of summons.

X

The Court abused its discretion in granting a temporary injunction.

XI

The Court erred in granting a temporary injunction on the ground that Section 5(d) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, is unconstitutional.

XII

The Court erred in finding that it had jurisdiction of defendant, John H. Fahey.

XIII

The Court erred in granting temporary and permanent injunctions without any hearing whatsoever upon their issuance and without any hearing or trial upon the facts.

XIV

The Court erred in denying defendant Ammann's motion to dismiss the answer and cross claim in interpleader of defendant, Robert H. Wallis.

XV

The Court erred in denying defendant Ammann's motion to dismiss the answer and cross claim in interpleader of defendant, Title Service Company.

XVI

The Court erred in granting a preliminary and permanent injunction restraining the defendants John H. Fahey, individually and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, and A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, from merging or consolidating 861 the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or commingling its assets with other financial institutions.

XVII

The Court erred in granting a preliminary and permanent injunction restraining the said defendant John H. Fahey and the said A. V. Ammann from holding an administrative hearing.

XVIII

The Court erred in granting a mandatory injunction or order forthwith removing the said A. V. Ammann as Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and restoring the former officers of said Association to full possession of and control of the business of said Association.

XIX

The Court erred in granting the motion of defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, for leave to file a third party complaint against the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco and others.

Wherefore, these defendants pray that the said decree of the District Court be reversed with directions to dismiss the complaint of the plaintiffs, the cross claims in interpleader of defendants, Robert H. Wallis and Title Service Company, and the third party complaint of defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Dated October 2, 1946.

Respectfully submitted.

Appellees' designation for additional portions of the record on appeal

Filed Oct. 18, 1946

To the Clerk of the United States District Court, in and for the Southern District of California:

The appellees, plaintiffs in the above entitled action, hereby file this, their Designation for Additional Portions of the Record, which they desire to be included in the Record on Appeal.

It is requested that in addition to the portions of said record designated by the Praecipe for Record on Appeal, dated October 15, 1946, which has heretofore been filed with you by the appellants, the defendants, A. V. Ammann and John H. Fahey, by and through their attorneys, James M. Carter, United States Attorney, and Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney, that you include all other documents in the record of said case, save and except Memoranda of Points and Authorities, filed to and including the 5th day of October, 1946; and that 896 there also be included in said Record on Appeal all parts of Reporter's Transcripts not requested by the appellant, to wit:

Transcript for July 1, 1946, July 8, 1946, July 15, 1946, July 16, 1946, September 13, 1946, September 14, 1946.

All the foregoing are to be included in the transcript of Record on Appeal to be filed in the Supreme Court of the United States.

This designation for Additional Portions of the record to make a complete record on appeal to the United States Supreme Court is filed pursuant to the Provisions of subdivision 2, of Rule 10, Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Dated this 17th day of October 1946.

Separate answer of A. V. Ammann to cross claim in interpleader of Title Service Company
Filed Oct. 21, 1946.

Comes now the defendant, A. V. Ammann, and, without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this Court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to answer pending the appeal, now files this, his separate answer to the cross-claim in interpleader of Title Service Company, and states:

FIRST DEFENSE

I

The answer and cross-claim in interpleader does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

SECOND DEFENSE

I

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph I of the cross-claim in interpleader.

905 II

As to paragraph IV of said cross-claim, this defendant states that he was, on May 20, 1946, duly and lawfully appointed conservator for the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and at all times complained of was in lawful control of the operations of said Association.

III

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph V of said cross-claim except as herein explained. This defendant states that there were delivered to the said cross-claimant the notes, deeds of trust, requests for reconveyances, and instructions referred to by the cross-claimant and that each of said trust deeds named the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association as beneficiary, but that said requests for reconveyances were executed by said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

IV

This defendant denies the allegation contained in paragraph VI of said cross-claim that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association notified said cross-claimant, Title Service Company, that said A. V. Ammann's and/or John H. Fahey's purported authority to act for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is invalid and unconstitutional and that said authority is being attacked in the above entitled action in this Honorable District Court.

V

This defendant denies that cross-claimant, Title Service Company, is faced with conflicting, inconsistent and contrary demands, as alleged in paragraph VII of said cross-claim and denies that the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association demands and orders said Title Service Company not to issue such reconveyances or warns it that if such reconveyances are issued, said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will hold it in damages for the total amount of said deeds of trust.

VI

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph X of said cross-claim.

VII

This defendant admits the allegations of paragraph XI of said cross-claim except the allegation of the third sentence thereof commencing with the words "That the purported and attempted substitution," and ending with the words "if any", which sentence defendant denies.

VIII

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph XII of said cross-claim except the allegation that said deeds of trust contained certain provisions as set forth.

THIRD DEFENSE

As a third and further defense to said cross-claim, this defendant states:

I

That the officers and directors of the Title Service Company are, to a great extent, the same persons who, until the appointment of the defendant as conservator, acted as officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; that Thomas A. Gregory now is, and since its incorporation has been, the executive and dominating head of Title Service Company, and from the date of its organization until the 20th day of May, 1940, he was the executive and dominating head of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

II

This defendant is informed and believes and accordingly states that the action brought by the plaintiffs herein was induced, procured and financed by said Thomas A. Gregory and certain other persons, to this defendant unknown, acting collusively, to further his and their own personal interests and not to further the interests of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or its shareholders; that the cross-claim of defendant, Title Service Company, was collusively filed in an attempt to confer jurisdiction upon the court, and that no justiciable controversy exists as the basis for said cross-claim.

907 III

That no controversy exists between the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and the cross-claimant, Title Service Company, and that neither this defendant nor defendant, John H. Fahey, makes any claim in connection with said deeds of trust contrary to or conflicting with the claim of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the cross-claim in interpleader of Title Service Company be dismissed and that he recover his costs and disbursements herein, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in the premises.

Dated October 18, 1946.

United States Attorney,

Separate answer of A. V. Ammann
Filed Oct. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant A. V. Ammann and, without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to answer pending the appeal, now files this, his separate answer to the complaint of the plaintiffs, and states:

FIRST DEFENSE

I

That the complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

SECOND DEFENSE

I

This defendant denies that the principal place of business and all of the private property, real property, personal property, securities, negotiable bonds, cash and assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or any other property or assets of said 909 Association have been unlawfully, or at all, seized and diverted, and denies they are unlawfully, or at all, held and detained by John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey as Chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, A. V. Ammann as the purported conservator or conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, all as alleged in paragraph II of plaintiffs' complaint. This defendant states that all of the property and assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association are, and at all times complained of have been, held by the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and by no one else; that title to all said property has at all said times remained in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association save and except as said Association has, in the normal course of its business, transferred items thereof for valid consideration.

II

This defendant denies all the allegations set forth in paragraph VII of plaintiffs' complaint, except that he admits that upon the 20th day of May, 1946, he appeared at the offices of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and announced that he had been appointed conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

III

This defendant denies all the allegations contained in paragraph VIII of plaintiffs' complaint except the allegation "that no defects exist in the capital structure".

IV

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph

IX of plaintiffs' complaint except the allegation that "said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles was fully and completely financially solvent and had a surplus of nearly Two Million ($2,000,000.00) Dollars", and except the further allegation that "Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association owned Three hundred and sixty thousand ($360,000.00) Dollars paid in cash value of the stock of said Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles".

This defendant denies all of the allegations of paragraph X of plaintiffs' complaint.

VI

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph XI of plaintiffs' complaint.

VII

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph XII of plaintiffs' complaint.

VIII

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph XIII of plaintiffs' complaint.

IX

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph XIV of plaintiffs' complaint.

X

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph XV of plaintiffs' complaint except the allegations that since May 20, 1946, dividends have been declared on certain assets, coupons and/or interest payments have accrued and been paid and/or clipped on account of bonds owned by said association and that various and sundry payments of principal and interest have been made on account of mortgages, trust deeds, and various other notes owned by said Association.

XI

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph XVI of plaintiffs' complaint and states that any disbursements made and any sums received have been made or received by said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and not by the defendants, Ammann or Fahey.

XII

Defendant admits the first sentence of paragraph XVII of plaintiffs' complaint and denies the rest of said paragraph.

911

XIII

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 1 of plaintiffs' amendments to their complaint in so far as it relates to John H. Fahey as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner and states that as such Commissioner, the said John H. Fahey is a resident of the City of Washington and the District of Columbia.

XIV

As to paragraph 2 of plaintiffs' amendments to their complaint, this defendants denies all the allegations thereof except the allegation that the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration provide "Such officers and directors, or any of them, shall not thereafter have, exercise, or act in connection with, any such rights, powers, or privileges, or any asset or property of any nature of the Association."

XV

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 3 of plaintiffs' amendments to their complaint.

XVI

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 4 of plaintiffs' amendments to their complaint.

THIRD DEFENSE

For a third and further defense this defendant states:

I

That on or about July 10, 1934, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was organized and incorporated under and by virtue of rules and regulations adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board pursuant to Section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, Ch. 64, Sec. 5, 48 Stat. 128 (12 U.S.C.A., sec. 1464).

II

That there was received in the office of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shortly subsequent to its date, an application for permission to organize a Federal savings and loan association, which application was dated May 15, 1934, together with a subscription to shares and a petition
912 for charter dated May 21, 1934, which petition was signed by T. A. Gregory, J. S. Watts, J. E. Gregory, J. K. Reeder and S. I. Bacon; that in said application for permission to organize, the following statement, among others, appeared:

"(4) Applicants agree not to represent themselves as authorized to organize such an association until this application is acted upon favorably by said Board or the chief executive officer of the Federal home loan bank of the district or a duly authorized organizer for the Board, and that upon such action they will proceed only in accordance with the provisions of Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 and rules and regulations made thereunder."

That in said petition for charter, among others, are the following statements:

"5. Petitioners, in good faith, desire to promote thrift and home ownership in their community by the accumulation of funds for home financing in accordance with the provisions of said act and the rules and regulations made thereunder.

"7. Wherefore, petitioners pray that they, their associates, and successors, be incorporated and made a body corporate under said name and style with all powers, privileges and immunities, and subject to such conditions and restrictions as are provided in said act and rules and regulations made thereunder."

III

That relying upon the statements made in said application and petition, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board issued to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association on or about July 10, 1934, a charter known as Charter E, which charter was accepted by said Association; that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board would not have issued said charter if such statements, agreements and promises had not been made and been relied upon by it. That among the provisions contained in said charter were the following:

"15. The association shall at all times be subject to the provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, providing for Federal savings and loan associations, and 913 to any amendments thereof, and to any valid rules and regulations made thereunder as the same may be amended from time to time.

"19. The bylaws adopted by the association shall provide for the management of the association within the provisions of the law and this charter and the rules and regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

"20. The association may be liquidated, merged, consolidated, or reorganized, as is provided in the rules and regulations for Federal savings and loan associations made by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board."

IV

That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such charter, the following regulation was in full force and effect:

"14. Whenever it shall appear to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board that the interests of the creditors or shareholders of any such association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner, or if such association shall refuse to submit its books, papers, and concerns to the inspection of said Board, or any examiner appointed by said Board, or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be examined upon oath touching the concerns of any such association, or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations, or if from any examination or report provided for by these rules and regulations, the Board shall have reason to conclude that such association is in an unsound or unsafe condition to transact business, or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a receiver or conservator, and require of him such bond and security as it deems proper.

914 "Such receiver or conservator, under the direction of the Board, shall take possession of the books, records, and assets of every description of such association, collect all debts, dues and claims belonging to it, and shall make prompt report to the Board of the condition of the association and shall, after 10 days' notice in writing to all shareholders, borrowers, and creditors of the association, sent by mail to their last address as shown on the books of the association, conduct a hearing at the office of the association or some other convenient place designated by him in such notice, at which hearing any interested parties may submit any evidence as to the condition of the association or its management, and may submit any plan for its operation or for a disposition of its assets and a record shall be made and kept of such hearing, and one copy thereof filed with the Federal home-loan bank of which such association is a member and one copy submitted to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board of the evidence submitted at such hearing and the plans submitted for the operation of such association or for the disposition of its assets. The conservator or receiver may subpena witnesses, compel the production of books, record, and documents, swear witnesses, and examine them under oath, and may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for the enforcement of such processes. Thereafter the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall recommend to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board a plan for liquidation, merger, consolidation, or reorganization of the association, and the Board shall give consideration to the same and enter an order providing for the release of the association and its continued operation and the terms therefor or for its liquidation, merger, or consolidation and the terms therefor. Thereupon the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, shall proceed to dispose of the association as is provided in such order. All costs of such proceedings shall be approved by the Federal Home 915 Loan Bank Board and assessed against the association and its assets and paid by the association or from its assets. In the event of a legal necessity therefor, the conservator or receiver, as the case may be, or any interested party, may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for direction or for confirmation of any sale or disposition of assets, but said Federal Home Loan Bank Board shall have full and exclusive authority, powers, and jurisdiction to take possession by a conservator or receiver and to hold and administer the assets on an equitable basis."

V

That said Association commenced operations under said charter shortly after the date of its issuance and continued to operate thereunder until on or about the 13th day of April, 1937, and that on said last named date, pursuant to a petition of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for an amendment to its charter, and amended charter was issued to said Association known as Charter K; that said Charter K contained, among others, the following provisions:

"3. Objects and powers.—The objects of the association are to promote thrift by providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes. The statute, this charter, and rules and regulations made thereunder provide for examination and supervision and at the same time for the protection of all private rights concerned, and shall be construed in keeping with the best practices of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States.

"The association shall have perpetual succession and power to sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity; to have a corporate seal, affixed by imprint, facsimile or otherwise; to appoint officers and agents as its business shall require, and allow them suitable compensation; to have bylaws not inconsistent with the Constitution or laws of the United States, this charter, and rules and regulations of the Federal 916 Home Loan Bank Board, providing for the management of its property and regulation and government of its affairs; to wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate, or reorganize in the manner provided by law and rules and regulations made thereunder; and to conduct business in the territory of the United States except as otherwise limited in this charter. The association may purchase, hold, and convey real and personal estate consistent with its objects, purposes, and powers; may mortgage or lease any real and personal estate; and may take such property by gift, devise, or bequest. Unless authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the association may not invest in an office building or buildings for the transaction of the business of the association an amount representing the cost of land and buildings in excess of the sum of its undivided profits and reserve accounts."

That said Association has continued to operate under Charter K from the date of its issuance.

VI

That at the time of the application for and issuance and acceptance of such amended charter, the following regulation of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board was in full force and effect:

"Sec. 31. (a) Whenever it shall appear to the Board that the interests of the creditors or members of any Federal association are being jeopardized because such association has violated its charter, bylaws, or these rules and regulations, or is conducting its business in an unsafe or unauthorized manner; or if such association shall refuse to submit its books and papers for inspection by the Board or any examiner appointed by the Board; or if any officer or director thereof shall refuse to be examined under oath by a representative appointed by the Board concerning the affairs of any such association; or if any such association shall suspend payment of its obligations; or if the Board shall conclude that such 917 to transact business; or if any such association shall neglect or refuse to observe a lawful order of the Board, the Board may, on becoming satisfied of the existence of any or all of the conditions set forth above, forthwith appoint a conservator for such association. Such conservator may propose a plan of reorganization to the Board. The Board may approve a reorganization of such a Federal association.

"(b) In the event that the Board determines that it is necessary to liquidate such association, the Board will appoint the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation as receiver for the purpose of liquidation.

"(c) Before the appointment of a conservator or receiver, the Federal association will be given opportunity to be heard; provided, however, that the Board may appoint a temporary conservator pending such hearing."

VII

That since the organization and incorporation of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, it has, from time to time, submitted requests to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, that they subscribe for shares in said Association; that pursuant to such requests, the Secretary of the Treasury and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation on behalf of the United States did so subscribe for and purchase shares of said Association, and thereby provided additional capital for its operation. That said requests and such subscriptions and purchases were made pursuant to the provisions of Section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, and pursuant to Rules and Regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration made under authority thereof.

VIII

That by its incorporation and organization under and by virtue of rules and regulations adopted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under authority of Section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as 918 amended, and by its acceptance of and operation under charters issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board pursuant to rules and regulations adopted under authority of said Act, and by its acceptance of the benefits accruing to it under and by virtue of its being a Federal savings and loan association, the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is now estopped to deny the validity of said law or the validity of said rules and regulations issued pursuant thereto.

That by reason of the statements, agreements and promises made in the said application for permission to organize, petition for charter and charter, as herein above set forth, the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is estopped to deny the validity of said law or of said rules and regulations.

IX

That at the time the plaintiffs became shareholders in said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and at all times since, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was subject to the provisions of its charter, the law and the rules and regulations, and that the plaintiffs acquired their shares subject to such law, charter and rules and regulations and they are estopped to deny the validity of said law, and said rules and regulations.

FOURTH DEFENSE

I

That the Rules and Regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration provide that upon the appointment of a conservator for a Federal savings and loan association, such association may demand a more definite statement of the grounds for such appointment and may demand, and upon such demand, shall receive an administrative hearing at which such association or any interested person may show cause why such conservator should not have been appointed and why he should be removed.

II

That pursuant to, and in accordance with, said Rules and Regulations, the Long Beach Federal Savings 919 and Loan Association on or about the 24th day of May, 1946, demanded of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration a more definite statement of the grounds upon which A. V. Ammann was appointed conservator. That pursuant to such demand, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration did, on or about the 29th day of May, 1946, furnish such definite statement to said Association. That on or about the 30th day of May, 1946, the said Association demanded of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration an administrative hearing in accordance with the Rules and Regulations. That on the 5th day of June, 1946, by its duly adopted Order No. 5309 the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration directed an administrative hearing pursuant to such demand and gave notice thereof, all in accordance with its Rules and Regulations. That by said order July 3, 1946, was set as the date and the city of Los Angeles, State of California, as the place for holding said hearing.

III

That thereafter and on the 1st day of July, 1946, the plaintiffs in this action and the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association secured, over the objections of this defendant, an order of court restraining the holding of said administrative hearing.

IV

That the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration has at all times been ready, able, and willing to hold said administrative hearing, except as restrained by the order of court, and to give the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and the plaintiffs an opportunity to show cause why the conservator should not have been appointed and why he should be removed.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the complaint of the plaintiffs be dismissed and that he recover his costs and disbursements herein, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in the premises.

Motion to dismiss or in lieu thereof to quash return of service of summons by John H. Fahey
Filed Oct. 21, 1946

Comes now defendant, John H. Fahey, and without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this Court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to plead pending the appeal, and without waiving his objections heretofore made to the jurisdiction of the Court over the person of this defendant and to the venue, but specifically reserving the same, now moves the Court:

1. To dismiss the cross-claim in interpleader of the defendant, Robert H. Wallis, or in lieu thereof to quash the return of service of summons on the grounds:

(a) That his official residence as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner is in the District of Columbia and for the purpose of said cross-complaint he is an inhabitant of the District of Columbia.

921 (b) That his residence as an individual is in the State of Massachusetts and that for the purposes of said cross-complaint he is, as an individual, an inhabitant of the State of Massachusetts.

(c) That said cross-complaint cannot be maintained against him in the State of California.

(d) That he has not been properly served with process in this action.

2. To dismiss the cross-claim in interpleader of Robert H. Wallis on the grounds:

(a) That it does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

(b) That the Court does not have jurisdiction of the subject matter thereof.

This motion is based upon the records and files in the above entitled action and the points and authorities attached hereto.

Dated October 17, 1946.

Motion to dismiss by John H. Fahey
Filed Oct. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant, John H. Fahey, and without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this Court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to plead pending the appeal, and without waiving his objections heretofore made to the jurisdiction of the Court over the person of this defendant and to the venue, but specifically reserving the same, now moves the Court that the complaint in the above entitled action be dismissed.

This motion is made upon the grounds that the Court is without jurisdiction over the person of this defendant, an indispensable party to this action, and over the subject matter of the action, and upon the further ground that the complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

923 This motion is based upon the records and files in the above entitled action and the points and authorities attached hereto.

Separate answer of A. V. Ammann to cross-claim in interpleader of defendant Robert H. Wallis

Filed Oct. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant, A. V. Ammann, and without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this Court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to answer pending the appeal, now files this, his separate answer to the cross-claim in interpleader of defendant, Robert H. Wallis, and states:

FIRST DEFENSE

I

That said cross-claim in interpleader does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

SECOND DEFENSE

I

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph I of said cross-claim except the allegations of sub-paragraph (e) thereof.

925 II

This defendant admits the allegation that John H. Fahey is Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner as stated in paragraph III of said cross-claim and avers that this defendant was on the 20th day of May, 1946, duly and legally appointed conservator for said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and that at all times complained of he was in lawful control of the operations of said association.

III

This defendant denies that said Robert H. Wallis is, or at any time since May 20, 1946 has been, acting as attorney for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, as alleged in paragraph IV of said cross-claim.

IV

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph V of said cross-claim, except the allegation that T. A. Gregory was a member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles.

V

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph VI of said cross-claim except the allegations contained in the first sentence thereof.

VI

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph VII of said cross-claim except the allegation contained in the first sentence thereof.

VII

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph VIII of said cross-claim except the allegation that three of the members of said Association have filed an action in the above entitled cause and secured the restraining order described.

VIII

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph IX of said cross-claim.

IX

This defendant denies all the allegations of paragraph X of said cross-claim except the allegation that Robert 926 H. Wallis has incurred liabilities to various firms of attorneys in Washington, D. C., in California, and will, in the future, incur additional expenses, and except the allegations contained in the last sentence of said paragraph, and as to such allegations this defendant states that he is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to their truth.

X

This defendant denies the allegations of paragraph XI of said cross-claim and avers that said check and the funds purportedly represented thereby are the property of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

THIRD DEFENSE

As a third and further defense to said cross-claim in interpleader this defendant states:

I

That the cashier's check referred to in said cross-claim has not been endorsed by said Robert H. Wallis and is deposited in court without any endorsement.

FOURTH DEFENSE

As a fourth and further defense, this defendant states:

I

Defendant is informed and believes and accordingly states that said cashier's check was issued upon a check drawn by the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association to the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Long Beach, which latter check was unlawfully directed to be drawn by Thomas A. Gregory, president of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; that said check and the cashier's check issued thereon constituted an unlawful diversion of the funds of said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and that the said Association is the owner of, and entitled to said cashier's check and the $50,000.00 purportedly represented thereby.

II

That said cashier's check was, by direction of said Thomas A. Gregory, included in the count of cash 927 assets held by the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association on the 18th day of May, 1946, and that the said Thomas A. Gregory, this defendant is informed and believes, abstracted said cashier's check and unlawfully delivered the same to cross-claimant, Robert H. Wallis.

III

This defendant is informed and believes and accordingly states that the said Robert H. Wallis knew and at all times has known, that said cashier's check was unlawfully abstracted by said Thomas A. Gregory and that his cross-claim in interpleader was filed as a result of collusion between him and the said Thomas A. Gregory in an attempt to deprive the said Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of its lawful property, and in an attempt to confer jurisdiction on this court.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the cross-claim in interpleader of defendant, Robert H. Wallis, be dismissed and that he recover his costs and disbursements herein, and for such other and further relief as may be proper in the premises.

Dated October 18, 1946.

Motion to strike and motion to dismiss by John H. Fahey
Filed Oct. 21, 1946

Comes now the defendant, John H. Fahey, and without waiving his claim on appeal to the Supreme Court that the decree of this Court filed herein on September 30, 1946, attempts to give all the relief prayed for in the complaint, and there being no order or stipulation extending the time to plead pending the appeal, and without waiving his objections heretofore made to the jurisdiction of the Court over the person of this defendant and to the venue, but specifically reserving the same, now moves the Court:

1. For an order striking from the files the answer and cross-complaint of the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and as grounds therefor shows to the court:

(a) That said answer and cross-complaint is redundant and immaterial and is an attempt to assert a cause of action identical with that of the plaintiffs.

929 (b) That the relief sought by the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is identical with that sought in its behalf by the plaintiffs in the original action, and one of the actions is therefor duplicitous.

2. That the cross-complaint of the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, be dismissed for the reason that it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted and for the reason that this defendant is an indispensable party to the action and service upon him in this action cannot be obtained in this jurisdiction.

3. To dismiss the cross-complaint of the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or in lieu thereof to quash the return of service of process on the grounds:

(a) That his official residence as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner is in the District of Columbia and for the purpose of said cross-complaint he is an inhabitant of the District of Columbia.

(b) That his residence as an individual is in the State of Massachusetts and that for the purposes of said cross-complaint he is, as an individual, an inhabitant of the State of Massachusetts.

(c) That said cross-complaint cannot be maintained against him in the State of California.

(d) That he has not been properly served with process in this action.

1. For an order striking from the files the answer and cross-complaint of the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and as grounds therefor shows to the court:

(a) That said answer and cross-complaint is redundant and immaterial and is an attempt to assert a cause of action identical with that of the plaintiffs.

(b) That the relief sought by the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, is identical with that sought in its behalf by the plaintiffs in the original action, and one of the actions is therefore duplicitous.

931 2. That the cross-complaint of the defendant, Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, be dismissed for the reason that it fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted and for the reason that John H. Fahey, Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, is an indispensable party to the action and service upon him in this action cannot be obtained in this jurisdiction.

• • • • • •

The COURT. Is everyone ready in the Mallonee, Newhouse, Bucklin, etc., Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association v. Fahey, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann and others?

Mr. WESTOVER. Ready for the plaintiff.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I believe we are all ready, your Honor.

The COURT. I will take that matter up now. Someone had an ex parte motion in that.

Mr. NECASEK. In that matter, your Honor, we have a motion, the Home Investment Company of Long Beach, a corporation, for leave to file a complaint in intervention. The purpose of this complaint, your Honor, is to eventually obtain an order of this Court to secure the reconveyance of 174 trust deeds for the purpose of paying the money and securing the reconveyances. The trust deeds were deposited in the court by the trustee named in the trustee, Title Service Company, who was also a party-defendant to this action. They were deposited here with the request that the Court determine whether or not the reconveyances should be issued or on whose request and how the money was to be paid.

Now the company whom I represent had the situation advanced to this point at the time the Conservator 947 was appointed. The association had agreed to take the money, which involves approximately $850,000, and secure reconveyances. They had secured other commitments from another lending institution and trust deeds had been recorded, but due to the fact that they are unable to secure the reconveyances the titles cannot be guaranteed and they are unable to secure the money.

The purpose of them securing the money is for this reason: They want to pay off this incumbrance and secure new loans and increased amounts on the 174 homes for the purpose of securing additional funds to build houses in which they have commitments for 900 Title 6 G. I. homes. They need this additional financing to complete those homes.

In addition to that, out of these 174 houses, approximately 40 of them have been sold, half of them to G. I.'s, where they are being refinanced through the Veterans' Administration and the Veterans' Administration is unable to obtain reconveyances, we are unable to give them reconveyances, and we are unable to accept their money, and as a consequence a good many veterans and others are being deprived of housing.

This situation not only involves the Home Investment Company of Long Beach but involves every financial institution in the city of Long Beach. I have made a check of numerous of the institutions, the Bank of America, Security-First National Bank, Farmers and Merchants Bank, 948 and I find they have over a hundred escrows and loans pending in which they are attempting to secure reconveyances through the Federal Building and Loan Association, and they are unable to secure these by reason of the fact that the Title Service Company, who is a defendant in this action, and the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, under the direction of Mr. Ammann, are unable to secure the reconveyances. It is a situation that I believe behooves everybody to work out a solution of, and for that reason I am filing a motion here this morning asking leave to file a complaint in intervention and a request that I may have an order to show cause on the parties involved here so that I can secure immediate relief.

We do not care to intervene in the action for the purpose of any subsequent litigation that might arise; we are merely asking for the relief of securing these trust deeds.

I have discussed this with all parties in interest and I believe I have the waivers this morning of all parties defendant and plaintiff to permit me to file this complaint in intervention.

The Court. You mean waivers of notice?

Mr. Nee'asek. Waivers of notice. I haven't them signed at the present time, but all parties have consented that they would stipulate in open court that I may file them.

The Court. Are all parties who have heretofore appeared in that action present?

949 Mr. NeCasek. All parties are, your Honor.

The Court. Do you have a record of who has appeared, Mr. Clerk?

The Clerk. The only ones I have are on the calendar, your Honor.

The Court. Title Service Company, Thomas & Wallace, by H. O. Wallace.

Mr. Wallace. Mr. Wallace speaking. There is no objection to the proposed motion.

The Court. Raymond Tremaine, attorney for defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis.

Mr. Tremaine. Raymond Tremaine speaking. No objection.

The Court. Charles K. Chapman, attorney for Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Chapman. Chapman speaking. No objection.

The Court. James M. Carter, United States Attorney, by Ronald Walker and others.

Mr. Walker. No objection. That is, as to the defendant Ammann we will waive any notice of the motion. I know of no objection to the motion itself. I have not as yet had an opportunity to read it.

The Court. By the way, you are appearing specially in this case on a motion to dismiss, are you?

Mr. Walker. I believe so.

The Court. For lack of jurisdiction, or is it a 950 general appearance?

Mr. Walker. General appearance on behalf of the defendant Ammann. As to Mr. Fahey, there seems to be some question whether he has or has not yet been served, or we anticipate that we will move to quash service on him if the service has been made. But no appearance as yet has been made on Mr. Fahey and I do not at this time wish to make such appearance by waiver of notice. I think the motion in interpleader is proper.

In that connection, I might state that the Conservator has in each case requested the trustee that the reconveyances be issued. Certainly it is proper that they should be, to permit Mr. NeCasek's plans to come out whole.

The Court. Let me see the motion.

(The document referred to was passed to the Court.)

The COURT. Are there any other appearances in that matter?

Mr. WESTOVER. Westover speaking for the plaintiffs. We have no objection to the intervention, I might say in response to counsel.

The COURT. You mean you waive notice?

Mr. WESTOVER. We waive notice; that is right.

The COURT. And you have no objection to the intervention?

Mr. WESTOVER. We waive notice of the motion.

951 I might say in that connection that we were orally requested to join in a mutual stipulation of all parties that the money be deposited in lieu of the trust deeds to relieve this situation, and we would have no objection to that provided all parties join in it, including Mr. Fahey.

The COURT. In view of the waiver of notice and the waiver of any objection made by all parties appearing to date, the moton to file a complaint in intervention is granted.

Mr. NECASEK. If I may ask at this time, I would like permission to file a petition for an order to show cause on the defendants Ammann as Conservator and the Title Service Company, to show cause in this court on some set date as to why they should not issue reconveyances.

The COURT. Let me see. Would that involve any issue that is raised which requires the three-judge court?

Mr. WESTOVER. I believe it would, your Honor. It would involve the same question of the validity of the original appointment, whether or not the act under which the Conservator was appointed was a valid and constitutional act within the provisions of the constitution.

Mr. WALLACE. On behalf of the Title Service Company, the trustee in the matter, as an interpleader we have no active interest in it, but we believe, that the adjudication as to the petitions under which reconveyances 952 may be made would involve the constitutionality of the acts which are here in dispute, and therefore require adjudication by a three-judge court.

The COURT. That is, it will require a prior adjudication?

Mr. WALLACE. That is right.

The COURT. It will not require the sitting of a three-judge court to hear this order to show cause, would it?

Mr. WALLACE. In my opinion it will; yes, sir.

The COURT. It will?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, sir.

Mr. NECASEK. The only matter I am here for is the question of the delay that will result in this and the damage that will be done, not only to ourselves but to everybody involved that has a trust deed. That is a $26 million organization, with over 8000 trust deeds, and a good many of them are people who are attempting to pay off and securing other refinancing, and a good many are going through the Veterans' Administration, and if the matter is delayed it will make a very serious situation in regard to the financial structure of the city of Long Beach, and prevent people from obtaining what is rightfully due from the Association and from the officers of the Association. We are caught, you might say, in the middle of this situation. We are innocent bystanders who are going to be hurt. For that reason I respectfully request the Court to take that into consideration and give us immediate relief.

953 Mr. CHAPMAN. Chapman speaking for the Association which was taken over. The action of this court will involve the validity of the title of these properties and will present a constitutional question requiring the three-judge decision. If there is any defect anywhere in the procedure, the title companies may not continue to insure the titles as they now are and you wouldn't have any relief, Mr. NeCasek.

The COURT. You mean if there is any defect in the procedure by which he might get the relief he is asking?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is right, your Honor.

The COURT. What if this suit hadn't been filed, could he then have secured release of the trust deeds and payment of the money?

Mr. CHAPMAN. He could not, your Honor, unless the Title Service Company continues to take the risk upon itself of determining the validity of the Conservator's appointment. If they issued reconveyances and it turned out the Conservator had no power, they would be individually liable to the beneficiaries on $12 million worth of trust deeds.

Mr. NeCasek. Your Honor please, we are willing to deposit the money, you understand, in the register of the court and take out reconveyances.

The Court. Take your reconveyances from whom?

Mr. NeCasek. From the Title Service Company or whoever is supposed to furnish them.

954 I don't see how anybody could be hurt on a situation of that kind as far as the trust deeds are concerned. Now they are really dead property. They are in the custody of the court. My clients do not feel like they can pay any money on them because they can't get what they are entitled to until the money has been offered, but they can't keep depositing all this money and secure anything. The Court should determine where that money should go. The money can be held here under the order of the Court, and then if the Conservator is adjudicated to be the Conservator then it will be turned over to him, if it isn't it will be turned over to the officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The Court. It seems to me we are talking about something that is not before the Court.

Mr. Wallace. I was about to say, in answer to the Court's inquiry as to whether or not the matter would have come up without the filing of this litigation, and in regard thereto I would say that we have been presented with cross demands, first by the Conservator on the one hand, and then the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the beneficiary, on the other hand, one demanding reconveyances and the other one forbidding reconveyances without liability and damages. So even without the litigation now pending we would have interpleaded. So I believe the matter would have come up either way, whether it had been on the action now pending or 955 not.

As Mr. NeCasek says, if the United States Attorneys are in a position to stipulate to a deposit in the registry of the court in lieu of the deeds of trust, I think the matter could be worked out, and I will counsel my clients to execute the reconveyances under the deeds of trust.

The COURT. I was about to observe that we are talking about something that is not before the Court. You are simply stating orally that you intend to apply to this Court for an order to show cause.

Mr. NECASEK. Yes, your Honor.

The COURT. When you have the appropriate petition and——

Mr. NECASEK. I have a petition on file, your Honor, at the present time.

The COURT. The petition is on file?

Mr. NECASEK. The petition is on file.

The COURT. It was just handed to the Clerk?

Mr. NECASEK. I just handed it to the Clerk. There are three documents there; one is a petition for an order to show cause, to which a copy of the complaint is attached.

The COURT. Do you offer herein to make the deposit in court? It isn't your deposit, is it?

Mr. NECASEK. It is our deposit. We will have the money available to deposit in this court at any time the Court desires and we can get the reconveyances.

956 In fact, we can deposit it today if we are sure of the reconveyances.

The COURT. Your reconveyances are desired only from the Title Service Company?

Mr. NECASEK. That is right, your Honor.

The COURT. Your reconveyance requires no action on the part of the Conservator?

Mr. NECASEK. The only thing he has to do, we have to be assured that his demand for the amount is met before the title company will guarantee the titles. In other words, if his demand is met and the reconveyances are issued, then we are assured to the title company that they will guarantee the proceedings. We would have to have the Conservator make his demand in court here showing the amount due, plus interest and cost. We had computed it at one time at about $839,000, but since then there is some additional interest that has accumulated and that would have to be computed.

The COURT. I think I would like to look this over before I indicate any order on it. I have pending another application filed this morning for intervention which I left in chambers. I have the matter of the setting of this whole case. So instead of going ahead with the setting this morning, I will continue all proceedings in this case of Mallonee v Fahey until 2:00 p. m. this afternoon, which I hope will give me some time to look these matters over and also to find out who the three-judge court is 957 going to be so that I can fix a date for hearing. As a matter of fact, it would be more preferable to me, if it is not too great an inconvenience to counsel, if this matter could be continued until tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.

Mr. NeCasek. That would suit me much better, your Honor.

Mr. Westover. I am required to be in Sacramento tomorrow morning on another matter, your Honor. I am very sorry. I understood this was only a setting matter.

The Court. It was only a setting matter, but now it appears to involve a number of different matters.

Mr. Tremaine. If the Court please, I am engaged in a criminal proceeding tomorrow morning.

The Court. Can you all be through by Wednesday?

Mr. Wallace. In that regard, may it please the Court, if we are going over until 2:00 o'clock, I was going to invite your attention to a pending motion that we have but have not yet noticed, to restrain a proposed and purported administrative hearing which is set for next Wednesday. I believe there is a companion motion also on the calendar this morning on behalf of the plaintiffs. That matter was sufficiently urgent because the administrative hearing, the subject matter of it, is set for Wednesday, the day after tomorrow.

The Court. You say you haven't noticed it?

Mr. Wallace. No, your Honor. There is a companion motion in which we anticipate asking leave to join orally.

958 The Court. That motion is noticed?

Mr. Wallace. The companion notice is noticed.

The Court. What is the purpose of the administrative hearing? Does that involve the consolidation of the banks, the matter which is now enjoined, or does that involve other proposed action by the Conservator?

Mr. Walker. It doesn't involve in any way any proposed merger. Under the regulations, a Conservator may be appointed. The Association may then request a hearing. That is part of the due process that we contend for in the act. The hearing then is as to the factual background justifying the appointment of the Conservator. It is an administrative remedy permitted under the act to the association over whom a Conservator is appointed.

The COURT. And you would object to this motion?

MR. WALKER. Most strenuously.

The COURT. I think that is all the more reason that I had better put it over until 2:00 o'clock, or maybe until 3:00 o'clock, if we are going to get into a few more matters.

MR. WALKER. There will be from two to five, your Honor.

The COURT. I will put it over until 3:00 o'clock this afternoon.

MR. WALKER. Your Honor, one other matter, Mr. Ammann, the Conservator, is here under subpoena. I know of no reason why any testimony would be required of 959 him today. It is important that he be at the Association and I wonder if he could be excused. I don't know what the purpose of subpoenaing him was.

The COURT. Who subpoenaed him?

MR. WESTOVER. We did, and we would like Mr. Ammann available whenever the matter is to be heard. He is in and out of town so much that we said we had better catch him while we had him available

If counsel will assure us that he will respond to the subpoena whenever your Honor sets the hearing date, why we have no objection.

Furthermore, they have a motion this morning to dismiss that is noticed for this morning, not only just for setting but noticed.

The COURT. That was the idea, that all matters would be at issue as of today so that I could set the matter before a three-judge court.

MR. WESTOVER. But if that motion was to be heard we would want him here.

The COURT. It would not be heard this morning as it obviously requires a three-judge court.

MR. WALKER. We would be glad to have Mr. Ammann available any time his testimony is needed.

The COURT. I am quite sure I wouldn't desire to take any oral testimony on any of the matters now pend-960 ing, and I would have to consult with whoever the other two judges are going to be on the matter of taking testimony and evidence at any hearing at all, so I do not think it would be necessary for Mr. Ammann to be back this afternoon. He may be excused.

Mr. WALKER. Thank you, your Honor.

961 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA,
July 1, 1946; 4:15 o'clock p. m.

(In chambers.)

The COURT. The matters here are the setting for hearing on plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction——

Mr. WESTOVER. There are two of those, one for the merger and one for the administrative hearing, both on notice.

The COURT. The one on the merger is the main motion?

Mr. WESTOVER. That was the first one; yes, sir.

The COURT. Which brings at issue the constitutionality of the act?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right.

The COURT. Then there is the setting for hearing on motion of defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for a preliminary injunction on oral testimony; setting for hearing on motion of A. V. Ammann to dismiss; setting for hearing on motion of the plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

Now in addition to that you have Mr. NeCasek's petition for an order to show cause as to why a deposit in court should not be made.

Then there is another motion for taking of oral testimony. Whose motion is that?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That was my motion first for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan.

962 The COURT. Why do you want to take it on oral testimony?

Mr. CHAPMAN. We think that is the only way that the good faith and motives of the defendants in taking over the institution can be inquired into, and we have cited an authority from one of the Circuit Courts in our points and authorities that so holds, that where the good faith of the judge, or so-called administrative officer, is brought into question he should be personally present in court for cross examination.

The COURT. Do you have to have a three-judge court to pass on good faith, or is good faith a ground for setting aside an order appointing a conservator?

Mr. CHAPMAN. We think where the motives are being inquired into, as we have alleged here (and so far it hasn't been denied), that it was done maliciously, without authority and for a destructive purpose of their own, that that is one of the things that can be inquired into.

The COURT. Is that a matter that requires a three-judge court?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Not necessarily, not unless the rest of the case requires it. But the rest of the case has to be heard by a three-judge court, so we think this also has to be heard.

The COURT. It has also to be heard?

963 Mr. CHAPMAN. That is my opinion.

The COURT. But the whole case does not need to be heard by a three-judge court, only the question of the constitutionality of the law requires the three-judge court.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is true, but we think that this case cannot be decided without deciding the constitutionality of that law.

The COURT. But the three judges will pass upon the constitutionality of the law and then if the law is constitutional, that disposes of it—does or does not dispose of the other matter?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Does not dispose of it, in my opinion, because we have asked not only for a——

The COURT. If it is not constitutional, then it disposes of the other matter.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is true.

The COURT. Without any hearing.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is true. But I think this point also arises, that there is an application for a preliminary injunction. That may be granted or denied on grounds other than constitutionality. There is an application for a permanent injunction which will require a three-judge court on the trial of this issue.

The COURT. The application for the temporary injunetion, the injunction pendente lite, raises the ques-964 tion of constitutionality.

Mr. Westover. That is of the injunction, yes, as distinguished from the restraining order.

The Court. That is right. In other words, a temporary restraining order is what it is in effect, so that your basic issue of law on the constitutionality is raised on the application for an injunction pendente lite.

Mr. Westover. Yes, your Honor.

The Court: And that is the only thing that requires the three-judge court, the issue of constitutionality.

Mr. Westover. Yes.

The Court. That is the only thing.

Mr. Westover. I hesitate to say that is the only thing. The statute is that they cannot grant an injunction where the constitutionality is in question without a three-judge court.

The Court. Well, I can set all these matters for hearing now on July 15th, which is Monday, in the afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. I have a case set for the 16th. What case is that, Mr. Clerk?

The Clerk. Hankin v Clayton is set for that date, unless they settle it.

The Court. I think this case would have to take precedence over the patent case.

Mr. Westover. Your Honor, might I just recall to your Honor one additional point here, that Mr. Fahey's 965 time to respond has been set as of August 19th.

The Court. That is his time to plead.

Mr. Westover. Yes.

The Court. That is not his time——

Mr. Westover. He was served also with the same notice of motion at the same time.

The Court. Yes. That is his time to plead.

Mr. Westover. That is right.

The Court. He has filed a motion to dismiss.

Mr. Westover. No.

The Court. No?

Mr. Walker. No.

Mr. Westover. He has done nothing.

Mr. Walker. We anticipate, however, filing a motion to quash.

Mr. WESTOVER. He has taken no steps at all.

Mr. TREMAINE. That is the reason we were talking to his counsel.

The COURT. That being the case, unless the administrator joins with Ammann's motion to dismiss on the 15th there would have to be a subsequent hearing by the three-judge court after August 19th.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is what we are afraid of.

Mr. WALKER. We are awaiting final instruction as to our position. We can't say at this time.

966 The COURT. I think it would suit the convenience of the judges if that could be done. I had a great deal of difficulty getting three judges together. I have canvassed every judge here among the other seven judges and I have also canvassed all the judges in the Northern District of California and I only managed to obtain the judge from Arizona because he was over here visiting.

Mr. WALKER Judge Ling?

The COURT. Judge Ling. So if you cannot dispose of it on that date we will be confronted with probably travel time and other difficulties. If we could proceed with whatever is to be decided by the three judges at that time, those matters can be heard and decided.

Mr. WALKER. I think so.

The COURT. That will be the order then, setting the plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction, motion of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association for a preliminary injunction, motion of Ammann to dismiss—is there a motion to quash filed?

Mr. WALKER. Not yet.

The COURT. You will file it?

Mr. WALKER. I anticipate doing so; yes.

The COURT. So that upon the statement by the United States Attorney that a motion to quash will be filed on behalf of Ammann——

967 Mr. WALKER. On behalf of Fahey.

The COURT. And on behalf of Fahey, that will also be set at that time and noticed.

Do all parties waive notice on that?

Mr. WALLACE. The Title Service Company waives notice.

The COURT. Is there anybody here who does not waive notice of the hearing of the motion to quash?

Mr. WESTOVER. I would rather have notice on the motion to quash. I would like to see it.

The COURT. All right. It will be set for that date and the customary 10 days notice will be given. However, if the chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Mr. Fahey, files a motion to dismiss on that day, can that determination be made so as to give the customary notice of 10 days?

Mr. WALKER. We would have to file our notice by the 5th. I think we can do that.

The COURT. You can reach that conclusion by that time?

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

The COURT. So that the service will be on all parties, together with your points and authorities and the grounds, and they will have 10 days notice to get ready.

That leaves the hearing on the motion of plaintiffs for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

Mr. WALLACE. May I call your Honor's attention to the fact that the intervenor Title Service Company has a similar motion on file and not yet noticed, and I have here also to press, which has just been presented, a motion for temporary restraining order which is parallel to that of the plaintiffs.

The COURT. That is a recitation of all motions which have been made and matters pending, is that correct?

Mr. WALLACE. The intervention I suppose has been disposed of already?

Mr. WESTOVER. Does that include our motions for temporary restraining orders, or are you going to take those up next?

The COURT. On the administrative hearing?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

The COURT. I was going to take that up now. I granted the petition to intervene this morning on behalf of Home Investment Company of Long Beach.

Mr. NECASEK. That is correct.

The COURT. There is another petition here for leave to intervene filed by Home Investment Company of Long Beach.

Mr. CHAPMAN. There is a petition for bringing in third party-defendants filed by myself for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. That has been filed ex parte because it was before the filing of our answer.

The COURT. "If third party-defendants (Federal Home Loan Banks) are not made defendants in this 969 action, a separate further action will be required against them for the same property and involving the same questions of fact and law." Why is that true?

Mr. CHAPMAN. We understand the Federal Home Loan Banks named there have received from the Conservator some $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 worth of our notes and trust deeds since the Conservator took us over. We know that they had between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 in our United States Government bonds at the time we were taken over. The Conservator has purported to withdraw bonds for them or to deal with them. It brings up the same question involved throughout the proceedings, whether the Conservator has been validly appointed, whether he can pull down our bonds and spend the proceeds and use them, or whether he can borrow money or assign our trust deeds to these other defendants. They are all within the jurisdiction of this Court, and there is a third party summons there in the exhibits which we seek to have served upon them.

The COURT. Is there anybody that has any objection that they know about the preliminary matters?

Mr. WALKER. Not having seen it, and not knowing what it is all about, I can't very well object.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The matter is an ex parte matter under Rule 14.

The COURT. I will grant the order bringing 970 them in. You are not asking any temporary restraining order on that?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I have not, your Honor.

The COURT. Now you have here a motion for an order upon absent defendants.

Mr. WESTOVER. That follows the motion first for temporary restraining order re the hearing, your Honor.

The COURT. Re the administrative hearing?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

The COURT. Plaintiffs move this Court for an order requiring the absent defendant Fahey, etc., to appear, move, answer or default on the plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing. If your administrative hearing is going ahead Wednesday, how can I order service upon the absent defendant, which must be 60 days?

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, I think that my first point is that of our motion for a preliminary injunction restraining the administrative hearing.

The COURT. I haven't set that yet.

Mr. WESTOVER. That I think would have to come up first. Now if the hearing on that motion, which is on notice, is set prior to the third, we don't need this temporary restraining order. But if it is set after the third, which in view of the circumstances I couldn't see how it could be done otherwise, then we are asking 971 for a temporary restraining order to withhold the administrative hearing, to have that continued or held off or stayed to keep it in status quo until we have had an opportunity to be heard on our preliminary injunction re the administrative hearing. That can be granted ex parte, of course, by any one of the judges.

The COURT. How can this motion for an order on absent defendants be handled?

Mr. WESTOVER. Well, then if that was granted, your Honor, I felt the point might be raised—well, we would need some order on Mr. Fahey, who has not yet appeared or answered in the matter—and therefore I would offer this motion next in order. In other words, your Honor is taking them up in reverse order. I sent them in to your Honor in view of the fact that you asked to look the matters over a little bit between this morning and this afternoon.

Mr. WALLACE. And we would ask leave orally to join in that motion on behalf of the intervenor Title Service Company.

The COURT. Here is what I had in mind, next taking up consideration of issuing a temporary restraining order forthwith restraining the hearing now set for Wednesday, and at the same time setting the hearing on that pendente lite for July 15th. How then can I between now and July 15th get service upon the absent defendant Fahey, when he requires 60 days notice?

Mr. Westover. If your Honor please—I don't 972 know—of course I had no way of knowing just what date your Honor was going to pick for the setting of the three-judge tribunal, so I did not give particular thought to the 60-day period. But certainly Mr. Fahey, at least we want to be in a position to offer to have him served, or if your Honor cares to shorten time on it why of course we would be happy to so move.

The Court. Where is the motion and the notice of motion to restrain the administrative hearing?

Mr. Westover. That is in the main file, your Honor. That was filed on the 20th of June.

Mr. Wallace. Our motion to the same effect was not filed until the past Friday, so I have no notice as yet.

The Court. Notice of motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain the holding of an administrative hearing.

Mr. Westover. I might say, your Honor, that we mailed that on the same day to Mr. Fahey in Washington, not on the theory that it was necessary, that it gives us jurisdiction of service, but simply on the theory of giving at least all the notice we can.

The Court. This notice was served upon Ammann, is that right?

Mr. Walker. That is right.

The Court. And James M. Carter?

Mr. Walker. Yes.

The Court. And you are appearing for him?
973 Mr. Walker. Yes.

The Court. And you are here today in response to this notice of motion, among other things?

Mr. Walker. That is correct.

The Court. You do not ask here for a temporary restraining order.

Mr. Westover. Not on that particular motion, your Honor. I filed a motion for the temporary restraining order later. That is an ex parte motion.

The Court. This has not been served?

Mr. WESTOVER. No, that I am just making now. That is an ex parte order and I have just made it today.

Mr. WALLACE. And in which we would like to join. I have a set here to file.

The COURT. Have you served them?

Mr. WALLACE. No, sir.

The COURT. Will you serve them?

Mr. WALKER. Your Honor is aware of the fact that Ammann as Conservator has no position in the administrative hearing whatever.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We disagree with that statement.

Mr. WALKER. He doesn't conduct the hearing or anything like that.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The hearing determines his authority as to whether he was properly appointed or not.

974 Mr. WALKER. An injunction against him would not restrain the hearing.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We don't know who the hearing officer is.

The COURT. Who am I going to restrain then?

Mr. WESTOVER. We have set that forth in the restraining order, your Honor, at some length.

Mr. WALLACE. "* * * the defendants, John H. Fahey, individually, John H. Fahey, as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, A. V. Ammann, individually, and A. V. Ammann, as purported Conservator for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and any and all of their agents, employees, servants, conservators, hearing officers, and subordinates * * *"

Mr. TREMAINE. Your Honor, on behalf of the defendant R. H. Wallis, cross-complainant, I would like to join in this motion for a restraining order also on the administrative hearing. The intervenor is quite interested. In other words, the attempt is being made here to hold anybody who purports to act for the defendants in holding such a hearing as it is obviously impossible to name them in advance.

Mr. WESTOVER. I might say, your Honor, we are following somewhat the practice——

The COURT. Where is the affidavit in support of this motion?

Mr. WESTOVER. Of the preliminary injunction?

975 They are attached to the motion.

The COURT. No, on the administrative hearing.

Mr. WESTOVER. On the administrative injunction or the restraining order?

The COURT. On the restraining order.

Mr. WESTOVER. Attached to the motion, right behind it.

The COURT. I would be disposed to grant a temporary restraining order and then set it for hearing on the same date as all of the other matters before the three-judge court.

Mr. WALKER. May I be heard on that?

The COURT. I think that a three-judge court would have to pass on it the same as the others, but I do think that the matter ought to be preserved in status quo as much as possible.

Mr. WALKER. I can see your Honor's position in the matter. However, there are some points that I would like to urge. I suppose I will simply repeat them at the final hearing.

The COURT. That is all right.

Mr. WALKER. One is a question of damages or proper showing of any damage resulting to these persons who are asking the restraint. In other words, we have to look at the whole picture.

The officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, the primary party in interest, have requested this administrative hearing. All of the parties here 976 today are arguing vigorously that there is no due process, and that is one of the reasons that the law is unconstitutional. Now this is a very part and parcel of this due process. In other words, while we will say it is maintaining the status quo, it is almost, as the result of the order of the Court, a denial of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association of the due process to which they are entitled under the rules and regulations.

Another point which they urge is that they have had no notice and as parties cannot take part in this hearing. I have here a copy of the notice which was published in the Federal Register on June 6, 1946, and reading from it: "It is further ordered that any person, partnership, association or corporation claiming to have an interest in the subject matter involved may at any time before the close of the hearing file a petition for leave to intervene at said hearing."

Now in addition to that there are several cases here, which I would be glad to cite to your Honor, which hold that the judiciary will not interfere with the executive party in such an administrative hearing, that there is nothing to review until after the hearing is over.

The COURT. I think generally that is the case, but the only idea I have in mind now which would induce me to issue the temporary restraining order is that it simply holds everything until on July 15th the whole matter 977 can be argued out and presented before the three judges, and so that the matter will be in precisely the same status as it is now, so far as any act of the administrator is concerned.

Mr. WALKER. It will maintain the status of the status quo, and I have no very serious objection, except for the time and expense in preparing for this administrative hearing.

The COURT. So I would be disposed to grant that.

On the matter of the due process, the whole matter can then be gone into on July 15th. In other words, if I now refuse to grant the temporary restraining order, it would seem to me that I would be invading the province of the three-judge court. That is to say, I would be arrogating to myself, as one judge, an adjudication that it was proper to hold a hearing, and that is what the whole argument is about, that none of these proceedings are proper, so the only thing it appears to me that I can do is to save it.

Mr. WALKER. I am wondering what the position of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association is. They are represented by counsel.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We asked for the hearing and we ask that this be continued until the three judges can pass upon the other matters.

The COURT. You do not now desire to have a temporary restraining order?

Mr. CHAPMAN. We do very emphatically desire to 978 have a temporary restraining order.

The COURT. Is there anyone here outside of the defendant administrator and various officers of the Farm Loan Bank who objects?

Mr. WALKER. May I ask a question of counsel? Do you withdraw, on behalf of the Association, the request for an administrative hearing?

Mr. CHAPMAN. No, we would like to get someone whom we consider has not already prejudged us to hear the question of whether we should be seized and confiscated or not. When we applied for this hearing we hadn't heard the congressional committee testimony and we hoped we might get someone impartial. After the congressional hearing you announced back there that we would never get our association back. That has not been denied. That has been put in the record here. We certainly do not intend to submit to that kind of a hearing unless your Honor or someone orders us to.

Mr. WALKER. I assume counsel does not include me in the congressional hearing.

Mr. CHAPMAN. No, but if you would read the matter that is before his Honor and which was served upon you as to the testimony of the officials of your institution, and what they have decided, ou will know what I am talking about.

The COURT. I do not see anything in the affidavit about that.

979 Mr. CHAPMAN. The original application to the preliminary injunction has copies of the testimony before the congressional committee, your Honor.

Mr. WALKER. Again I can't quite get this clear. Is counsel withdrawing his request for the administrative hearing or is it counsel's position that he wants it continued until after the Court decides?

Mr. CHAPMAN. After the Court has determined the constitutionality. We are not withdrawing the request for a fair hearing before an impartial tribunal, but we certainly are not satisfied to go to the people who have seized us and have announced to Congress that we will not get our association back.

The COURT. The long and short of it is that you do not withdraw your request, you only request that it be postponed until after the hearing of the three-judge court, and for that reason you now join in the request for the temporary restraining order?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That's it exactly.

The COURT. Does everybody else here join in the request?

Mr. WALKER. With the exception of the attorneys for Ammann.

The COURT. With the exception of the United States Attorney and those parties represented by him.

980 Does everybody join? Do you?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I have no interest in it, your Honor.

The COURT. Where did you come from?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I just walked in.

The COURT. What is your name?

Mr. SILVERMAN. My name is Silverman, S-i-l-v-e-r-m-a-n.

The COURT. How about you?

Mr. SMITH. I am associated with Mr. Westover.

Mr. WESTOVER. This is Mr. Smith of our firm.

The COURT. Do you join?

Mr. WALLACE. We are on record; yes.

Mr. TREMAINE. Also the defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I represent the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. TREMAINE. I represent the defendant and cross-complainant Wallis.

The COURT. W-a-l-l-i-s?

Mr. TREMAINE. Yes.

The COURT. How about you?

Mr. NECASEK. We have no interest.

The COURT. Where is your temporary restraining order?

Mr. WESTOVER. It is right there.

Mr. WALKER. Might I inquire who is being restrained, if we are going to have an order of restraint?

981 Mr. CHAPMAN. You will have to disclose who the hearing officer is.

Mr. WALKER. My point is, it isn't up to us.

Mr. TREMAINE. Is it a secret as to who the hearing officer is?

Mr. WALKER. We are not certain that a hearing officer has been named, but he will be named and he will be here.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I think I can give that information by tomorrow.

The COURT. In any event, I will issue this order and they will have to take care of the service and if they do not get it served, that is their fault.

Mr. WESTOVER. I think that has been done before in other cases, your Honor.

The COURT. You have not given a copy of that notice here in your affidavit, have you? I do not find it.

Mr. WESTOVER. A copy of what?

The COURT. Notice for the hearing.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is in the file here attached to the motion to dismiss filed by the Government officials. That was the only way we knew about it.

Mr. WALKER. The affidavit attached to our motion to dismiss.

Mr. WESTOVER. They gave a photostatic copy, your Honor.

Mr. WALKER. If it is the notice itself that you
982 are looking for, I have it right here.

(The document referred to was passed to the Court.)

Mr. WALKER. As far as the notice goes, it was published in the Federal Register.

The COURT. I do not like to make a finding here "that the holding of said proposed administrative hearing and the resultant publicity therefrom might cause to recur the 'run' and/or the excessive withdrawals from the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association * * *" It seems to me that there is a sufficient ground in that it is to preserve the status quo to prevent multiplicity of suits.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well, your Honor. Any changes of course your Honor wishes to make is entirely agreeable.

The COURT. I will strike that out on page 2 of the order, lines 7 to 13. Let me see. I cannot make this more than 10 days.

Mr. WESTOVER. I think, your Honor, the 10-day part arises in Section 381 of Title 28, Section 380 (a), and I believe that gives your Honor sufficient jurisdiction. If not, of course we will ask it for 10 days and then ask for renewal. The latter part of Section 380 (a) I believe is the part. I took that to mean if your Honor sets the two for hearing at the same time that they can run to whatever date that is.

The COURT. Yes, I think I can continue it until then. How about bond?

983 Mr. WESTOVER. Whatever your Honor says. I think before your Honor set a bond for costs.

The COURT. That is about all the damage that could occur. About $2,500?

Mr. WESTOVER. All right. One additional point, your Honor, that my partner suggested to me in striking out this paragraph, lines 7 to 13 on page 2, we struck out the general finding of damage and injury to plaintiffs. I believe that that should come in maybe interpolated in the next paragraph, "and would constitute irreparable damage and injury to plaintiffs," or some similar language.

The COURT. Interpolate on line 18, after the word "court," the language "and would cause immediate and irreparable injury to plaintiffs and others."

And then on the next page, page 3, line 7, "that the same shall expire at 6:00 o'clock p. m. on the 15th day of July," at which time the matter of a motion for injunction pendente lite to restrain the administrative hearing is also set.

"It is further ordered that the answering defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association not having heretofore been served by defendant A. V. Ammann or his counsel with notice of motion to dismiss and supporting docu ents, the said defendant shall be served with said notice of said motion to dismiss and sup-984 porting documents." Why is it necessary to include that in this order?

Mr. WESTOVER. That was not mine.

The COURT. This says Westover & Smith.

Mr. WESTOVER. I am sorry. Pardon me just a minute. I didn't follow your Honor.

The COURT. Why is it necessary to have that order directing Ammann to serve the Long Beach Savings and Loan Association?

Mr. WESTOVER. I thought, your Honor, there were numerous motions being made before your Honor today, that in order to set the date, that should be done.

The COURT. This is setting all motions. I will interpolate on line 22, page 2, "and each of them is and are hereby continued to and set for hearing."

Mr. WESTOVER. Fine.

The COURT. Then the other is not necessary as long as you put that in.

Mr. WESTOVER. I thought your Honor might wish to separate it.

The COURT. I do not think that is necessary.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well.

The COURT. Now this is the order setting all of these matters for hearing on July 15th except the matter by Mr. NeCasek. Now on the motion for order upon absent defendants—— 985 Mr. WESTOVER. That, your Honor, would be in connection with the restraining of the administrative hearing.

The COURT. That is set for hearing on July 15th.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right. Therefore I would think that we would have an order to serve upon Mr. Fahey beyond the jurisdiction of this Court pursuant to provisions of Section 118, this all still dealing with the property here in California.

The COURT. That is Section 118 of Title 28?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right, your Honor.

The COURT. I doubt if this applies to an interim order.

Mr. WESTOVER. I admit, your Honor, that there was some doubt in my mind, but I felt that if there was any doubt I had better offer the order so Mr. Fahey would have at least as much notice of all of these proceedings as we can give him.

The COURT. Do you have any views on that?

Mr. WALKER. As I recall the section, it doesn't deal with this sort of action at all. This started our being an action to remove a conservator and for an injunction. Now, in an attempt to gain jurisdiction an interpleader was filed in the nature of a quit title proceeding or an attempt to bring it in under this section. I don't conceive that the section covers this action at all. I think it is merely an attempt in the guise of getting it into the jurisdiction of this court.

986 The COURT. In any event, it does not appear to me that it applies to it because it says they shall have time to "appear, plead, answer or demur." Now this is not a final order.

Mr. WESTOVER. My feeling was that it certainly could do no harm, and we were perfectly willing to give him all the notice we could.

The COURT. Then you can give it to him voluntarily.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well. We will do so.

The COURT. That disposes of all matters except the motion that started all this this morning, is that correct?

Mr. WALLACE. As far as I know.

Mr. CHAPMAN. As far as I know.

The COURT. Are there any other motions or orders that have not been set for hearing or disposed of? (No response.)

On this matter that we discussed in the absence of a reporter, now that the reporter is here I think that I will state what I understand to be the position of the parties.

The petitioner here seeks to substitute in cash a sum of money in lieu of trust deeds and notes heretofore deposited with the Clerk of the court amounting to some sum in excess of $800,000. He seeks by his proposed order to show cause an order requiring one of the defendants, the Title Service Company, the trustee in each and all of the trust deeds and under the notes, to issue 987 reconveyances upon the deposit of money in court, the petitioner here being the payor of all of the notes upon which the trust deeds are based.

Is that correct?

Mr. NECASEK. That is correct.

The COURT. The Conservator has heretofore deposited with the Title Service Company demand for reconveyances.

Mr. WALLACE. That is correct, sir.

The COURT. The Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, contesting the validity of the appointment of the Conservator, nevertheless agrees to likewise deposit with the trustee under the trust deeds and notes, the Title Service Company, a demand for reconveyances.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Provided in that demand, your Honor, we can make the reservation that we in no way recognize the validity of the Conservator's action, and that the money is to be deposited in court subject to the order of this Court, not that the money is to be paid to the Conservator.

The COURT. This is only a request to deposit the money in court. It goes no further than that?

Mr. NECASEK. No?

Mr. WALLACE. That is my understanding.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is correct.

The COURT. So I would not be considering anything beyond that.

Mr. CHAPMAN. One additional point we would 988 like to make, the reservation is our request—I will draw it up and submit it to counsel and to your Honor also—that this proceeding, being taken in the absence of Fahey, one of the defendants in counter-claim and interpleader, is not to prejudice the process now running against him. I understand he has been or will be served with an alias summons requiring him to appear in this interpleader. We do not want the substitution of the money for the trust deeds to in any way interfere with what ever jurisdiction the Court applies.

The COURT. That is a matter of law that exists or does not exist.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I may say that an alias summons was delivered to Mr. Fahey in Washington at 3:50 Eastern Standard Time today.

Mr. CHAPMAN. On this cross-claim and interpleader?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I think it was on Mr. Wallace's interpleader.

Mr. WALLACE. An alias summons?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Yes, I think so.

Mr. CHAPMAN. How about the alias summons on the interpleader Title Service Company?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. At the time I received this telephone message I didn't know of that.

Mr. WESTOVER. I was going to ask, if I might, have you any information as to an alias summons issued and 989 given to the marshal here on the 7th of June?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I have not.

Mr. WESTOVER. On the original action for service and transmittal for service upon Mr. Fahey by the marshal in Washington?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. No.

Mr. WALKER. Apparently there was some confusion in the papers delivered to the marshal. I talked to the marshal's office some time ago and they said that one—I don't know which one—that one of the papers for service here had been sent to Washington and the papers for service in Washington were here, and so forth. That may be the reason for the delay in affecting service on Mr. Fahey.

Mr. WESTOVER. I didn't hear of that. That is the first I heard of it, your Honor.

The COURT. In any event, I do not see how that can possibly affect this matter.

Mr. CHAPMAN. With those reservations, your Honor, if we can do that——

The COURT. I do not think that your demand or reconveyance on its face should contain any conditions or reservations. I gathered the understanding, while you stated so in the absence of the reporter this afternoon, that you finally agreed to deposit on behalf of the Long Beach Savings and Loan Association an unconditional reconveyance, as if you were conducting business without the intervention of the Conservator or the administrator or anybody else.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Can we then have our conditions in the order that the Court makes? We certainly don't want to in any way release the process that is being served upon Mr. Fahey and has been served upon him. We have no objection to the substitution taking place.

The COURT. I do not see how it can release or affect the process in any way at all. This is merely an interim matter. I made the suggestion this morning, in order to eliminate from this hearing the necessity for a three-judge court and in order to protect the interests of people who were getting caught between the hither and nether millstones.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Could that reservation be in the order or anywhere so that at any time——

The COURT. I think it exists as a matter of law.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I appreciate that.

The COURT. In other words, without waiving any rights attacking the validity of the appointment, you simply request a reconveyance.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Then the condition that the money is to be deposited in court is not to appear in our request but to appear in the Court's order, or where is it to appear?

The COURT. I cannot make an order beyond what they have requested now unless at the time of the hearing, in the interest of justice, it appears to be necessary.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I see.

The COURT. It seems to me that your execution of an unconditional request for reconveyance could have no other effect than to permit the deposit of this money in court. If an order were attempted to be made at that time then it would require—that is, other than to deposit the money in court—then it would require a three-judge hearing.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I see. That is what we wish to avoid. I appreciate that. Your thought is that we are to make an unconditional request for reconveyance without receiving the money but on the assurance that the money goes into court.

The COURT. You make an unconditional request for reconveyance.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes period.

The COURT. Then the Title Service Company makes an unconditional request for reconveyance from warring factions?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

The COURT. If you are right, what is the difference? If the Conservator is right then yours does not make any difference.

Mr. WALLACE. In the meantime—if I may interject—by what mechanics will the money be transferred from the escrow through which the payoff is being had into the registry of the court?

992 Mr. WALKER. Who has that escrow?

Mr. NECASEK. There is no escrow. All they have to do is go to the Bank of America.

The COURT. I do not know anything about any escrows. From the face of this order the petitioner comes in and says, "I have $800,000 plus. I want to pay that off and get my trust deeds. Help us." Now that is all he is asking for.

Mr. CHAPMAN. He pays that money into the registry of the court.

The COURT. If I attempted to make an order permitting him to pay it to the administrator, I would then be invading the province of the three-judge court.

Mr. WALKER. It does raise one serious objection. I stated before the reasons why the Conservator and administrator feel that they cannot stipulate or take any affirmative action in this matter.

The Court. I do not want you to now. I am just getting up to the point where you can object. All I am trying to do is decide whether to set it before a one-judge court or a three-judge court. If they are going to insist upon conditions, reservations or requirements that the Court must pass upon the validity of the Conservator's request for conveyance, then I am going to set it before a three-judge court. If he will make his request for reconveyance unconditional and file it with the trustee I will then 993 set for hearing one week from today the order to show cause as to why the deposit should not be made in court and the trust deeds taken out and a reconveyance effected.

Mr. Walker. It is the mechanics that was bothering me.

The Court. At that time you can urge whatever objections you have to the merits. The only thing I am going to do now is to set this for hearing.

Mr. Walker. My thought was that if it is in escrow or in the hands of some third party, it is going to require affirmative instructions.

The Court. He says it is not.

Mr. NeCasek. No, it is not.

The Court. I do not know anything about any escrow with any third parties.

Mr. Chapman. Who are to be the parties to the order to show cause? Is Mr. Fahey to be one of them?

Mr. Walker. I should guess that he would be one of them.

The Court. Where is your proposed order to show cause?

Mr. NeCasek. I had an order to show cause but it will have to be changed, your Honor. I have some changes to make in view of changes that have taken place here today.

The Court. This apparently is an order against everybody to show cause.

Mr. NeCasek. The order to show cause is directed to the United States Attorney, A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator of the Long Beach
994 Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Chapman. How do you expect to dispose of one of the defendants to the cross-claim and intervention?

Mr. NECASEK. At the time I prepared the order I was under the impression that there was going to be the admission of entry or appearance here for Mr. Fahey, at least special appearance for the purpose of hearing this order.

The COURT. Well, the petition in intervention I have already made an order granting leave to file that petition.

Mr. NECASEK. I was going to suggest on page 2, line 8—I left that blank—"It is hereby ordered that the petition in intervention be filed, that the above named plaintiffs and the defendants show cause before me.".

The COURT. I don't know Fahey has not yet appeared in the action. I think that I made the order ex parte permitting the deposit of the money in court, which I think the court has the power to do. I do not know that Fahey would have to be served with this.

Mr. WALLACE. Your Honor, we have an agency proposition that enters in there as to whether or not the Conservator is merely an agent of the principal or whether he is the principal himself. As I said in the absence of the reporter; we have no proof of any kind other than Mr. Ammann's own signature that he is the Conservator. It appears upon the request of reconveyance executed by him and deposited in court. But as to who he is, we have no information at all.

The COURT. There is a motion here to dismiss, isn't there?

Mr. WALKER. There is a motion to dismiss; yes.

The COURT. Doesn't that concede that he is the Conservator?

Mr. WALKER. It certainly concedes it on my part.

Mr. SMITH. He admits that he is Conservator in that motion and for the purpose of the motion the appointment would have to be admitted, but for the purpose of these other matters I don't see that the admissions which would be necessary in the argument of the motion would have any application.

The COURT. For the purposes of any orders made in this action——

Mr. SMITH. It is merely a self-serving declaration. In other words, Mr. Ammann admits he is the appointed Conservator, but he rest of us do not.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We are trying to proceed in the absence of a named defendant who is called in to present claims to this fund. He has already presented certain of them and we are asking him to present them in court. If the Court, acting in rem, gives him any notice then I think the action is valid, but if we ignore him and do not pretend to make him a party to deal with this $800,000, 996 I don't think we have done it validly. I am going 100 per cent with the Court on the unconditional request for reconveyance, but we want our protection against the money. It takes the place of the trust deeds. I see your point that the innocent people have to be released.

The COURT. What protection?

Mr. CHAPMAN. My thought would be that he should be a party to the order to show cause. The Court would shorten time or have it heard on the 15th or 22nd and have it served on him in the meantime. If he chooses to default the proceedings in rem the money is here and he has waived what rights he has. If he wants to come in and assert his claims, he has a notice of opportunity to be heard.

The COURT. I thought I would set this for July 9th, a week from today. Counsel indicates that there is some considerable urgency in connection with the matter in delaying the trading and dealing of real estate in Long Beach, or did I misunderstand you?

Mr. NECASEK. It is certainly true. It is a very serious situation. It not only affects the civilians but it affects a considerable number of G. I.'s who are waiting. I could by air mail serve a copy of this petition on Mr. Fahey.

Mr. CHAPMAN. And the order to show cause.

Mr. NECASEK. And the order to show cause and the petition.

997 Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, may I suggest that under the section I believe your Honor has nationwide jurisdiction, particularly in this pleading specifically upon all parties to the fund.

Mr. CHAPMAN. In the interpleader you have jurisdiction, there is no question about that.

The COURT. His order then is all right under your theory, "it is hereby ordered that the above named plaintiffs and defendants."

Mr. CHAPMAN. Including Fahey.

The COURT. It does not say including Fahey to show cause.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Fahey is one of the named defendants in this proceeding. He is certainly a party-defendant in the complaint in intervention. What method shall we take to serve process on him so he has some notice before the Court makes the order changing the trust deeds?

Mr. NECASEK. I said: "It is further ordered, that copies of this order and said petition and complaint be served upon the above named plaintiffs and defendants by service of a copy thereof on Messrs. Westover & Smith, attorneys for the plaintiffs; Messrs. Thomas & Wallace, attorneys for defendant Title Service Company, a corporation; Raymond Tremaine, attorney for Robert H. Wallis; Charles K. Chapman, attorney for the 998 Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association; James M. Carter, United States Attorney at Los Angeles, California; and A. V. Ammann, individually and as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, at least.....days before the time fixed for showing cause."

Mr. WESTOVER. He has not covered all the defendants in his method of service. That is the point. We have never seen this order before until he read it to us just now. If he would add how he proposes to serve Mr. Fahey, by mail or air mail, or something.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I think your Honor can make an order shortening the time just so he has notice before the order is made changing the trust deeds to money. In an interpleader proceeding you certainly have nationwide jurisdiction. But we would like to have some notice to Fahey.

The COURT. Who are the defendants left out?

Mr. WESTOVER. John H. Fahey, both individually and as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, as originally set up in the original pleading.

The COURT. That can be added.

Mr. WALKER. That is an erroneous designation, but I don't know that we are concerned with that here.

The COURT. That can be added.

Mr. TREMAINE. You mean he is the whole board?

Mr. WESTOVER. Maybe we should say, I have since learned counsel is correct.

999 Mr. DOUGHERTY. Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

Mr. WESTOVER. There is no board any more, it is just a one-man proposition?

The COURT. Is there any other defendant absent from this list? Have you served copies?

Mr. NECASEK. No, I haven't submitted copies.

The COURT. You might do that.

Mr. TREMAINE. The objection seems to be to this order because it does not name Fahey in the provision for service on him.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I suggest that you name him here as you named him in the complaint and intervention and have the Court provide for service upon him in Washington by the Federal marshal by air mail, without going through the marshal here, simply as a proceeding in rem.

Mr. NECASEK. Would service by mail be sufficient?

The COURT. I do not know. You can make the interlineations that you think appropriate and I will dispose of it.

Is this the original?

Mr. NECASEK. That is the original.

The COURT. I was going to suggest "upon the defendant by service of a copy thereof by mail." Where is his office in Washington? What street address?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Mr. Fahey's street address would be 1001 Indiana Avenue. If you want the building name——

1000 The COURT. This will get to him, 101 Indiana Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. That is right.

The COURT. "And by mailing a true copy of said petition, complaint and order by registered air mail addressed to John H. Fahey, individually and as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, 101 Indiana Avenue, Washington, D. C., not later than noon tomorrow.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I may say that that is not the correct designation and it wouldn't be the correct address that way. It should be sent to John H. Fahey, Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

The COURT. As Commissioner?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

The COURT. As Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner.

Now on this other matter, on the date, my impression of the urgency of it is that it ought to be heard as soon as possible before the three-judge hearing. I will set this then for the 8th of July at 2:00 o'clock p. m.

I have signed the original order here. If you will take your copy now you can get the correct version of it.

On line 10, strike out "in Department.....of this court at the" and insert over "at the" the word "in," so that it will read "in Courtroom No. 3 thereof * * * on the 8th day of July, 1946, at 2:00 o'clock p. m."

1001 In line 17 after the word "thereof" insert "by mail on or before 6:00 p. m. July 2, 1946."

On line 23, after "Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan—that isn't where that insertion really goes—after the word "Association" on line 24, strike out all the rest of that line and insert the following: "and by mailing a true copy of said petition, complaint and order by registered air mail addressed to John H. Fahey, individually and as Federal Home Loan Bank Commissioner, 101 Indiana Avenue, Washington, D. C., not later than July 2, 1946, at 12:00 o'clock noon."

Mr. NEASEK. Thank you.

(Whereupon, at 6:00 o'clock p. m., the hearing was adjourned.)

July 8, 1946; 2:00 o'clock P. M.

The Clerk. Mallonee v. Fahey; hearing on order to show cause.

Mr. NeCasek. Ready for the intervenor.

The Court. Let us get the parties appearing here. Will counsel state their name and state the name of the party for whom they are appearing.

Mr. Wallace. Harry O. Wallace, Title Service Company.

Mr. Chapman. Charles K. Chapman, for defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Tremaine. Raymond Tremaine for defendant and cross-complainant R. H. Wallis.

Mr. Westover. Wyckoff Westover, Westover & Smith, for the plaintiffs.

Mr. Walker. Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney, for A. V. Ammann, individually, and as Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. NeCasek. F. Henry NeCasek, attorney for the plaintiff in intervention, Home Investment Company of Long Beach.

The Court. Very well.

I have two matters here in connection with this hearing. First of all is an order, which I will hand to the Clerk for filing by the Senior Circuit Judge designating 1007 Hon. Albert Lee Stephens as the United States Circuit Judge and Hon. David Ling as the other District Judge to participate with myself in the hearing and determination of the matters now set for July 15th.

I wish to call the parties' particular attention to the fact that this order requires, pursuant to the provisions of the statute, that the hearing and determination shall not be heard or determined before at least five days' notice of the hearing has been given to the Attorney General and to such other persons as may be defendants in the suit.

Now all parties were present at the time I set this for hearing, but I nevertheless think that the statute should be complied with by the formal notice.

Mr. Chapman. May I be heard a moment on that, your Honor?

I believe the civil rules require three days in addition if notice is given by mail. Notifying the Attorney General at this time of the hearing on the 15th will not comply with the 5-day provision unless the Court should shorten the time.

The COURT. This provision was in the previous order which was made which heretofore designated Judge McCormick as the other District Judge. Has any party given formal notice to the Attorney General?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I have, your Honor, but I don't know that it would be within the time. Mine was mailed 1008 Friday. Aside from the three days, we would have the five-day time.

Mr. WESTOVER. I mailed mine last Wednesday.

The COURT. That would be more than eight days.

Mr. WALLACE. The defendant Title Service Company has made no service.

The COURT. Are you seeking no relief on the date of that hearing?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, we have joined in the motion for the restraining of the administrative hearing by filing written notice, but there has been no notice of that motion made.

The COURT. You have joined in the other motion?

Mr. WALLACE. We have joined in the other motion and filed a formal written motion and service of that motion was made upon the United States Attorney.

The COURT. Upon the defendant Wallis?

Mr. TREMAINE. No notice has been given, but the only thing in his behalf was joining in the motion for the restraint of the administrative hearing. So I think the notice given by the moving party would be sufficient.

The COURT. The restraining of the administrative hearing I think is a matter which requires the three-judge court as well. However, I do not know that the statute would be interpreted so broadly that everybody who joined in the particular motion would have to give the notice. The important thing is that notice was given.

1009 Mr. TREMAINE. That is what I would assume, your Honor.

The COURT. Yes. What about your client? He is not joining?

Mr. MCCASEK. We are not asking for any relief from a three-judge court.

The COURT. Very well.

There is one other matter that I would like to bring up before we take up the matter today. The Los Angeles Examiner on July 2nd carried a story in it which was completely incorrect. I checked with the editorial department of the Los Angeles Examiner as to the origin of the story. It did not originate from this building, nor from the regular beat reporter, nor did it originate from myself nor from any attache of the court. The same day the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express carried a story to the same general effect and purpose, both of which put this court in a false light.

The paragraph in the Examiner story is as follows:

"Scheduled by Federal Home Loan Commissioner John H. Fahey, the hearing would be a 'kangaroo court' benefiting only Fahey and offering no relief to others involved, Judge Hall held."

The Los Angeles Herald and Express story likewise, upon checking with them, I find that this did not originate from the beat man or the regular news-gathering sources in the Federal Building, and needless to say it did not originate from me or any attache or the court:

"Judge Hall, when issuing the order yesterday, declared the scheduled hearing would be a 'kangaroo court' benefiting only Commissioner Fahey and offering no relief to others involved."

The only conclusion which I can reach is that some zealous litigant here has presumed to make a statement, probably originally to the Examiner, and knowing something of the habits of newspapers, the Herald story is probably a recap from the morning edition of the Examiner, that somebody has released such a statement to the newspapers or to the public. As all of counsel know, I neither declared nor did I hold or say or intimate anything to the effect that the hearing would be a " 'kangaroo court' benefiting only Commissioner Fahey and offering no relief to others involved," or anything of the same or similar nature. If this were true, it would be an exceedingly serious matter and would probably be considered a disqualification of any judge who, in advance, would pretend to pre-judge the matter which is now set for hearing and was set for hearing before a three-judge court at the time these stories appeared in the newspapers.

I want to call this to all counsel's attention. I will write, and each of you will receive in a few days, a letter enclosing a copy of these two stories with a request that you disclose whether or not anyone had anything to 1011 do with releasing stories of this nature. Upon receiving your replies I will give the matter further consideration, and if any action is indicated to be taken by way of contempt or reprimand or otherwise, I will consider the matter at that time.

Are we ready to proceed now?

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, I would like the record to show that I called your Honor instantly upon seeing that.

The COURT. Yes; that is correct.

Mr. WESTOVER. And without further time or consideration I can assure you that such matters did not emanate from our office at all. I checked as far as I could and it did not emanate from the plaintiffs' side in the matter so far as I know at all.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Without waiting for any letter, your Honor, I also wish to state that I knew nothing of this and had no part in it.

Mr. WALLACE. And I would like to likewise advise the Court at this time that this is the first notice that I have had of even the existence of the story, and that neither myself nor my office had any part in any such release.

Mr. TREMAINE. As long as statements are being given, this is the first I had ever heard of the story. I did not give it and I checked with my client in the meantime and he did not release any story on that occasion.

1012 The COURT. I have heard of ghost writers. I guess there must be one here. But newspapers do not get stories like that out of the air. Somebody, usually an accredited beat man, turns in a story, which did not happen in either of these cases, or somebody plants a story with a paper. I do not know whether that was true in this case, but presently it has all the earmarks of a planted story of someone who wished to bias and prejudice the hearing which was set. The function of the three judges is to determine the validity of the hearing and, as counsel knows, I took particular pains to strike out of the order that was submitted to me some matters which might have been considered improper or pre-judgment, and all I did was to stay the proceedings until the three judges could be here.

Very well. We will proceed in the hearing on this matter today.

By the way, is there any opposition to the motion? Has there been any formal opposition filed?

Mr. WALKER. There has been no formal opposition filed on behalf of the defendant Conservator. I believe that each of the other parties have stipulated.

I am in the position of not being able to consent to it, and I will await the appropriate time to state my reasons for it. I think each of the other parties indicated at the informal hearing last week that they would stipulate 1013 or consent to the entry of the order.

The COURT. This motion today is a motion on behalf of the Home Investment Company of Long Beach to deposit with the Clerk some $800,000 in payment of the trust deed notes now held by the Clerk, and in lieu and in substitution for the trust deeds to deposit that cash to be held subject to the further order of the Court.

Have I correctly stated your motion?

Mr. NECASEK. That is a correct statement, your Honor.

The COURT. The Conservator, I understand, has filed with the trustee, Title Service Company, requests for reconveyances on all of the trust deeds involved, is that correct?

Mr. WALKER. That is correct, your Honor.

The COURT. At the hearing in chambers last week I understood from counsel for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association that the appropriate officers of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would also file a request for a reconveyance with the trustee under the trust deeds.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We have such reconveyances ready, your Honor. My understanding was that they were to be filed with the Clerk of the court pursuant to the Court's order. We have them ready for such filing upon the Court making its order.

The COURT. Appropriately executed?

1014 Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes, your Honor, all except as to the date.

The COURT. I do not know that they should be filed with the Court. I think they should be filed with the trustee.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The reconveyances from the Conservator are already on file in this action, your Honor, as are the deeds and the notes of trust.

The COURT. Are the requests for reconveyances here on file?

Mr. WALLACE. The requests for reconveyances were deposited in the interpleader. In filing the interpleader we deposited the promissory notes, deeds of trust and requests for reconveyances executed by the Conservator. As yet there has been no request for reconveyances on behalf of the named beneficiary, the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Those are prepared and are ready to be filed when the Court so orders it.

The COURT. My purpose in bringing this up, as I indicated to all of you, was to enable the machinery of the business to continue because, upon the representations of the parties, I understood that there were some 174 trust deeds that interest could not be paid on, loans could not be paid off, construction work is stopped, and the loaning of money is stopped. At my suggestion the request for reconveyances of the Association has been prepared. It would seem to me that in view of the aim that is try-

1015 ing to be accomplished here, that it should be served in accordance with the terms of the trust deeds. If it is necessary that under the terms of the trust deeds they be served upon the trustee, then I think it ought to be served upon the trustee because the aim is to enable the title to these properties to be cleared so that they may be handled and negotiated. If the trustee then desires to deposit that in court——

Mr. WALLACE. On behalf of the trustee, your Honor, I may have misunderstood your Honor at the conference last week, but as I understood it, it was anticipated that the requests for reconveyance executed by and on behalf of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association would be deposited with the Clerk of the court pursuant to your order, following which the actual reconveyances would also be deposited with him with instructions to deliver.

The COURT. Very well, if that will clear the title. Have you the requests for reconveyances there?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I have the requests for reconveyances awaiting the Court's order.

The COURT. Let us file them with the Clerk.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We have left the date blank. Do you wish to take the time and fill in the date now, or shall we file them in blank.

The COURT. I think you had better fill them in because the Clerk is not authorized to alter them.

1016 Mr. CHAPMAN. It will take us about 15 minutes, if we may have that time.

The COURT. All right. They are considered tendered for filing.

Does the Title Service Company make the assurances that the Title Service Company will recognize these requests for reconveyances and issue reconveyances upon the deposit of the money in court?

Mr. WALLACE. And upon the Court making the order that we do so. Yes, your Honor. As a matter of fact, they have physically been prepared and will be ready for filing within an hour.

Now in view of that state of the record, does anybody have any objection to making the order?

Mr. NECASEK. There is one thing further, your Honor. I have the prepared statement of the Conservator of the Long Beach Federal and Loan Association as to the total amount of principal and interest due, and it has been submitted to the attorneys for the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and I believe they will stipulate as to the total amount being due.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The total amount was disclosed to us just a little while ago when this document was shown to me. There are some 174 items, the correctness of which we have had no chance to check.

1017 As to the totals, there is a slight disagreement, just a few dollars, but we are not going to consider that. We will go ahead and accept the total figure as satisfactory, but we cannot agree as to how correct it may be as to detail, and as to what importance that may have is for you to determine.

Mr. NeCasek. I am not interested in that. The order doesn't set forth the details, only the total amount due, plus interest from a certain date.

The Court. That is an amount of $774,927.50.

Mr. NeCasek. To and including June 30th.

The Court. Plus $95,217 a day?

Mr. NeCasek. That is $95,217 per day. They figure it down to mills.

The Court. Are you prepared to make the deposit now?

Mr. NeCasek. We have the money. The money is here. He hasn't got the actual cash. He will have to get a cashier's check.

The Court. I do not think the Clerk can accept a cashier's check. How about that?

The Clerk. Yes, they will.

The Court. I thought you could not.

The Clerk. Not on fines, but in a case like this we can.

The Court. I think you had better check.

Mr. Chapman. It could be provided for, your 1018 Honor, if you wish, by holding everything in until the check has cleared. We would have no objection to that. It would only be a day or so.

The Court. The Clerk has numerous rules and regulations which somebody else prescribes for him known as the Accounting and Investigating Officer for United States District Clerks.

Mr. NeCasek. If your Honor please, the man with the money says he wouldn't be able to get to the bank to get a cashier's check today, but he can deposit it with the Court or bring up the money, but we would have to have an armored car to bring up the money.

The Court. We will wait until the Clerk comes back and see what he finds out.

Then this amount is accepted by all parties as correct, subject to any errors in addition?

Mr. NeCasek. I have made a provision in the order to take care of that, that the Court retains jurisdiction to make any corrections.

Mr. Westover. On behalf of the plaintiffs, we have not checked it nor had any opportunity to. We are not objecting to the amount in any way, but I don't want to stipulate that that is the correct amount without knowing or having had any figures to work on.

Mr. WALKER. In that connection, I might state
1019 that those figures were just given me and I supplied them to Mr. NeCasek. In his order as he has it prepared, I believe it does provide for any correction if discrepancies should develop.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Our stipulation was only as to the total.

The COURT. The Clerk says that he will accept the check. Now I understand there is some objection you wish to state.

Mr. WALKER. I suppose, your Honor, that the statement I wish to make is in the nature of an objection, and I should perhaps preface it by saying that I personally feel that the petitioner in intervention here is entitled to relief. The objections are twofold: In the first place——

The COURT. Instead of calling them objections, why not call them expression of your reason for lack of consent?

Mr. WALKER. Will the reporter include that at the beginning of my remarks then.

We have interposed objections by way of motion to dismiss to the interpleader suit itself. One reason for my inability to consent is that it might be putting my client in the position of recognizing the validity and submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court. That I cannot do.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WALKER. The other reason for my lack of consent is that the Conservator does not wish to be put in the 1020 position of jeopardizing the financial position of the Association, which he might do if he consented to the impounding of the fund. The Association must remain liquid in order to meet the demands upon it. There have been heavy withdrawals. I do not believe, frankly, that this sum would put it in the position of being not liquid so that it might necessarily have to be liquidated.

However, it is conceivable that it might, and it is also possible that this might establish a precedent for further deposits made in a similar way which would amount to tying up all the available assets of the Association to where it could not meet the demands for withdrawals.

The Conservator did not wish to be put in the position of consenting to it, so that my statement is really a shift of the burden. I wanted to advise the Court that that might conceivably happen. We will, of course, submit to your order.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would like to be heard on this question, this making the Association insolvent. We understood we had $11 million in Government bonds when we were taken over. You certainly can't tie up all the assets here on an $800,000 transaction.

The COURT. I do not think that counsel was testifying when he made the statement. He was merely assigning his reasons for not consenting. I do not think that that 1021 is at issue at the present time. There is no formal showing nor any formal objection that it will make it insolvent.

Mr. NECASEK. If your Honor please, the only purpose for my request for these parties to consent to this decree is this: I have been in conference with Mr. Johnston, general counsel of the Title Insurance & Trust Company, and there is a question of the title company guaranteeing these loans, which we naturally have to have if they are guaranteeing the titles, and of course naturally I would appreciate it if I could get a consent decree here, otherwise we may have to wait for a period of time for this decree to become final. I would like to ask the Court if this is an appealable order that the judge is signing today.

The COURT. I would like to be able to answer that, but I notice that my brethren on the Circuit Court write majority and minority opinions on whether orders are or are not appealable orders, so I am not prepared to say that this is or is not.

Mr. NECASEK. If this Court would so hold, that it is not an appealable order, I don't believe there would be any objection by anybody here and it would enable the title company to immediately insure these titles.

The COURT. I am not prepared to so hold at the present time because, in the first place, I have no notions about it and, in the second place, to so hold would indicate 1022 a disposition to put my orders beyond review by a higher court, which I do not think should be done.

Mr. NECASEK. Let me ask counsel if they will waive the right of appeal.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would like to know what the order is before I do that.

The COURT. Here is a copy of something that has been handed up, affidavit of mailing, order to show cause, and petition.

Mr. NECASEK. There is the full story there.

The COURT. Do you wish this schedule filed with the Clerk?

Mr. NECASEK. Yes.

The COURT. Very well. That will be filed.

Mr. NECASEK. There is a copy of the proposed order there too, your Honor.

Mr. WALKER. In that connection, your Honor, this amounts only to a subs-itution of money for paper, and the title company is certainly fortified by the fact that the requests for reconveyances have come from both of the interested parties.

The COURT. Well, I would think so, but I discovered a long time ago that arguing with title companies is like arguing with your wife. They are right when they start and they are right when you get through.

Mr. NECASEK. I discussed it with both Mr.
1023 Ogden, Mr. Johnston and Mr. McKeever this morning, and that was their opinion. They wanted the consent order.

The COURT. You mean arguing with them is like arguing with your wife?

Mr. NECASEK. I did not get any place.

The COURT. Is there any objection to the form of this order?

Mr. WALLACE. There is one very minor one, your Honor. It appears on page 5, at line 4.

It is suggested on behalf of the interpleader Title Service Company, since the statute allows the award of attorney's fees in the interpleader, and since we were the moving party who brought these matters before the court, that there be inserted, following the word "premises" the words "including any award of attorney's fees," which would then make it read "that this court retains jurisdiction of this matter so as to enable it to make such further and other orders in the premises including any award of attorney's fees to carry out the terms," etc.

Mr. WALKER. From what were you reading?

Mr. WALLACE. Page 5, line 4 of the proposed order.

Mr. NECASEK. The intervenor has no objection to that, your Honor.

The COURT. Which intervenor?

Mr. NECASEK. Plaintiff intervenor Home Invest-1024 ment Company of Long Beach.

The COURT. Has anybody else any objection to that?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Not to that.

The COURT. You mean none of the lawyers have?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I am only speaking for myself, your Honor. I am sorry.

The COURT. Is there any objection as to the form on the part of the United States Attorney?

Mr. WALKER. Your Honor, I only just received a copy of it. I would like to look it over.

The COURT. Suppose you glance through it.

Mr. WALKER. I hate to answer that question without a thorough study of it.

The COURT. Do you wish some time to look it over?

Mr. WALKER. If I might, your Honor.

Mr. WESTOVER. Your Honor please, I don't have a copy. I saw it before for a few moments but I don't have a copy.

Mr. WALKER. I think we should have the opportunity of reviewing the order.

The COURT. What do you want, half an hour?

Mr. WALKER. That would be ample; yes.

The COURT. I will have a recess shortly, but before doing so, and for the matter of the record, I wish to make a statement in connection with my hearing this matter as a one-judge court.

1025 It seemed to me, as I indicated to counsel last week, that by the Conservator executing the requests for reconveyances and by the Association executing the requests for reconveyances that there was thereby eliminated any necessity for any decision as to whether either reconveyance was the proper reconveyance, which is the matter which is to be decided by a three-judge court; that is to say, that would ultimately go to the merits. But in view of the fact that both sides of the litigation have executed the necessary requests for reconveyances it seems to me that this becomes merely more or less of an administrative matter without passing at all on the merits. Of course there would be reserved to the three-judge court any decision concerning the validity or invalidity of any action done by either party since or before the litigation involved here.

With that statement I will take a short recess and call counsel into chambers in the other case for a pre-trial conference.

(Short recess.)

The COURT. Are all counsel present? [Assent.]

I have looked the order over and the Clerk advises me that some of the parties have suggestions for changes. I think that I should indicate that I will issue the order, but that an order shall be prepared and submitted to all counsel of record to date for their approval as to 1026 form. When that is done, submit it to me and I will either sign it or make some changes in it myself.

It occurred to me, in reading the order over, that there should be a finding that the Conservator has executed requests for reconveyances for each and every one of the trust deeds, and also that the Association has.

There should also be a reservation in the order that by the order no adjudication is made or attempted to be made of any of the issues raised by the complaints in intervention or the motions of the appearing defendants, nor are they to be prejudiced by the issuance of such order. Otherwise I do not think I would have any objection to such other form or order as the parties may agree upon.

Is that agreeable to all parties? That will give you more time to examine it and make changes.

Mr. WALKER. That is most agreeable, your Honor.

Mr. WESTOVER. May we suggest also a clause including protection as to the amounts because we don't find it in the order, although it was so mentioned.

The COURT. The order should provide that. In other words, it should be made to correct any inaccuracies or errors of calculation.

Mr. WALLACE. One other point comes to mind, after checking this over. As far as the trustee is concerned, the total computation includes the trustee's recon-

1027 veyance fees. I do not believe it was the intention of the parties that that sum be retained in the court, that is, in the registry. I believe Mr. NeCasek, unless the Court feels to the contrary or unless some counsel disagree with me, will agree that the computation should set aside the fee, which I believe amounts to $435, trustee's fees for payment either by the Clerk to the Title Service Company as trustee or provide for payment outside.

Do you have any suggestions to make along that line, or does the Court wish to express itself?

The COURT. I would like to hear from the parties.

Mr. NECASEK. We have no objection to the trustee getting his fee. It amounts to $435, your Honor.

The COURT. You mean you offer to pay them outside of court?

Mr. NECASEK. No. We offer to pay it in court, but we have no objection to paying them outside.

The COURT. Of course the trustee is the one who precipitated this. He deposited the trust deeds there originally. Unless there is some objection on the part of the parties, I cannot see any prejudice to the ultimate outcome of the litigation offhand. Can you, Mr. Walker?

Mr. WALKER. I am just considering what the position of the trustee is here, having declined to act as trustee and become a party to the action. I suppose he is 1028 still entitled to his trustee's fees.

Mr. WALLACE. My only point in that regard, Mr. Walker, is that if it is paid in court it is going to amount to a commingling of the funds of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and/or Conservator, on the one hand, and the trustee on the other.

Mr. WALKER. However, it might be more simple, and simplify things, to let it remain in the registry until an order is made liquidating the funds.

The COURT. Then the order should provide for the segregation of that sum at this time, as long as there is no particular dispute about it.

Mr. WALLACE. We are not anxious to withdraw it.

The COURT. That is a matter to take up in redrafting the order upon the agreement of all parties.

Are there any other matters in connection with this?

Mr. NeCasek. Now, Mr. Walker, you said something about a change in the order.

Mr. Walker. I only suggested, Mr. NeCasek—and it isn't necessary that you take it up in court now—just changing the word which I thought was a little too broad. The order refers to the fact that the notes and trust deeds are in "custody" of the Court. In an attempt to be consistent and objecting to the jurisdiction of the Court, I think perhaps it should say "on deposit with the Clerk." That would conform to the facts and not be a conclusion.

The Court. Any suggestion that anybody has along that line, you can try and iron them out between you.

One other matter. I called attention to the designation by the Senior Judge of Hon. Albert Lee Stephens. He will be unable to serve on account of illness. I am advised by the Senior Circuit Judge that Hon. William E. Orr will be assigned to sit in his stead next Monday.

You may have your original order back. All these affidavits of mailing, and so forth, will be placed in the file. The answers of the various parties will be filed, and the Clerk will segregate the copies.

Mr. Westover. May I file an answer also at this time?

Mr. Wallace. Prior to the court adjourning, there is one other matter that I wish to bring up after we have finished with the matter of the order.

The Court. The order will be issued subject to the conditions which I have indicated. I will sign the formal order when it is prepared and submitted to me.

The order will include the trustee's fees in the sum of $435, which will be carried by the Clerk in a separate account. In other words, it will be subject to the further order of the Court, as all moneys are.

Mr. NeCasek. There is another item of $7972.50, 1 per cent bonus, that is due the FHA, and that money is being tendered here. If the Court wants to segregate trustee's fees, I think that that one should be segregated too. That doesn't belong to anybody but the Federal Housing Authority.

1030

The Court. I think that can be taken care of in the order when it is approved as to form.

Mr. NeCasek. That money does not belong to the Association; it belongs to the Federal Housing Authority.

The Court. Why shouldn't it be paid to the Federal Housing Authority now? There is no dispute that it belongs to the Federal Housing Authority, is there?

Mr. NeCasek. I don't see any reason why it can't be paid.

The Court. All right. The order will further——

Mr. Westover. Your Honor please, we have no way of checking that amount. If your Honor is assuming we consent by our silence, I don't want to object to it, but I have no idea what it is.

The Court. Whatever this amount is is subject to verification of all counsel when you are preparing the order. When you approve the order as to form, I will take it to mean lack of objection as to the amount.

Mr. Westover. Having no records to work with, your Honor, those all being in the possession of the Conservator and we not having access to them, we would be in no position to approve such an amount. That is the 1031 point I am trying to make. I have no way of checking it.

The Court. Is there any dispute between the parties but what 1 per cent bonus belongs to the FHA?

Mr. Westover. That I would hesitate to pass on because it is one of the questions involved, as to the validity of that.

Mr. NeCasek. Let me suggest that we eliminate that and the FHA can come in and file a complaint in intervention if they want to, otherwise it will lay in the registry of the court here. I am sorry I brought it up.

The Court. There should be an order of segregation of that amount also by the Clerk. It will be 1 per cent bonus on 173 loans—why is it 173 instead of 174?

Mr. NeCasek. One of the loans is not an FHA loan, your Honor.

The Court. In the approximate sum of $7972.50, and the amount will be designated exactly in the order.

Is there anything more about this matter?

Mr. Wallace. Not within the order. I have one other matter, however.

The Court. Very well, Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Wallace. That has to do with a group of, I should say a file or a sheaf of pleadings served upon me by mail, which I received on the 6th, the day before yesterday, consisting principally, as far as the Title Service 1032 Company is concerned, of a motion to dismiss the action as to the Title Service Company and a motion to quash the service of summons as to the defendant Fahey. The notice states that it is set for hearing contemporaneously with the other matters on the 15th.

Under the court rules it does not allow me adequate time in which to prepare counter-authorities, nor does it physically allow me time to do so. I was going to inquire whether of not we were going to be bound by that notice or whether or not an extension of time will be possible under that. I realize the situation that exists with the three judges.

The COURT. If it hasn't been served in time I will make an order now nunc pro tunc ex post facto shortening the time of service because the hearing has been set for July 15th and everybody has had ample notice.

Mr. WALLACE. We didn't know, your Honor.

Mr. WESTOVER. I received mine this morning.

The COURT. You had notice that there would be a motion to dismiss.

Mr. WALLACE. Not so far as the Title Service Company was concerned, nor any motion to quash the summons.

The COURT. Mr. Walker repeatedly stated the other day that they were going to file a motion to quash the summons and a motion to dismiss.

Mr. WALLACE. If Mr. Fahey were served, but he 1033 hadn't been served up to that time.

The COURT. I thought he said he was preparing one for the Conservator. The hearing has been set for July 15th, the statute commands that there shall be an early hearing, there have been a great many difficulties in getting three judges in the first place at all, and in the second place to get three judges when they could agree on the time.

Mr. TREMAINE. In connection with Mr. Wallace's statement, your Honor, I have been served with a notice of motion to dismiss the answering cross-claim and interpleader, which is another subject in the dismissal of the original action, and points and authorities were not attached. Mr. Walker has told me today that he will consider the points and authorities having to do with the Title Service Company as applying to my particular client. But this also came in on Saturday and I just found out about the points and authorities today.

It does put us, in view of the volume of the points involved, in a position where we practically can't run any other practice. However, I don't like to ask for a continuance of the main hearing, knowing how hard it is to get the judges together.

The COURT. The original plaintiff came in here and desired a hearing on his injunction pendente lite, which must be set. I set that and continued it and set the time for the 15th of July, after consultation with the 1034 Circuit Judge and the other District Judge. Now the defendant has the right to appear by motion to dismiss. If I remember, on injunctions he can file that two days before.

Mr. WESTOVER. Ten.

Mr. WALKER. That was filed some time ago, your Honor.

The COURT. The motion to dismiss?

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

Mr. WALLACE. As to whom?

Mr. WALKER. As to the defendant Ammann.

The COURT. Is there a motion to dismiss now filed as to the defendant Fahey?

Mr. WALKER. There is a motion to dismiss, or in lieu thereof to quash service on behalf of Fahey.

The COURT. Fahey and Ammann?

Mr. WALKER. Ammann is just a straight motion to dismiss. I have to apologize for the delay in preparing the papers, but your Honor knows preparation does take time and they were sent to counsel as soon as they were completed.

Mr. WALLACE. The notice to dismiss as to the interpleader Title Service Company has just now been filed, your original one having been directed to the principal action. Am I correct or not?

Mr. WALKER. The last motion was filed on the 5th, Friday afternoon, and served by mail.

Mr. WALLACE. That was to dismiss the inter-
1035 pleader which was not even in contemplation, as far as I know, at the time of your conference in the judge's chambers last week.

Mr. WALKER. I believe the judge quoted me correctly. I stated that there was some contemplated motion to quash. I thought I gave you the intimation that such a motion would be filed.

Mr. WALLACE. If you did give the intimation, Mr. Walker, I missed it.

Mr. CHAPMAN. As I understand your Honor, we will have until the day after tomorrow night to file the points and authorities to matters that I only received Saturday. It seems to me, in view of the amounts involved and the constitutional questions, that that is rather short briefing time. I will do the best I can in that time to present points to the Court, but I believe it would lead to a wiser disposition of the entire matter if some way were arranged for a little additional time on those matters.

The COURT. What rule was it that you were talking about?

Mr. WESTOVER. I think it is Rule 3, your Honor. I might say that we received ours in the mail this morning.

The COURT. Rule 6 (d) for motions reads:

"A written motion, other than one which may be heard ex parte, and notice of hearing thereof shall be 1036 served not later than 5 days before the time specified for the hearing, unless a different period is fixed by these rules or by order of the court. Such an order may for cause shown be made on ex parte application. When a motion is supported by affidavit, the affidavit shall be served with the motion; * * *."

Mr. WALKER. Are you reading from the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure?

The COURT. I am reading from the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Mr. WALKER. That is the one I stand on, because the local rules is 10 days.

The COURT. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prevail, and there is a provision in the local rules that if there is any discrepancy the Rules of Federal Procedure prevail.

Mr. WESTOVER. It is local Rule 3, I believe, your Honor.

Mr. WALLACE. May I respectfully direct your Honor's attention to the addition of three days in the next subsection when service is made by mail?

The COURT. The parties could obviate that by simply sending a man out this afternoon and serving them. That would be 5 days' notice.

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, your Honor, but it still doesn't obviate the time limit set by your letter, if I recall it correctly, which is as of this coming Wednesday, the 10th.

1037 The COURT. No, that does not. That is correct.

Mr. WALLACE. That is one of the dilemmas in which we find ourselves, your Honor.

The COURT. Are there any affidavits that any of the parties expect to file?

Mr. WALLACE. Frankly, I do not know of any.

Mr. WALKER. Yes, we expect to file two.

Mr. WESTOVER. We have some in mind, your Honor, but I frankly haven't had time to get them yet. It is 2:00 o'clock every night, which is all we do to research, and it is getting too fast for us.

Mr. WALKER. There is always a possibility of an affidavit requiring an answering affidavit, but at the present time we contemplate two affidavits.

The COURT. All the affidavits can be filed by the 10th, can they not?

Mr. WALLACE. Unless, your Honor, there are some required in connection with this motion to dismiss as to the defendant Title Service Company, and, frankly, not having received them until this morning—I have gone through them very, very hurriedly and with no time to digest them at all—I don't know what I have to do.

The COURT. When did you anticipate filing your affidavits, in compliance with my order?

MR. WALKER. In compliance with your order. One

1038 is being forwarded from Washington. We haven't received it yet, but I will file it as soon as I receive it.

The COURT. What you want then is time until next Monday to file your points and authorities, is that correct?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, your Honor, and any supporting documents which may be necessary. There may be some affidavits required.

The COURT. I think the affidavits upon which you expect to move should be filed by the 10th.

Mr. WALKER. Yes. I have reference to that.

The COURT. And the answering affidavits, you may have until next Monday.

Mr. WALKER. Very well. Thank you.

The COURT. And you may have until next Monday to file your points and authorities.

Mr. WALLACE. That is all I have on my mind at present.

The COURT. Did everyone receive my letter concerning the taking of oral testimony?

Mr. WESTOVER. We received your letter, your Honor. I would like to, at least I have in mind, if I may advise your Honor, I may at the time of the hearing make an offer, and I wanted to advise your Honor that I had that in contemplation, so that your Honor wouldn't feel that we were doing it in contempt of your letter at all, but simply as a matter of preservation of what we feel might be necessary points to preserve.

1039 The COURT. In reading your original complaint again and the various complaints in intervention, I wasn't sure whether you are claiming unconstitutionality on two grounds, No. 1, the unconstitutionality of the laws and, No. 2, whether or not you were also asserting unconstitutionality of the action of the administrator, assuming the laws to be constitutional but asserting that he acted in an unconstitutional manner.

I did not understand that from your pleadings. There are various allegations in the pleadings from which a conclusion might possibly be drawn, but I cannot say from reading the pleadings that that is the assertion of anyone.

Mr. CHAPMAN. It was intended to be asserted in the cross-claim on behalf of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan.

The COURT. Two causes of action?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes, your Honor, the two thoughts.

The COURT. You did not separately state them.

Mr. CHAPMAN. No, I am sorry to say that I did not. It was intended to present those two contentions.

Is this order that your Honor has made extending time for points and authorities to apply to all defendants?

The COURT. To everybody.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would like also to state at the time on the question of oral testimony, with all respect to the rulings that you have already made, that we feel 1040 that it is not necessary to establish the fact that the law is unconstitutional but to establish that due process has been denied us.

The Court. Due process has been denied you by the acts of the administrator?

Mr. Chapman. That is right.

The Court. In other words, an unconstitutional administration of a constitutional statute?

Mr. Chapman. Both points, that one and that the statute is unconstitutional; yes, sir.

The Court. Of course the three-judge court will have the power to vacate any order I have made concerning oral testimony. But if you are going to get to the issues in the matter here, the facts ought to be succinctly stated in affidavit form. Yes, Mr. Walker?

Mr. Walker. I was simply going to state that if the acts of the administrator are in question that that is not a proper province of the three-judge court.

The Court. That is what I was thinking. The three-judge court convenes only to determine the constitutionality of the statute, and if the Court has the power to review the unconstitutional act or unlawful of a public official, it does not take three judges. So it would seem to me that it would not be proper to permit oral testimony, because I cannot see how oral testimony 1041 could in any way affect the constitutionality of the statute. I can see how oral testimony might be adduced, and properly so, in connection with an assertion that a public official has acted without due process in the administration of a valid statute.

Mr. Chapman. Is your Honor's thought then that that would be reserved to a subsequent hearing? That if it is not proper before the three judges then it would not be passed upon by them at that time?

The Court. That is my thought, but if there is going to be three judges they might change my mind.

Any other matters? [No response.]

When will you have the order ready?

Mr. NeCasek. I will try to have it ready tomorrow, your Honor. I would like to have it ready tomorrow.

The Court. Very well.

Mr. NeCasek. If not, it will be Wednesday at the latest.

Mr. Wallace. Before you leave the bench, your Honor,

I will arrange with Mr. NeCasek so that the actual reconveyances can be deposited contemporaneously with the order.

The COURT. The requests for reconveyances have been filed with the Clerk?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would prefer, your Honor, to deposit them with the order. If your Honor orders otherwise, I will do whatever your Honor desires.

1042 The COURT. If they are ready they should now be filed.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Let the record show that they are now filed pursuant to an order of the Court.

The COURT. I understand that those requests for reconveyances are produced and executed by the Association voluntarily at my suggestion.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

The COURT. And you are filing them voluntarily and not subject to any order or pursuant to the order of the Court.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I don't believe, your Honor, that we can properly make these requests for reconveyances until we know the money is or will be deposited with the court. I understood it would be here today, and I am now told it will be available in a day or two, and I was finally told that it would not be available until the title company approved everything that was done here. May we have permission to withdraw them if the money is not deposited?

The COURT. If you wish you may lodge them with the Clerk, to be filed by the Clerk upon the deposit of the money and the execution of the order.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is entirely satisfactory, your Honor. That is done voluntarily.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Thank you.

(Whereupon, at 4:00 o'clock p. m., the hearing was adjourned.)

1047 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA,
July 15, 1946; 2:00 o'clock P. M.

Judge ORR. In the case of Mallonee v Fahey, are the parties ready?

Mr. WESTOVER. Ready for the plaintiff.

Mr. WALKER. Ready for the Government.

Judge ORR. It has come to the attention of the Court that some motions have been made which have just been filed to amend the complaint.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is correct, your Honor.

Judge ORR. What is the defendants' position in that matter? Do they want time in which to consider their motion, or are you ready to proceed?

Mr. WALKER. I think we can proceed at this time, your Honor. The amendments, as I have had a chance to hastily read them here, simply attempt to meet some of our objections on the failure to comply with Rule 23(b) and one or two others. There is no new factual ma[illegible] set up really.

Judge ORR. Judge Hall suggested we might get the appearances here. Will you give them please?

Mr. WESTOVER. Wyckoff Westover, and my associate, Steadman Smith, of the firm of Westover & Smith, appearing for the plaintiffs.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Charles K. Chapman, appearing for the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

1048 Mr. WALLACE. H. O. Wallace, spelled W-a-l-l-a-c-e, of Thomas & Wallace, appearing for the defendant and cross-complainant Title Service Company.

Mr. TREMAINE. Raymond Tremaine, appearing as attorney for the defendant, cross-complainant and interpleader Robert H. Wallis, W-a-l-l-i-s.

This is Mr. Wallis here.

Mr. WALKER. Ronald Walker, Assistant United States Attorney, appearing for the defendant Ammann generally and for the defendant Fahey specially on two motions.

I would like further at this time to move to associate Mr. Moe Silverman, a member of the Nebraska bar, in the matter.

Judge HALL. Specially? Is he admitted specially?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, for the purpose of this case, your Honor.

Judge ORR. If there is no objection, that order will be entered.

1049 Judge ORR. Gentlemen, the court at this time is interested in the question of whether or not this case comes within the provisions of Section 380a, Title 28, and what statute you are attacking, in order to bring it within that section, and the reasons why the particular statute is unconstitutional.

Mr. CHAPMAN. May I be heard at this time, your Honors, before going into that?

Judge ORR. Yes.

Mr. CHAPMAN. This will be very brief. It is the item under 174 of the trust deed for $800,000. I have been requested by Mr. NeCasek, for the intervenor Home Investment Company, to have a resolution approving request for reconveyance lodged with the clerk.

Judge HALL. You are addressing that now to me as a one-judge court?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That's right.

Judge HALL. Couldn't that be deferred?

Mr. CHAPMAN. If your Honor wishes. I will be very brief.

Judge HALL. Is it some matter which should not be deferred?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I feel it should go on as quickly as possible, as I understand there is a limitation of time on the matter. We are going to call this meeting as 1050 soon as I make the point in the record. The request also comes from the Title Company. One of the regulations adopted by the government is under Title XXIV of Federal Regulations, Part VI, Section 207.3, which reads in part as follows:

"Immediately upon taking possession, pursuant to Section 207.1 of these rules and regulations, of such Federal Association, the Conservator shall succeed to all the rights and privileges of the Federal Association, its officers and directors, or any of them. Such officers and directors, or any of them, shall not thereafter have, exercise, or act in connection with any such rights, powers or privileges, or any assets or property of any nature of the Association."

Notwithstanding that regulation, we feel it is unconstitutional, and we are going to have a meeting of the board of directors tomorrow night. We want the record to show notice on the government to that effect. We are going to attempt to ratify at that meeting the action in depositing requests for reconveyance with the clerk in order to free the Home Investment Company's title to its property.

Judge ORR. Mr. Westover?

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honors please, I take it that your Honors are substantially familiar, of course, with the provisions of Section 380a, of Title 28 of the Judicial Code, but in order to refresh your memories if I 1051 may be permitted to read it:

"No interlocutory or permanent injunction suspending or restraining the enforcement, operation, or execution of, or setting aside, in whole or in part, any Act of Congress upon the ground that such Act or any part thereof is repugnant to the Constitution of the United States shall be issued or granted by any district court of the United States, or by any judge thereof, or by any circuit judge acting as district judge, unless the application for the same shall be presented to a circuit or district judge, and shall be heard and determined by three judges, of whom at least one shall be a circuit judge."

1052 The action here filed attacks the constitutionality of the Federal Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, Subdivision D of Section 1464, found in Title 12 of the Federal Code. The action arises, as your Honors may know, from the complaint, out of the action of the Federal Home Loan Bank commissioner of the appointment of the Conservator for the seizure of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association——

Judge ORR. Just pardon us a moment. Mr. Clerk, was any order made for the filing of the amendment to the complaint?

The CLERK. No.

Judge ORR. As I understand it, there is no objection to the filing of that amendment to the complaint?

Mr. WALKER. That is correct.

Judge ORR. Then the order may be entered that the complaint may be amended in the particulars asked for.

Mr. WESTOVER. Briefly, the factual background is, as I said: That the action arises out of the appointment of the Conservator for and the seizure of by the Conservator of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association at Long Beach, an institution which was organized about 1934 with a capital structure at that time of around $7500, and at the time of the seizure, on May 20, 1946, had assets of approximately $26,000,000 in trust. All of the assets of that association were local, and involved both personal and real property, a substantial amount of that, approximately $12,000,000 being in 1053 trust deeds on Southern California real estate.

The seizure and appointment of a Conservator was made without any prior notice, hearing or opportunity to be heard on any request filed, because of any mistakes, errors, or improper situation whatsoever.

The complaint further sets up and alleges and charges that the seizure was done through bias and prejudice upon the acts of the Commissioner rather than upon any factually sound basis. The order for seizure, at the time it was seized, did not set forth any facts whatsoever. There was a list of some ten or twelve stockholders and its president, of that association, Mr. Gregory, after a considerable insistance upon his part, which was an unsigned statement, and only after insistance did the defendant Ammann himself certify to his own position as such as Conservator.

1054 Demands were made at the time of the seizure for receipts to be given for the assets, cash and other negotiable instruments and registered bonds then in the premises amounting to something approximating $100,000, which receipts were declined and were not given.

The complaint further sets forth of course that the plaintiffs are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the reason for the seizure arose out of a political dispute between Mr. Gregory and the commissioner, Mr. Fahey, arising over the question as to who should be president of the Los Angeles Federal Savings and Loan Bank, a 43 million dollar institution, the presidency of which had been in dispute for some time between a Mr. Berry, who had had many years of experience in the institution, and Mr. Twohy, of Washington, whom Mr. Fahey apparently desired to have become president of that institution.

That had resulted, your Honors please, in the seizure of the Los Angeles Federal Savings and Loan Bank, as these plaintiffs were informed, the appointment of a Conservator, and since informed that that was in error, they didn't even appoint a Conservator, they simply liquidated and moved the assets of that Los Angeles bank to a merger, all within 48 hours or less, with the Portland bank and that, in turn, being moved to San Francisco and under the title of the San Francisco bank. The commingling of the assets of the Los Angeles bank 1055 amounting to approximately 48 million dollars with the assets of the Portland bank amounting to approximately 9 million dollars was all accomplished, as I understand it, within a very few days.

Arising out of that dispute, efforts were being made by various of the local associations, including the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and being more or less led by its president, Mr. Gregory, to bring appropriate action to recover back for the Long Beach Association and for other associations in a joint suit, but for the Long Beach Association approximately $400,000 belonging to that association, approximately $360,000 of which had been in the form of stock in the Los Angeles bank and approximately $40,000 some-odd dollars which are in the form of undivided surplus and profits of that bank, which were taken and commingled with the Portland bank and the San Francisco bank.

That in order to stop the filing of that suit the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was seized and its officers were deprived of any authority whatsoever that they might have, at least according to the rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner, Mr. Fahey, thereby stopping and preventing them from bringing appropriate action.

This particular suit here, your Honors please, of course is brought by a shareholders members committee, composed of three people who have now brought the 1056 suit for and on behalf of all of the shareholder members of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, of which we are informed there were approximately, I believe, something like 16,000 at the time of the seizure. I might say that that number has probably been substantially decreased because it is our information that since the seizure withdrawals to the extent of approximately 8 million dollars have been made from the institution.

Now this particular action, of course, sought an immediate injunction against the administrator, Mr. Fahey, Mr. Ammann, and any of their subordinates, from commingling or merging the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association with any other institution. As we felt the enjoining was subsequently necessary otherwise any litigation might be profitless because the acts might be accomplished before we could proceed to trial, a temporary restraining order was issued to restrain the merger.

I believe it expires at 5:00 o'clock this evening. At this time, if we are not completed with the argument, I will ask, if I may, that our motion be considered for a continuance of that restraining order pending the outcome of the termination of this matter here.

Judge HALL. Will that be made to an indefinite date?

Mr. WESTOVER. I believe, unless there is objection, your Honor, it could be.

Mr. WALKER. If it is made, could it be made simply until the ruling of the Court is handed down?

Judge HALL. Until the ruling of this Court, the three-judge court?

Mr. WALKER. If the three-judge court determines it is going to hear the balance.

Judge ORR. The order will be made then, if there is no objection, that the restraining order be in force and effect until the termination of the hearing by this Court of the question of whether it will proceed with the hearing, and if it does, until the decision upon the matter is submitted, and that will be made without prejudice to the making of an order continuing the restraining order in the event the matter is heard before one judge.

Mr. WALKER. Yes, your Honor.

Judge ORR. Is that understood?

Mr. WESTOVER. Thank you, your Honors.

Might I also, while we are on the subject, ask that a similar order be made as to the restraining of the administrative hearing which was to have been held July 3rd, and for which there is now a temporary restraining order outstanding, which expires I believe today also, and particularly as I understand that that hearing was continued to August 20, I believe.

Mr. WALKER. That date is correct. I don't know that it is really necessary that a further restraining 1058 order be held in view of the length of time until that administrative hearing will be heard, if it is permitted to be heard. There will be no advancement of the date from August 20th.

Mr. WESTOVER. Then I take it there is no objection.

Judge ORR. Inasmuch as the three judges might not be available in the event that the matter should go over to that time, we think perhaps we had better make an order at this time similar to the other order made.

Mr. WALKER. I have no objection.

Judge ORR. A similar order will be made relative to the administrative hearing.

Mr. WESTOVER. I think I probably should correct one statement I made to include Sections (a) and (d) of Section 1464, I believe it is.

Mr. WALKER. Might I offer a suggestion there, Mr. Westover? I believe it is (a), (b), (c) and (d) of Section 5 that you are referring to.

Judge HALL. Section 5 of the Home Loan Act.

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

Judge HALL. That is Section 1464 of Title 12 of the United States Code.

Mr. WESTOVER. I believe they are the same thing.

Judge HALL. Yes, Section (a) is the same.

Mr. WESTOVER. We are of course attacking primarily the authority to be delegated under Section (d), 1059 but it has been pointed out that possibly Section (a) has some bearing thereon also.

Of course the complaint, if your Honors please, also asks for the removal of the defendant A. V. Ammann as Conservator and for the return to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and its duly constituted officers, whoever they may be, of its assets, and of course for an accounting upon the return as to the assets and the restraining orders which I have already mentioned against the merger.

Our primary reason, I might say, if your Honors please, for considering these acts of Congress, the sections of this act of Congress, as unconstitutional is essentially that it is an improper attempt by Congress to delegate a legislative function to an administrative body without setting up any criteria or guides or without setting up any signs limiting them or establishing policy, leaving them an unfettered discretion, if you wish to call it that, to make whatever rules or regulations they may see fit.

The act itself, if I may point out——

Judge HALL. Mr. Westover, do we understand that your position is that the three-judge court shall hear only your assault upon Sections (a) and (d) of Section 5 of the Home Loan Act?

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, I would rather not limit our position quite so closely. I feel that 1060 that is the primary function of course of the statutory three-judge court here. The cases so indicate. On the other hand, where the acts throughout are so intermingled, have so much bearing upon the general situation as they do in these circumstances, I feel that your Honors, if you see fit, would have judicial authority and jurisdiction to hear the entire matter.

If your Honors do not see fit to hear the entire matter but limit your decision solely to the constitutional question as to the act of Congress, then of course there still remains the remaining questions which, under some of the cases, would be referred to a District Court, a one-judge court, for final determination in the event the act was held to be constitutional. Of course in the event the act was held to be unconstitutional, those particular parts of it, there would be no need for a further hearing on those other portions.

We feel of course that the only attempt that could be made to justify such a seizure would be under the rules and regulations promulgated by the commissioner under the alleged or purported authority of this attempted delegation of authority to him, that those rules and regulations themselves and in their own rights may be unconstitutional, and we so challenge them.

Judge HALL. Is it your position that that must be heard by a three-judge court, as to the constitutionality of the rules and regulations?

1061 Mr. WESTOVER. Not must be, but may be, your Honor.

Judge HALL. It is your position that the statute requires a three-judge court?

Mr. WESTOVER. The statute requires a three-judge court as to the constitutionality of an act of Congress only.

Judge HALL. It is not your position that it requires a three-judge court as to the rules and regulations?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is correct, your Honor.

Judge HALL. You have also assailed the acts of the commissioner and the acts of Aumann as themselves being unconstitutional even though the rules and regulations and the act may be now?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

Judge HALL. Is it your position that that must be heard before a three-judge court?

Mr. WESTOVER. Not must be, but might be and may be, if your Honors see fit to take jurisdiction over it.

I may say, if we come to the question of the acts of the Conservator himself and the commissioner himself, we feel of course that those may be of two characters, one, with abusive authority, let's call it, or discretion within the rules and regulations and acts, and of course also there can be ultra vires acts by such parties in excess or outside of the authority of their own rules and regulations.

Judge ORR. We would like you to confine yourself 1062 to the constitutionality of the act, Mr. Westover.

That is of primary concern to this three-judge court. The other things we will take up later. If we determine that the act is unconstitutional, as you say, that will dispose of the other matters, and if we determine that it is constitutional then the other questions will come in their order before either the three-judge court or one of the judges, as we may determine.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well, your Honor.

Judge ORR. The thing we are concerned with now, is whether or not that act of Congress is unconstitutional.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well, your Honor.

We of course feel that the act itself, that is, the act of Congress—and when I speak of the act, if I may, in view of your Honors' ruling, it will be deemed, I take it, that it is the act of Congress, not any of the rules and regulations—the act itself sets up no process of any kind, affords no opportunity to be heard, sets up no rules or regulations for notice, sets up nothing in the way of appeals or review of any of the acts of the commissioner, and we therefore feel that the act does not provide for due process at all, or any process, and hence is in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, to the effect that no person shall be deprived of property without due process of law.

We also feel that since the act provides for no hearing ahead of any appointment of Conservator, or ahead 1063 of any seizure by a Conservator, that the act is in violation of the Fourth Amendment as it contravenes the Constitution in that the right of the people to be secure in their papers and effects against unreasonable seizure shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation and particularly describing the thing to be seized.

There having been no oath or affirmation, at least none that has been shown to us or to this Court, prior to such appointment nor seizure, there having been no effort even to have any prior notice or opportunity to be heard or to correct any errors that there might have been or to be confronted with any witnesses or to be advised of the charges against them, that there has been not even an attempt to comply with due process and the act itself does not set up any rules and regulations nor criteria for so requiring.

I would say, your Honors, that copious points and authorities have been filed at great length covering, I believe, all of our points and all of our positions, so I certainly will not attempt in oral argument to do more than just pick up a few of the highlights of those points and authorities that have been filed as to the law. Of course I think we are all familiar with the so-called chicken case, or the A. L. A. Schecter Poultry Corporation v. United States, which is found in 295 U. S. 495, which held the NRA 1064 unconstitutional on the ground that it was an improper atempt by Congress to delegate to the President of the United States an unlimited or unfettered authority to make rules and regulations.

The Court there, in effect, said that Congress cannot delegate legislative power even to the President to exercise an unfettered discretion to make whatever laws he thinks may be needed or advisable for the rehabilitation and expansion of industry.

Of course there are other cases on that point that we have cited at great length in our points and authorities.

One of them is the Panama Refining Company v Ryan, 293 U. S. 388, holding the National Industrial Recovery Act unconstitutional along a similar line of reasoning.

Then there are the three cases of Morgan v United States, the latest of which I believe is 304 U. S. 1, which follows the same line of reasoning.

Judge HALL. What act was involved there?

Mr. WESTOVER. Offhand, your Honor, I will have to dig it out. It is in one of our briefs and I have forgotten it. There are so many of them.

In the Panama Refining Company v Ryan case, the Court held that Congress manifestly is not permitted to abdicate or transfer to others the essential legislative functions with which it is thus vested.

Judge HALL. What was the language of the act?

1065 Mr. WESTOVER. That was the NRA.

Judge HALL. What did it say in it?

Mr. WESTOVER. I don't have that in front of me, your Honor, but it is set up in our points and authorities.

Even in those numerous cases, your Honor, I might say where the Courts have affirmed the delegation of authority to make rules and regulations, in each instance it is very significant that the Courts have pointed out that the acts in those particular cases, where they have been affirmed, have set up policies, rules or regulations or yardsticks or some criteria or formula to guide the administrative body, the President or whatever officer it is, in the exercise of the rule-making authority attempted to be delegated.

In the Wichita Railway and Light case v Public Utilities Commission, the Court indicated that it was a wholesome and necessary principle that an agency should have some procedural rule set up in the act to guide them in the exercise of the legislative functions attempted to be delegated.

I might say, your Honors, that there is rather an exhaustive brief in our plaintiffs' memorandum of points and authorities, point 1 of which raises the delegation of legislative authority, which is attached to the memorandum for the injunction to restrain the merger which was filed earlier in the proceedings.

1066 Judge HALL. That is the memo attached to your motion for a preliminary injunction?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right, your Honor.

Judge ORR. Mr. Westover, I think we have your idea clearly in this: You are relying upon the invalidity of the statute, not the alleged illegal acts of the commissioner? Is that your idea?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is correct. That is the requirement of Section 308a, as I take it.

Judge ORR. That would follow. The first thing we have to find out, is that act constitutional?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is correct.

Judge ORR. If that is a constitutional act, then the question of what the commissioner has done in the matter would follow.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is correct; whether the rules are proper or improper.

Judge ORR. You are asking us to determine at this time whether or not the Congress exceeded its authority in setting up the provisions for the appointment of a Conservator, or a receiver, without also setting up the machinery by which he acts, by which the appointment could be made. That is, supposing we would say that a necessary element of the legal appointment of a receiver would be notice and hearing, and things of that character, do you claim 1067 that those must appear in the act itself, rather than to be found in the proceedings of the administrator?

Mr. WESTOVER. Not those particular points alone, your Honor. There must be some formula on it, a rule or a guide stick—a yardstick, as some of the cases express it, to limit the rule-making authority attempting to be delegated.

Judge ORR. Give me an example, please.

Mr. WESTOVER. For example, in this particular instance—may I preface my answer to your Honor's question: It is conceded, I believe, that this association was entirely solvent. Statements have been made by both sides, and the allegations are such in the complaint, and there has been no denial of them,—in fact, the complaint shows an allegation of undivided surplus and profit of approximately $1,300,000, which have not been controverted, so we do not have here the situation of an insolvent institution for which a Conservator was being appointed. I probably overlooked that in my statement of facts.

Under those circumstances, your Honor, the question arises: Just what rule is to guide the commissioner in determining which association shall be merged with what other associations? Is it a question of solvency or insolvency, good management or bad management, or should well-managed associations be commingled with poorly-managed associations? Or is it a question of locality?

1068 Or is it a question of the need of communities?

Judge ORR. Do you mind these interruptions? I don't want to interrupt you, if it bothers you at all.

Mr. WESTOVER. Not at all.

Judge ORR. In order to get these things clear, I would rather ask questions now than wish I had after we come to consider the case. Would that be a question of discretion? A certain discretion must be placed in the commissioner, I suppose you will admit?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

Judge ORR. That the Congress cannot attempt to set up every little detail as to whether a Conservator will be appointed or whether he will not be appointed?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right.

Judge ORR. There must be certain discretion vested in the administrator's office as a matter of necessity.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right.

Judge ORR. Just how far must the Congress go in setting up the criteria you speak of, under which the commissioner must function? Do you claim that the Congress must have said that the commissioner shall appoint the receiver or Conservator only in case of insolvency? Should they have gone that far, and then leave in the commissioner the determination of whether the particular institution is insolvent or not?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes, I concede that had the act

1069 itself provided that if the commissioner accords appropriate proceedings or hearings, and finds the institution to be insolvent, he shall appoint a Conservator—I am using that as an example.

Judge ORR. But you claim the act must have gone that far in order to meet the requirements of the constitution?

Mr. WESTOVER. Or at least have set up some policy, expressed congressional policy, or some expressed limitation on the unlimited or unfettered discretion of the commissioner, within which he would have authority to make rules and regulations.

Judge HALL. Isn't the norm or standard set forth in Subdivision d as to when to appoint a Conservator or receiver to take charge of the affairs of any such association, or to require an equitable readjustment of the capital structure of the same, in that it is a definition of the standard which the administrator must use when he appoints a conservator or a receiver?

Mr. WESTOVER. It would hardly seem to me that that would be sufficient, your Honor.

Judge HALL. Is it, whether it is sufficient or not—is it a standard?

Mr. WESTOVER. No, I believe, your Honor, it is an additional thing for the Conservator to do.

Judge HALL. Give us an illustration of what you 1070 consider to be a valid delegation of power.

Mr. WESTOVER. I believe a delegation of power by Congress to the present connection was probably very properly set up in the delegation of authority.

Judge HALL. What about the Comptroller of the Currency and his power to appoint a receiver?

Mr. WESTOVER. Under the National Banking Act?

Judge HALL. Yes.

Mr. WESTOVER. As I recall it, that act sets up quite a procedural set-up in that it tells when to do it, and it sets up the appellate provisions in that same act, your Honor.

Judge HALL. But the original appointment, that is, after he is appointed, the original appointment of the Conservator as distinguished from the receiver governed by Section 203 of Title 12—do you have it there? Have you got O'Connor——

Mr. WESTOVER. No, the Federal Code, your Honor. What is that section?

Judge HALL. 203, Title 12. Do you find it, counsel?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes, your Honor. I think that is also the practise under Section 199:

"Such request, as approved by the Comptroller of the Currency, shall be, together with the certificate of facts in the case, and his recommendation as to the amount of money which, in his judgment, shall be so used and employed——"

1071 Judge HALL. That's for a receiver.

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

Judge HALL. Both the Home Loan Act and National Banking Act provide for two types of trust officers, a receiver, and a Conservator. Before the receiver can be appointed under Section 191 of the National Banking Act, there must be notice or findings, and the like, but under Section 203, governing the appointment of a conservator that grants the power. Where is there in there a definition of a standard? I don't know that the act has been held constitutional under assault.

Mr. WESTOVER. I don't see a standard set up in there for a Conservator other than, "Whenever he shall deem it necessary in order to conserve the assets of any bank——"

Judge HALL. "for the benefit of the depositors and other creditors thereof,"

Mr. WESTOVER. I presume that would take a prior finding of fact that that was necessary, under appropriate proceedings. Of course, this particular National Banking Act is not the one under consideration here. I will grant, your Honor, that I am not too familiar with it, but I do not feel that in that act, as I understand it, it sets up appellate provisions.

Judge HALL. You need not take the time now. I thought you might be able to answer the question offhand.

Mr WESTOVER. I am sorry I can't.

Judge HALL. Excuse me for interrupting your 1072 answer to Judge Orr.

Mr. WESTOVER. I think I completed my answer to Judge Orr. He asked for an example, which I gave him. I will be happy to give him further ones.

Judge HALL. Just a minute. You maintain that if this section had, under 1464 (d), the power to appoint a Conservator to preserve the assets of an association for the benefit of the depositors and other creditors, that it would then have been valid?

Mr. WESTOVER. No, your Honor. I personally think that in itself alone would not be a sufficient standard unless it were prefaced by some criteria that it was in danger of insolvency, or is insolvent, or there is a finding of insolvency, or some similar finding of fact that would guide him as to how he was to exercise the discretion in making such rules and regulations. In other words, under the current act of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of 1933, to be meticulous, if I may be pardoned, maybe the Conservator would like to merge all associations that have people of the same political faith, or different political faiths, or that their membership should be of a certain character; or their locality should be adjacent. What is to guide him in setting up rules and regulations for the merging, consolidating, and liquidating, or otherwise making rules pursuant to Subdivision (d) of the act?

Judge ORR. Doesn't the act itself carry with it 1073 the admonition that the commissioner shall not act capriciously; that he must act within the law and the rules and regulations must be such as will be according to law and constitutional; so an attack can be against a regulation of a commissioner that might be unlawful? If he acts without due process, then any act of his, because of the lack of sufficient regulation, or legal regulation, would make his act null and void rather than by attack on the statute itself?

Mr. WESTOVER. The statute itself sets up no admonition that I know of.

Judge ORR. Not in express words, but there would be that by implication?

Mr. WESTOVER. Only as we might appeal to a court, such as this, for the purpose of equitable jurisdiction to restrain any unlawful acts exercised by the commissioner, that were unreasonable.

Judge ORR. You could appeal to the court to restrain, under those circumstances, if they were unreasonable, because of the lack or unreasonableness of regulations rather than the defect in the statute itself.

Mr. WESTOVER. Excepting if your Honor please, that similar to other acts that have been found to be unconstitutional on this same ground, lack of criteria. This act follows the same pattern in that it sets up no criteria, except in the implied reasonableness of the adminis-1074 trative action making such rules and regulations.

For instance, if this particular act, under the rules and regulations originally set up back in 1934, then in existence, among other things, had a statement of policy in the rules and regulations, Section 42, to the effect that the then board of five board members would not exercise any of their extraordinary powers given them under the act and under their own regulations unless they first accorded a prior hearing and opportunity to the association that they had in mind, to be heard. Also, those same rules and regulations, back in 1934, provided for a ten-days' notice of hearing immediately after seizure, to all of the shareholder members of such association,—an opportunity for such shareholder members to know when and where such hearing would be held, and be heard.

Judge ORR. What is your idea about these regulations? Are these legal? Would acts under these be legal?

Mr. WESTOVER. Not under this particular act, your Honor, because the final act itself does not set up definite rules and regulations, or guide posts, to govern the commissioner in making such rules and regulations. Here we have a course of conduct that exemplifies the need of such criteria. We found the 1934 regulations were not particularly unreasonable. We find, on the other hand, on February 24, 1942, the Board was done away with by executive order, and it became a commissioner of one man, Mr. John Fahey, and that then he revised 1075 these rules and regulations to delete therefrom any statement to the effect that the commissioner would not act without prior hearing, except under improper circumstances. He deleted that section from the rules and regulations. He deleted the section about any notice to shareholder members, from the rules and regulations theretofore in existence. There is no guide post set up in the act,—criteria by which his discretion is limited, at all. In other words, he might have said: We will only allow gray-haired gentlemen to appear,—to be ridiculous again.

Judge ORR. I understand that is your example to show the necessity of the limitation being within the statute itself.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is our contention, your Honor. Primarily, we feel that several of the cases that have been cited to you set that forth very definitely and positively.

Judge HALL. By the way, have you abandoned your motion to take all testimony, or have you expected to let a one-man court rule on that?

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, on that I would like the record to show that we have intended to offer oral testimony to the three-judge court. But since your Honor ruled by letter to this effect we do not feel justified in subpoenaing into court witnesses. I am inclined to think, of course, if your Honors feel that you are going to limit your consideration only to the pure con-
1076 stitutionality of the act itself, as you have already somewhat indicated——

Judge HALL. You have offered no law to support your contention that we should do otherwise.

Mr. WESTOVER. I think my contention was, your Honor, that I thought it was discretionary with your Honor.

Judge HALL. Where do you find that authority, that we can use discretion in extending our jurisdiction?

Mr. WESTOVER. Simply in the statute itself, in that it says that you cannot hold an act of Congress unconstitutional, or restrain it, on the ground of its unconstitutionality except by a statutory court composed of three judges. But, on the other hand, I take it that section does not prohibit your Honors from taking testimony on other matters that are incident to the same constitutional attack on the act.

Judge ORR. In order that there be no confusion, so counsel will know exactly what they have to follow, we rule now we will not consider any question presented other than on the constitutionality of the statute under question.

Judge HALL. As a three-judge court.

Judge ORR. As a three-judge court.

Mr. WESTOVER. I take it that implies that other questions will be reserved for future consideration, if necessary.

Judge ORR. I mean by that, if we hold this statute constitutional, then all of the other matters will be addressed to one judge for determination. We rule 1077 on the constitutionality of the statute in question as a three-judge court. Other matters, if they follow, will be before one judge.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well.

Judge ORR. Do either of you gentlemen desire to address the court?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I also, your Honor, on behalf of the defendant association, attack the constitutionality of the act in my cross-complaint. Whenever the court desires, I would like to be heard on that.

Judge ORR. Right now, if you care to.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The question of the validity of the act, in my opinion, must be decided by the act itself, not by what someone with delegated authority does, or does not do. If the act is constitutional, if the Congress has given law-making power to the commissioner, if that can be done, then what the commissioner does will not affect the validity or invalidity of the act. Either the act was proper, and gave him legislative authority to make his own rules, make his own court, set up his own hearing board, denying us access to a court of review—either that was all valid and constitutional, from the act itself, or if the act is unconstitutional, he did not have that power. I do not feel, as your Honors somewhat indicated, that the validity of this act of Congress will depend on what the commissioner does under it.

Judge ORR. I think that is correct.

1078 Mr. CHAPMAN. Either the act was constitutional, and Congress can let one man make his own rules for himself, and make his own court for himself, and deny us recourse to these courts, or they can't. If they can't do it, the act is unconstitutional. The act itself is about as vague as anything could be. Incidentally, I would like, before I go on, to state that even Congress did not try to give one man the power to be exercised; they gave it to a five-man board, if they gave it to anyone. There was an executive order attempted under the emergency of the war, after Pearl Harbor, in 1942,—executive order 5070, attempting to remove the five from the board, and put it in a one-man dictator, who was to exercise the powers of Congress. If they intended to give it to anyone, they gave it to five men. I only mention that in passing. I don't believe the act possibly could make the former act of Congress constitutional or unconstitutional.

Judge HALL. That executive order was promulgated by virtue of the first War Powers Act.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is correct. I might say I am glad to have any questions. I am glad to have an interplay of thoughts as we go along.

The act itself—I want to read the authority it attempts to give, if your Honors will bear with me a second until I find the language. The section is Section 5 (d).

Judge Orr. That is 5 (d) of 1464?

1079 Mr. Chapman. That is right. I would like your Honors to follow me as I read this:

"The Board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations herein authorized for the reorganization, consolidation, merger, or liquidation of such associations, including the power to appoint a conservator or a receiver"

Your Honors will observe there is no distinction. Conservator and receiver are treated alike in this grant of power.

"to take charge of the affairs of any such association, and to require an equitable readjustment of the capital structure of the same; and to release any such association from such control and permit its further operation."

1080 All right. Where in this act is any limitation put upon the power to merge? There isn't a word here. The Board shall have full power to attempt to regulate. In other words, the Board is given the power of Congress to make such laws as it may please to make. That is what they have attempted to do here.

An example of that is what they did when they merged our predecessor, the thing that started this chain of mergers and seizures, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles. The Government has put in a copy of that order of seizure and merger. It is one of the last affidavits they filed. It was attached to the affidavit of Mr. Dougherty as an exhibit. It reads:

"Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

"Order No. 5082.

"Date, March 29, 1946.

"It is hereby ordered that effective March 29, 1946 the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles shall be liquidated and reorganized * * *"

That is the first notice that anybody had that anything was to be done there. There were 41 million dollars in assets in that institution. They dated an order March 29th and they liquidated it on March 29th, and they reorganized it into an entirely different organization. And they tell us, the Long Beach Federal, that had $400,000 worth of stock in that place, that we were now 1081 stockholders in the new organization. There was no notice, there was no hearing, there was no due process, there was nothing.

Judge HALL. Was there any finding that it was insolvent or in the best public interest?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Here is what it says:

"Whereas, it has been and is hereby determined that the efficient and economical accomplishment of the purposes of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended, will be aided by the action contemplated herein; now, therefore * * *" * *

Judge HALL. Who filed it?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I wouldn't like to say. I think the Government should answer that. They certify it by the secretary of the Board what the one-man dictator has done.

Judge HALL. According to that certification, who did, one man for the Board?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is right. But we find when we get to our congressional hearings that various individuals and deputies seem to try to take responsibility for various acts. I never heard who took the blame or credit, whatever it may be, for this particular act. I have an affidavit that was received four or five days ago where at least we found out who was supposed to have ordered the seizure of the Long Beach Federal, a gentleman named Lee makes his affidavit that it was his order. I understand 1082 that he is one of the deputy governors, I believe, acting under Fahey.

But coming now to the power that is given. If this delegation of power that I have just read to you is any good, if Congress could give this power, there would be a legislative body to make your laws, there would be a judge to determine your facts and to be the sheriff and execute them, then this is a perfectly valid act. And if Congress couldn't give that much power, than the seizure of the Los Angeles bank and the seizure of our Long Beach Federal was unconstitutional, and that is why we have asked the three judges to convene under Section 380 to determine that fact for us; that is, the two points, the merger, the liquidation, and the appointment of the Conservator.

Now we acted to restrain a merger. There is only one reason that we had any time to act and weren't merged just as fast as the Los Angeles bank was, and that was the minute the Long Beach public heard about it a run started and millions of dollars a day poured out of that institution. You didn't dare merge it with anybody in that condition. And before the run had stopped there was a restraining order out issued by you, Judge Hall, withholding a merger until such time as we could appeal to the courts.

Now on every appeal to the courts under their regulations—this association has no business here—if their regulation is valid our board of directors' power was 1083 suspended. That is why I had to make the appeal that I made a few minutes ago, or the notice rather, that we were going to have a meeting of our board of directors. Their regulation says that after the Conservator is appointed the only things we can do as an association are to adopt or present such proper petitions to these gentlemen who seized us that they may care to listen to.

I am showing that merely to show what they have tried to do under the authority that was given. I don't think they ever got that authority. We are going to go ahead and have our meetings of our board of directors and we are going to ratify the deposit of the trust deeds in court and try to free the titles that they have tangled up.

But coming back to the three-judge court situation and the validity of this act, nowhere in this act is a word said about a hearing by anybody. Nowhere in this act is a word said about why they should merge or when or why they should consolidate or when and what authority they need to liquidate. Apparently they didn't need any authority at all to liquidate the Los Angeles bank. They did it all on the 29th of March, according to their own order.

I don't think that that kind of power can be given by Congress under our United States Constitution to anybody, five men, one man or anybody else. I think that due process requires a factual determination. If 1084 you want to create an administrative board, as they did in the National Labor Relations Act, and say that this board shall have exclusive power to find certain facts, and when those facts are so found the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals shall have the power to review and after such review there is a final order, that is a valid delegation by the Congress to an administrative body.

But what was done here I can hardly believe it when I read it. "The Board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations for the consolidation, merger or liquidation, including the power to appoint a Conservator or receiver."

Now when they started out under their regulations they had to have a hearing. They had a five-man board. They have never provided for any judicial review in the regulations from start to finish. If their regulations are valid, if Congress can foreclose us from the courts, they seize the place, they have their hearing, they decide whether they did right or not, and that disposes of the issue. That is not my understanding of due process of law under our Federal Constitution, either for the merger or for the seizure.

They have gone even further than that. Just before the seizure of the Federal Home Loan Bank in Los Angeles they made an order—it is referred to in my cross-claim, the number is given; I don't happen to have it 1085 before me at the moment—but the effect of that order was that the Federal Home Loan Bank administration and its files and its officers were exempt from subpoena by any court, including the Federal Courts, and including subpoena dudes tecum. That order was made less than a week before the seizure in Los Angeles.

Going a little bit into the factual situation, I know it is away from the constitutional question, but one of the ways to test this act is what was done under it or what they tried to do. I come to the point where I said the reason we weren't merged is because we had the run. Then we had the restraining order.

Now if you follow this act, aside from the regulations for just a moment, there is nothing to prevent them doing what they did to the Los Angeles bank. They just issue an order and yesterday your money was deposited with the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan, you were a shareholder there, tomorrow it may be in San Francisco, the day after it may be in Washington. They have got that power if this act is constitutional.

If says the Board shall have full power to do these things. Now can Congress give five men or one man or anybody the power to make the law? We say that it cannot. There are a number of Supreme Court decisions that also say that they can't. Certainly they cannot withhold from anyone the right to appeal to the courts.

1086 If they do, there has been a denial of due process.

They attempted to do that to us. I am reading just briefly from one of the cases already in my points and authorities, Ohio Valley Water Company v. Ben Avon, a United States Supreme Court case, which states:

"Withholding from the courts power to determine the questions of confiscation according to their own independent judgment when the act of a state public service commission in fixing the value of a water company's property for rate asking purposes comes to be considered on appeal, as is done by the Pennsylvania Public Service Company law, must be deemed to deny due process of law."

Judge Orr. Let me see if I follow you. Are you quoting from your authorities here?

Mr. Chapman. The regulation is supposed to be adopted under this power which says that the association can do nothing except address petitions to them. We can have no powers in our officers at all.

Judge Orr. That is the regulation?

Mr. Chapman. Yes, your Honor, if this act is valid they have that power. If the act is not valid it is unconstitutional and they haven't got that power.

Judge Orr. Do you think they would go that far if this were a constitutional act?

Mr. Chapman. I don't think they can go that far.

1087 Judge Orr. If the act is constitutional, could they then go that far?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Why certainly. Why not? If the act is constitutional they have the power to do what they want to do.

Judge ORR. In setting up the reasonableness of it?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Why not?

Judge ORR. Other laws would intervene. They could not do that capriciously or unreasonably just because they have been delegated some power.

Mr. CHAPMAN. They have, your Honor.

Judge ORR. I know that, but there would be other laws. You claim that they have, but there would be the proposition that under other regulations it would be unreasonable or capricious or something of that kind. You can restrain those acts even though the statute itself is constitutional.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We would have to violate the law to come to court. Of course we have done that already. We have had our officers verify the pleadings and we have had our directors meeting to ratify some of the acts in an attempt to clear property that they have tangled up.

Judge HALL. Is there a provision in the law that would put you in contempt of the Conservator or administrator?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I hate to answer that offhand, but my impression is that they do not have the power to punish by contempt. I don't think they have that either. Congress never gave it to them.

Judge ORR. You were citing those merely to show the acts that have been done?

Mr. CHAPMAN. To show what they have done with the language that they thought they had.

But I would like to go back to your point again. You say if they act unreasonable. Your Honor is a little ahead of me. In one of the cases that I have here, the regulation has to be reasonable to be valid. That is very true. But I contend that this act of Congress attempting to give this power so broadly and so unlimitedly is unconstitutional in itself. I don't think that you can give anyone, as I say, a five-man board or a one-man board, or any one man, the power to create courts. Those courts to be of any use to anybody would have to have a subpoena power. If you discarded that subpoena power they would have to have the ability to punish you or refer to some other court to punish you. What chance would we have?

Assume that we went to the hearing. That is one of the things we are seeking to restrain. Assume we wanted to produce some testimony from adverse and hostile witnesses. Where is they any authority in this act for anybody to set up that hearing, anybody to set up that administrative officer, for anybody to issue a subpoena to compel you to attend, and furthest of all, anybody with any 1089 power to punish you would refuse to testify. There is no due process in that. Of course the due process goes further than that; it goes to the question of judging their own acts. I will get to that point in a few minutes.

But sticking just to the question of what powers they were given here, either the power is given or it isn't given. It doesn't depend on what you do with it after you get it. If you haven't got the power you can be as reasonable and just as you know how and your act is still void. If you do have the power and you are capricious and arbitrary then the only review is such review as was provided in the act giving that power. That is our position in the whole situation.

Judge HALL. Mr. Chapman, in setting up the Home Owners Loan Act, the Savings and Loan Associations Act and the insurance of deposits and Government aid, do you maintain that Congress did not have the power to authorize the appointment of a Conservator or a receiver at all?

Mr. CHAPMAN. No, your Honor, I do not. I say that the Congress in setting up—we are not attacking the whole act, incidentally. I would like to say we are only attacking these portions.

Judge HALL. Authorizing the appointment of a Conservator and the merger?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The merger, the liquidation, the reorganization, the Conservator and the receiver with-1090 out any factual finding, without any recourse to the courts, without any limitations of how those powers are to be exercised.

Judge HALL. Speaking specifically on the limitations as to how those powers could be exercised, you conceive that there could be a constitutional authority authorizing mergers, liquidations and the appointment of a Conservator?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Definitely, but that this is not the way.

Judge HALL. What would it need?

Mr. CHAPMAN. It would need due process of law, it would need an opportunity to be heard before you merged, as the Los Angeles bank was merged, and to be heard before or immediately after you are seized, as we were seized, to be heard before a fair and impartial tribunal not interested in the seizure, such as this honorable court or any Federal Court, and limitations on when and how you could be merged and seized.

Judge HALL. What would those limitations be?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would say this, if a financial institution is insolvent, clearly there should be a power to take that institution over and prevent further disposition of its assets.

Judge HALL. Or threatened with insolvency?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes. I think that when you endanger the general public in that way under the police powers they can be protected. But I don't think that you can give the power here to just merge them as you feel 1091 like it, consolidate them as you feel like it, or reorganize them whenever you feel like it, putting in a Conservator with or without cause. That we contend is a denial of due process.

But answering your Honor's question, we have building and loan association legislation in the state of California, we have banking legislation in the United States—and, strangest of all, the Government has seen fit to cite those in support of their action—and in those regulations by the legislature on the Bank Act within 10 days the aggrieved party appeals to the Superior Court and the Court finds whether the seizure was constitutional or not. Under the Building and Loan Act I think it is a little longer time, either 15 or 20 days.

Judge HALL. Is there a norm or standard under which they can seize it?

Mr. CHAPMAN. It is set forth in the act itself.

Judge HALL. What is it?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The danger of insolvency or an actual insolvency or danger to the general public. That is to be reviewed by the courts almost immediately.

As your Honor mentioned on the National Bank Act, which has been held constitutional, the comptroller of the currency gets his authority to seize from the court. He doesn't go down there and grab any place he happens to want to grab.

You also mentioned the question of appointing a 1092 Conservator. That, incidentally, was an emergency statute enacted in 1933, during the bank holiday, or right after, and we have a couple of authorities on the question of emergency statutes being limited to the emergency.

Judge HALL. You say there are other provisions in the law which requires it?

Mr. CHAPMAN. On the National Bank Act, your Honor?

Judge HALL. Yes.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I think it is Section 199, speaking from memory, but I know that the index at the start of the act will indicate where the Court has inquired.

On the question of this emergency situation, this particular act, the Home Owners Loan Corporation Act, was adopted in 1934, during the time of one of the worst financial depressions.

Judge HALL. '34 or '33?

Mr. CHAPMAN. It was amended in '34 and adopted originally in '33.

In the Chastleton Corporation v Sinclair, a United States Supreme Court case, 264 U. S. 543, reading from the syllabus:

"Statutes—effect of passing of emergency.

"A law depending upon the existence of an emergency or other certain state of facts to uphold it may cease to operate if the emergency ceases of the facts change, even though valid when passed."

1093 I still don't think, in 1933 or any other time, that you can give a board arbitrary power to merge, seize, liquidate, put in a receiver without any factual limitation whatever; but even if you could, and that was upheld under the emergency situation, surely a financial institution which has grown from $7,500 in 1934 to $26,000,000 in 1946, which has a surplus of $1,300,000, is not insolvent or in any danger of insolvency, and it doesn't need the drastic thing that was done here—just close it in an instant. The results were quite drastic. One-third of the deposits of that association has been withdrawn. In the first week $6,000,000 was withdrawn.

I am going into this factual situation just to help the constitutional question of those powers that were given. I can't say, in reading this act, that the act doesn't try to give them that power. I don't see how any act, except just a plain blank check, could give anybody any more power than is given under this one. But I do say that Congress can't give away its powers that way, not under our Constitution.

I don't say that they cannot set up a valid system with proper checks and restraints, saying that an association that is insolvent can be closed, an association that is impaired can be liquidated, or if, as your Honor says, they are in immediate danger of insolvency, that a Conservator cannot be appointed subject to an immediate court review.

Now the hearing that they tell us that we must 1094 exhaust, our administrative remedy, is a remedy of going before the very men that seized us and asking them to judge us, judge us and them, judge between yourselves and the people that you seized. That is the administrative remedy that we are supposed to exhaust.

I am sorry to say that I got in the case just two or three days after the seizure. I am sorry to say that I asked for a hearing. I was innocent enough to believe that we would be given an impartial hearing. I learned better when the Congress of the United States took the testimony in this matter, extracts of which have been incorporated in the motion to restrain the preliminary hearing.

The gentleman now gives us the affidavit that he is the one who made the seizure order and he told the Congress of the United States that they will never get that association back. They want us to go down there and let them hear the question. They want us to go to that sort of an administrative hearing, and they tell us and they tell your Honor that you have no power to even hear this constitutional appeal until they have exhausted our administrative remedies. That sort of an administrative remedy is also a denial of due process. That is so elementary that I am amazed that that contention can be made.

However, pages 23 to 31 of my points and authorities go into a few questions on the bias and prejudice of either a judge or an administrative officer and that it is a 1095 denial of due process. The case of Tunney v Ohil, 273 U. S. 510:

"Officers acting in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity are disqualified by their interest in the controversy to be decided.

"Accused is unconstitutionally deprived of due process of law if his liberty and property are subjected to the judgment of a court the judge of which has a direct and substantial pecuniary interest in reaching a conclusion against him."

All right. These people have seized an institution with 26 million dollars in it, 8 million dollars of which is gone. Have they any pecuniary interest in sustaining whether they were right or wrong in making that seizure? Were they interested in the outcome of that case? Some of the National Labor Relations Board proceedings went almost as far. In the case of Inland Steel Company v National Labor Relations Board, 109 Fed. (2d) 9, which is an administrative hearing——

Judge HALL. What has that to do with what it says in the statute?

Mr. CHAPMAN. It comes right down to this point, your Honor: Under this statute they can make their own courts if the statute is valid. They have made their own courts. This is how it is working out. There is no other way to test this general kind of language. Either you can write a blank check and it is valid, or you can't. I am 1096 trying to show what they have done under it, not that it has anything to do with their authority but to show you how utterly outrageous they are and beyond any concepts of constitutionality.

I won't go any further on those cases, but it really comes down to this, I think, to sum it up: Congress can delegate, if this is valid, to five men or to one man the power to make the laws of the United States, the power to decide when they will merge, when they will liquidate and when they will appoint a receiver for a perfectly solvent going business. Congress can also delegate to those same gentlemen the power to set up a tribunal, a court, if you please, they make their own jurisdiction, they decide in one case what evidence they will take in that case, not any general rules—their very order setting up this hearing withholds from the hearing officer the power to decide the case—and they decided in this particular instance that they are going to let anybody else interested come in, and tomorrow they may make an order saying that we are going to have a hearing and nobody comes, or only the association, and if this legislative delegation is valid they certainly have that power.

Also Congress has given them apparently the power, in this court they create, to make their own rules of evidence. They will decide whether or not there shall be cross examination and they will decide it differently for each individual hearing that they bring. They will 1097 decide whether or not certain testimony shall be received. Maybe we won't bother with any evidence, let's have anybody write us a letter. If this delegation of power is valid they can do that. Let's not even bother to call the witnesses in. Let anybody write a statement to us, and that is evidence, and we will accept it.

Congress has given them that power, if they have any power under this act at all, and if someone doesn't choose to answer they also have, by implication, the power of subpoena. There is not a word in here about any pleadings. It is a court. Apparently it is to be final. Nobody has to make any allegations or charges; nobody has to make any answers. Just a description of it shows how impossible that situation is. That is why we contend that the Congress, when it attempts to do things like this, is limited by the due process clause of the Constitution and it must in the act say, you have a hearing before the administrative tribunal, that tribunal has the following powers, and give them, and provide for an appeal or review by some judicial tribunal somewhere.

Now it is very true in the Emergency Price Control Act they set up their own hearing boards, and they provide for an appeal to the tax courts. There is only one judicial review, but there has to be a judicial review. That is the case I have already read you, where they seek to prevent or deny the right of a judicial review.

You can go a long ways, and I think that we have 1098 under the war situation, delegated a tremendous amount of authority, but it is delegated in the acts.

of Congress, the restraints are set up in the acts of Congress, and the judicial review is provided in the acts of Congress. It is our contention here that this arbitrary power, without any limitation whatever to merge, to consolidate, to have a receiver or a Conservator, to reorganize without any factual background or basis or any showing of any need—let them determine all that for themselves—that we respectfully submit is unconstitutional.

Judge HALL. You were speaking a moment ago about the termination of the emergency, that the Court had the power to determine that the emergency which created a power under which an act, regulation or order was made, had terminated.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes, your Honor.

Judge HALL. Were you addressing your remarks to some point? I couldn't quite understand what you were addressing that point to. Were you addressing that to the proposition that Executive Order 9070 is now void and one man ceases to operate as a board because the emergency has passed under which he was created?

Mr. CHAPMAN. I didn't intend to when I made that argument, but I see the point and I think very well of it, and I would like to adopt it. I wish I had thought of it at the time. I would like to adopt it now.

Judge HALL. What was your point in talking 1099 about the end of the emergency?

Mr. CHAPMAN. My point is this: We know that when the national banks were all closed every bank in the country was closed. We had this so-called Conservator as an addition to the National Banking Act, just as we have had recently rent control under the former war emergency and may have it again, but I say that now whatever authority may have been necessary in 1933 certainly cannot be used to seize and liquidate and merge a perfectly solvent institution.

I realize that there are many other counsel waiting, and I am pretty deeply engrossed in the subject and I would probably go on forever if no one stopped me, but I think I have made the elements of my constitutional position. I haven't attempted to go into the questions of if this act is constitutional, the abuse of authority and many of those things which your Honors have indicated should not be brought before the three-judge court.

Mr. WALLACE. Your Honor, as counsel for one of the two interpleaders, I have very little to say as addressed to the primary motion so far as the preliminary injunction to restrain the merger of assets is concerned. However, as counsel for the Title Service Company, the interpleader, with whom is involved the title of some 8000 parcels in this county, we have joined in the motion to restrain an administrative hearing and, in my humble opin-1100 ion, the passage upon that question of the constitutionality of the act by this three-judge tribunal is necessary to determine whether or not such a hearing could or should be heard, principally whether or not it could be heard.

As both Messrs. Chapman and Westover have pointed out to the Court, the act under which the Board has presumed to act, it now being a one-man board, is wide open, stating that the Board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations hereunder authority for the handling of these associations, reorganizations, consolidation or liquidation, but nowhere in that act, Section 5(d), is there any proviso whatsoever for the establishment of any quasi-judicial body for the hearing of any of these charges, airing of any complaints, making of any, should we say, excuses—for lack of a better word I will use that —for the acts of the association which may have been done.

One of the elements of due process, as I understand it, is that of notice. As set forth in one of our memoranda of points and authorities, I have stated that there was no notice to any of the other interested parties. The counter made by the Government to that is that notice was published in the Federal Register and that, under the regulations, in and of itself was sufficient notice, not only to the other defendants involved, Title Service Company among others, but also to some 16,000 depositors.
1101 That definitely, in my estimation, is one of the factors in the lack of due process.

In all of the cases cited by the Government with reference to these administrative hearings, at least all of which I have read, there have been no cases in which the hearings have been upheld or in which injunctions have been denied against the holding of such hearings, and the statute under which the complaining party was complaining in and of itself prescribed what hearings should be had and prescribed for a judicial review in some cases. Particularly in the petroleum cases the statute provides for a hearing by an administrative body and a review by the Circuit Court of Appeals. There are others which provide for administrative hearings—Mr. Chapman adverted to one of them—where a review by the Board of Tax Appeals is had. And in seeking some basis to urge before this Court, we are put in the position of proving a negative, which is almost impossible, therefore we must draw the analogy from those cases in which injunctions have been granted against statutes such as this where there has been no proviso made, no yardstick, as Mr. Westover has said, no criteria of any kind established, and I cannot, from a reading of this brief six- or seven-line statute in any way feel that there is any justification for the Board to do which it has done, that is, to make up its own rules, its own regulations, provide what notice should be given, come into court and state that the publication of a notice in 4102 a very infinitely small red document such as the Federal Register constitutes due notice to the 16,000 depositors, much less to the various other active participants in this litigation.

As to why the Title Service Company is interpleading in this matter, it is that the title to some 8000 parcels of real estate in this county are very definitely involved, and if the members of this Court were to listen to my telephone ringing day in and day out asking as to who was going to clear the titles, you will know whereof I speak. It is our contention that if this hearing is allowed to be held and an adjudication be made by the Home Loan Commissioner, or through various officers acting under him without any possibility of judicial review, it will further encumber or cloud the titles to all of the approximately 8000 parcels of real property, of which only the 174 involved here are in the process now of being cleared.

Mr. Tremaine. For the other interpleading defendant here, I am in very much the same position as Mr. Wallace who has just spoken.

Judge ORR. Pardon me just a moment, please. I think we will take a recess for about 10 minutes.

(Short recess.)

1103 Mr. TREMAINE. As I stated just before the intermission, representing the other interpleading defendant here,—I don't wish to go into an extended argument, but only to bring into the consideration one element which I think is very important; that is, viewing the question of the constitutionality, to go back to the old American principle that I think we all learned in school, that we are governed in a government of laws, and a business man, in conducting his business, is entitled to some guide post about what is proper and what is improper.

When we consider the delegation of powers by Congress to the various administrative bodies, it brings up the question, how far we might go under the bank act. I wish to pass this thought for consideration, that there is, in my opinion, a distinction between proper delegations, some of which apply to conditions of emergency, some of which apply to what we might consider to be standard business situations. I think possibly the right of the Comptroller of the Currency to appoint a conservator, or even Commissioner Fahey here to appoint a conservator, might be proper under an emergency condition, and in that, too, that should be followed by an administrative hearing; and I think that idea more or less goes through the various court decisions that have been cited in the points and authorities on both sides.

If the situation is an emergency, there is still the 1104 requirement of due process for some sort of review afterwards by an unbiased body. I won't try to repeat Mr. Chapman's argument on that. He has done it better than I could. But I have been greatly impressed in reading the various cases and by Justice Cardozo's concurring opinion in the Schecter case, as being the key to the line of limitation as to what delegation would be constitutional, and what not. 293 U. S., 435:

"There has been no grant to the Executive by any roving commission to inquire into evils and then, upon discovering them, do anything he pleases."

"He has choice, though within limits, as to the occasion, but none whatever as to the means."

Here in the case before us is an attempted delegation, not confined to any single act. That I think is the sort of delegation of power that Congress left open, in not providing anything but a roving commission to the Board. I want to make that distinction, that the authority was originally given to a Board, the majority of whom I believe had to be members of some political party. Now we find a single commissioner who has that power, which goes far beyond what we believe follows the chain of argument cited in various cases to be a proper delegation. That is the only point I have to submit to your Honors.

Judge HALL. If I might ask a question of Mr. Chapman. Do you have the act before you? In Section 5 of 1464 (e) you will see there is no norm or standard of conduct.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

Judge HALL. Or canalizing,—I think Justice Cardozo used that word one time in an opinion,—of authority. Would not Subdivision (e) of Section 1464, Section 5, be a fulfillment of the requirement?

"No charter shall be granted except to persons of good character and responsibility, nor unless in the judgment of the Board a necessity exists for such an institution in the community to be served, nor unless there is a reasonable probability of its usefulness and success, nor unless the same can be established without undue injury to properly conducted existing local thrift and home-financing institutions."

Mr. CHAPMAN. I don't see how, your Honor, that is going to give any standard for merger, liquidation, appointment of a receiver or a Conservator, and the equalization of the capital. That has to do with the chartering of the association. I agree with you. I want your Honor to understand we are not attacking the entire act.

Judge HALL. I understand that. But I think under the cases you are not restricted to looking to the particular section under which authority is given, but you are required to look to the whole act to see if in the act itself there are norms and standards, and Congress recognized them, after the Schecter case, and the Panama Refining case, and set forth a preamble of the additional objects and standards to be followed; so if elsewhere in this act a standard is to be found as a guide to the administrator, or to the Board, in taking over an institution and liquidating it, or appointing a conservator, the constitutional requirement is satisfied. My query is directed to this particular section.

Mr. CHAPMAN. No charter shall be granted except to persons of good character and responsibility, etc. That has nothing to do with consolidation, merger, liquidation. There is nothing under the section your Honor just read to me, or elsewhere in the act, which I can find, which limits, or says what associations shall be merged into others, or where, whether they should be solvent or insolvent, what association should be liquidated, or when or where, or anything in the act which gives them power to constitute their own court, arrogate to themselves the power to subpoena, rules of pleading, rules of practise, or to determine evidence. Neither the section I have read, or your Honor has read, gives any limitation on that.

Judge ORR. Is it your contention that that section gives authority to create, but does not give authority to destroy?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is right; at least without due process.

Judge ORR. That is your position?

1107 Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

Judge HALL. Section (a) of 1464 says:

"In order to provide local mutual thrift institutions in which people may invest their funds and in order to provide for the financing of homes, the Board is authorized, under such rules and regulations as it may prescribe,"

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

Judge HALL. So, when this association accepted the benefits and continued to receive them, under this act, did they thereby lose their right to challenge the constitutionality of the act, or any acts done under rules and regulations?

Mr. CHAPMAN. My contention is they did not, your Honor.

Judge HALL. What is the basis of your contention?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The charter. The fact that the doctrine to which your Honor refers, I believe refers to an equitable estoppel. That is only used to prevent a wrong, and not condone or perpetrate one. I don't think anyone would say, in starting an association under this act, we acquiesced and acknowledged, under contracts which ceased to give us notice, and to appeal to a court.

Judge HALL. Did it give you a right to challenge the constitutionality of this act? You accepted the benefits of it.

1108 Mr. CHAPMAN. That is true. I don't think, being organized under a five-man board, it gave a one-man dictator the right to destroy it, and preclude us from appealing to a court.

1109 Your Honor will bear with me just a second. I have a case on that estoppel point that I wish to refer to. South Ottawa v. Perkins, a United States Supreme Court case, 94 U. S., 260, 24 L. Ed. 154.

Judge HALL. That is in your brief?

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is on page 43 of the points and authorities of the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings & Loan Association.

Judge HALL. I better write it down because you have all cited so many cases here. What page?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Page 43, your Honor, starting with line 20.

Judge HALL. I do not find it. When was that filed?

The CLERK. That was filed today.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That was filed today, your Honor.

Judge HALL. Very well.

Mr. CHAPMAN. The factual situation back of this case, your Honor, was this: A municipal corporation of a city had issued bonds under an act of the state legislature and it attacked the act under which it had issued the bonds, and the point was raised that, having issued bonds under the act they were estopped and denied validity. The Supreme Court said:

"We cannot assent to this view. There can be no estoppel in the way of ascertaining the existence of a law. That which purports to be a law of a State is a law or it is

1110 not a law, according as the truth of the fact may be, and not according to the shifting circumstances of parties. It would be an intolerable state of things if a document purporting to be an Act of the Legislature would thus be a law in one case and for one party, and not a law in another case and for another party; a law to-day, and not a law tomorrow; a law in one place, and not a law in another in the same State. And whether it be a law or not a law is a judicial question, to be settled and determined by the courts and judges. The doctrine of estoppel is totally inadmissible in the case."

Now applying that to this situation, all that we can be concluded by is the language of this act, even assuming that we were estopped, and nowhere in this act did they attempt to set up the court they insist that we come to. And in our charter, which is made an exhibit, they say that we shall have the power to liquidate.

Judge HALL. Who is "we"?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The association itself, your Honor. I don't believe that estoppel properly comes up until it is pleaded in defense, but as long as your Honor has raised the point I will read from the charter.

Now on the question of estoppel, if it is raised at all it is raised by the charter, and though I am answering your Honor's question my own thought presented in this brief is that estoppel is a doctrine which must be affirmatively pleaded by the defendants when they make their answer. It does not appear from our complaint and therefore is not to be treated on a motion to dismiss. But I do not want to put aside my points on a purely technical situation. I think that the question of estoppel is well to be reserved to be gone into fully at the time of trial.

Nevertheless they gave us a charter, and, reading from their copy of it as they have our original, incidentally, down among the seized documents—we will assume for the purposes of this argument that this copy is correct:

"The Association shall have the power, among a number of other things, to wind up and dissolve, merge, consolidate or reorganize in the manner provided by law and rules and regulations made thereunder."

It goes a little further:

"The Association shall have such powers as are conferred by law and shall exercise its powers in conformity with Home Owners Loan Act and all laws of the United States as they now are or may thereafter be amended, with the rules and regulations made thereunder which are not in conflict with this charter.

Now by the charter they gave us the power to wind up, dissolve, merge and consolidate. In other words, we have never consented, even by estoppel, to an involuntary, 1112 arbitrary merger. Today we are in Long Beach, tomorrow we are in San Francisco, next week we are in Baltimore and the week after in Washington. That is the constitutional point that we raise here.

Your Honor is going to the question of the Conservator. That also is dangerous, but it isn't one-tenth as bad as the merger and liquidation. The Conservator at least in this situation has given us some chance to get to court. But if they treated us like they treated the Federal Home Loan Bank in Los Angeles, merged and liquidated one day without any notice, that is the power that we claim would be unconstitutional.

We have never consented, either by being organized under this act or in any other way to, first, a one-man dictatorship, which was not in force when our charter was granted and, second, to give up our constitutional right of due process. These things that are done and have been done in this case can only be justified if there was due process, a hearing before an impartial tribunal such as yourselves, and that hearing to be provided in the act itself.

Now the question of estoppel is an equitable doctrine. That cannot be raised by a wrongdoer. Someone who has confiscated wrongfully and maliciously millions of dollars worth of property cannot say to the person whose property is seized, "Oh, no, you can't raise that, you 1113 say anything about that, when you started your existence you consented that whatever we wanted to do to you whenever we decided to do it was all right."

Judge HALL. It seems to me the point is in the case nevertheless because, by the plaintiff's complaint, by your cross-claim and interpleader, you allege that you are an association or a corporation organized under this law.

Mr. CHAPMAN. That is true. We said under the laws of the United States. I don't believe we specifically referred to this particular act, but we don't deny that we were organized under this act.

Judge HALL. Very well.

Mr. CHAPMAN. We do think very emphatically that a doctrine as drastic as estoppel should not be applied at this stage of the case on a question of battle of affidavits. If the act is unconstitutional then a trial on the merits is the time to go into the doctrine of estoppel. If the act is unconstitutional it doesn't matter whether we are estopped or not. If the act is good, it is law. But if the act is unconstitutional and is to only have its force because we were organized under it with a five-man board before these amendments, that is something that should be inquired into on the trial of the merits.

Any further questions?

Judge ORR. The question arose as to whether or 1114 not, if Section 5 were declared unconstitutional, what remedy would there be against an organization such as yours if there was wrongdoing and on the face of it what remedy would the commissioner would have?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The very remedy we have attempted here, your Honor, in defense.

Judge ORR. Equitable procedure in court?

Mr. CHAPMAN. To go into court, the way the comptroller of the currency and the building and loan commissioner of the State of California and other officials claiming that power do. They don't try to be their own judges, juries and prosecutors. They may initially try to protect the situation but they quickly get judicial approval and judicial backing up of that authority.

Judge ORR. It would have to go into court in the first instance then?

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes.

Judge HALL. Or a federal equity receiver?

Judge ORR. Or a federal equity receiver.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I don't believe I understand your Honor's point.

Judge ORR. Supposing that section were declared unconstitutional. I don't know, but this is just another one of those features that you consider in determining that.

Then supposing there was a gross misuse of the 1115 powers by the officers of this company. Supposing they were dissipating the funds, misusing all of the funds, then how would the commissioner reach you?

Mr. CHAPMAN. He could have a temporary restraining order, being a federal official without bond. He would only need to present to some federal judge that situation and the association would be prevented, on the issuance of that court order, ex parte instantly from doing any harm.

Judge ORR. He would have to go into the courts.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Some court, yes.

Judge HALL. He has the right to be sued, to sue and be sued?

Mr. CHAPMAN. The commissioner?

Judge HALL. Yes.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Yes, your Honor.

Now I would also like to suggest along that line—it may seem presumptious on my part—but this section that we have attacked certainly should be amended by congress. Congress thinks somewhat along that line, as they have conducted an investigation into this situation, and if this is declared unconstitutional I think we can confidentially predict that it will be replaced by a new section which does provide ample authority to protect against a wrongdoing association and also due process of law and protection to the innocent shareholders so that they won't go to bed one night with a 26 1116 million dollar association solvent and wake up next morning with it in the hands of the Government and nobody knows why or how. I think that there are remedies. I see your Honor's point very clearly, that complete license and freedom is not, on one hand, to be granted, nor should complete arbitrary and confiscatory powers to be exercised at the whim and pleasure of some official, as we have alleged here, maliciously and vindictively, be allowed to exist.

Of course the constitutionality of that act is the question before you, but I am going to the two sides as you have indicated. There will be in the interim, assuming this would be declared unconstitutional, there would be a short interim before congress did something about that, and in that period I don't see why the Government should feel so terribly aggrieved if they had to go to court and get a temporary restraining order, without bond and without notice, and let a judge pass on the things that they are complaining about rather than pass on it themselves and say that nobody can ever review what they have done.

Any other questions?

(No response.)

Mr. WALKER. Am I next in order, your Honors?

Judge HALL. Only plaintiffs and interpleaders have talked so far.

Judge ORR. Obviously you will not finish 1117 tonight, Mr. Walker, so I think perhaps we had better take a recess until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Judge HALL. How long will you be, Mr. Walker? Can you give us a suggestion of how long you will want?

Mr. WALKER. Well, your Honors, if the court limits my argument to the constitutional questions I think an hour and a half to two hours will be sufficient. Counsel on the other hand have wandered a bit afield and gone into the administrative hearing and some of the other features in the case. If I am compelled to answer and argue all of these matters, it will take three or four hours.

Judge ORR. On those matters, the only way we could consider that is just in determining that constitutional question.

Mr. WALKER. As it affects the constitutional question?

Judge ORR. Yes. If you want to answer and show where it doesn't?

Mr. WALKER. I think I can conclude tomorrow morning then between 10:00 and 12:00.

Judge ORR. We will be in recess then until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon, at 4:45 o'clock p.m., an adjournment was taken until 10:00 o'clock a.m., Tuesday, July 16, 1946.)

Mr. WALKER. Shall I proceed, your Honors?

Judge ORR. Yes.

Mr. WALKER: If the court please, there were certain arguments and statements of purported facts, which deal with innuendo, from counsel yesterday, which I feel in justice to the public officials here involved should be answered, and I should like to spend about five minutes of my allotted time in answering those comments, before I get on to the constitutional phases of the question here before us.

Mr. Chapman, in his purported argument which, in my opinion, consisted more of innuendo than points of law, dwelt at length on the accomplished merger of the Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles with the Home Loan Bank of Portland; that is, the two institutions were merged on March 29th, into the Home Loan Bank of San Francisco. Mr. Chapman made a great point of the fact that it does not come within the provisions of the act—the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, which is under discussion here. Also, he makes a great point of the fact that the regulations do not approve such a merger. He states that this one-man dictator, as he calls Mr. Fahey, overnight removes their property.

Well, that form of argument is rather typical, and for that reason I think I should answer it. The authority for that merger does not come under the Home Owners 1122 Loan Act at all. It comes directly under the provisions of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, an entirely separate act. I would like to read three portions of that act. Section 3:

"As soon as practicable the board shall divide the continental United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii into not less than eight nor more than twelve districts. Such districts shall be apportioned with due regard to the convenience and customary course of business."

There is more in the section. They could have from eight to twelve districts, and banks were formed. We turn to Section 25 of the same act, which reads as follows:

"Each Federal Home Loan Bank shall have succession until dissolved by the board under this chapter or by further Act of Congress."

Section 26:

"Whenever the board finds that the efficient and economical accomplishment of the purposes of this chapter will be aided by such action, and in accordance with such rules, regulations, and orders as the board may prescribe, any Federal Home Loan Bank may be liquidated or reorganized, and its stock paid off and retired in whole or in part in connection therewith after paying or 1123 making provisions for the payment of its liabilities. In the case of any such liquidation or reorganization, any other Federal Home Loan Bank may, with the approval of the board, acquire assets of any such liquidated or reorganized bank and assume liabilities thereof, in whole or in part."

1124 There is the authority for this act. It is not by regulation. It is by statute.

Judge Orr. I realize that you are answering the oral argument, but are we concerned w th that here, in a three-judge court?

Mr. Walker. Only in so far as the argument I felt yesterday might leave an erroneous impression in the minds of the court. I am merely trying to clarify it.

Judge Orr. I understand the purpose of your argument, but we don't have to pass upon that, do we? We don't have to pass upon the legality of that merger?

Mr. Walker. Not of that merger, no, although it is set up in the pleadings. Mr. Chapman also referred to certain congressional action.

Judge Orr. You make a note of that, gentlemen, and see if I am correct on that, or not.

Mr. Westover. That is correct. I don't mean to interrupt, but I think that was set up to show the reason for the fear of irreparable damage.

Judge Orr. You will have a chance to answer after Mr. Walker concludes.

1125 Mr. Walker. Mr. Chapman referred to certain congressional action. Now it is true a hearing was held before a special committee of the House of Representatives regarding the activities of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, but any reference to such proceedings here is purely evidentiary and has no part in this argument as to the legal status of the act or regulations. And when he predicts what course Congress might take following a ruling of this Court, he is straying too far afield as to the required comment. I thought I should refer to that.

But that is not all. Mr. Chapman has referred again and again to—and I am trying to use his terms—the unwarranted seizure of our property. In this connection, it is a little difficult for me to know just whom Mr. Chapman represents in this action.

The pleadings show that he purports at least to represent the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, but his comments indicate to me that he actually represents the deposed board of directors and officers. And, incidentally, that group is apart from the association, that is, the association as an entity. I am rather of the opinion that the deposed board of directors and officers compose another group in some sort of an entity.

But again let me repeat, whose property has been seized?

There has been no seizure in the sense that anyone 1126 has been deprived of any property. The conservator was appointed for the purpose of preserving the assets for the benefit of the shareholders. That is the way the order reads.

This is a mutual institution. It doesn't belong to a board of directors or to the officers, and they cannot come in this court and say "our property has been seized."

The property belonged to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association prior to the time the conservator took charge and the property still belong to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association or its shareholders. There has been no change in ownership, only management.

He stated—and this was a gross misstatement—that the association had been closed. It has never been closed, not for five minutes. The conservator opened the doors of the institution at 10:00 o'clock on Monday, May 20th, and the institution has been running ever since.

He has referred to runs which he says are wrecking the institution, or depleting its assets, but the withdrawal of funds are not funds of the association, they are not funds of the officers and directors, they are funds of the shareholders which they have the right to withdraw. And there have been heavy withdrawals, but it is money to which the shareholders are entitled.

Notwithstanding these withdrawals, the surplus of the institution has not been depleted but has actually 1127 been increased by normal payments into the reserve. Semi-annual dividends at the rate of 2½ per cent per annum was paid or credited to the accounts of the shareholders on July 1st while the conservator was in.

He has referred to the seizure of the association as destroying the institution. It isn't destroying anything, it is simply conserving it until further proceedings can be taken.

Judge ORR. How do you explain that? The reduction of the assets or the deposits from 26 million dollars down to 7 million dollars or 8 million dollars, what effect did that have by reason of your being held by a conservator?

Mr. WALKER. The assets, as you call them, have not been reduced to 8 million dollars. There have been about 8 million dollars in withdrawals.

Judge ORR. About 8 million dollars in withdrawals?

Mr. WALKER. Of withdrawals.

Judge ORR. I see.

Mr. WALKER. Perhaps I should call attention to the difference between the old guaranteed and state chartered building and loan associations and to this type of an institution. The state chartered institution is owned by its stockholders, usually a small group of the directors and officers. They are required to make a substantial investment in that to meet the guarantee provisions 1128 required by the state laws. Depositors in those institutions receive something, I believe it is called a certificate of investment, with rights of withdrawal and a right against stockholders on the guarantee.

But this institution is entirely different. It is a mutual institution and, as I recall, the act says it shall be for the purpose of promoting and insuring long-time financing of homes, and so forth. It is a mutual institution. A depositor—I should avoid that term—nevertheless one who deposits funds in this type of an association, the federal association, becomes immediately a shareholder in the association. Now he can leave his money there, he can receive his dividends or he can withdraw it at any time.

Now true the capital available for investment perhaps has been reduced by withdrawals, and yet the exercise of that right of withdrawal, or the right of withdrawal itself, has not been changed in the slightest by the appointment of the conservator. The shareholders are simply exercising the rights which they had before and which they had afterwards.

Judge HALL. How does this institution make its profit?

Mr. WALKER. By loans.

Judge HALL. By loaning money?

Mr. WALKER. By loaning money; that is right.

Judge HALL. So they have 8 million dollars less to loan now?

Mr. WALKER. That is right.

1129 I was also somewhat amused when Mr. Wallace made such a point of the fact that the Title Service Company, for whom he supposedly speaks, received no notice of the administrative hearing. I do not wish to be led in my strong feeling on this matter to the position taken by other counsel in testifying in the case, but it is a matter of common knowledge to all of us that the officers and directors of the Title Service Company are identical with the former officers and directors of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. The notices in each case, both of the appointment of the conservator and of the administrative hearing, went to Mr. Gregory, who was the president of both institutions, so while he is making a point of notice, it is not very persuasive.

Mr. WALLACE. Pardone me, counsel. May I cite that as a misstatement of fact. Mr. Gregory is not the identical officer in each of the organizations, and wasn't:

Mr. WALKER. I am sorry if I misstated it.

Mr. WALLACE. He is an officer of both.

Mr. WALKER. The board, however, is identical. I want to be corrected.

Mr. WALLACE. No, it is not, as far as the respective officers are concerned.

Mr. WALKER. But Mr. Gregory is an officer.

Mr. WALLACE. He is an officer of both boards; yes.

Mr. WALKER. I am sorry if I misled the Court.

1130 I didn't mean to do it intentionally.

Mr. Wallace also stated that the shareholders did not receive notice of the administrative hearing. Well, now, the commissioner doesn't have a list of the names and addresses of all the shareholders. They are constantly changing. Certainly the commissioner is not put to the duty of ascertaining, purely on speculation, all who might have an interest in an administrative hearing and give them actual notice. Constructive notice was given by publication in the Federal Register and a lot more actual notice has been given by proceedings here.

Now there are a few more points raised by counsel which do not affect the unconstitutionality of the act but I would like to say to the Court, and also for the benefit of the many people in the courtroom, many of whom are obviously shareholders in the institution, that the institution is solvent. There has never been any question of that at all. Shareholders are not going to lose any money, whether they leave it in the institution or take it out, whether the institution continues to operate or whether it liquidates. The shareholders are protected.

Now counsel charges that the action of the Government agents have started runs on the association. A glance at the withdrawal records of the institution will show that there have been two or three successive 1131 runs which have been followed directly from inflammatory propaganda that was put out by the officers of the committee or former officers and directors. This is innuendo, I know on my part, and I shouldn't have intimated it.

Mr. WESTOVER. I would like to recite in the record that the Shareholders Committee has not put out any propaganda, and I do cite counsel's statement is misconduct.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I would also like to state, your Honor—

Judge ORR. Gentlemen, we have been rather lenient here allowing answers to statements, but we are not concerned with those situations to which you are now addressing the Court.

Judge HALL. Let us find out what the law is, what you contend it is.

Mr. WALKER. I will be very happy to put aside any further comments and get down to the law.

Judge ORR. If counsel will confine himself to that, the Court will be very happy also.

Mr. WALKER. Since it is the first duty of any Federal Court to inquire into its jurisdiction, I know that the Court will not be offended when I suggest that there may not be jurisdiction here for a three-judge court.

My point is this, the Home Owners Loan Act, which is involved here, is not itself implementing at all. Section 5 of the act which was discussed yesterday, Section 5(d), merely permits the board to provide rules and 1132 regulations which permits the formation, the chartering, the operation, the control, of the federal savings and loan associations.

So my point is based on this in law, that it is the operation of the regulations which plaintiffs seek to restrain, not the operation of the act itself. I will refer to the act, if I may be allowed a minute to find it, your Honors.

Reading Section 380 (a):

"No interlocutory or permanent injunction suspending or restraining the enforcement, operation, execution of or setting aside in whole or in part any act of Congress."

Now I don't believe here that the injunction suspends or restrains the enforcement, the operation, the execution of or setting aside any act of Congress. It does have precisely that effect upon the regulations that are issued pursuant to the act.

Now there is some authority, and I would refer the Court to my memorandum in opposition to the motion for a preliminary injunction.

JUDGE HALL. Is that different from your points and authorities in support of the motion to dismiss?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, it is. It deals with the constitutionality of the act. On page 5 of that memorandum I have set out a little more in detail my reasons and the authorities.

1133 Mr. WALKER. The case of Jameson v. Morganthau, cited on page 6 of the memorandum, 307 U. S. 171, a citation which I have given, seems to preclude a three-man court from sitting in a case of this nature, where its regulations, not the act itself, is under attack.

Judge ORR. What case is that, Mr. Walker?

Mr. WALKER. Pages 5 and 6 of my memorandum in opposition to the temporary injunction.

Judge HALL. Wm. Jameson Co. v. Morganthau?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, your Honor.

Judge HALL. I don't think there is any question but what a three-judge court has jurisdiction to sit in a case involving the regulations. Counsel's whole argument has been addressed to the invalidity of the law. So I don't understand your point.

Mr. WALKER. It is true they attack the invalidity of the law, and the undue delegation of legislative authority, but they seek to restrain something, and the jurisdiction of the court can only be based upon Section 380a, which refers to the restraint of the operation or effect of a statute.

Judge HALL. Did not the Conesrvator take the position under Section 5 of the Home Owners Loan Act?

Mr. WALKER. Of the regulation issued pursuant to Section 5.

Judge HALL. Section 5 is the statutory source?

1134 Mr. WALKER. It is the statutory source, but it in itself is not self-operating. That is the only point I make, to bring it to your consideration, but surely none of us want the case to go to the Supreme Court and then come back to the District Court simply on the sole ground that there might not be jurisdiction in a three-judge court. I don't want to press the point too strongly.

Judge HALL. Every act done by a public official is done under some statute. Here they are attacking the source of his power, which is the statute.

Mr. WALKER. Legally, there is no question that the source of that power could be attacked in a one-man court, unless it comes under the provisions of Section 380a.

Judge HALL. They can't attack the validity of the regulation. They can attack the validity of the act, assuming the validity of the regulation, and assuming the validity of the law.

Mr. WALKER. I simply urge that under the provisions of Section 380a no injunction shall issue suspending, restraining the enforcement, operation or execution and setting aside of any act of Congress.

Judge HALL. Let me see if I understand you. Do you maintain that the Conservator would have power to have done what he did do without Section 5 (d)?

Mr. WALKER. His authority derived from Section 5 (d), but it is specific.

1135 Judge HALL. If there were no 5 (d) then he would have no power to do what he did?

Mr. WALKER. If it were not for 5 (d) the Board could not set up regulations which empowered him to do what he did.

Judge HALL. If 5 (d) is unconstitutional?

Mr. WALKER. If 5 (d) is unconstitutional it falls; his authority fails.

Judge ORR. The appointment of the Conservator is under this act, and the only power that is given for that appointment is in Section 380a. There is no regulation. The authority for the appointment of the Conservator is not found in any regulation. That must be found in the statute itself. So the object is to restrain the Conservator from taking over this property. The Conservator, if he is illegally appointed,—you can't restrain him. So you have got to go to the source and determine whether or not there exists legislative authority for the appointment of this Conservator, and that must be found in the statute. The Conservator himself is not a creature of any regulation; he is a creature of the statute; and unless that statute is unconstitutional, his appointment is legal, and he can't be restrained.

Mr. WALKER. Unless counsel might succeed in their position that it amounts to seizure of property, and due process.

Judge ORR. That is the only situation that ties in with the proposition of this appointment. The statute 1136 provides a method of the appointment, and the legality of it; but they say it is an unconstitutional delegation of authority, because of the fact that it provides no method for due process. So you must first determine whether under that statute, authorizing the appointment of the Conservator who has taken over the business, it is an illegal appointment or not. So it comes back to the proposition of the determination of the constitutionality of the statute, as I see it.

Mr. WALKER. I hope it does. I merely want to suggest that there might be a question on the point.

Judge ORR. That is the general proposition of the appointment of the Conservator. If it would be under the regulation, that would be a different thing; but here the commissioner has acted under the authority of this statute to appoint a conservator. No other authority exists, does it?

Mr. WALKER. I wonder? Section 5 (d) gives the Board or commissioner power to promulgate regulations which, among other things, includes the regulation to appoint a conservator.

Judge ORR. Those are regulations carrying out the provisions of the act.

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

Judge ORR. Where do you find authority for the appointment of the Conservator unless you go to Section 5? Say, for instance, Section 5 were not existant. You could not argue that the commissioner is given the 1137 right to appoint a conservator, could you?

Mr. WALKER. He certainly could not, if Section 5 were not existant. There wouldn't be any Federal Loan Association; there would be no framework; no power to create a framework under which there could be an appointment made. The only point is, it is given power to promulgate regulations, and it is the operation of the regulations which derives it source from the action. It is the operation of the regulation which appoints a conservator; not the operation of the act.

Judge ORR. It is the operation of a regulation perhaps which defines his actions. The appointment is in the operation of the statute itself. That is the authority to appoint, which must be found in the statute itself.

Judge HALL. Whatever vitality the regulation has it gets it from Section 5 (d).

Mr. WALKER. It certainly does.

Judge HALL. The statute appointing the United States Attorney is not operative by itself, either.

Mr. WALKER. That is right. I think we are ready to proceed, then, to the question of the constitutionality of the act itself, as point 1, as opposed to the constitutionality of the regulations. I will try and argue one at a time, and not both.

Judge HALL. I think the court indicated yesterday that we would not consider arguments on the constitutionality of the regulations.

1138 Mr. WALKER. Very well, your Honor. Does the court care, however, to hear argument on the question of estoppel?

Judge ORR. Yes, I suppose we would have to consider that.

Mr. WALKER. First, then, let me take up the constitutionality of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933 as a valid delegation of legislative power. There is no quarrel particularly with the cases which counsel has cited. They lay great stress on the Schecter case, 295 U. S., 495 in holding the International Recovery Act invalid and unconstitutional. I will read a short quotation from the court:

"It supplies no standards for any trade, industry or activity. It does not undertake to prescribe rules of conduct to be applied to particular states of facts determined by appropriate administrative procedure. Instead of prescribing rules of conduct, it authorizes the making of codes to prescribe them. For that legislative undertaking, Section 3 sets up no standards, aside from the statement of the general aims of rehabilitation, correction and expansion described in Section One. In view of the scope of that broad declaration, and of the nature of the few restrictions that are imposed, the discretion of the President in approving or prescribing codes, and thus enacting laws for the government of trade and industry throughout the country, is virtually unfettered."

1139 I like Mr. Justice Cardozo's phrase, in his concurring opinion, wherein he states the rule that the canalized authority must be within banks to keep it from overflowing. It is our position that this fact does so canalize that authority. I think the Schechter case rule well stated it. Certainly under the law it does not apply to the act.

Another case cited by counsel is Panama Refining Company v. Ryan, 293 U. S., 388. There the court held that Section 9 (c), the N.I.R.A. was void, because it delegated legislative authority to the President. The section involved states:

"The President is authorized to prohibit the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of petroleum and products thereof produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted to be produced or withdrawn from storage by any state law." The court said:

"It" referring to the statute "does not qualify the President's authority by reference to the basis, or extent, of the State's limitation of production. Section 9 (c) does not state whether, or in what circumstances or under what conditions, the President is to prohibit the transportation of the amount of petroleum or petroleum products produced in excess of the State's permission. It establishes no criterion to govern the President's course. It does not require any finding by the President as a condition 1140 of his action. The congress in Sec. 9 (c) thus declares no policy as to the transportation of the excess production." But there is one paragraph which is very helpful here:

"We examine the context" referring to the entire act, "to ascertain if it furnishes a declaration of policy or a standard of action, which can be deemed to relate to the subject of Sec. 9 (c) and thus to imply what is not there expressed."

Section 5 does state a policy; it does provide guides governing the board's rule-making power. Let us refer to the act referring to the standards or guides.

Judge HALL. By the way, counsel, did you get any more pamphlet copies?

Mr. WALKER. I did not. I will try to have some for your Honors. If the court has seen the pamphlet I have in my hand, Section 5, found on page 30——

Judge HALL. Yes. This is the same one.

Mr. WALKER. I would like to go over the first six subdivisions of Section 5. Section 5 (a):

"In order to provide local mutual thrift institutions in which people may invest their funds and in order to provide for the financing of homes, the Board is authorized, under such rules and regulations as it may prescribe,"—now comes the standard and guide—"to provide for the organization, incorporation, examination, operation, and regulation of associations to be known as 1141 'Federal Savings and Loan Associations,' and to issue charters therefor, giving primary consideration to the best practises of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States."

There is guide No. 1: The best practises of local institutions throughout the United States. And, incidentally, the local state statute here does provide for the appointment of a conservator without notice, subject to certain conditions.

"(b) Such associations shall raise their capital only in the form of payments on such shares as are authorized in their charter, which shares may be retired as is therein provided."—That is some control over the shares.—"No deposits shall be accepted and no certificates of indebtedness shall be issued except for such borrowed money as may be authorized by regulations of the Board."

That is probably not as important, I think, as Section (c):

"Such associations shall lend their funds only on the security of their shares or on the security of first liens upon homes or combination of homes and business property within fifty miles of their home office: Provided, That not more than $20,000 shall be loaned on the security of the first lien upon any one such property; except that not exceeding 15 percentum of the assets of such association may be loaned on other improved real estate without regard to said $20,000 limitation, and without regard to said fifty-mile limit, but secured by first lien thereon:" Certainly that is a limitation on the regulation.—"And provided further, That any portion of the assets of such associations may be invested in obligations of the United States or the stock or bonds of a Federal Home Loan Bank: And provided further, That any such association which is converted from a State-chartered institution may continue to make loans in the territory in which it made loans while operating under State charter."

That again does not deal directly with the standard; but (d) does:

"The Board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations herein authorized for the reorganization, consolidation, merger or liquidation of such associations, including the power to appoint a conservator or receiver to take charge of the affairs of any such association, and to require an equitable readjustment of the capital structure of the same; and to release any such association from such control and permit its further operation."

1143 Now (e) reads:

"No charter shall be granted except to persons of good character and responsibility, nor unless in the judgment of the board a necessity exists for such an institution in the community to be served, now unless there is a reasonable probability of its usefulness and success, nor unless the same can be established without undue injury to properly constructed existing local thrift and home-financing institutions."

Here I might point out that Section (e) also, by implication, provides for the converse of those things.

Judge HALL. In other words, you contend these are guides set forth in the act canalizing the authority to appoint a conservator? Is that your position?

Mr. WALKER. Canalizing the authority of the board in general to make regulations, including that of a conservator; yes.

Judge HALL. Let me put it this way then: Under (d), "the board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations herein authorized for the reorganization, consolidation, merger * * * including the power to appoint a conservator or a receiver * * *" Now in order to do that, is it your position that the board shall do that only if it is persons not of good character 1144 and responsibility, if no necessity further exists for an institution of this type in the community, or if the reasonable probability of its usefulness and success has disappeared in the community, or if there is undue injury to any other institution by continuing this? That would be the converse of what you stated.

Mr. WALKER. No. May I disagree?

Judge HALL. Explain it to me.

Mr. WALKER. I will.

Section (e) provides for the issuance of a charter.

Judge HALL. Yes.

Mr. WALKER. The appointment of a conservator does not cancel the charter.

Judge HALL. I quite understand that. But you were just saying that these were guides set forth by Congress in the act which was to guide the board in making rules and regulations.

Mr. WALKER. Well, they are guides in a sense.

Judge HALL. But now the rule and regulation here which they are complaining about, or the act and conduct derives from this section which authorizes them to merge, liquidate and conserve by the appointment of somebody. Is this a guide for that conduct?

Mr. WALKER. Your Honor, I was just speaking generally.

Judge HALL. All right.

Mr. WALKER. As to the guides and standards set up for different functions of the regulations, Section (e) provides for the chartering and I referred to the converse, that they would not do the reverse of Section (e) in issuing charters. 1145

Judge HALL. Well, we are particularly interested in what guides there are for rules and regulations which permit mergers and the appointment of a conservator, and so forth.

Mr. WALKER. I think there we have to go back to Section 5(a), "* * * to issue charges therefor, giving primary consideration to the best practises of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States."

Judge HALL. That is the sole guide then?

Mr. WALKER. That is the sole one that occurs to me at the moment.

Judge HALL. That is the sole guide for all the powers conferred by Section 5(d)?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, I think it is.

Judge HALL. Very well.

Mr. WALKER. If we limit those standards and guides to the one point.

Judge HALL. Then the question is whether or not that is a sufficient standard and guide to meet the tests set out in the Schecter case, the Panama case and the other cases concerning Government seizure of property.

Mr. WALKER. Yes. And there is a state case which is at least close, the case of Veix v. Seneca Building and Loan Association of Newark. 1146

Judge HALL. Is that in your memorandum?

Mr. WALKER. No, it is not, your Honor.

I am corrected. It is apparently in our memorandum. It is also in counsel's memorandum.

Judge HALL. What is the citation again?

Mr. WALKER. Veix v. Seneca Building and Loan Association of Newark, 19 Atlantic (2d) page 219.

May I confer with counsel for a moment?

Judge HALL. I want to go back a minute to your standard that you mentioned.

The statute would then read, interpolating the standard, that the board shall have full power to provide in rules and regulations for including the power to appoint a conservator or receiver to take charge of the affairs of such association if, in the opinion of the board, the best practices of local mutual thrift and home-financing institutions in the United States require it?

Mr. WALKER. I think that is a correct statement.

Judge HALL. All right.

Mr. WALKER. I refer to the Veix case, and I hope I am pronouncing that name right, only because of the very——

Judge ORR. Pardon me. I do not want to interrupt you too much, but I just do not understand your statement there. You say that that lays down a standard 1147 under which the conservator can be appointed. Is that the only one that we must look to?

Mr. WALKER. Apparently that is the only standard which would apply to the particular paragraph permitting the appointment of a conservator. The other standards and guides deal with other phases of the regulations.

Judge ORR. Do you urge here that the best practices of this locality is for some commissioner to appoint a conservator to go in and take charge of an institution, oust its board of directors without any notice or any hearing, or any chance to appeal to the courts, when it is solvent?

Mr. WALKER. My understanding is that that is the local rule.

Judge ORR. You think that is the local rule?

Mr. WALKER. That is my understanding of it.

Judge ORR. I am surprised.

Mr. WALKER. The conservator may be appointed. There is a judicial review permitted from that order of appointment. But no prior notice, due process can follow the act as well as precede it.

Judge ORR. I understand that, but there must be following an order to permit due process, and there there isn't either under the position which you have taken.

Mr. WALKER. Yes, your Honor. It is my position that the administrative hearing provides due process.
1148 That was given on notice. All interested parties may appear and show cause why the conservator should not be removed.

Judge ORR. However, it stops there. There is no provision for any recourse to the courts or any other tribunal.

Mr. WALKER. No express provisions except it is inherent in the act itself, that if the act of the hearing officer or his higher-ups be arbitrary, capricious, or unlawful of course they may be removed. But where the discretionary power is delegated by Congress to an administrator and his discretion is involved, then I believe the general rule is that the Court will not substitute its judgment for the judgment exercised by the administrator.

Judge ORR. I think that is the general rule on all of these commissions, of acting within their constitutional authority and they are given a certain discretion, and if they act within that discretion of course they will not be disturbed. Is that the idea?

Mr. WALKER. That is the idea.

Judge ORR. I think that is right.

Mr. WALKER. Now if I may refer here just for a moment to this Veix case, it is interesting in that the standard here is so very narrow. On page 223 and the top of page 224, referring to the appointment of a conservator, it states:

"But the order when so made by the commissioner must in accordance with the express intention of 1149 statute be made 'for the purpose of conserving the assets of the building and loan associations of the state.'"

That was an emergency statute in New Jersey and that was the only standard that was set up, and that by the state court was held to be sufficient.

Judge HALL. Is there a similar standard here in this act?

Mr. WALKER. You are referring now to the state act?

Judge HALL. I am referring to the act here under consideration in this case. Is there anything in this act which says that they shall appoint a conservator to conserve the assets in the interests of the stockholders?

Mr. Walker. We will have to look at Section 5(d) again. I cannot stretch it any further than it goes.

Judge Hall. I see.

Mr. Walker. The board shall have full power to provide in the rules and regulations herein authorized for the reorganization, consolidation, merger or liquidation of such associations, including the power to appoint a conservator or a receiver to take charge of the affairs of any such association.

Now what would that conservator be appointed for? It would not be for the liquidation. Actually under the regulations the conservator has no power to merge.

1150 I believe there is something that he may recommend or suggest a merger. He has no power to consolidate, but the only thing which a conservator could do under 5(d) would be to conserve the assets of the corporation. It is implied in the name itself. He does that pending some reorganization, consolidation, merger, etc.

Judge Hall. Why? Is it because the wind is blowing today from the north or because the company is not solvent or because there is a run on the bank or because they have made some bad loans? What is the reason?

Mr. Walker. I will have to go outside the statute for what I want to say, if I may be permitted to digress here.

I have already stated that this corporation is solvent. Now a corporation may be as solvent as the Bank of England, if it still is solvent—and it should be after this British loan—a corporation might be entirely solvent and yet its officers and directors might be acting in an unlawful or unauthorized manner. I don't make any specific charges here whatever, I don't intend to, but suppose that the Bank of America, a tremendously large institution, that some officer might be taking $10,000 a day out of there and it wouldn't render it insolvent: That surely is not a requisite of the appointment of a conservator.

Judge Hall. Would you maintain that a comptroller of the currency would be justified in appointing a 1151 receiver or conservator for the Bank of America if some officer was taking $10,000 a day out of there?

Mr. Walker. Conceivably a situation might exist, if it was the right officer.

Judge HALL. Would it make a difference which officer it was?

Mr. WALKER. I think it would.

Judge HALL. Or who it was?

Mr. WALKER. If it was a teller; it certainly wouldn't affect the entire policy of the organization, but if it were the president, who might be in the position to cover up those unlawful withdrawals, and who had authority over everyone else in the bank, it certainly would make a difference. It would to me if I were in that position.

Now bear in mind again——

Judge HALL. Of course you do concede that it is a rather sharp movement, to say the least, to oust the management of any financial institution and put someone in, oust them completely.

Mr. WALKER. I grant you that it is a sharp move, and when the order of appointment was made it was made because of facts developed in a regular and annual examination conducted two days before. They didn't want to appoint a conservator because they knew that this cry of reprisal would be raised, as it has been, 1152 and yet these officials believed, felt and discussed that they would be derelict in their duty if they did not. But I am going outside of the record. I don't want to.

Judge HALL. Part of that is in the record.

Mr. WALKER. The reprisal is, at any rate
1153 What action might justify the appointment of a conservator? I think we can first say that insolvency is not a necessary requisite. Now I will get to another point.

We must bear in mind that under the regulations there is a close supervisory function in the administration over these institutions, just as there is over national banks. That is the relationship of these associations to the Federal Home Loan Bank is very closely analogous to the relationship between the national banks and the Federal Reserve Bank, and we have bank examiners and we have examiners who conduct regular inquiries over the affairs of these associations. They have not only a close supervisory function, but they have a very definite public duty to protect the shareholders in these mutual institutions.

Now insolvency is not a prerequisite, and I don't know if I can say exactly what is except that if in the opinion of the responsible officials certain acts are brought to light which necessitate immediate and summary action, they would be very derelict in their duty if they did not perform such action.

Judge HALL. Those acts would have to have some reasonable relationship to the safety of the institution, wouldn't they?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, and that would be determined on whether or not—I mean, that would contribute to whether their acts were arbitrary or capricious or based upon a reasonable conclusion drawn from the facts available. We are inevitably, I presume, led in this argument into 1154 the question of due process, that due process can follow the act of appointment as well as precede it, and I have numerous authorities in my memorandum here supporting that general position.

Judge ORR. I think that is very pertinent. Your statement there is very pertinent. That is the thing we have to look to. The due process might follow as well as precede. I think your observation there is pertinent.

Mr. WALKER. If we accept that for the purpose of argument, then as a premise that due process may follow, it is our position that entire due process is permitted under the regulations in this administrative hearing. I am compelled to stray further and further away from the point here, but I think it is pertinent too, your Honor. Two or three parties now are attempting to restrain that administrative hearing. The association itself requested it and now they seek to restrain it, but they refuse to withdraw their request for such an administrative hearing. It is a rather equivocal position.

Nevertheless, due process is preserved by that administrative hearing. Whether we agree with the principle of administrative hearings of this type or not, they have been recognized. True, there is a new administrative hearing rule which becomes effective in a couple of months which will change it. Nevertheless it doesn't stop proceeding at this time under the regulations now affected. Notice is given, all parties interested may appear.
1155 What is the effect of it? Either the deposed officers and directors show that there is nothing to the charges made, that the facts were erroneous, and if they do that they return to office. If, on the other hand, the charges made against them are sustained, the association isn't merged, it isn't consolidated. Those assets aren't taken out on this route to San Francisco, to Maryland, to Washington. They simply elect a new board of directors and that is all that happens.

Since I am going into this question of an administrative hearing——

Judge ORR. Before you get away from that point, if I may ask you this question. I think it is the contention of opposing counsel that whether due process precede or follow, the previsions for the due process must be found within the statute.

Mr. WALKER. And not in the regulations?

Judge ORR. And not in the regulations. Unless the statute itself makes provision for the due process, then it is unconstitutional.

We will take a recess for about 10 minutes.

(Short recess.)

Judge HALE. Thank you for these copies of the act, counsel.

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

The question was asked whether the existence
1156 of due process appeared in the face of the act, that is, regarding administrative hearings and notices. I do not believe that it does, but very definitely do those provisions and entire due process is provided by the regulations promulgated pursuant to the act.

Now there are many cases holding that those regulations, duly promulgated, have the force and effect of law. I have no specific authority to the effect that the face of due process appearing in the regulation supplants or provides or may be missing from the act, but it is my position that it does, that the regulations have the full effect of the law itself and do provide due process.

Now I would like to back up on one statement which I made, and that is that the best practises of local mutual thrift, and so forth, home-financing institutions of the United States is the only guide toward the appointment of a conservator. I think the act necessarily must be construed as a whole, and I think the limitations and the guides put upon various other acts, the granting of the charter, the purposes for which the associations are formed, all of those provide standards which must be considered by the administrator in appointing a conservator.

Take, for instance, Section (e), where it states that no charter shall be granted except to persons of good character and responsibility. Now suppose that Al 1157 Capone became a principal stockholder or shareholder in this institution and became one of the officers and directors. Certainly some action would be indicated on the part of the administrator. Suppose the directors were making loans far in excess of the statutory limitations. The administrator is not compelled to sit back until the shareholders' investment there is milked. Summary action often is necessary.

In this I think we should bear in mind that these institutions are composed of thousands of small shareholders. It is a thrift institution. It is a small savings institution. The government, through the third companion act covering the insurance accounts, insures their investment up to $5,000. Therefore the administrator not only has a definite fiduciary duty toward the shareholders but he has a very strong public duty to protect the insurance feature.

Judge HALL. In that act, however, counsel, it provides for the appointment of a conservator, doesn't it, on page 42, Section 406?

Mr. WALKER. I believe it does.

Judge HALL. In the event that a federal savings and loan association—that is what this Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association was, isn't that right?

Mr. WALKER. Yes

Judge HALL. Is in default, there is a standard—the corporation shall be appointed as conservator or 1158 receiver and is authorized to do such and such.

Mr. WALKER. May I ask what paragraph the court is reading from?

Judge HALL. That is page 42 of the pamphlet which you handed us, Section 406 (b) of the insurance of Savings and Loan Accounts Act.

Do you have the page?

Mr. WALKER. Yes, I have it.

Judge HALL. Is your paging the same as mine?

Mr. WALKER. The paging is the same in the pamphlet; yes.

Judge HALL. So that is taken care of outside of the Home Owners Loan Act and outside of this section obviously under which action was taken here because the corporation was not appointed conservator.

Mr. WALKER. Very true, but if read the heading immediately above Section 406 it covers only liquidation. Now this institution is not in the process of liquidation. There is no reason here to appoint the insurance corporation as conservator.

That is the only answer I can give you on that. It is not yet in the stage where that provision must be applied. Nevertheless the duty of protecting the institution from getting in that shape does exist in the administrator.

1159 Judge HALL. Subdivision (c) further provides, in the event any insured institution, other than a Federal Savings and Loan Association, is in default, the corporation shall have authority to act as conservator, receiver, or other legal custodian of such insured institution, and the services of the corporation are hereby tendered to the court. And obviously they intended that a court should appoint in a liquidation proceeding.

Mr. WALKER. Certainly, there can be liquidation proceedings through court process. Does the court care to direct my remarks to any particular phase of this? I am about running out of ammunition.

Judge HALL. You have filed a motion to dismiss on the ground of lack of jurisdiction?

Mr. WALKER. Yes.

Judge HALL. And on the ground that Fahey was a necessary party?

Mr. WALKER. An indispensable party.

Judge HALL. An indispensable party, rather. You have been addressing your remarks to your motion to dismiss, have you?

Mr. WALKER. I hope so, your Honor. I am trying to review what has occurred here. First, we were asked to address them to the jurisdiction of the court to sit; then it went to constitutional phases. I shall be 1160 glad to consider my remarks as addressed to the motion to dismiss.

Judge ORR. It all comes back to the proposition of the constitutionality of that statute. Is that the way you understand it? Here we are just concerned with the constitutionality of that statute at this time.

Mr. WALKER. That is correct, your Honor.

Judge HALL. In your motion to dismiss on the ground that Fahey is an indispensable party, and could not be joined in this district in this action, you assert the right to present that motion regardless of whether we are only considering the constitutionality of the statute, or in view of the announcement by the presiding judge that we are limiting the consideration to the constitutionality of the statute, you are abandoning your motion on the ground that he is an indispensable party?

Mr. WALKER. I would like to do neither, your Honor. I would like to defer the argument on it, reserving my point until the court has ruled on the constitutional provision.

Judge HALL. If Fahey is an indispensable party to this suit, doesn't that go to our jurisdiction?

Mr. WALKER. Not so far as the constituti-nal question goes, under the authority of the Nehr decision. I want to preserve my position.

Judge HALL. I understand. In other words, you do not press your motion to dismiss on the ground of an indispensable party, in opposition—— 1161 Mr. WALKER. To the constitutional question.

In closing I can only say that several times in the history of this country we have had deplorable instances of the failure of the old thrift institutions. I think that is where the term "thrift" came into this statute, from the guarantee savings and loan associations. We have had some notable examples of that in this State. I think that is the reason why congress put into the act phrasing referring to the best practises within the several states, to avoid that previous situation which had arisen several times.

We look to that history to see the complete need of a close supervisory function maintained over those associations. That is the real issue here: Is the control going to continue, or are the gates going to be opened and the directors and officers of the association permitted to operate without supervision and control, or run wild as they have done before?

Unless the court has further questions, I will rest.

Judge ORR. That is all, Mr. Walker. Do you gentlemen want to answer?

Mr. WALKER. If the court please, I don't think I discussed the question of estoppel. My points on that are all set out in the memorandum. I will submit it on the memorandum, if that is agreeable to the court.

Judge ORR. You will have the opportunity to do that, if you desire, now.

1162 Mr. WALKER. The discussion is found on page 10 of our same memorandum in opposition to the temporary injunction. The affidavit, I believe of J. Francis Moore, shows that the char[redacted] I believe there was charter E, and later charter K issued to this association. That affidavit sets out rules and regulations which were in effect at the time the association had done business, for some 13 or 14 years, and it has accepted all of the benefits of the act, including the use of the word "Federal" in its advertising; its insurance provisions; in the selecting of shareholders' investments; and has submitted, during a part of that time to the limitation put on its activities.

It is the position of the government now that they are estopped from denying the constitutionality of the act. There is considerable authority to support that position. I have cited it, beginning on page 10 of the memorandum, and I believe there is no necessity in prolonging the argument, or amplifying it, unless the court has some questions which they wish to direct.

Judge HALL. No, there seems to be some authorities not entirely consistent with each other cited in the various briefs. You maintain that the question of estoppel applies alike to the plaintiffs here and the shareholders?

Mr. WALKER. Their action is only derivative, your Honor. There are authorities set out in my mem-1163 orandum to that effect.

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honors please, before proceeding to answer counsel's argument directly, I would like to make one or two little corrections that I believe should be brought out to your Honors.

First of all, in the affidavit that counsel speaks of, by Mr. Moore, he sets forth the rules and regulations on page 3 of the affidavit, which rules and regulations were, of course, not the rules and regulations of that particular subject matter at the time of the seizure. These were rules and regulations that had been abrogated and changed by the commissioner after his appointment as a one-man board.

Since that came to my attention, I have only had an opportunity to get a certified copy of the actual rules and regulations in existence. I am speaking now of the subject of the hearings at the time of the seizure. I have this photographic copy, and would appreciate it if your Honors indulged me in reading them to you; the particular point I am making is that under the older rules and regulations notice had to be given, under the commissioner's own rules and regulations, to shareholders, borrowers, and creditors of the association, sent by mail to their last address, as shown on the books of the corporation. Under the present Fahey-adopted rules and regulations on that particular point, which were adopted August 15, 1943, reading from Title VI of the Federal 1164 Register, Section 206.2:

"Hearing on Appointment. Within fourteen days (Sundays and holidays included) after the appointment of a conservator or receiver for a Federal association not at the time of such appointment in the hands of a conservator, such Federal association, which has not, by its board of directors, consented to or requested the appointment of a conservator or receiver, may file an answer and serve a written demand for a hearing, authorized by its board of directors, which demand shall state the address to which notice of hearing shall be sent. Upon receipt of such answer and written demand for a hearing the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration shall issue and serve a notice of hearing upon the institution by mailing a copy of the order of hearing to the address stated in the demand therefor and shall conduct a hearing, at which time and place the Federal association may appear and show cause why the conservator or receiver should not have been appointed and why an order should be entered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration discharging the conservator or receiver."

The regulations go on from there, but that is all that deals with notice. I call your attention particularly to the fact that no notice is to be mailed to any of the 1165 shareholder members, stockholders or creditors of the association. I simply point that out because of statements which have been made that these regulations had been made. We want to back up our statement. I will be happy to file the photographic copy, or if your Honors care to look at it it is in the Federal Register.

Addressing ourselves primarily, in rebuttal, first to some of the points that counsel has made, I will try to review them briefly; then I would like the privilege of reading to your Honors one or two of the acts of which your Honors asked us for yesterday, in reference to what criteria had been set forth in the act and found to be sufficient, and what had been set forth in an act and found to be insufficient.

First, addressing myself to counsel's arguments that guides, which, of course, I agree with him, must be found specifically in the section itself, we submit, if your Honors please that the statement in Section 5a of 1464, as to the best local practise, constitutes a sufficient and adequate guide, and is really the only guide in reference to conservators, mergers, and so forth, which has been pointed out.

The guides as to the lending of funds I submit have nothing to do, and are not applicable to the appointment of a conservator, or mergers. The guides suggested as to investments in bonds, under Subdivision (c), Section 1464, obviously are not applicable as a measure of when a 1166 conservator shall be appointed. The same applies to the suggestion made by counsel as to charters being granted only to good people.

We wonder if the commissioner is to review the list of shareholder members and determine whether they are the proper kind of people, or are not, and if in his opinion he decides they are not the proper kind of people, put in a conservator. I would submit that were Al Capone to become a depositor, I would say there was justification in the appointment of the conservator.

Judge HALL. The association has not been bidding for his business, however?

Mr. WESTOVER. We have not sent a notice inviting it, unless he is in under an assumed name. The Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, that is 5 (d), which we are particularly here considering, nor any other part of this act, provides for any jurisdictional review; neither do the rules and regulations of the commissioner, so far as I have been able to ascertain provide for any jurisdictional review other than the review suggested by counsel. I am sure he intended to imply that was purely the administrative review there contemplated. I say we only mention this to show what powers this commissioner claimed to have by virtue of this act, of which there is no criterion or limitation, but his powers are sufficiently set forth in his own rules and regulations, which claim to be sufficient to oust officers of an association of any and all 1167 authority, and prevent them thereby to have or to bring a legal action to any court of the land.

The only right remaining I think as set forth in his own rules and regulations, he has authority to petition himself for a hearing, which he may or may not grant, as he sees fit, it being discretionary, under his own rules and regulations to try and determine whether he acted properly or improperly. I might say there is nothing in the act, as your Honors will see by reading it, which in any way limits the action of Commissioner Fahey in the appointment of a conservator to emergency situations. I think that might be well to keep in mind in our analysis, that where you are dealing with what is sometimes slangily called hot property, in other words, dope, and things of that nature, where there has to be immediate federal action tending to prevent escape, or injury, or something of that nature, or insolvency in a federal institution,—there is an emergency that justifies the disregarding of the normal due process situation, under the police powers. But that is not such a situation here.

Here we have a solvent institution; the same men who have been back of it for 15 years, or thereabouts, making it grow from a small institution to a very large institution. There was no emergency; there was no escape situation; there was no insolvency.

There is nothing in this act that differentiates, or 1168 puts up any standards or differentiation for the commissioner, between acting in the appointment of a conservator, or where there is an emergency, such as insolvency, or where there isn't an emergency.

Of course, your Honors hardly need to have it even mentioned to you that in a motion to dismiss, such as is here in contemplation, or in motions on constitutionality, that all of the allegations of the complaint are presumed to be true. It is not a factual hearing whatsoever.

I think your Honors have already sufficiently, by your questions, indicated that we are all agreed that the rules and regulations under which the commissioner was appointed receive their only authority by virtue of the act, the constitutionality of which we are here attacking. And if the act itself falls, that is, the section of the act under attack falls, the regulation and the appointment of the conservator also fall.

It should be pointed out to your Honors that the statute itself, the act of congress, subdivision (d) particularly, and any other part thereof, does not set up any procedure for the appointment of a conservator, nor does it set up any indication of what kind of procedure should be set up for the appointment of a conservator, or for a merger, consolidation, or any of the other things there under consideration.

Counsel mentioned in his argument, and has mentioned it in his brief, the case of Jameson & Co. v. Morgen-1169 thau, 307 U. S., 171, which I believe your Honors already took note of. I would like to simply point out that in that case there was no question raised whatsoever as to the constitutionality of the Alcoholic Administration Act, which is the act there under consideration. So I do not believe the case is of any value to us in this matter.

1170 Mention was made by counsel that the shareholders, all they needed to do was elect a new board of directors. I would like to point out to your Honor that no such opportunity is afforded. The act sets up no such procedure, makes no such opportunity; neither do the rules and regulations set up any opportunity for these shareholders, the mutual joint owners of this institution, to select any new board of directors at all. That might be an answer, but it isn't so provided.

Now directing my attention specifically to the unconstitutional delegatio. of authority and powers, the Morgan case which I mentioned before, and which your Honor asked me about, I was unfortunately unable to tell at the moment the act that it particularly dealt with. That was the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921, and the particular question there involved was, I will grant your Honors, on the validity of a regulation issued under it, and the holding of a hearing under rules and regulations issued pursuant to the provisions of that act.

The situation was that the Secretary of Agriculture had made his ruling after a hearing, so-called, which was required by the provisions of the act. The case went up on appeal and was reversed on the ground that the hearing afforded was not a full and adequate hearing and had not constituted due process.

The particular section of the constitutional act
1171 there involved, that is, of the Packers and Stockyards Act, provided, Section 310 (reading from the act):

"Whenever after full hearing upon a complaint made as provided in Section 309, or after full hearing under an order for investigation and hearing made by the Secretary on his own initiation, either in the extension of any pending complaint or without any complaint whatever, the Secretary is of the opinion that any rate, charge, regulation or practice of a stockyard owner or market agency for or in connection with the furnishing of stockyard services is or will be unjust, unreasonable or discriminatory, the Secretary * * *"

Then it goes on and says what he may do after such a hearing.

The reason I take your Honors' time to cite it to you is simply that it is an example of what a proper act should have in it as to a full and fair hearing to be held before taking action.

The language of the court might be interesting to your Honors at one point because it does set up specifically some of the requirements. Reading from page 14 of the decision:

"The first question goes to the very foundation of the action of administrative agencies entrusted by the 1172 Congress with broad control over activity which in their detail cannot be dealt with directly by the legislature. The vast expansion of this field of administrative regulation in response to the pressure of social needs is made possible under our system by adherence to the basic principles that the legislature shall appropriately determine the standards of administrative action and that in administrative proceedings of a quasi-judicial character the liberty and property of the citizen shall be protected by the rudimentary requirements of fair play. These demand a fair and open hearing essential alike to the legality and validity of the administrative regulation and to the maintenance of public confidence in the value and soundness of this important governmental process. Such a hearing has been described as an inexorable safeguard. (And citing a long list of cases.)"

The order, I might say, there made was held to have been improperly made and the case was reversed.

Now the one act which might be of interest to your Honors which has been held to be constitutional—I would like to read just a few of the provisions therein contained which indicated the basis upon which it was held constitutional—is the National Bituminous Coal Commission Act of 1937.

1173 Judge ORR. You have all of these in your memorandum, do you?

Mr. WESTOVER. Not the language of the particular law, your Honor.

Judge ORR. You have all those different cases cited?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes, I have the [redacted]s or, if you would like, I can give you the situation. I thought you might like to hear the language. You asked yesterday——

Judge ORR. We will read them all anyway.

Mr. WESTOVER. You asked yesterday for examples of what should go in a proper congressional act.

Judge ORR. I understand what you are doing now, but I was just wondering if we have to make a note of those cases or whether the cases have been cited.

Mr. WESTOVER. This particular case I do not believe has been cited, your Honors, and I would like to also, if I might, and if your Honors care to, leave with you the particular volume of the United States Statutes at Large in which this particular act is found.

Judge HALL. Is that a long section that you are going to read?

Mr. WESTOVER. It is a long act but the section that I had in mind was rather short.

Judge HALL. Read it, that portion of it.

What is the case, incidentally?

1174 Mr. WESTOVER. The case is Sunshine Anthracite Coal Company v. Atkins, decided in 1940, 310 U. S. 381, which upholds the National Bituminous Coal Commission Act of 1937, which was passed by the Seventy-fifth Congress and is found in Volume 50, United States Statutes at Large, Part 1, page 72.

Judge HALL. The section you are reading from is page what?

Mr. WESTOVER. I intend to read, if I might, first the declaration of policy and necessity in the opening introduction of the act.

Judge ORR. What is the page citation of the other case?

Mr. WESTOVER. 310 U. S. 381.

Judge ORR. And the other one is?

Mr. WESTOVER. United States Statutes at Large, page 72, the statement of policy as to the act, and then I would like to read from other portions of it. I will give you those as I go along, if I might, your Honors.

"That regulation of the sale and distribution in interstate commerce of bituminous coal is imperative for the protection of such commerce; that there exist practices and methods of distribution and marketing of such coal that waste the coal resources of the Nation and disorganize, burden, and obstruct interstate commerce 1175 in ~~bituminous coal~~, with the result that regulation of the prices thereof and of unfair methods of competition therein is necessary to promote interstate commerce in bituminous coal and to remove burdens and obstructions therefrom."

Then Section 2 (a):

"There is hereby established in the Department of the Interior a National Bituminous Coal Commission (herein referred to as Commission), which shall be composed of seven members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of four years * * *"

Then skipping to the bottom of page 73:

"Such Commission shall have the power to make and promulgate all reasonable rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of this Act and shall annually make full report of its activities to the Secretary of the Interior for transmission to Congress. A majority of the Commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a vacancy in the Commission shall not impair the right of the remaining members to exercise all the power of the Commission. No order which is subject to judicial review under section 6, and no rule or regulation which has the force and effect of law, 1176 shall be made or prescribed by the Commission, unless it has given reasonable public notice of a hearing, and unless it has afforded to interested parties an opportunity to be heard, and unless it has made findings of fact. Such findings, if supported by substantial evidence shall be conclusive upon review thereof by any court of the United States * * *"

I might say, if I might interpolate again, that it should be kept in mind that that is as to the making of their own rules and regulations and the holding of hearings before the promulgation of such rules. But once adopted, if properly supported by evidence, then they are held to be good rules.

Now since Section 6 was mentioned, if I may read from Section 6 (a), page 85 of the act:

"All rules, regulations, determinations, and promulgations of any district board shall be subject to review by the Commission upon appeal by any producer and upon just cause shown shall be amenable to the order of the Commission; and appeal to the Commission shall be a matter of right in all cases to every producer and to all parties in interest, including any State or any political subdivision thereof."

Skipping to subdivision (b) of Section 6, having 1177 to do with the appeals to the court (still on page 85):

"Any person aggrieved by an order issued by the Commission in a proceeding to which such person is a party may obtain a review of such order in the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States, within any circuit wherein such person resides or has his principal place of business, or in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, by filing in such court, within sixty days after the entry of such order, a written petition praying that the order of the Commission be modified or set aside in whole or in part * * *"

Judge ORR. We will take a recess until 2:00 o'clock.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well, your Honor. Might I just, before we do so, cite your Honors to one more section in this same act, or two more sections in this same act, without reading them, because I see that evidently they are going to be too long.

One is Subdivision (c) of Section 6 on page 86 of the same act.

1178 (c) If any code member fails or neglects to obey any order of the Commission while the same is in effect, the Commission in its discretion may apply to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States within any circuit where such code member resides or carries on business, for the enforcement of its order, and shall certify and file with its application a transcript of the entire record in the proceeding, including all the testimony taken and the report and order of the Commission. Upon such filing of the application and transcript the court shall cause notice thereof to be served upon such code member and thereupon shall have jurisdiction of the proceeding and of the question determined therein, and shall have power to make and enter upon the pleadings, testimony, and proceedings set forth in such transcript a decree affirming, modifying, or setting aside the order of the Commission. The findings of the Commission as to facts, if supported by substantial evidence, shall be conclusive. If either party shall apply to the court for leave to adduce additional evidence, and shall show to the satisfaction of the court that such additional evidence is material and that there were reasonable grounds for 1179 the failure to adduce such evidence in the proceeding before the Commission, the court may order such additional evidence to be taken before the Commission and to be adduced upon the hearing in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as to the court may seem proper.

The Commission may modify its findings as to the facts or make new findings, by reason of the additional evidence so taken, and it shall file such modified or new findings, which if supported by substantial evidence shall be conclusive, and its recommendation, if any, for the modification or setting aside of its original order, with the return of such additional evidence. The judgment and decree of the court shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court upon certiorari or certification as provided in sections 239 and 240 of the Judicial Code, as amended (U. S. C., title 28, secs. 346 and 347.

(d) The jurisdiction of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States or the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, as the case may be, to enforce, set aside, or modify orders of the Commission shall be exclusive.

Mr. WESTOVER. Also Section 8(a) of the same act, on page 86 and continuing over to the balance of that section on page 87, which deal with the enforcement of the commissioner's orders by applying to a court for an order to enforce their orders upon the people. In other words, they are not directly enforceable, they come to the courts and get authority to enforce their orders.

SEC. 8. (a) The members of the Commission are authorized to administer oaths to witnesses appearing before the Commission and to authorize the taking of depositions in any proceedings; and, for the purpose of conducting its investigations, said Commission shall have full power to issue subpoenas and subpoenas duces tecum, which shall be as nearly as may be in the form of subpoenas issued by district courts of the United States. In case of contumacy by or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to, any person, the Commission may invoke the aid of any court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which such investigation or proceeding is carried on, or where such person resides or carries on business, in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records. Upon the filing of the application for such aid with the clerk of the court

1181 the court shall, either in term time or vacation, forthwith enter an order of record, requiring such person to appear before such court at a time stated in the order not more than ten days from the entry of the order (unless for good cause shown such time is extended), and show cause why he should not be required to obey such subpoena, and upon his failure to show cause it shall be the duty of the court to order such witness to appear before the said Commission and give such testimony or produce such evidence as may be lawfully required by said Commission. The district court, either in term time or vacation, shall have full power to punish for contempt as in other cases of refusal to obey the process and order of such court. Witnesses summoned before the Commission or when depositions are taken upon order of the Commission, shall be paid the same fees as are paid for like services in courts of the United States.

(b) No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, contracts, agreements, and other records and documents before the Commission, or in obedience to the subpoena of the Commission or any member thereof or any officer designated by it, or in any cause or proceeding instituted by 1182 the Commission, on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture; but no individual shall be prosecuted or subject to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he is compelled, after having claimed his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that such individual so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

Judge ORR. Do you think you will finish up this afternoon?

Mr. CHAPMAN. We will try to, your Honor.

Mr. WESTOVER. I don't think it would take too long, your Honor. I would like to read contrariwise from an act which has been held to be unconstitutional on this same point.

Judge Orr. We will be in recess until 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:00 o'clock noon, a recess was taken until 2:00 o'clock p. m.)

1183

Los Angeles, California,

Tuesday, July 16, 1946, 2:00 P. M.

Mr. Westover. If your Honors please, before proceeding with the reading of the statute that I said I would read from, that has been declared unconstitutional, I would like to cite your Honors and read very briefly from the Building and Loan Association Act of the State of California, reference to which was made this morning, directing our attention solely to the question of the appeal to the court and due process phase of that act. I might say that Section 13.11 of the Building and Loan Association Act of the State of California sets up the criteria under which the commissioner can appoint a conservator, and so forth, and notice, hearings, and things of that nature. Section 13.12, which I would like to read your Honors, provides:

"Whenever any association of whose property, business and assets the commissioner has taken possession, as aforesaid, deems itself aggrieved thereby, it may at any time within thirty days after such taking possession apply to the Superior Court of the county in which the principal office of such association is located, to enjoin further proceedings; and said court after citing the commissioner to show cause why further proceedings should not be enjoined, and hearing the allegations and proofs of the parties and determining the facts, may upon the merits 1184 dismiss such application or enjoin the commissioner from further proceedings and direct him to surrender such business, property and assets of such association. An appeal from such judgment enjoining the commissioner from further proceedings and directing him to surrender such business, property and assets to such association shall not operate as a stay thereof, unless the trial court in its discretion shall so order."

Then it goes on setting forth further proceedings. Counsel this morning, in giving your Honors guides, pointed out guides which he felt were guides in the act here in question, but he did not happen to mention to your Honors, or select any guides from Section (i) of the act. I am speaking now of the act here under consideration, because the case of Hopkins Savings Association v. Cleary, 296 U. S. 315, held that the Federal Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, Paragraph (i) thereof, which allowed state associations, by virtue of 51 percent of their shareholders to become automatically a federal association, without the consent of their state incorporation, was unconstitutional, and an encroachment under United States Constitutional Amendment No. 10,—the powers reserved to the states.

Judge HALL. That is Section (i)?

Mr. WESTOVER. Section (i) of the act herein under consideration.

1185 Judge HALL. That they are all numbered.

Mr. WESTOVER. Subdivision (i), I should say.

Judge HALL. Subdivision (i) of Section 5?

Mr. WESTOVER. Subdivision (i) of Section 5, or under the Federal Code it is Subdivision (i) of Section 1464, your Honor. In the pamphlet I take it it is 5. Counsel this morning mentioned estoppel, but did not choose to argue it. Hence, I will not argue it further ourselves, but I would like, your Honors, to cite you one further case, of Ashwander v. Tennessee Valley Authority, a 1935 decision, 297 U. S., 288, 56 Supreme Court, 466, 80 L. Ed., 688. The highlight of the case was that certiorari was taken to the Supreme Court to review the decree reversing the decision of the District Court, by which that court, in a suit of the preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Company, set aside a contract that had been entered into by the company and the Tennessee Valley Authority, relating to the sale and exchange of electric power generated at the dam, and further things that were in the contract. On the point of estoppel, the court held, reading from page 322:

"The Government urges the Power Company is estopped to question the validity of the Act creating the Tennessee Valley Authority and hence that the stockholders, suing in the right of the corporation, cannot maintain this 1186 suit. It is said that the Power Company, in 1925, installed its own transformers and connections at Wilson Dam and has ever since purchased large quantities of electric energy there generated, and that the Power Company continued its purchases after the passage of the Act of 1933 constituting the Authority. The principle is invoked"—the same there as here—"that one who accepts the benefit of a statute cannot be heard to question its constitutionality."

The court states:

"We think that the principle is not applicable here."

Reading from the bottom of page 323:

"We think that plaintiffs have made a sufficient showing to entitle them to bring suit and that a constitutional question is properly presented and should be decided."

And this morning, your Honors, we read from one of the acts that has been sustained. Now, I would like leave to read from the National Recovery Act just certain passages therefrom which have been held to be unconstitutional upon the ground that it was an improper attempt to delegate legislative authority. It is found in United States Statutes at Large, Volume 48, Part 1, commencing at page 195.

I will read first Section 1 if I may: Declaration of Policy:

"A national emergency productive of widespread 1187 unemployment and disorganization of industry, which burdens interstate and foreign commerce, affects the public welfare, and undermines the standards of living of the American people, is hereby declared to exist. It is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress to remove obstructions to the free flow of interstate and foreign commerce which tend to diminish the amount thereof; and to provide for the general welfare by promoting the organization of industry for the purpose of cooperative action among trade groups, to induce and maintain united action of labor and management under adequate governmental sanctions and supervision, to eliminate unfair competitive practises, to promote the fullest possible utilization of the present productive capacities of industries, to avoid undue restriction of production (except as may be temporarily required), to increase the consumption of industrial and agricultural products by increasing purchasing power, to reduce and relieve unemployment, to improve standards of labor, and otherwise to rehabilitate industry and to conserve natural resources."

Certainly, in that there is a far more specific statement there than is found in the act under consideration as to the declaration of policy.

1188 Skipping through the act, I might say it was an emergency measure and by Subdivision (c) of Section 23 was to terminate at the expiration of two years, as your Honors are probably no doubt aware.

It sets up provisions as to the procedure which he is to follow in forming and approving codes of fair practices. That is in Section 3 (a).

Then it sets up under Section (d) of Section 3 the following as to notice and hearing:

"Upon his own motion, or if complaint is made to the President that abuses inimical to the public interest and contrary to the policy herein declared are prevalent in any trade or industry or subdivision thereof, and if no code of fair competition therefor has theretofore been approved by the President, the President, after such public notice and hearing as he shall specify, may prescribe and approve a code of fair competition for such trade or industry or subdivision thereof, which shall have the same effect as a code of fair competition approved by the President under subsection (a) of this section."

Then the act sets up other statements as to the criteria to be followed, all of which were held to be inadequate by the cases holding the act unconstitutional.

1189 Since a case I would like to mention to your Honors which is already in our briefs deals specifically with Section 9, the oil regulation of the act, I would like to read Section 9 (c), the part involved in the Panama Refining Company v. Ryan case. Subdivision (c) of Section 9 reads:

"The President is authorized to prohibit the transportation in interstate and foreign commerce of petroleum and the products thereof produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted to be produced or withdrawn from storage by any State law or valid regulation or order prescribed thereunder, by any board, commission, officer, or other duly authorized agency of a State. Any violation of any order of the President issued under the provisions of this subsection shall be punishable by fine of not to exceed $1,000, or imprisonment for not to exceed six months, or both."

I might say, your Honor, that I do not want to burden your Honors by reading further from such a lengthy act, but we submit that that is an act that had far more criteria, guides, and regulations and safeguards in it than does the present act, or the part thereof that we are here concerned with.

The National Recovery Act had one section thereof that was first held to be unconstitutional, very similarly 1190 to the way that one subsection of this act has already been held to be unconstitutional. The holding of unconstitutionality of Section 9 (c), which I have just read to your Honors, was in the Panama Refining Company v Ryan case, which has already been cited. The citation is 293 U. S. 388, 55 Supreme Court 241, 79 L. Ed. 1676, decided in 1934.

In that particular case the holding of the NRA, Section 9 (c), unconstitutional reversed the lower court's holding and remanded the case to the District Court to grant a permanent injunction restraining the infocement of the provisions of the NRA act.

The National Recovery Act, which I have just read from, as your Honors are all aware, of course was finally held unconstitutional by the A. L. A. Schechter Poultry Corporation v the United States, with which you are probably all familiar, commonly known as the "Blue Eagle" or the "Chicken" case I believe. There are a few passages in that decision, your Honors, which I would like the liberty to read because I believe they are particularly applicable to the point here involved.

"The declared purpose is 'To effect the policies of title I of the National Industrial Recovery Act.' The Code is established as 'a code of fair competition for the live poultry industry of the metropolitan area in and about the City of New York' • • •" 1191 I might add that Mr. Schechter, I believe, had been convicted pursuant to the provisions of that fair code act and took his appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

The court, in reversing that appeal, at page 529 states:

"We have repeatedly recognized the necessity of adapting legislation to complex conditions involving a host of details with which the national legislature cannot deal directly. We pointed out in the Panama Company case that the Constitution has never been regarded as denying to Congress the necessary resources of flexibility and practicality, which will enable it to perform its function in laying down policies and establishing standards, while leaving to selected instrumentalities the making of subordinate rules within prescribed limits and the determination of facts to which the policy as declared by the legislature is to apply. But we said that the constant recognition of the necessity and validity of such provisions, and the wide range of administrative authority which has been developed by means of them, cannot be allowed to obscure the limitations of the authority to delegate, if our constitutional system is to be maintained."

We submit, your Honors, that this, as in that case, is again an undermining of our constitutional principles.

1192 The Court went on, at page 537 (and I think this is particularly applicable because it speaks of the generalities in the way of the policies laid down in the act as being insufficient):

"* * * And, could an effort of that sort be made valid by such a preface of generalities as to permissible aims as we find in section 1 of title I? The answer is obvious. Such a delegation of legislative power is unknown to our law and is utterly inconsistent with the constitutional prerogatives and duties of Congress."

Omitting and skipping:

"* * * But Congress cannot delegate legislative power to the President to exercise an unfettered discretion to make whatever laws he thinks may be needed or advisable for the rehabilitation and expansion of trade or industry. See Panama Refining Co. v Ryan, supra, and cases there reviewed."

The Court finally held, after a very lengthy decision:

"On both the grounds we have discussed, the attempted delegation of legislative power, and the attempted regulation of intrastate transactions which affect interstate commerce only indirectly, we hold the code provisions here in question to be invalid and that the judgment of 1193 conviction must be reversed."

Mr. Justice Cardozo, as your Honors know, wrote a concurring opinion of his own and his language, I believe, is very indicative of our situation here:

"'The delegated power of legislation which has found expression in this code is not canalized within banks that keep it from overflowing. It is unconfined and vagrant, if I may borrow my own words in an earlier opinion, Panama Refining Co. v Ryan, 293 U. S. 388, 440.

"This court has held that delegation may be unlawful though the act to be performed is definite and single, if the necessity, time and occasion of performance have been left in the end to the discretion of the delegate. Panama Refining Co. v Ryan, supra. I thought that ruling went too far. I pointed out in an opinion that there had been 'no grant to the Executive of any roving commission to inquire into evils and then, upon discovering them, do anything he pleases.' 293 U. S. at p. 435. Choice, though within limits, had been given him 'as to the occasion, but none whatever as to the means.' Ibid. Here, in the case before us, is an attempted delegation not confined to any single act nor to any class or group of acts identified 1194 or described by reference to a standard. Here in effect is a roving commission to inquire into evils and upon discovery correct them."

We submit, your Honors, that that is the same situation that we are here confronted with in the Home Owners Loan Act, particularly Subdivisions (a) and (d) thereof.

Judge Hall. You just stated, Mr. Westover, a moment ago that they sustained the contentions against that act on both grounds, the unlawful delegation of authority and a restraint upon intrastate commerce. You are not urging the commerce question here, are you?

Mr. Westover. No. I was reading from the decision, your Honor. In the Schechter case it was sustained on both grounds.

Judge Hall. Very well.

Mr. Wallace. May it please the Court, on behalf of the interpleader Title Service Company, to be as brief as possible, there are two or three matters brought up by Mr. Walker this morning which I would like to advert to for just a moment. One of which was that he stated that he could not say what is a prerequisite to the appointment of a conservator except as the same appears in the opinion of the officials, which to my way of thinking is tantamount to an admission that the officials—although he used it in the plural, refers only to the single commissioner now administering the affairs of the Home Loan Bank—and leaves the entire matter within the sole discretion of 1195 Commissioner Fahey.

He also, I believe, stated that the due process does not appear in the regulations. It does appear in the regulations but not in the statute. And he referred to the type of notice which was given. In that respect, I would like for just a moment to refer to the affidavit of Mr. Moore.

Judge Orr. I just want to get straight on that. I do not understand the defendant admitting that the due process doesn't appear in the statute.

Mr. Wallace. Due notice I meant.

Judge Orr. I understood you to say due process.

Mr. Wallace. I wish to correct myself if I did.

In the affidavit of Mr. Moore, filed in support of one of the pleadings, and appearing on page 3, and I quote (this being a quotation from the regulations as they existed in 1934 at the date of the issuance of the charter):

"After ten days notice in writing to all shareholders, borrowers and creditors of the association sent by mail to the last address as shown on the books of the association, conduct a hearing at the office of the association or some other convenient place designated by him in such notice, at which hearing any interested parties may submit any evidence as to the condition of the association or its management."

Subsequently, as stated in that affidavit, the 1196 regulation was amended so that with the issuance of the second charter to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association the regulation as it then existed provided:

"Before the appointment of a conservator or receiver the federal association shall be given an opportunity to be heard provided, however, that the board may appoint a temporary conservator pending such hearing."

We now find the situation to exist on the current regulations that no hearing of any kind is necessary.

Judge Hall. What is the regulation under which he seized the association? Do you know what that provides?

Mr. WALLACE. I do not have a copy with me here, your Honor.

Mr. WALKER. My offhand recollection is that it is 204.1.

Judge HALL. Conservator or receiver.

Mr. WALLACE. Do you have a copy of it, Mr. Walker?

Mr. WALKER. No. It disappeared during the noon recess.

Judge HALL. I have found it.

Mr. WALLACE. As I stated earlier briefly yesterday, the only notice which was given was that which was published in the official documents back in Washington, some 3000 miles from the point where the take-over took place. In answer to that this morning, Mr. Wallace stated that in order to give actual notice it would have been neces-1197 sary to have had access to the identity of all of the interested parties, shareholders, borrowers and creditors, and yet in their early regulations they did provide for that particular type of notice to be given after an inspection of those records as they appeared.

That is submitted merely as additional factors in support of the contention that there is no adequate notice provided in the act itself, which this Court now has before it for consideration, and as a very highly and material element of a lack of due process.

The Court has inquired with reference to the matter of estoppel, whether the Court may deem that that applies to the plaintiffs or the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. It is respectfully submitted on behalf of the Title Service Company, the interpleader, that it can have no effect at all as to the interpleader.

In connection with that position, it is further submitted, under the authority of the case of Jones v. Railway Express, that once this Court has taken jurisdiction in the interpleader matter that it has no alternative other than to grant relief to all of the parties who are concerned.

The Jones case, decided by the Circuit Court of Appeals in 1939, is published in 106 Fed. (2d) at page 341.

It likewise was a class suit which was brought by a number of victims which had been defrauded in the 1198 old Sir Francis Drake estate matter. After the principal perpetrator of the fraud had been brought to justice his arrest, an action was filed by the plaintiff Jones claiming to be a representative of the class of all persons who were defrauded.

Unfortunately for Mr. Jones, no one of the individuals had been defrauded of a sum as large as $500. The money at the time was in the process of transit in the form of currency and was in the hands of the Railway Express Agency.

The Railway Express Agency did not see fit, as the interpleader here has done, to deposit the funds in court or, as we have done, the documents, but in lieu thereof brought an action in the nature of interpleader.

A cross-demand was filed against the Railway Express Agency by the Collector of Internal Revenue for alleged deficiencies in income tax which far exceeded the amount of money which was held.

Therefore we have in this case virtually all of the elements which are in issue in this case at bar, to wit, a class action, cross-claims of Government official, and finally interpleader.

The Court stated, among other things, at page 343:

"While defendant's contention that a class suit may not be maintained where each claimant of the class asserts a separate claim based on individual and separate 1199 fraudulent representations, is sound, we are bound, at this stage of the proceedings, by the allegations of the complaint."

As Mr. Westover stated a little while ago, we all feel that for the purposes of this hearing the allegations of the pleadings must be taken as correct.

"It is possible, accepting the allegations of the complaint, that there exists a case of joint action upon identical fraud with the resulting total damage exceeding $3,000. It is only after proof has been received on this issue, or admissions made in open court by plaintiff, that the court may, in view of the pleadings, deny plaintiff's right to sue for all, that is, to maintain a class suit."

Omitting a portion of the decision and passing on to the next page, the Court further stated:

"All these essential facts were disclosed in the bill of the interpleader. In fact, they appear in the several pleadings of all the parties."

To wit, the mandatory requirements of citizenship, fund in the possession of a stakeholder, and the total amount in excess of $500.

"The Supreme Court stated in the recent case of Texas v. Florida, 306 U. S. 398, 59 S. Ct. 563, 567, 83, L. Ed. 817, 121 A. L. R. 1179, decided March 13, 1939:

1200 —" 'Before the Constitution was adopted a familiar basis for the exercise of the extraordinary powers of courts of equity was the avoidance of the risk of loss ensuing from the demands in separate suits of rival claimants to the same debt or legal duty. Alnete v. Bettam, Cary, 65 (1560); Hackett v. Webb and Wifley, Finch 257 (1676); see 9 Viner Abr., 419-440; 1 Spence, The Equitable Jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, 659; Maclennan, Law of Interpleader, 5 et seq. Since, without the interposition of equity, each claimant in pursuing his remedy in an independent suit might succeed and thus subject the debtor or the fund pursued to multiple liability, equity gave a remedy by way of bill of interpleader, upon the prosecution of which it required the rival claimants to litigate in a single suit their ownership of the asserted claim. A plaintiff need not await actual institution of independent suits; it is enough if he shows that conflicting claims are asserted and that the consequent risk of loss is substantial.' "

Passing a little further along in the decision the Court terminated the decision by stating:

"By proceeding under the counterclaim of the Railway Express the jurisdiction of the court will 1201 be unassailable, and the claims of all claimants may be litigated exactly the same as in a proper class suit."

Predicated upon the authority of that case, it is the belief of Title Service Company and we respectfully submit it, that the Court, once having taken jurisdiction under the interpleader cross-claim, will not be required to recognize any possibility of estoppel as advanced either as against the plaintiffs or the defendant Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, but it will be required that the respective claims to the funds, either those actually deposited in court by us or the approximately 8000 other deeds of trust approximating about 12 million dollars, in the face of the interpleader must be litigated and the Court will necessarily accept that matter and the jurisdiction and adjudicate the whole thing.

I have nothing to add that has not already been cited by Mr. Westover on the constitutional basis of the matter other than that which I have already pointed out, that in so far as we have been able to discover, the act itself, as demonstrated by the retrogression in the due process and notice provided in their regulations, does not come within the constitutional provision and that the act itself suffers and must fall for that reason.

Mr. TREMAINE. The defendant and cross-claimant
1202 Robert H. Wallis is in almost identical position with Title Service Company. I see no occasion to repeat the argument of Mr. Wallace, as attorney for the other interpleading defendant here.

In this case, we are not involved with notes or trust deeds but a cashier's check in the sum of $50,000, and we submit that there is no charge of estoppel on the part of this cross-claimant and interpleader, and there would be no occasion for one if it were made, so that issue does not involve my particular client.

In arguing back on the question of constitutionality again, I keep reverting, I hope not painfully, to the idea that we are a Government of laws rather than of men, and to point out that to permit of an interpretation of an act of Congress in such a way that the administrative body, or in this case individual, public official, would have the power to appoint a conservator, seize assets, merge, and various other things that we have discussed here, would necessarily have to be interpreted, if valid, as being an action in relation to a power given and to effectuate some authority intended.

So if the Government's position that a conservator was properly appointed here is correct, it would be an appointment for a purpose which had no particular relation to the object sought. The conservator here took an 1203 admittedly solvent concern and almost immediately thereafter there was withdrawn some 8 million dollars in deposits. In addition to that he has promptly raised the cost of operation of the concern.

Mr. Gregory's affidavit is before the Court, in opposition to the motions to dismiss, and page 9 contains the statement that for the period from May 20, 1946 to June 30, 1946, a period of approximately 40 days, the said defendant A. V. Ammann did appropriate and set aside for salaries, expenses and costs for himself and his associates, the sum of approximately $17,000 over and above the expenses and salaries to regular employees of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association. I cannot see any conservation going on under any authority there.

Now it has also been suggested, I think by Mr. Walker—or probably I caught the idea from a remark of one of your Honors—that the existence of the association itself would be threatened by a decision holding the portion of the act unconstitutional which is here attached. I wish to submit that if Section 5(d) of the act should be declared unconstitutional that in no way would the operations of the association be affected. They could continue as they were before and carry on a business which has constantly grown from the time of its inception. And to permit the defendant Fahey to have the arbitrary authority to 1204 remove a management from its control of a private organization without any provision for independent judicial review or even, as we have set forth in various affidavits here, an unbiased administrative tribunal, is certainly not constitutional.

1205 The situation is so bad that it appears from the records, affidavits in particular, that the management did not know what the complaints were prior to the seizure. There was not only no hearing, but there was no information as to what might be objectionable.

When it was seized, there was no opportunity to ratify anything that might be complained of, and when an order was delivered showing that there was some authority for a seizure, certified to by Ray Daugherty, assistant secretary of the Federal Home Loan Bank, and which, by the way, is set up in the plaintiff's motion for a preliminary injunction to take testimony, as Exhibit C, all that the directors were given as a reason for the seizure having been accomplished was the statement of conclusions of law. They had no other reason given to them as to why they should be seized.

That, I submit, was so arbitrary and so beyond any authority given in the act, that it shows on its own face to be unconstitutional.

That is all I care to submit, your Honors.

Mr. CHAPMAN. I am interested here in how this thing worked out. They talk about a conservator, but if he first walks in there, and loses $6,000,000, he was not conserving very much.

I am interested also in the attempts that have apparently been made to find somewhere in this act some 1206 standard as to when a conservator should be appointed, and for what purpose. I haven't heard yet anything from counsel, nor from your Honors, in any way showing any delegation of due process. In other words, we have a section which says he can take charge of the association. It does not say when; it does not say what he should do, before or after; it does not provide any limits on the absolute uncontrolled authority.

If this language is valid, he can take every association in the United States if he happens to want it, and he does not need any authority but his own desire to do so. So far he has seemed to only want to take two, but if that act is upheld, if your Honors decide this is constitutional, what limits will there be to what this man could do, if he happens to want it? There is nothing at all placed there by congress, and there is certainly nothing placed by his own regulations.

We attack the constitutionality of Section 5 (d) in this particular case on three things. First, there is no power given, even by implication, to create his own court. He can call it an administrative hearing, if he wants to, but throughout this act there is no delegation of judicial authority. There is no way for him, even from a single word in here, authorizing him to set up his own court, his own rules of practise, his own rules of evidence, his own rules of pleading, and deciding whether he shall permit an answer or not. In the very order made 1207 an exhibit in this case, in which he talks about due process, he says the hearing officer can't decide this case; he can take some evidence; we will let him do it this time, but he can't decide the case. I am holding that power for myself.

But the congress never gave him that power. There isn't a word in this act which gives him that power, and therefore I say there is a denial of due process in setting up his own court.

Next, on the question of merger, we cited the Federal Home Loan Bank merger in Los Angeles. Counsel seems to think that is very different; that our case has no application. It is the same man, and we feel that he has shown to us what he could have done, from what he did. I could go on and argue about malice and bias and prejudice, and why that was done. Your Honors say that does not bear on the constitutional question. I agree with you. I don't think he had the power to do what he has done, whatever his motives.

Next is the power to appoint a conservator. Your Honors I think have given that primary attention. While that is dangerous, and in this case a serious injury to the institution, even that is not as dangerous as the power to create his own court, and to deny access to the aggrieved parties to their own courts. That is what they tried to do here.

I don't think anyone has shown yet any limitations on this utterly untrampled authority they claim to have.

I think the congress tried to give it to him all right, 1208 but I don't think the congress could give it to him.

One other point: that is, if there was not Section 5 (a) there would not have been any association. There is another section of this act which has been held unconstitutional, which Mr. Westover cited here to your Honor. That was 10 years ago. It is still going. It does not seem to affect the act, or the industry, or harm it one mite. If this Section 5 (d) is held unconstitutional, as I am convinced it clearly is, it will benefit the entire federal savings and loan industry, and they won't be wondering every night when they go to bed whether they will have an association when they get up in the morning.

Mr. WALKER. The opposition has opened and closed, and supposedly I have a motion to dismiss, which might give me an opportunity to take about two minutes in a closing argument. May I be granted that time? I simply want to make a couple of comments. So far as the applications for the two restraining orders and the injunction are concerned, certain affidavits have been filed, particularly on the question of estoppel; and an affidavit denying that these acts were done by way of reprisal.

But we are here, as I understand it, concerned entirely and solely with the constitutionality of this one act. As to that the court is bound to look to the four corners of the act. I don't think there are any facts before the court. It is solely a question of law.

1209 I want to make one very brief statement here, and I will submit my case on that. The right of immediate appointment of a conservator is inherent in the supervisory function of the financial institution affected by the public interest. All the guides and standards set out in the act go directly to the supervisory power of the Board.

Judge HALL. Let me hear that statement over again.

Mr. WALKER. All of the guides——

Judge HALL. No, the power to appoint a receiver is inherent——

Mr. WALKER. It is inherent in the supervisory function.

Judge HALL. Even if there may be no statutory grant of the power to appoint?

Mr. WALKER. If the supervisory function exists.

Judge HALL. If the supervisory function is granted, they need no further grant to appoint a receiver to take it over?

Mr. WALKER. I think it could be so argued, your Honor; that it is inherent in this power; that the guides and standards set out in the act go to the supervisory power of the Board. The legislature has created a broad circle within which the association may operate. It has impressed upon the commissioner the duty to so act, that the association does not operate without that circle; does not stray from that circle. Therefore, it is our contention that the power immediately to appoint a con-1210 servator is merely an implementation of that duty impressed upon the commissioner by statute.

One other thing occurred to me, your Honors. It is would be of any service to the court I would be glad to submit a brief which would be only a consolidation of the points that have been set up in the memorandum of authorities. I don't know whether the court wishes it or not, but I would be glad to do it if the court so desires.

Judge ORR. It will make easier the work of the court, if they will do that on both sides.

Mr. WALKER. I can have mine within two or three days. It will be just a consolidation of material.

Judge HALL. How about the other side; if we get a memorandum on the motion to enjoin a hearing; a memorandum on the motion in opposition to the motion to dismiss; a memorandum on the motion to enjoin and hold unconstitutional——

Mr. WESTOVER. Obviously, whatever your Honors wish we will endeavor to comply with it. We wonder if it will be helpful, because there are a number of different motions and apparently counsel's idea would be that we will pull all the different motions out, and put them in one point. Wouldn't that be more confusing?

Judge HALL. You have argued only one point; that is the constitutionality of this act.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is right. We have limited it to that.

Judge HALL. It seems to me it would be helpful if everyone who has participated in this matter would file a memorandum on that one point. At least, the judges would have to look to that memorandum rather than through the pleadings, and through all the orders, to find the different points referred to.

Mr. WALKER. Would these briefs be filed simultaneously? It is going to delay it somewhat if we have an interchange of briefs.

Judge ORR. I think so. We will give five days to both sides. Upon the filing of points and authorities the matter will stand submitted.

1212 [Reporter's certificate to foregoing transcript omitted in printing.]

The COURT. In this Long Beach matter, I see it is a quarter after 4:00.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. I will gladly defer, if the Court please.

Mr. CARTER. In the Long Beach matter, if the Court please, Mr. Walker, who is familiar with the case in our office, is away. I think he communicated with your Honor before he left. We have been served with——

The COURT. I am not considering settling the findings today.

MR. CARTER. I know, but there is an application, I understand, for a temporary order of some sort.

The COURT. Yes, there is.

MR. CARTER. And neither Miss Kluckhohn nor myself are familiar with the facts of this case.

We were served shortly before noon with these very voluminous papers. The papers themselves show that they were served on other counsel on September 11th, two days ago. Why they waited until noontime to serve our office, I don't know but they did.

The COURT. I do not think that they would be required to serve your office at all.

Mr. CARTER. That might be true, but having 1217 served us two days after they served other parties, it puts us in the position where service on us means practically nothing. They might as well have come down without serving us because none of us have had time to go through this matter.

My suggestion to your Honor would be that certainly no damage can ensue between now and the first part of the week, that the matter be put over and heard when Mr. Walker is present, who is familiar with the case. This is Friday afternoon now. It is pretty hard for me to imagine what damage might ensue to the litigants here if we put it over.

The COURT. The plaintiffs in the case claim the withdrawals are continuing at a crippling rate, that the conservator is investing funds, some as much as a million and more dollars in one day in particular types of bonds. Whether they are good bonds or whether they are good investments is not for the Court to say. But the plaintiffs here seem to feel as though it is a matter of urgency and should be acted upon by the Court so far as the temporary restraining order is concerned.

MR. CARTER. I merely make this one statement: If the matter is to be heard this afternoon I ask the Court's indulgence that Mr. Dougherty be allowed to be heard in the matter. I am not prepared to argue the matter. I know nothing of it except the general facts in the case, but I make the suggestion that the matter go over until the first 1218 part of the week when it can be heard in some orderly manner and we have a chance to present what our views might be.

If, on the other hand, the Court wants to hear it this afternoon, all I can do is ask that Mr. Dougherty be allowed to address the Court.

The COURT. I asked the counsel to come back at 3:30 today, and it is now 4:20, and it looks as though we will be a little while on this other matter yet.

Mr. WESTOVER. Your Honor please, may I clear up just one point on the service?

The service on the Long Beach people was not a service but an approval of the judgment and its form. That was made at nearly midnight Wednesday night at Long Beach because of the urgency of this matter. Attempts to get a consent as to the form of the judgment were made yesterday morning upon the United States Attorney's office here, and the rush of that was done because we had been advised, several of us, that Mr. Walker would be here until Friday. We found for the first time yesterday morning that he had been called away a day ahead of time and that that consent as to the form of the judgment was not agreeable to the United States Attorney's office and we therefore of course proceeded with this motion as we advised your Honor yesterday and your Honor asked us to come in this morning and, then, upon your Honor's suggestion, we 1219 notified the United States Attorney's office this morning, although I think it is conceded they are, strictly speaking, not required to receive notice on this matter.

The COURT. I haven't had time to read all of your affidavits.

Mr. WALLACE. May I make a statement by way of supplementing what Mr. Westover has said?

I personally talked with Mr. Walker following the hearing here last Monday and he advised me of his hope and desire to be out of the city over the weekend, stating he wanted to be away from Friday to Tuesday, and also asked our indulgence by reason of the recent bereavement of Judge Dougherty. At that time I advised him, on behalf of the defendant Title Service Company, my client, and on behalf of the Long Beeach Federal Savings and Loan Association, whose counsel is ill, that I was very certain that we could not accede to his request, much as we would like to do so, for two reasons: Primarily Judge Dougherty was not counsel, either of record or by association, and in view of the fact that Mr. Walker had told me at that time that the only reason that they had not associated Judge Dougherty prior to this time was that they had anticipated using him as a witness and did not want to be put to the embarrassment of having him in a dual capacity, and that now since there was an opinion rendered by the Court they saw fit to associate him as counsel. I do not see too much merit in Mr. Carter's request that he be allowed to join in what would ordinarily be an ex parte application.

1220 Mr. Westover. If your Honor please, I want to say this, that I have certainly no objection to Judge Dougherty being associated in this matter at this time, if Mr. Carter wishes, and I do want to express for the record sympathy with him in his bereavement, but the urgency of the matter—and I might say it is our information—that close to two million dollars in depreciation of assets has occurred since the matter was argued in spite of the expeditious manner in which this Court rendered its opinion, which we appreciate was done very promptly.

Mr. Carter. I merely make this further statement, that your Honor is familiar with my position with reference to counsel for other agencies appearing in these cases, and I make the request this afternoon merely because I am in a position where no one in the office except Judge Dougherty knows anything about this case. It is not a motion I would ordinarily make.

The Court. Very well. I think that perhaps time would be saved—I know that I will want to read all of the affidavits and I have simply not had time to do it—if you could come down tomorrow. I dislike to have you people from Long Beach running back and forth, but I simply cannot do two things at once.

Mr. Westover. Might I ask one stipulation in the record from counsel, if we may have it, that pend-1221 ing the hearing of this temporary restraining order tomorrow, as I understand your Honor intends to hear it, nothing will be removed from the premises in Long Beach until the determination of that temporary restraining order.

The COURT. I was under the impression at the hearing had that the Government was taking the position that nothing would be done concerning the assets, that the conservator would merely be a conservator and would not continue to invest money and the like. However, I have not checked the record to see if my impression is borne out by any statement made.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Your Honor please, if I may make just one statement very briefly, I think it will probably be the duty of the conservator under this type of conservatorship to try to invest the funds so that it would not lie idly and not bear any interest for the Association. I think that has been done. I think also it would be his duty to attempt, as best he could under these trying circumstances, to keep the business of the Association going on so that whoever did take over the Association eventually would have the benefit of what good will could be built up. I think that is what has been done.

The COURT. I think if all counsel will return tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock I will then have time to read your affidavits and will hear from counsel on the matter of the application for the temporary restraining order.

Mr. WALLACE. That being the case, your Honor,
1222 I anticipate that I will probably be unable to be here. I have had an engagement of long standing over the weekend, and in case I cannot break it, and in order to facilitate matters, may I request that Mr. Tremaine make such presentations as may be necessary on behalf of my client?

The COURT. You may do as you like. If Mr. Tremaine is here and Mr. Westover is here you may make whatever arrangements you care to.

Mr. TREMAINE. I see no conflict as between my client and Mr. Wallace's. We are both interpleaders. I do not object, if that is satisfactory to the Court.

The COURT. Very well. 11:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. WESTOVER. May we have the stipulation that there will be no removal of documents at least until tomorrow morning from the premises at Long Beach?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. There will be no removal.

Mr. WESTOVER. Thank you. I would like to have that of record.

Mr. CARTER. I do not anticipate being here tomorrow morning, your Honor. I doubt if I would be of any help to the Court. I know but very little about this case.

The COURT. Whoever wants to be here can be here. I will be here at 11:00 o'clock.

September 14, 1946; 11:15 o'clock A. M.

(In chambers.)

The COURT. All right. Who wants to start off?

Mr. WESTOVER. Your Honor, do you want to take up the ex parte motion first?

The COURT. On the matter of the settlement of the findings of fact, conclusions of law and degree, I have already indicated that the defendants, and those who did not approve them as to form or otherwise, would be given sufficient time to lodge their objections after Mr. Walker returns, and I understand he will not return until next Tuesday. For that reason we will not discuss that matter today, which leaves the only thing here the matter of the motion for a temporary restraining order re interference with operation of Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

I have read the various affidavits that were filed. Has anybody anything to add?

Mr. WESTOVER. You mean in argument, your Honor?

The COURT. You have here in addition to the temporary restraining order a notice of motion.

Mr. WALLACE. That is the motion of the preliminary injunction predicated on the restraining order I believe sir.

The Court. Now on your restraining order here, as I read it, this would amount to an immediate and 1226 forthwith ouster of Ammann.

Mr. WESTOVER. An immediate and forthwith restoration of possession; yes, your Honor.

The COURT. Yes.

Mr. WESTOVER. Our theory on that, if your Honor please, is that the statutory court, composed of three judges, having already rendered its opinion, that this provision of the act, Section 5(d) being unconstitutional and that the only authority of Mr. Ammann and his associates, if any, being bottomed upon that unconstitutional act, that in effect he becomes an unauthorized person without any authority if the unconstitutionality of that provision of the act is correct, and we of course feel that most obviously it is correct. Therefore in simple language Mr. Ammann and his staff either are, in effect, trespassers upon the property and the assets of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, or the management and ownership, and the management of that association and all of its assets should immediately be forthwith restored to the duly elected and constituted officers of the association and not left to continue even temporarily in the hands of an unauthorized person. Any and all acts that are being done by Mr. Ammann or any of his staff are open, of course, to serious question. In our opinion they are void ab initio, and the making of loans, investments—as your Honor expressed it from the bench 1227 yesterday, whether good or bad investments—are subject to the question of whether they are valid at all and if he is an unauthorized person they certainly are not valid.

Now whether or not the officers ultimately would want to rescind his purported actions on all these various things would depend obviously upon subsequent facts. But in the event to let him continue to act unauthorizedly, we feel is highly detrimental to the association.

We feel that our affidavits indicate that the association is being seriously prejudiced. We think that is shown by the fact that there has been a decline in the assets of the association from roughly 8 million dollars to nearly 10 million dollars of loss since the matter was agreed on July 16th, a matter of a little less than two months.

The amount of the daily overhead of the conservator and his staff, in excess and above that of the employees of the association, the former employees of the association, amounts to something better than $400 a day which I suppose, in view of these millions that we are here considering, is only a drop in the bucket, but to most of us constitutes something of an item, and therefore we feel that the delay in obviously meeting the objections and the time which it will necessarily consume in settling the decree and findings of fact, conclusions of law increases particularly since there is going to be opposition from the United States Attorney's office as to the 1228 little time, and we certainly don't want to prejudice them in their right to take such time as they feel necessary and your Honor feels necessary to settle those findings and conclusions and that during that interim period the association will suffer further irreparable damage.

In that connection, I think it is well to recall to all of our minds that this is essentially a financial institution. I guess we are all agreed and recognize the fact that there is probably nothing so shy as money, and the least question or uncertainty or indecision that reaches the public and the investors and shareholder members of necessity causes them to be fearful and results in the loss of that confidence which is one of the most valuable assets of such a financial institution.

I think that has been well demonstrated by this loss of —I like to use the word "deposits," although I don't believe it is proper in this savings and loan association—the loss of the shareholder members' investments amounting to over 10 million dollars demonstrates that fact I believe very clearly.

Another point that I believe should be recalled is that the titles to a great deal of real property are involved in this matter. Unfortunately many innocent parties who have come into escrow, attempted to pay off their loans, are finding that it is impossible to get a guaranteed, insured title through the title companies because of this 1229 situation where we have an unauthorized—I assume ... that can be assumed now in view of your Honor's decision—person handling the affairs of this association, making loans, asking for reconveyances, etc., that those titles are not marketable and they are not insurable and are being held up.

We have numerous instances, I am advised of one in particular that is a good example; of a lady who had sold her home for some $20,000 in escrow. The title could not be cleared and wasn't and the delay, and so forth, resulted in the loss of that sale. She resold the property for $15,000, at a loss of $5,000 to her, and the same results followed. I understand now that she has not resold it again at all. Of course maybe if property keeps on going up she will regain that, but that is something I don't believe should be continued, that condition of uncertainty.

We feel that it would be highly inconsistent for the Court, if I may express it that way, the three-judge statutory court, to render an opinion that a statute is unconstitutional and that the purported conservator has no authority except such as is bottomed upon such unconstitutional statute, and at the same time let that trespasser, if I may use that expression without any vindictiveness at all, continue in possession, management, control and operation of the assets of a financial institution of this size and magnitude where he has no authority except such as 1230 is founded upon what has been declared to be an unconstitutional statute.

Now your Honor has already read the several affidavits —I think there are seven or eight on file here—showing that bonds were sold in July to the extent of roundly 5 million dollars, on July 10th and again on July 29th, the total amounting to approximately 5 million dollars.

Bank accounts have been transferred and changed, taken out of the name of the association and placed in the name of Mr. Ammann as conservator, when we of course have no way of knowing how we are going to get those assets back into the association's name again, unless we have the full cooperation of Mr. Ammann in so doing, or the specific and, we hope, immediate order of this Court that they be restored to the proper officers.

I might say as a practical matter that that looks very much like a maneuver to have those assets placed in a position where it will take extensive litigation to get them back into the name of the association. Maybe that can be offset if Mr. Ammann signs the necessary transfers of accounts and various assets voluntarily and pursuant to the order of this court voluntarily.

Now we find that I think Judge Dougherty yesterday evening suggested that the investment of funds by Mr. Ammann was necessary to continue the earning of interest and that as conservator, or even as purported con-1231 servator, conservator de facto, that that was proper for him so do do, and we understand—I will grant you this is not strictly speaking in the affidavits but we have only been able to develop it this morning from the records, and so forth, and we haven't had time to make affidavits on it—but we understand that loans have been made in areas and to people considerably in excess of the size of loans that the association had formerly been making on similar property in the same district. I think the figures were that they had been loaning around $2,000 on certain types of houses in a certain district and now they are loaning about $3,000 on that same type of house and the same district.

The business practices we feel have not been compatible with good practice as followed by the conservator. For instance, the tearing of signatures off of notes and trust deeds as a means of canceling them after recording, and virtually making it impossible to show the cancellation short of a quit title. The particular case here submitted to your Honor is already in difficulty, as I understand it from Mr. Wallace.

Mr. WALLACE. Here is the original mutilated document. It shows up a lot better than the photostat does. (Exhibiting document)

Mr. WESTOVER. It is not a question of someone having inadvertently done that, as shown by the affidavit of Mr. Ammann himself, that the signatures of said note and deed of trust were torn off before the instruments were 1232 returned to Mr. M. C. Stanford, the party who had cancelled the loan.

The other affidavits are rather extensive. There is also a great many letters from people who have been treated very discourteously, etc. I do not want to bore your Honor with reviewing all of those matters in detail, but it certainly indicates, in summation, to us that the business is not being handled in a manner to aid its continued growth as it has in the past 15 years, from $7,500 up to a 26 million dollar institution. Indeed, since the so-called conservator has had it in his possession it has gone down from roughly 26 million dollars to 16 million dollars in a matter of less than six months.

There are other various business practices, such as repurchasing accounts for cash without even taking signatures of the parties repurchasing them or turning them in. Of course where that is done by check the check itself is signature enough, but where it is done for cash there is nothing binding upon the former shareholder member except the lack of possession of their passbook.

There are other business transactions, such as instances of paying one woman who only had $800 on deposit, paying out to her something like, I think, $3,200 more than she had on deposit, and even there was some question of whether the association, under the conservator's management, even wanted to take the money back. She 1233 offered it back and she finally had to go to a bank and have them send it back.

Those kind of practices we feel are not compatible with good business and justify our asking your Honor to exercise the equitable jurisdiction of this court in granting an immediate restraining order mandatory, if you wish to call it such, restoring the duly constituted officers to an immediate possession of their property—I say of their property; by that I mean their management of the property—of the association forthwith and to stop these practices.

We feel that that should be done instantaneously and before any other assets are removed or transferred or placed beyond the control of the officers or beyond the immediate control of this court. We understand that something like 10 million dollars—I am giving some of these figures from memory more or less—of assets have been placed on deposit with the San Francisco Federal Home Loan Bank. That is in litigation as to whether that is a proper bank or properly constituted. Loans have been made to it, and that places us in this position, your Honor, that when the duly constituted officers recover possession of the premises, as we assume they are entitled to do if we feel your Honor's decision is correct, and we are satisfied that it is, that places us in this position of having to seek from Mr. Fahey, the very man whom we have been litigating with here, the restoration of approximately 10 million dollars of our assets, or be in the 1234 position of being embarrassed for the possession of our immediate assets and funds unless he gives them to us voluntarily, he being in charge, at least indirectly if not absolutely directly, of an institution which is now being attacked as probably an invalid or an improper institution, the San Francisco bank so-called.

Now as to the power of this court to do this, we feel that there is no question of the Court's authority to do so. The granting of a temporary restraining order I believe is, under Section 380(a), we will all concede, I believe, is certainly within the power and discretion of the district judge to whom the matter is presented, a single one-judge court. We feel we are entitled to the relief—may I express it that way, your Honor—fundamentally, equitably and factually. The only question I think that remains is how are the mechanics or the procedure best adapted to put into effect your Honor's and the three-judge statutory court's opinion of unconstitutionality and to cut this Gordian knot and unscramble the eggs and unravel this very complicated situation. We feel that the sooner that is done the easier it will be. Now if that is to be delayed for months, six, eight, ten, twelve months, while appeals are taken, if they should be taken, we feel it would be tremendously detrimental and might even result, in effect, in the total loss of the litigation even though we won it. It would be an empty victory.

1235 There are a good many people involved here, there are a great many parcels of real property involved—I don't believe they are going to remain quiescent indefinitely under this more or less, to them, uncertain situation. They expect their officers that they elect to be restored to possession forthwith.

I might say in that connection your shareholders' committee has—I don't think it is in affidavit form so I don't want to really go into it—but we have such a substantial volume of the remaining members.

The Court. It appears in an affidavit that you have some 56 per cent here.

Mr. Westover. Something like that, your Honor. So we feel that your shareholders' committee is equitably representing the majority of the shareholders.

I might say, those percentages are excluding any officers and directors and proxies which we feel—in other words, we have tried to remain impartial even to the present officers. The shareholders' committee, if they accept the proxies of the present officers, and so forth, would have even a larger percentage of control, so to speak.

Likewise there are a lot of very nominal accounts which under the rule would be entitled to a vote. In other words, the small schoolboy accounts, dollar accounts, things like that. There are around 3500 of those,

1236 I believe. There are certain other accounts that have been more or less questioned at different times because of the smallness of those accounts, of which each would be entitled to one vote even though it is a very nominal amount. None of those—I say none, there may be a few but substantially none of those—large blocks of small accounts have been taken into account at all in this, although we feel that they could be readily obtained if needed.

Now to revert back to the mechanics or the procedure of how best to effectuate what we feel was the intent and purpose of the opinion of the statutory court, to the effect that the act, being unconstitutional, and the only authority Mr. Ammann and Mr. Fahey had was bottomed upon that unconstitutional provision that flows therefrom, that the entire litigation, if that is correct, is determinable from that decision or that opinion, and it flows as night follows the day that the only thing that can follow is the ultimate restoration of the duly constituted officers to possession of the property and management and control of their former shareholder members.

Now in doing that, to remove any possibility of question, we feel there is no possibility of question that the district court and a single judge of it, your Honor, has entire authority to grant a restraining order, either mandatory or otherwise, in effect restoring to full possession the officers of the association at any stage in the pro-1237 ceeding if your Honor feels so advised and so to do.

That normally would require the reconvening, I believe, of the three-judge statutory court.

The Court. What would?

Mr. Westover. The preliminary injunction which would, of course, have to follow the temporary restraining order.

In other words, if we are granted a temporary restraining order I think it must be with an immediate hearing as quickly as possible on a temporary injunction which involves the constitutionality of a Federal act and enjoining the operation of an agency thereunder, under Section 380(a).

The Court. In other words your idea of procedure is that one judge has the power to issue the temporary restraining order?

Mr. Westover. Forthwith; yes.

The COURT. But to issue it pendente lite you must reconvene the three-judge court?

Mr. WESTOVER. For a temporary injunction as distinguished from a temporary restraining order; yes, your Honor.

My thought on that would be simply this—this is one of the mechanics. I grant you it is probably a little bit in uncharted fields. My thought is that the temporary restraining order be issued forthwith, the proper officers be restored to possession, that the matter be set down for hearing in conformance with Section 380(a) at such time as your Honor sees fit within the time of the stat-1238 ute, that it can be continued from time to time as your Honor sees fit for good cause appearing and in the meantime we proceed with the settlement of the judgment and findings of fact and conclusions of law. That immediately upon the settlement of that judgment, which we believe would have to be done by the three judges, that then that in effect makes the preliminary injunction supersede it, so to speak, or makes it a moot question, because the entry of that judgment along the lines we have outlined following your Honor's opinion does call for restoration and possession, it declares the unconstitutionality of the statute, etc., and handles the entire matter.

Then either the preliminary injunction could be marked off calendar, if appeals were taken, and simply held in abeyance pending the determination of any appeal, if there were any, or upon the becoming final of the judgment entered pursuant to the statutory court's opinion the matter would be finally disposed of. There would be no need for further rehashing of the matter other than the rendering of appropriate accounts and things of that nature that are called for in the order.

The COURT. By the way, do you have all the appearances, Mr. Clerk?

The CLERK. I don't know all of them, your Honor.

The COURT. Let us get those now.

This is Mr. Westover, of Westover & Smith, 1239 representing the plaintiffs.

Mr. Tremaine, representing Robert H. Wallis, third party plaintiff.

Mr. WALLACE. H. O. Wallace, representing the defendant and cross-claimant Title Service Company.

The COURT. Mr. Chapman yesterday indicated you were representing the association.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Chapman was not present yesterday, your Honor. He is ill.

Mr. WESTOVER. He is very ill. These matters have been discussed with him. We have been authorized to present them with his full approval, and I will take the responsibility of that.

The COURT. He has joined in the motion?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes.

The COURT. Let me see. There was another third party plaintiff.

Mr. WALLACE. Home Investment Company.

The COURT. Home Investment Company.

Mr. WALLACE. They are not represented nor affected one way or the other.

The COURT. Their deposit is in court here?

Mr. WALLACE. That is right, sir.

The COURT. The defendants here, John H. Fahey, Federal Home Loan Bank, Ammann and all units of 1240 any Governmental agency involved, are represented by Mildred Kluckhohn, Assistant United States Attorney. I do not think Judge Dougherty's appearance has as yet been made a matter of record.

Mr. Silverman?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I am representing Mr. Ammann and Mr. Fahey specially.

The COURT. And Mr. Dougherty is present, Mr. Dougherty's position being general counsel——

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Associate General Counsel, Judge, for the Federal Home Loan Bank system.

Mr. WESTOVER. May we have it clarified whether Judge Dougherty is now being associated i.. the matter or just being present. We have never had that quite clear in our mind.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I should much prefer not to become officially associated in the matter until Mr. Walker gets back and then leave that to his wishes entirely.

The COURT. Mr. Carter indicated that yesterday.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Yes. I would like the privilege of addressing myself to the subject before the matter is through though.

The COURT. The record will show that you are present and you will be heard.

Mr. Bishop?

Mr. BISHOP. I don't prefer to enter any appearance, your Honor, at this time because there is nothing 1241 here that involves us.

The COURT. The record will show that you are here.

Mr. BISHOP. That is right.

The COURT. And your client in the matter is?

Mr. BISHOP. Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco.

The COURT. A unit of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, is that correct?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. That is correct.

Mr. BISHOP. Yes.

The COURT. All right. Who is this gentleman with you?

Mr. BISHOP. He is just with me. He is a friend.

The COURT. What is his name?

Mr. BISHOP. Garber.

The COURT. He has no official connection with any of these matters?

Mr. BISHOP. No sir.

Mr. WESTOVER. Does he represent the press?

Mr. BISHOP. No. He is an attorney.

The COURT. And these other gentlemen are?

Mr. WESTOVER. Mr. Gregory, the president of the Long Beach Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Frazer, F-r-a-z-e-r. He is the escrow officer of the Title Service Company.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WALLACE. May I correct an error I believe 1242 the Court inadvertently made in describing the appearances for the Government? I believe you stated that they were appearing representing the Federal Home Loan Bank. I don't believe that is quite accurate. The only appearance here so far is for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles, for whom an appearance has been entered as a third party defendant by O'Melveny &

Myers and Mr. Fitzpatrick, who are not present this morning.

There is one other matter——

Mr. WESTOVER. Just a moment. May I just straighten that out, your Honor?

The COURT. Federal Home Loan Bank appears all the way through here.

Mr. WESTOVER. The Federal Home Loan Bank of Los Angeles is not present nor have they been served on the ex parte pending motion for temporary restraining order. They were served and concurred in and approved as to form the findings of fact and conclusions of law and decree. This being an ex parte matter, service was of course not required on anybody but was given to the various other counsel as indicated by your Honor a couple of days ago.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WALLACE. In view of the statement made by Judge Dougherty a few moments ago that he does not appear of record, will counsel of record for Messrs. Fahey and Ammann approve the stipulation made in open court 1243 yesterday by Judge Dougherty that there would be no further removal of assets?

Mr. SILVERMAN. Mr. Dougherty made no such stipulation yesterday.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I think that Mr. Westover requested—whatever the record shows—what he requested I believe was documents.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is right.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I said that there would be no such documents removed and I think Mr. Silverman, who was counsel of record, will approve that without any question.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is correct.

Mr. WESTOVER. Does the reporter have the record available?

(The record referred to was read by the reporter as follows:

"Mr. WESTOVER. Might I ask one stipulation in the record from counsel, if we may have it, that pending the hearing of this temporary restraining order tomorrow, as I understand your Honor intends to hear it, nothing will be removed from the premises in Long Beach until the determination of that temporary restraining order.

"The COURT. I was under the impression at the hearing had that the Government was taking the position that nothing would be done concerning the assets, that the conservator would merely be a conservator and 1244 would not continue to invest money and the like. However, I have not checked the record to see if my impression is borne out by any statement made.

"Mr. DOUGHERTY. Your Honor please, if I may make just one statement very briefly, I think it will probably be the duty of the conservator under this type of conservatorship to try to invest the funds so that it would not lie idly and not bear any interest for the Association. I think that has been done. I think also it would be his duty to attempt, as best he could under these trying circumstances, to keep the business of the Association going on so that whoever did take over the Association eventually would have the benefit of what good will could be built up. I think that is what has been done.

"The COURT. I think if all counsel will return tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock I will then have time to read your affidavits and will hear from counsel on the matter of the application for the temporary restraining order.

"Mr. WALLACE. That being the case, your Honor, I anticipate that I will probably be unable to be here. I have had an engagement of long standing over the week-end, and in case I cannot break it, and in order to facilitate matters, may I request that Mr. Tremaine make such presentations as may be necessary on behalf of my client?

"The COURT. You may do as you like. If Mr. Tremaine is here and Mr. Westover is here you may make whatever arrangements you care to.
1245 "Mr. TREMAINE. I see no conflict as between my client and Mr. Wallace's. We are both interpleaders. I do not object, if that is satisfactory to the Court.

"The COURT. Very well. 11:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

"Mr. WESTOVER. May we have the stipulation that there will be no removal of documents at least until tomorrow morning from the premises at Long Beach?

"Mr. DOUGHERTY. There will be no removal.

"Mr. WESTOVER. Thank you. I would like to have that of record.")

The COURT. Do any of the other persons who have joined in this motion care to say anything supplemental to what Mr. Westover has said?

Mr. WESTOVER. I had not attempted to go into citations because I think the statute itself, your Honor, is sufficient and gives the authority we are asking for. If the question arises we would of course like to be heard on the legal point.

Also I would like to file at this time the affidavit which has been prepared since last night. These have not been served because it is an ex parte matter, your Honor.

The COURT. These are all the copies?

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes, for the Court. The original and four as required. Then I have some other copies here for counsel.

The COURT. Maybe they will want to read these.

Mr. SILVERMAN. I would like to read it, your Honor.

1246 The COURT. The effect of this is an affidavit by Mr. Bacon that last night after 5:00 o'clock Mr. Ammann, Mr. Ray Williams, Robert Moore and E. M. Boreland removed large packages of records from the association.

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, may the record show that due to the number of copies required I only have one extra copy, but I will give that, I presume, to Miss Kluckhohn.

The COURT. Yes. She is the attorney of record.

Did you have anything at present to supplement the statement, Mr. Wallace?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, your Honor, I have. I will take them in the inverse order.

With reference to what Mr. Westover said about the hearing on the preliminary injunction before a three-judge court, I wish merely to stress the fact that if the proposed decree or judgment is in the form submitted that it in and of itself will merge the order for the restoration of possession and, as Mr. Westover said, it will become moot, therefore not requiring the ultimate hearing by a three-judge court on a constitutional question.

The next matter is the time which might be anticipated for the settling of that judgment and its entry. With the most expeditious handling of that matter it appears that the objections could not be prepared and offered 1247 prior to the end of next week.

Mr. WESTOVER. Pardon me. May I do one thing, your Honor, before counsel gets any further? I should file these other three copies of the motion, which I should have done the first thing. I am sorry I overlooked it.

The COURT. Go ahead.

Mr. WALLACE. Our five-day period automatically becomes six with the intervening Sunday, so next Thursday I believe would be the earliest day at which it could be considered, if there is no extension of time which, from the remarks made yesterday, we anticipate will be requested and granted.

The COURT. Extension of time?

Mr. WALLACE. For the preparation of objections to the proposed form of judgment.

The COURT. If there is any doubt about it, I will make an order right now.

Mr. WALLACE. There is no matter of argument about it. I merely wanted to point out to the Court the minimum time within which it might be expected to be considered.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I may say to the Court, if I may, that there will be no additional time asked for for the submission of objections. We will meet the regular time without any request for further time.

The COURT. Without Mr. Walker being here?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. From the time Mr. Walker gets here.

1248 The COURT. You mean five days after he gets here? The rule is five days after service.

Mr. WALLACE. Which would expire next Wednesday.

The COURT. The five days?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I would have no objection at all, and I believe Mr. Walker would have none, if the hearing were set on these matters any time, say, two to three days after he returns.

The COURT. I don't know about setting the hearing, because Judge Orr is in San Francisco and Judge Ling has now returned to Arizona. I think whatever your proposed findings are and your proposed objections are, you should transmit them and not until then is it necessary to have a hearing.

Mr. Dougherty. We will file them not later than next Thursday.

The Court. You probably will have them all ready when Mr. Walker gets back and all you will need is to get his signature.

Mr. Dougherty. We will do the best we can.

Mr. Westover. Since Judge Dougherty is not attorney of record, may we have the stipulation or statement approved by the counsel of record?

Miss Kluckhohn. Yes, it is approved.

Mr. Westover. Mr. Silverman?

1249 Mr. Silverman: That is agreeable.

Mr. Wallace. Following along my general trend of thought——

The Court. I will not make any order at this time extending the time to file objections.

Mr. Dougherty. We will keep our word, Judge.

The Court. I mean, if it is necessary I want to settle it now.

Mr. Dougherty. It won't be necessary.

The Court. All right.

Mr. Wallace. I was more or less thinking out loud, computing how soon this matter might be reached, and in view of your Honor's statement you anticipate distributing the same to the other two judges, in which event we might anticipate a lapse of as much as several weeks before the judgment finds its ultimate form and is approved. In view of that, it is going to be very, very difficult to adequately inform people who have judged from the press notices that the officers of the association either were or immediately will be restored to possession, and to tell them why it is not possible for us to go ahead and make the reconveyances which they are requesting. I have had at least two or three, not threats but virtual promises, of additional litigation, etc., by way of intervention by trustees under deeds of trust intervening in this matter, as did the Home Investment Company,

1250 or actions in the Superior Court to quit title, which would of course necessitate our asking the restrain-ing hand of this Court to stay those actions pending disposition of the matter in this court.

All of that, as Mr. Westover indicated, certainly does not make for good will and develops a great amount of ill feeling and ill favor toward my client, Title Service Company, the trustee whose hands are bound in the matter.

Also supplementing what Mr. Westover had to say about the distribution of the assets of the association as taken over by the conservator, it is my understanding on information and belief that approximately 10 million dollars worth of promissory notes and trust deeds which secured the same have been deposited by the conservator with the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco, notwithstanding that those very same documents are the subject matter of my bill in the nature of interpleader. Of course I couldn't deposit them with the registry of the court because I did not have physical possession of them.

I would like also to correct one, what is probably an inadvertent statement made by Mr. Westover, and that is with reference to the passbooks being left in the hands of the association after accounts were closed. The practice, as I understand it, and as I believe sets forth in one of the affidavits, is that those passbooks were re-1251 turned to the depositors. I have had some clients who have had that experience, who have gone over and withdrawn their funds and the passbook after the entry is made of the balance on hand nil, the passbooks have physically been returned to them.

The Court. That is contrary to the previous practice?

Mr. Wallace. As I understand it, it is.

The Court. In other words, the evidence of the association that the depositor has no funds is the passbook?

Mr. Wallace. That is correct, sir.

The Court. Which the depositor keeps as long as he has funds but when he has none he surrenders?

Mr. Wallace. Upon the checking out of the account the passbook is surrendered to and picked up by the association.

The Court. It is his evidence of debt?

Mr. Wallace. That is right.

Then there were two matters adverted to by Mr. Westover which particularly affect my client, Title Service Company. One is the affidavit of one of the now employees of the conservator, with reference to the fact that in at least one case which has come to her personal attention, FHA promissory notes and deeds of trust had been paid off and that she had made the necessary notices which had been forwarded to the Federal Housing Administration but that she had not, and had been instructed not to, enter that fact upon the books of the association and that the same were being carried in the nature 1252 of accounts receivable, indicating an erroneous reflection of the true facts which might have a very definite bearing upon the matter of obtaining a good and sufficient trust deed—I should say reconveyance—at the demand of the trustor.

And finally, the matter of the manner of the handling of some of the trust deeds. Mr. Westover referred to the mutilation of a trust deed and promissory note in lieu of canceling the same as supported by an affidavit of Mr. Hammion, which is attached to the affidavit of Mr. Frazer as it appears in the file, but since the photostats do not adequately disclose the condition of the instrument I would like to suggest that your Honor inspect the same and, if I may have it returned to my file.

(The document referred to was passed to the Court.)

The COURT. The notary's signature as well as the party's is destroyed.

Mr. WALLACE. It also shows in the photostat, but the file punch which had been put through the thing also deletes the page number of the recording date on the back of the trust deed.

The COURT. I see.

Mr. WALLACE. And for all of those reasons, in addition to those set forth by Mr. Westover, we feel, on behalf of Title Service Company, that in order to prevent further depletion or disposition of our security with 1253 which we are charged as trustee, that an injunction should be granted ex parte at this time to follow the usual course.

That is all.

The COURT. Mr. Tremaine?

Mr. TREMAINE. Yes, your Honor.

Mr. Chapman, as attorney for the association, wished me to express his regrets at being unable to be here and to convey your Honor his belief that a further delay would cause a further deterioration of the situation, and to convey to your Honor that he believes the motion, in which he is one of the moving parties, to be a very serious matter.

The rest of the argument is not at his suggestion but in line with it, in my own language.

I want to point out that it is impossible, from our side of the picture, to pick up all of the acts of mismanagement or bad management that may be taking place under the management of the conservator, that such information as has been obtained is, I believe, quite strong, particularly as a large part of it comes from people who are now employees of Mr. Ammann. They have risked their livelihood, employment, in making statements which they have, and I think should be taken in consideration of the fact that where a certain amount of fire is found and there is a large amount of smoke we may assume that there is more fire.

The constant deterioration of the volume of 1254 assets we think is the principal argument and speaks for itself. I wish to concur in the remarks of Mr. Westover, particularly as being adopted by the defendant Wallis.

The COURT. Very well. Miss Kluckhohn, do you wish Mr. Dougherty to speak on your behalf?

Miss KLUCKHOHN. Yes, if you please, your Honor.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Your Honor please, I want to first express my sincere appreciation to the Court for permitting me to address myself to this matter. I recognize that things like this probably should be handled by the United States Attorney's office, and inasmuch as Mr. Walker is absent, and I had some familiarity with it, we decided it might be better for me to attempt, in my poor way, to present it to you.

Mr. T. EMAINE. Just a moment, if you will, Judge.

I believe, your Honor, that if Judge Dougherty is going to make an argument here that it ought to be done as a matter of record. I have no objection to his association but I don't think that non-counsel should address the Court.

Mr. WALLACE. I would join in that objection.

The COURT. I think in view of the situation, that Mr. Walker is not here, that he consulted me before he left—I did not know that this matter would be presented—and in view of the fact that Miss Kluckhohn stated that she did not have any particular familiarity with this matter 1255 —she didn't state that here. Maybe it would be well to have her make a statement in connection with it.

Miss KLUCKHOHN. I will make the statement, your Honor, that I have no familiarity with this case at all and, as Mr. Carter stated, I think there is no one in the office who has, so we ask the Court that Mr. Dougherty be allowed to be heard in the case.

The COURT. You adopt his statement as your statement?

Miss KLUCKHOHN. Yes, your Honor.

The COURT. The objection will be overruled. You may proceed.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. As I understand the position taken by Mr. Westover, Mr. Tremaine and Mr. Wallace, they are maintaining that this more or less extraordinary remedy is properly granted at this time because of the fact that the controversy has now been determined by this Court. Is that right?

Mr. WESTOVER. In effect, yes, that the heart of the matter has been determined by the Court in determining the unconstitutionality of the act, and that what authority, if any, of the purported conservator is bottomed upon the unconstitutional statute. We feel the rest of it flows therefrom.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Is that your view, Mr. Wallace?

Mr. WALLACE. Yes, I concur.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. And you, Mr. Tremaine?

Mr. TREMAINE. And mine.

1256 Mr. DOUGHERTY. That being the position taken, if your Honor please, I should like to briefly read Section 380(a) of Title 28, defining the authority of a three-judge court.

"No interlocutory or permanent injunction suspending or restraining the enforcement, operation, or execution of, or setting aside, in whole or in part, any Act of Congress upon the ground that such Act or any part thereof is repugnant to the Constitution of the United States shall be issued or granted by any circuit judge acting as district judge, unless the application for the same shall be presented to a circuit or district judge, and shall be heard and determined by three judges, of whom at least one shall be a circuit judge. When any such application is presented to a judge, he shall immediately request the senior circuit judge (or in his absence, the presiding circuit judge) of the circuit in which such district court is located to designate two other judges to participate in hearing and determining such application. It shall be the duty of the senior circuit judge or the presiding circuit judge, as the case may be, to designate immediately two other judges from such circuit for such purpose, and it shall be the duty of the judges so designated to participate in such 1257 hearing and determination. Such application shall not be heard or determined before at least five days' notice of the hearing has been given to the Attorney General and to such other persons as may be defendants in the suit:"—(and this is the part I am interested in)—"Provided, That if of opinion that irreparable loss or damage would result to the petitioner unless a temporary restraining order is granted, the judge to whom the application is made may grant such temporary restraining order at any time before the hearing and determination of the application * * *"

It is my view that in view of the position taken here, if they maintain that the matter has not been heard and determined by the three-judge court, that the power of one judge to act in this matter has now been foreclosed and that the application which they now have must be presented to the three judges.

I am merely saying that because this is a very extraordinary procedure and is apparently an attempt to secure final relief in their case before answer has been filed, before default or before even the decree of the court has been entered upon its opinion.

If that position is correct on the statute, it would seem to me that it would be necessary to have this hearing before the three-judge court convened. My own suggestion 1258 would be—this is the way it seems to me this matter should be determined—they have submitted findings of fact, conclusions of law and a proposed decree. Those were submitted very, very recently, just a few days ago. We have no disposition whatsoever to delay the final determination of this matter. I am certain that we would like to have it disposed of just as quickly as humanly possible and as it can suit the convenience of this court. We will put nothing in the way of a quick determination in so far as it is made in accordance with what we believe the law to be. We want that done. It is very essential to us to learn whether or not this section of the statute under which we operate is or is not constitutional. We must know that as soon as possible.

Now if the Court feels that there is anything in that particular statute to require the three-judge court to hear this matter, it is unnecessary to go further at this time. If not, I have some other authorities and some other argument which I would like to present.

The COURT. Give me the rest of them while I think them all over.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. All right.

The COURT. Has that section been construed, the portion upon which you are relying?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. If your Honor please, the only construction that I have been able to find in the short time I have had to look into it is found in the third volume of Moore's Federal Practice at page 3539 and subsequent, which volume cites the Stratton v. St. Louis & Southwestern Railroad Company, a Supreme Court decision, and makes this statement——

The COURT. What is the citation?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. 282 U. S. 10. It does not, however, cite the particular point that is here involved.

I call your Honor's attention to the statement under fourth and under fifth in that decision.

The COURT. Footnote four and five?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I only have Moore's volume here and it is quoted in italics, fourth and fifth, which is the point that I think is rather important.

The COURT. There doesn't seem to be any fifth here.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I have here the way it is written in this book. I don't know whether it is the same as it is there or not, sir.

(The volume referred to was passed to the Court.)

The Court. It involved here a state statute.

Mr. Dougherty. That is right. That was under Section 380, which was not quite as strongly written, I believe, as Section 380(a) in this particular regard.

The Court. It is the same language.

On page 17 I think probably is the only material portion of the opinion.

1260 "'The requirement of the statute has regard to substance and not to form. It matters not whether the injunction is called preliminary or interlocutory, or is styled a temporary restraining order, if it is granted to restrain the enforcement of state legislation and is continued in force until the hearing on the merits, without such restraint pending the suit being made the subject of consideration and determination by three judges as the statute requires.

In other words, here the district judge did not at any time call in three judges. He proceeded to grant the temporary restraining order, the defendant made a motion to dismiss, they heard it on the merits and did not call in three judges, and the Court held that he did not have the jurisdiction to hear it on the merits although he did have the power to grant the restraining order.

Now the next sentence here says:

"The temporary restraining order which the District Judge, acting alone, could grant is only to maintain the status quo, on proper cause being shown, for such time as may be necessary to obtain a decision upon the application for an interlocutory injunction by a court of three judges, which is to be immediately convened."

1261 Yet that doesn't go to this point as to whether or not after the three-judge court had been convened and they have filed their opinion and not followed it by a formal entry order.

Mr. Dougherty. Your Honor please, I do not contend that the Stratton case construes this particular point in this statute. I responded to your inquiry as to whether or not it had been construed, and it has as to that point.

This particular point on this statute I think is clear enough from the language of the statute itself. I think it is very clear:

"Provided, That if of opinion that irreparable loss or damage would result to the petitioner unless a temporary restraining order is granted, the judge to whom the application is made may grant such temporary restraining order at any time before the hearing and determination of the application * * *"

It is the conteption of these gentlemen here, as they have stated, that the matter has been heard and determined, and it is upon the basis of that determination that they are seeking this extraordinary reimedy. Either the matter has been determined or it has not been determined. They maintain it has been determined. If so, their application should be made before a three-judge court, under the words of the statute.

1262 The Court. It being a corrolary of your position that the application to oust the conservator was not included in the previous application?

Mr. Dougherty. That is true; yes, your Honor. My position on this particular matter is simply this, that the statute having set up a procedure, it has to be followed. The statute having granted certain authority to the judge who calls a three-judge court, that authority is limited by the provisions of the statute, and it is my feeling that we should comply very strictly with the provisions of the statute in securing any orders.

They are worried about titles being clouded. If orders are entered here without the strict compliance with the statute, I would hesitate to attempt to assure anybody that the Title Insurance Company would come in and approve all these titles. Whether the Title Service Company in its duty to its clients would want to execute reconveyances, I don't know.

The Court. Do you wish to be heard on this point?

Mr. Westover. Yes, if your Honor please:

I think counsel is failing to distinguish what his question to us a few minutes ago implied and what our replies implied. We feel that the fundamental of this entire proceeding is the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of the section, and that in the determination of that everything else necessarily flows therefrom. But that

1263 doesn't mean that we feel that because of that these matters of depletion should be allowed to continue while appeals are pending and determination is going to be made ultimately final which may be a matter of many months if appeals are taken. We feel this, that this is a new application for a temporary restraining order on the question of immediate repossession as distinguished from the former motion which was a motion for a restraining order restraining the administrative hearings and a motion for restraining merger and commingling, etc.

Now we feel that we are entitled to come in on this motion ex parte.

The Court. Do you, by making this motion, concede thereby that it was not before the Court, the taking over of the possession?

Mr. Westover. No. We feel that our complaint covered the entire matter, your Honor. The complaint asked for restoration of possession, permanent injunction, accounting, and so forth, the entire matter. But the first motion was a temporary restraining order followed by an application for a permanent injunction to restrain merger, and so forth and so on.

The Court. I gathered from your previous statement and from reading your proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law that you consider the entire matter disposed of by disposition of the constitutionality of Section 5(d).

Mr. Westover. That is right, your Honor, as 1264 soon as those are entered.

The Court. And that you are making this request only for the purpose of preserving your position until the decree can be formally entered?

Mr. Westover. That is correct, your Honor.

The Court. As submitted.

Mr. Westover. That is correct.

The reason for that is that where the three-judge statutory court has determined a matter which is determinative of the entire litigation, then they are justified in doing that.

The Court. What is your authority for that?

Mr. Westover. Then they are entitled to go ahead and make their final determination.

The Court. Do you have some authority?

Mr. Westover. Yes. We have the aut-ority along the line of the Coca Cola Company v Los Angeles Brewing Company, which is the decision of Judge McCormick of this local district court, which has never been overruled since its entry. The citation of that is 1 F.R.D. 67.

The COURT. It is in the Federal Supplement too some place, is it not?

Mr. WESTOVER. We were unable to find it there, your Honor.

The COURT. What is the case number?

Mr. WESTOVER. 427-M. It was a matter of patent 1265 infringement.

The COURT. What was the date of that?

Mr. WESTOVER. November 6, 1939.

Reading from the decision:

"The court believes that these matters are admittedly in the sound discretion of the court, to be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily."

The COURT. What matters?

Mr. WESTOVER. That is the start of the Court's decision. That is applying, of course, to this action of the Coca Cola Company on a hearing to show cause why a preliminary injunction should not be issued restraining pendente lite the commercial use of the term "Coke" in the manufacture, sale and marketing by the defendants of a beverage under such name.

"The court believes that these matters are admittedly in the sound discretion of the court, to be exercised judicially and not arbitrarily. There is, however, a fixed principle in patent law and I dare say it is applicable in trademark litigation as well. It has been applied in many cases by this court. It operates where there isn't anything to be gained by prolonging litigation except to afford one or the other of the litigants a respite and moratorium to suspend the enforcement of rights; but that is no 1266 safe criterion in determining the course that the court should follow on an application for a preliminary injunction. It usually applies in patent litigation where there has been a prior adjudication validating a patent and the only question at issue is one of infringement. There the situation can be arrived at generally, except in so far as the question of infringement is concerned, just as securely and much more satisfactorily on the preliminary application as it can by a trial after a long hearing, expensive both as to time and as to money.

"What is there here that can be modified or changed of that needs any further exploration? What factual situation is there that could be any more definitely presented to the court in January than today? I think there is nothing. There may be many more affidavits filed on each side of the question. There may be a great deal of oral testimony developed on both sides of the issue. There may be extensive arguments made as to the effect of those matters but, upon analysis, the same issue will be presented. If that is the case, it should be determined summarily."

Then jumping:

"As a result of that protection, there has 1267 developed something that is perhaps as valuable as the article or the name itself and that is the good-will that attends the property right."

We feel that that is involved in this situation here, the stability and integrity of this association is being severely undermined.

"It is said that these matters can be properly covered by damages. I am not sure that they could be properly covered by damages. The beverage of the Los Angeles Brewing Company may be more potable."

I would like to just digress there, that the bond which has been filed by Mr. Ammann, your Honor will note from the affidavits on file, is in the amount of only $100,000, and runs to Mr. Fahey, not in favor of the association, and hence affords no protection, in our opinion, whatsoever.

A permanent injunction was granted in this case without further proceedings.

The Court. The Court rendered an oral decision. That will be in here then.

(Addressing Mr. Wallace.) Did you find it?

Mr. Wallace. I didn't check the file, your Honor, to discover the decision. All I checked was to find out if the injunction was made permanent, which was not stated in the opinion.

1268 Mr. Dougherty. I fail to see where this decision on patent law has anything to do with the authority of a three-judge court. The authority of a three-judge court is a matter under Section 380(a).

Mr. Tremaine. Three-judge courts are a district court and have the same power.

The COURT. My inquiry went to the proposition as to whether or not the three-judge court would have the power to grant the relief which they are requesting by submitting this decree. In other words, whether or not this is a new application under the statute or whether or not it is merely supplemental to the other. If it is a new application for a different thing and the movants here cannot have an irreconcilable position in that respect, if it is a new application then your position concerning the statute would not apply.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. If it is a new application, I have some cases which I, of course, would like to submit to your Honor also. But I suppose perhaps we had better finish this discussion before I attempt to submit those, or whatever you wish.

Mr. WESTOVER. I might submit just one thing. I think I had better file notices of motion for preliminary injunction and the motion for the—of course they will not be ready until your Honor sets a date for hearing on them, if you do.

1269 Mr. TREMAINE. I would like to add one comment, if I may, your Honor.

Judge Dougherty's question caught me a little off guard. There is a decided distinction, I think, between a judgment and an opinion. Where I answered at least, and I think my colleagues over here had the same idea, the opinion having expressed a determination of the three judges, if the three judges follow their opinion, which we are assuming they will, will become a decision and a determination upon signature and entry. That has not yet been done and that is in large part the reason why the moving parties are here today, to get some interim relief. In other words, there not being a judgment, although in one sense there has been a determination, I think in a technical sense we were talking about a determination which naturally would flow from the opinion. I don't think we ought to be misled on the technicalities of language. I think the meaning was the same. There is no enforceable judgment until your Honor and the other two judges sign one. There can't be. There has been no relief asked for in the way of temporary restraining orders, motions for preliminary injunctions, which in themselves by their own prayers would authorize an interim order giving a mandatory injunction for possession.

The Court. In other words, your position is that the language reads that the judge to whom the applica-1270 tion is made may grant such temporary restraining order at any time before the hearing and determination but that there is no determination made until the judgment is entered.

Mr. Tremaine. Yes, your Honor.

Mr. Wallace. Under a far stretch of the imagination, all three of the gentlemen may change their minds this afternoon and the opinion would be invalidated and a new opinion rendered prior to the entry of the judgment.

It seems to me, with reference to the argument advanced, that Judge Dougherty is making an argument somewhat similar to the argument which was advanced before the three-judge court in reference to the attack on the legislation not being an attack upon the act itself, and which was so summarily disposed of in the opinion in a one-line statement.

Mr. Tremaine. As to the powers of a single judge where there is a three-judge court, I don't have it here with me, but in 17 Cyc. Federal Procedure, second edition, page 161, Section 6601, I find this quotation—and there are cases cited—"The power of a judge to grant a restraining order is the same as his power to grant an injunction proper even where a three-judge court is necessary."

Now in essence we are only asking what has already been done twice here before, a temporary restraining order to be followed by the statutory procedure of convening of the three judges on a preliminary injunction. But, 1271 as Mr. Westover and Mr. Wallace have said, if the decree and judgment is entered prior to the hearing by the three judges I believe it becomes a moot question. There would be no need for it. There is no other way to get temporary relief.

The Court. If the decree is entered.

Mr. Tremaine. If the decree is entered before the three judges are convened on the preliminary injunction—and the decision covers it—then the issue on preliminary injunction is moot.

The Court. You mean before the three judges are convened upon this present current request?

Mr. TREMAINE. Yes.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. My feeling in the matter, frankly, Judge, is that the ordinary and logical way, one which will not incur too much delay—this case has been going on since May 25th, I believe—would be to have the decree entered in accordance with the opinion as quickly as possible. We will agree to do everything possible to facilitate the hearing on it ourselves.

Mr. WALLACE. In that matter, if the Court please, this is a court of equity and I think, going back to the play upon words made by Judge Dougherty yesterday, and to which we had to appeal to the record here and found that he had bound himself only to preclude a removal of documents and not property, followed by the 1272 evidence of removal of something which may very well have been either documents or property——

Mr. SILVERMAN. Maybe some clothes.

Mr. WALLACE. It may have been. I am not in position to say.

Mr. WESTOVER. Four or five brief cases full.

The COURT. Manila envelopes are not ordinarily used to carry clothing. I say not ordinarily. They have been known to have been used to carry clothing.

Mr. WALLACE. It is my feeling at least that the equity arm of the court should be extended to preclude further exhaustion or depletion or deposition of the property or documents of the association, as has apparently been taking place and consequently we may most readily expect to continue to take place so long as the conservator remains in possession, be it one day or two weeks.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. If your Honor please, I want to say one thing personally on this matter, and that is this, that I said I agreed that no documents be removed yesterday. I could not have agreed that nothing could go out of the association or in it unless we were to close it up this morning and not operate it, and to tell the public that the institution was closed, because obviously they would pay out money and they would do their ordinary business to people who are coming in to withdraw. And had Mr. Westover mentioned documents—I thought he did 1273 so intentionally—so with that thought in mind, to avoid closing the institution, I made that statement.

I couldn't agree otherwise without breaking my word or without telling Mr. Ammann to lock it up this morning.

Mr. WALLACE. Would Judge Dougherty contend for a moment that removal after business hours, approximately half an hour after he made his statement to the Court, would come within the province of those things which he has just discussed, of the paying out of money to shareholders, etc.? I can't conceive that he will go that far.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I have not yet read the affidavit. I have not had opportunity to discuss the matter with these people. As you and I know, one-sided affidavits may present a very wrong factual picture. I am not saying that it does in this case, but it may. And until I could learn that matter and know what I am talking about I could not make any statement here on that. When I make a statement I try to have it accurate and honest.

Mr. WESTOVER. May I just say this, your Honor. If your Honor will recall, and the record will bear me out, Judge Dougherty was of the opinion yesterday afternoon that it was advisable for the conservator to make investments to continue the earnings of the association. With that thought in mind we endeavored over the night to ascertain how that had been done, at least in some small measure, particularly as to the 5 million dollars of 1274 bonds that were sold in July, approximately that, and we presumed had been either reinvested or paid out to shareholders.

We find that there is no deposit not drawing interest since that time as a result thereof $4,729,156.01 which is not drawing interest, and we submit the affidavit of Mr. MacArthur to that effect.

There are other matters in there also.

The COURT. Do you have a copy of that for opposing counsel?

Mr. WESTOVER. Unfortunately, due to the number of copies required, we were unable to have a large number in this short time. I only have one copy. We will give our one copy to Miss Kluckhohn.

The COURT. Do you have some other points that you want to urge, Mr. Dougherty?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Yes, I have, your Honor.

In the Southern Pacific Railroad Company v. the City of Oakland, cited in the Northern District of California, Federal Reporter, Volume 58, page 50, the Court said, in relation to a preliminary injunction—let me say first, your Honor please, this action was started May 25th and at that time Mr. Ammann was in as conservator and was in possession of Long Beach Federal, and has been ever since that time. The Court says in relation to the extent of the preliminary injunction, on page 52:

1275 "But what should be the extent of the preliminary injunction? The defendants contend that it cannot be made to undo that which has been done. The plaintiff contends, contra, that it should have such restraint as to permit the rstoration of the property to the condition it was in before it was disturbed. In 1 High, Inj. Section 4, the rule is laid down as follows:

"'The sole object of an interlocutory injunction is to preserve the subject in controversy in its then condition, and, without determining any questions of right, merely to prevent the further perpetration of wrong, or the doing of an act whereby the right in controversy may be materially injured or endangered. * * * The jurisdiction, therefore, being exercised to prevent the further continuance of injurious acts, rather than to undo what has already been done, on an interlocutory application for an injunction, courts of equity will only act prospectively, and will interpose only such restraint as may suffice to stop the mischief complained of, and preserve matters in statu quo.

'The text is supported and illustrated by several cases.

In Murdock's Case, 2 Bland, 461, the action was to 1276 restrain the erection of a fence, and to remove the fence already erected, which included part of plaintiff's land. The injunction was denied as to the fence, which was erected, the court saying 'that plaintiff asked the court now and at once to put forth in his behalf its remedial, as well as its conservative, powers,' and added: 'The principal object of an injunction in cases of this kind is to prevent irreparable injury by preserving things in their present state, but, if an injunction were to order anything pulled down or undone, it is obvious that it might be itself used as a means for producing that very kind of irreparable injury to the defendant which the bill charged him with being about to perpetrate against the plaintiff."

This case I think is substantiated in the case of——.

The COURT. I think the Court has the power to oust somebody from possession of property if they have taken it even on the granting of preliminary injunction. It depends upon which status quo you want to preserve. The status quo which they contend has caused the injury is the status quo as it existed before the party came in.

MR. DOUGHERTY. They ordinarily use it as status quo pendente lite, which means pending the litigation. I believe that is right. That is my opinion at least.

I have some other citations on this if your Honor 1277 wishes to hear them. One is Community Natural Gas Company v City of Cisco, 65 Fed. (2d) 328; also Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., et al., v Gittone, etc., 110 Fed. (2d) 292. In that case the Court said:

"In the present case the trial judge found that the exhibitor plaintiffs have suffered and will continue to suffer irreparable loss unless given injunctive relief. The defendants strongly urge that this finding is not supported by the record. We need not decide this question, however, for we are clear that the effect of the preliminary injunction which the court granted was not to preserve the status quo but rather to alter the prior status of the parties fundamentally. Such an alteration may be directed only after final hearing, the office of a preliminary injunction being, as we have pointed out merely to preserve pendente lite the last actual noncontested status which preceded the pending controversy. Audenried v. Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, 68 Pa. 370, 8 Am. Rep. 195; Fredericks v. Huber, 180 Pa. 572, 37 A. 90. Irreparable loss resulting from refusal to accord the plaintiff a new status, as distinguished from interference with rights previously enjoyed by him, does not furnish the basis for interlocutory relief."

1278 Now in addition to that is the case of Spring Valley Water Company v City and County of San Francisco, et al., page 667 in 165 Federal Reporter, and the particular point that I am interested in, or that applies to this case—it is a long case—will be found on page 710. I wouldn't want you to have to wade all through the other pages ahead of time.

If your Honor please, that is all I have to advance at this time.

The COURT. Do you wish to be heard further?

Mr. WESTOVER. Simply this, your Honor, that I believe your Honor has already pointed out what we believe is the fallacy of counsel's argument, and the case itself pointed it out as he read it as I caught it, immediately prior to the non-contestable position. Ever since the conservator, so-called, went into possession there has been a serious contest as to the best of our ability continuing without interruption, and I believe that it was only within a matter of seven or eight days or less, that complaint was filed just as rapidly as documents could be drawn, and certainly there has been a contestable position here all along.

The COURT. I think the Court has general power. I do not think the Court is limited merely to the restraining of the status of the parties after they have done something which it is maintained will cause irreparable injury.

A person might go in and take possession of a 1279 man's granery full of wheat and start feeding it to hogs and say, "That is all I am going to do," but if all I could do would be to restrain him and preserve that status quo he could keep on feeding the wheat to hogs until there wouldn't be any wheat.

Mr. SILVERMAN. He could be restrained from feeding the grain to the hogs, your Honor.

The COURT. I couldn't do that under this position because that is what he would be doing. If he had been in there for a week feeding the wheat to the hogs, in that position that is all I could do.

Mr. SILVERMAN. There is a difference in restraining him from feeding the wheat to the hogs and mandatorily enjoining him to return the wheat to the former possesser.

Mr. WALLACE. We are not asking that all the wheat be restrained at this time; we are just asking that so much of the wheat that has been fed to date be returned.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. You are asking complete relief be granted. You are asking that Ammann be taken out of possession and determine the entire controversy in this particular matter.

Mr. WESTOVER. May we state that we feel that an extraordinary situation requires an extraordinary remedy.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Within the authority of the Court.

Mr. WESTOVER. Your Honor, the authority of the Court so to do which has been granted it under the pro-
1280 visions of Section 380 (a) for that very purpose, and certainly we have got an extraordinary condition here where the Court, having decided that these people have no authority to be there, yet has to sit idly by and let them continue to dissipate the assets of the association because this Court, they now say, has no authority or power to prevent that.

The COURT. I think that if the question turns upon the proposition as to whether or not the issuance of this temporary restraining order is more or less of an administrative matter, carrying out the previous decision of the Court, if that is what it is, I think a single judge can do it. I do not know where to lay my hands on the authority now for it, however. If it is not that, then I do not know.

I see it is 1:00 o'clock. I would like to study the matter over a little while, also get some lunch.

Mr. SILVERMAN. May I make one suggestion, your Honor? It seems to me the argument here has proceeded on a fallacy all the way through, and that is, regardless of how we consider the decision heretofore rendered by this Court that it is a final decision. There can be no final decision in this case until the defendants have had an opportunity to file an answer and the plaintiff's have made their proof. Until then there can be no final decree in this case.

The COURT. I think there can and must be a decree on the decision of the three-judge court. In reading 1281 the statute here, if it is to restrain a statute as unconstitutional, and a three-judge court holds it unconstitutional, that is the issue involved.

Mr. SILVERMAN. May I take exception to that remark, your Honor, because it isn't the only issue involved?

The COURT. That is what we called the three judges for, is it not?

Mr. SILVERMAN. You might read 309 U. S. 310 and see what we called the three judges for.

The COURT. All right.

Mr. WALLACE. In the meantime, if I recall it, Judge Orr took considerable time limiting the issue to be tried before that court, and that was the issue strictly.

The COURT. There is no doubt but that that was the matter that was tried and argued, the constitutionality of Section 5 (d).

Mr. SILVERMAN. For the purpose only of determining whether or not a temporary injunction should be issued. This Court doesn't know, nobody knows, whether or not this conservator is in possession by virtue of an agreement between all the parties.

Mr. WESTOVER. What!

Mr. WALLACE. What!

Mr. WESTOVER. We certainly will deny that, on behalf of the Shareholders' Committee.

1282 Mr. SILVERMAN. Certainly you will deny it but that is no proof it isn't so.

Mr. WESTOVER. The affidavit is on file as to whom we represent.

The COURT. In that connection, I would like to observe that by making the objection to the motion which was made on behalf of the conservator and on behalf of Mr. Fahey and the various parties, and not filing any affidavits, they thereby conceded that the allegations of the affidavits were correct.

Mr. SILVERMAN. For the purposes of the motion only for a temporary injunction and only for that purpose.

The COURT. What is this about in 309 U. S. 310, Mayo, Commissioner, et al., v. Lakeland Highlands Canning Company?

Mr. SILVERMAN. In view of what your Honor just said, I think it would be useless to read that.

The COURT. Why? Why do you make that observation, sir?

Mr. SILVERMAN. Because your Honor doesn't agree with me on the purposes on what was presented to this three-judge court. It was my impression that the only thing that was before this three-judge court was a motion, or two motions for temporary injunctions, and that the hearing on July 15 and 16 was in respect of those two motions.

The COURT. What do you maintain the Court in this case holds?

Mr. SILVERMAN. That the only matters before the 1283 three-judge court were the motions for temporary injunctions.

The COURT. Based upon the invalidity of the statute?

Mr. SILVERMAN. Well, that is what the Court decided; yes.

The COURT. That was the basis of their motion, that the statute was invalid.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Yes. That is what they alleged in their motion, that the statute was invalid.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Yes. That is what they alleged in their motion.

The COURT. It is your position then that this is a new application?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I haven't any position on that, your Honor. I don't know exactly what it is. It sounds to me like a final decree.

The COURT. No, this new application.

Mr. SILVERMAN. I know the motion that they filed. It sounds like a motion for a final decree because all the remedy which they ask by this temporary restraining order are the remedies which they could obtain by, and only by, a final decree, all the material remedy. There are some minor ones.

The COURT. Well, this case is a little mixed up apparently. The judge didn't make any findings of fact, conclusions of law, or write an opinion or anything. They just said "We find the act unconstitutional."

1284 Mr. WESTOVER. Just one that might be of some help to your Honor, I might point out that under the new rules that were adopted September 16, 1938, we should limit ourselves to somewhat recent cases because those new rules apparently have endeavored to broaden the equity power of the Court to do equity. Rule 54 in reference to judgments has this provision, among others, in it:

"When more than one claim for relief is presented in an action, the court at any stage, upon a determination of the issues material to a particular claim and all counterclaims arising out of the transaction or occurrence which is the subject matter of the claim, may enter a judgment disposing of such claim. * * *"

Now we are in effect simply asking the Court to follow its opinion to proceed upon equitable documents and afford the protection that we feel we are entitled to from the further dissipation of our assets.

Also there are numerous cases holding that a mandatory preliminary injunction may be issued in the discretion of the Court. If your Honor has any doubt about that, we have several cases on that to cite for authority.

The Court. When is a determination of the issues material on a particular claim? The thing that was material to the particular claim was whether or not 1285 the statute was constitutional.

Mr. Westover. That is determined.

Mr. Dougherty. It hasn't been determined yet. That is what bothers me.

Mr. Westover. We feel at least it has at this stage of the proceedings.

Mr. Tremaine. It has been announced.

The Court. I would like some time to study this over. Do you have anything else to offer? Do you have some other case that you think I ought to read but won't?

Mr. Silverman. I didn't intimate that, your Honor, at all. I think Judge Dougherty has one case that might be interesting. I do not have the book here, but I believe it is 112 Fed. (2d) 430.

The Court. Selchow & Righter Company v. Western Printing & Lithographing?

Mr. Silverman. Yes; that is right.

The Court. "Where the granting of a preliminary injunction would give to plaintiff all the actual advantage which could be obtained by plaintiff as a result of a final adjudication of the controversy in his favor, a motion for preliminary injunction ordinarily should be denied"?

Mr. Silverman. That is right.

The Court. I think that is correct.

"Where the denial of a motion for preliminary 1286 injunction will result in great injury to plaintiff and in defendant's getting substantial advantage to which he would be entitled only as the result of a final adjudication in his favor, the preliminary injunction should be granted if defendant's interest can be protected by an indemnifying bond."

But I do not think under any circumstances the defendant's interest here could be met by an indemnifying bond except as far as costs are concerned. The defendant here claims no personal right to the possession of the property. Isn't that correct?

Mr. SILVERMAN. As a matter of fact I don't believe the defendants claim any right to the possession of the property. The right to the possession of the property is in the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, and there has been a lot of loose talk about the respective rights of the conservator and the officers when neither one of them have any rights except when it comes to a question of management, and that is the only thing that is in issue in this case, is a question of management. All the property belongs to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, whether it is managed by the officers and directors or whether it is managed by the conservator. It still belongs to the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association and nobody else.

Mr. TREMAINE. Then you agree on the judge's comment on costs?

1287 The COURT. In other words, my point is, whatever Ammann is doing he is not doing it by virtue of any personal claim of right.

Mr. SILVERMAN. I wouldn't want to substitute my judgment for the Court's as to what bond should be required, if a so-called restraining order, such as this, is issued.

The COURT. I did not get the first part of your statement.

Mr. SILVERMAN. I said, I wouldn't want to substitute my judgment for the Court's.

The COURT. I am not asking anybody to substitute their judgment for mine; I am asking for your thought.

Mr. SILVERMAN. I have no thought on that matter at all, your Honor.

Mr. WESTOVER. Might I refer your Honor to, I think it is the last affidavit attached to our motion, from the URFG in reference to the current bond on the officers at $200,000.

Mr. WALLACE. I think, your Honor, it is the last one attached to the last file.

The COURT. Yes. The current bond of the officers——

Mr. WESTOVER. Is double that of Mr. Ammann and runs in favor of the association and not in favor of Mr. Fahey, as does Mr. Ammann's.

The COURT. Let me see now. One other thought in connection with this matter. If I do or do not 1288 grant this, is there any procedure for either side in whose favor I do not decide it, to test that by a writ of mandate?

Mr. WALLACE. I believe a writ of mandate will lie, your Honor. That is a writ requiring the Court to exercise its discretion and not criticizing or changing the discretion exercised.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. The writ of mandate will lie, I believe, your Honor please, on only the one question, that is, whether or not you can do this as a single judge or whether it has to be by a three-judge court.

The COURT. That is what I was coming to.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. As to the other part of it, that is a rather problematical proposition. For instance, if you should grant this or should not grant it, if the effect of this thing is to make a final decree of the rights of the parties, I am very much inclined to think, although I wouldn't say so here on my own judgment yet, I am inclined to think that an appeal would lie also.

The COURT. Let me take it step by step.

The movants here are asking me to issue this temporary restraining order. Suppose I decline. Do they then have the right to go to the Circuit Court of Appeals and compel me to exercise discretion? Suppose I decline on the ground that I have no jurisdiction under Section 380(a), as advocated by you?

1289 Mr. WALLACE. Then mandate will lie.

The COURT. Then mandate will lie?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I would be inclined to think so.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I doubt if the mandate would lie from the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. WALLACE. My understanding is that mandate would lie to require the exercise of the discretion but not to correct the same.

The COURT. Suppose I decline to act on the ground that under Section 380(a) I do not have the power to act, or the jurisdiction to act, as contended for by Mr. Dougherty, then would you be able to go to the Circuit Court of Appeals and get a writ of mandate to compel me either to act or to convene the three-judge court?

Mr. SILVERMAN. I think, your Honor, they could get a mandate from the Supreme Court.

The COURT. Well, it is a long way to Washington from here.

Mr. SILVERMAN. Yes, it is.

Mr. WALLACE. My curbstone opinion is that mandate would lie, but in view of the facts it would be futile.

Mr. WESTOVER. Yes. The timing would be impractical. The damage would be done before we could accomplish the purpose.

The COURT. I don't know. You can get a summary writ of mandate.

1290 Mr. SILVERMAN. I don't understand that, in view of the fact that this case has been under advisement since July 16th, which is almost two months. It doesn't seem that three or four more days would make any difference.

Mr. WESTOVER. Due to the fact that within 48 hours, it is our information that the Los Angeles bank, to the tune of 43 million dollars was moved out within 48 hours.

Mr. SILVERMAN. There is a temporary restraining order in effect preventing merger. You know that.

Mr. WESTOVER. Oh, yes, but not of moving out.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I don't know whether that decides the question you submitted here or not, but I think it does on the one side.

The COURT. Let us assume that I grant their temporary restraining order as prayed for. Would you then be able to go to the Circuit Court for a writ of prohibition?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. No.

Mr. WESTOVER. They have a more rapid remedy, your Honor.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. The only remedy we would have would be the Supreme Court.

Mr. Westover. No. They would have a remedy of making a motion to set aside your temporary restraining order, and if that was refused an immediate appeal therefrom.

Mr. Wallace. They may make that within two days, under the rules.

1291 Mr. Westover. Under the act itself, Section 380 (a), it provides for that condition.

Mr. Wallace. It might also be tested summarily by a contempt if they saw fit so to do and habeas corpus following the same.

Mr. Dougherty. I would hate to have anybody subject himself to that sort of thing. That is one of the things I do not like to have done.

The Court. You say there is a provision for remedy in Section 380 (a)?

Mr. Westover. Yes, your Honor, the very last part of it. It may be 380 (a), or 381.

Mr. Silverman. That has to do with Interstate Commerce Commission, doesn't it?

Mr. Westover. No.

Mr. Wallace. There is the two-day period, I know that.

The Court. In the Federal rules?

Mr. Westover. Yes.

Mr. Dougherty. Any action taken, your Honor please, as I understand your thought in the matter, would be an action pursuant to or more or less an administrative action under the opinion of the three-judge court.

The Court. No, no. I posed that as an inquiry. I did not intend to announce that as a conclusion:

What I am inquiring now is, whatever action I 1292 take, I want to take it in the manner which will permit either side or both sides to get an immediate review some place, if they desire.

Mr. Dougherty. Would your Honor be inclined to grant a stay of a few days in the event such an order was entered one way or the other?

Mr. Wallace. That would be over our most violent objection.

The Court. I do not think I can justify that with the issuance of the order. If the order must be issued, and I conclude I have the power to issue it, then I do not think it would be consistent with the conclusions upon which the order is based for me to stay the execution.

Mr. WALLACE. This two-day provision appears in Rule 65, the last portion of Subdivision (b):

"* * * On 2 days' notice to the party who obtained the temporary restraining order without notice or on such shorter notice to that party as the court may prescribe, the adverse party may appear and move its dissolution or modification and in that event the court shall proceed to hear and determine such motion as expeditiously as the ends of justice require."

The COURT. On this other case, this case that is cited here from Stratton v. St. Louis & Southwestern 1293 Railway, the Supreme Court pointed out that the action of the district judge there was without jurisdiction and that an appeal would not lie. They appealed from his decision to the Circuit Court of Appeals and appealed from that to the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court pointed out that there was no jurisdiction in the Circuit Court of Appeals to hear the appeal, that the district court was without jurisdiction and that the proper remedy was a writ of mandamus.

Mr. WALLACE. I was about to suggest that there is immediate review in case it is seriously contended that you are without jurisdiction, and should you see fit to issue such an order, that the writ of mandate will lie to require the recalling of the order and it should be found to be in excess of your jurisdiction.

The COURT. In other words, if I should issue this then the parties would have a right for a writ of mandate to compel me to recall the order on the ground that I exceeded my position, if your position is correct?

Mr. WALLACE. That is right, sir.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I would be inclined to think so, if your Honor please, under the Stratton case. In that case, as I recall, they appealed to the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court treated the appeal from the Circuit Court of Appeals as an application for a writ of mandamus, and heard and decided it. That is my recollection.

1294 The COURT. "The question is thus necessarily presented, although not raised by the parties, with respect to the validity of the decree entered in the district courts, and the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court of Appeals to entertain the appeal * * *"

Mr. TREMAINE. I think it is on page 16, your Honor, the question as to whether the three-judge court should have been convened or not:

"Accordingly, where a court of three judges should have been convened, and was not, this court may issue a writ of mandamus to vacate the order or decree entered by the district judge and directing him, or such other judges as may entertain the proceedings, call to his aid two other judges for the hearing and determination of the application for an interlocutory injunction."

Mr. WALLACE. I believe that is the answer to your specific question.

The COURT. That in either way, either side can go to the Circuit Court for a writ of mandate. In the event I decline the injunction on the ground I do not have jurisdiction to entertain it——

Mr. WALLACE. We have the right, though we believe it would be futile factually, to bring mandate to compel you to act upon the matter one way or the other.

1295 Mr. SILVERMAN. That is all that would be necessary then, isn't it, your Honor?

The COURT. What?

Mr. SILVERMAN. A mandate compelling you to act if you refused jurisdiction and the upper court decided that you had jurisdiction.

The COURT. Then it would be necessary for me to entertain it.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is right.

The COURT. And decide it.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is right.

The COURT. And either grant it or refuse it.

Mr. SILVERMAN. That is right.

Mr. WALLACE. And on the contrary, should you assume your jurisdiction and the Government contend that you are in excess of your jurisdiction, mandate will lie to compel the recall of your order.

The COURT. Who besides myself wants to eat lunch? You can come back here at 3:00 o'clock, if you wish.

Mr. DOUGHERTY. That mandate would have to go to the Supreme Court; however, in the second case.

The COURT. I do not think so under this citation 282 U. S. It says, "This court may issue a writ." I thought it said "the court."

Mr. SILVERMAN. I think that is right. In one 1296 case you go to the Supreme Court and in the other to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. WALLACE. But in either case the question is reviewable, which is what the Court asked primarily.

The COURT. It is summarily reviewable by a writ of mandate rather than by the slower process of appeal.

Mr. WESTOVER. Of course our position is, your Honor, that the delay incident to obtaining a writ of mandate might be greater than proceeding to simply getting judgment entered upon the opinion heretofore rendered from a factual time.

The COURT. It is here for me to decide. I have to decide if I have jurisdiction. If I decide I do, then I must decide it one way or the other. If I decide I do not, that is the law. I would like to dispose of this today, and I suppose you want to be here, so maybe we can all eat lunch and be back by 3:30.

Mr. WESTOVER. All right.

(Whereupon, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., a recess was taken until 3:30 o'clock p. m. of the same date.)

1297 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA,
September 14, 1946; 3:30 o'clock P. M.

The COURT. I suppose everybody is here, with the same appearances as we had this morning, with the exception that Mr. Bishop is not here.

Mr. WESTOVER. And Mr. Steadman Smith, my associate, is here now.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WESTOVER. If your Honor please, might I just take a moment? During the recess we took a pencil and paper and sort of were able to reduce to concrete figures the losses per day occurring, and I find it to be substantially in excess of $1000 a day, by virtue of the purported conservator being in possession.

The COURT. You mean in fees and additional expenses that he is paying out?

Mr. WESTOVER. $425 a day additional expenses, $275 a day loss in interest on the 5 million dollars that is in affidavit form, plus the loss on trust deeds that have been paid off and reduced to lower interest, plus the loss in interest on the 10 million dollar reduction in assets, which would bring it well above the $1000.

I might say also, your Honor, that there seemed to be a little question in your Honor's mind before lunch.

The COURT. There is only one thing wrong with 1298 that statement so far, and that is the word "little."

Mr. WESTOVER. Well, maybe this will reduce even that "little."

In Section 792 of Title 28——

The COURT. I have it here.

Mr. WESTOVER. You found it?

The COURT. Yes, I found it.

Mr. WESTOVER. Very well. Then I won't go into it.

The COURT. Does anyone else have anything to bring up? (No response).

I have been considering this matter, and while you all dropped me in a very deep well. I have not had much time to build much of a ladder to get out, but I have tried to straighten this out with some logic in my mind, good or bad.

The parties have presented a motion for a temporary restraining order and supported it with affidavits which set forth facts tending to show an irreparable injury, that whatever these facts are the gravamen of their motion, that is, the legal basis upon which it is sought, is that Section 5(d) of the Home Loan Act is unconstitutional and has been held to be such by a three-judge court convened under Section 280, Title 28, U. S. C.

The defendants, the Government officers and agencies, maintain that this Court has now no jurisdiction to hear or decide the motion. The basis of this contention 1299 is, first, that under Section 380(a) it is provided that at any time before the hearing and determination of the application the judge to whom the application is made may grant a temporary restraining order if of the opinion that irreparable loss or damage would result to the petitioner unless a temporary restraining order was granted.

Secondly, that the three-judge court having been convened, a one-judge court has lost the power to act.

If the legal question involved here is the same legal question as the one involved in the three-judge court, then I think the defendants' contention is correct. If it is a new and different question, then the power I think exists in a one-judge court to issue the temporary restraining order.

Entirely apart from any question of irreparable damage or injury as shown by the facts in the various affidavits, or other considerations of equity, the legal question posed by this application for a temporary restraining order now before me is the identical legal question which was proposed before the three-judge court on the motion for a restraining order and on the defendants' motion to dismiss; that is, the powers, if any, constitutionally given to the home loan officials, whoever they might be, under Section 5 (d).

If the conservator is lawfully in possession, then his acts, even if they result from bad judgment, are not subject to review or control by this court merely 1300 because they are bad. That question as to whether his acts are otherwise in violation of any law is not raised by this motion.

I do not think, therefore, that there is a new question raised on the motion, a new question of law or a different question of law.

Under Section 792 of Title 28 a one-judge court is prohibited from hearing and determining "any application for, or vacation of, an interlocutory injunction, or dismiss the action, or enter a summary or final judgment on all or any part of the action * * *"

The way I read that section, it prohibits a one-judge court from modifying an injunction which might have been previously made by the three-judge court. And while the opinion of the three-judge court has been filed, the final injunction—when I say "final" I mean in the sense that it is final as far as the three-judge court is concerned—has not been signed or filed.

Some suggestion has been made that a power exists in a one-judge court before the determination of the application and that perhaps it has already been determined by the three-judge court. In that connection, I think that determination as used in the statute means the making of an order, a judgment or a decree from which an appeal can be taken. It is true a decision has been made by the three-judge court, but as indicated 1301 therein, findings of fact, conclusions of law and a judgment were to be prepared and submitted and thereafter to be signed and entered, which would pose the question for review by a higher court. I think that as used in the statute, "hearing and determination" means that the hearing is going on until there is a final order or judgment or decree from which an appeal can be made.

I have come to the conclusion that I am without power and jurisdiction to consider and pass upon the motion, and for that reason, and that reason only, it will be denied.

Mr. WESTOVER. May we at this time then, your Honor, request that our motion for a preliminary injunction before the three-judge court, that that time be fixed?

The COURT. I have tried to indicate that I think that whatever is posed by that was also posed by the previous motion to dismiss, if it was not posed by the motion for a preliminary injunction, and the motion to dismiss was argued and the opinion covered that.

Mr. WESTOVER. Then just as your Honor very rightly pointed out before lunch, is to have the matter in position as far as the record is concerned in case we should decide to seek some remedy.

The COURT. I hope you do decide to seek a writ of mandate, maybe both sides.

Mr. WESTOVER. In that event, your Honor, do I under-1302 stand your decision at this time to be that you decline to permit the filing, let us put it, of the application for a preliminary injunction and to set it for hearing so that we will have a question at issue?

The COURT. All of the papers which you have submitted are filed. You submitted them for filing and they are filed. I am declining to act upon your motion for a temporary restraining order on the grounds which I have assigned. It seems to me that consistent with those grounds I must also decline to convene a three-judge court, because I have held that it is not a new question, that the basic legal question involved is the constitutionality and validity of Section 5 (d), namely, the entire procedure of the appointment of a conservator and his powers to act.

Mr. WESTOVER. Therefore we have no date.

The COURT. You have a remedy, which is to go to the Circuit Court of Appeals and get a writ of mandate to compel me, either to convene a three-judge court or to issue the injunction.

Mr. WESTOVER. That is what I wanted to make sure that I clearly understood.

The COURT. I have indicated that I have no power or jurisdiction at this stage of the proceeding to do either.

Mr. WESTOVER. Can your Honor give us any suggestion as to when we can anticipate the settling and finding of the judgment under the former opinion of the 1303 former motion, or is that within the realm of speculation?

The COURT. It is mostly within the realm of speculation. However, just as soon as the parties get their objections on file it is my expectation and purpose to communicate immediately by telephone to both Judge Orr and Judge Ling and see what their convenience is for a consultation or for a hearing before the parties.

Now if it is done early next week—I don't know what their convenience is, or where they are or when they will be any place. Judge Ling was here all summer and it may be difficult for him now to get away. But I do want to get it done as promptly as possible out of justice to all of the parties so that the matter can be gotten on its way, if it is going to the Supreme Court for consideration and determination. I also want to get it out of the way for another consideration, which is that I may be leaving the country very shortly in connection with some judicial assignments which will take me out of the United States for some time.

Mr. WESTOVER. Obviously I realize that your Honor can't fix dates. That will be one of our determinations that we will have to make.

The COURT. Has anybody else anything to say about this case?

Mr. DOUGHERTY. I only want to repeat what I said before, that we will have our objections filed not 1304 later than Thursday.

The COURT. Very well. I am sorry I have not been able to extend my remarks on this but I think you have the essential elements. It is a matter concerning which there seems to be no precedent, and for that reason I do hope that the parties will promptly seek a writ of mandate in order that it can be determined.

Mr. WESTOVER. Thank you, your Honor, very much for giving up your Saturday time.

(Whereupon, at 3:45 o'clock p. m., the hearing was adjourned.)
